FRANCE RECALLS ENTIRE UN DELEGATION

Pakistan Envoy Provides Protocol Problem for U.S.

Queen's Aunt Forced To Double Up Itinerary

QUEBEC (CP) — The Princess Royal sets out today to fill what was originally planned as a two-day schedule of public engagements.

The 58-year-old aunt of Queen Elizabeth was forced to double up her itinerary when the liner Empress of France which carried her to Canada arrived a day late Friday.

A bit of typically English weather greeted the princess, when she arrived for her month-long visit to Canada as guest of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals of which she is colonel-in-chief. Skies were overcast and a light drizzle fell.

The princess was met on ship-board by Governor-General Massey, her host for her three-day visit. At the foot of the gangplank she was welcomed by Premier Duplessis, Veterans Affairs Minister Lapointe and Mayor Wilfrid Hamel.

GIVEN ROYAL SALUTE

A 21-gun salute boomed from Cape Diamond as the princess inspected a 96-man guard of honor from the 3rd Battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment.

At a formal reception in the evening attended by 250 guests, the Princess Royal was greeted in the champagne - colored dress which she wore at the Coronation of her niece, Queen Elizabeth. On her head was a diamond tiara which had belonged to Queen Victoria.

Among the guests were Premier Duplessis, Msgr. Maurice Roy, Archbishop of Quebec, and Anglican Archbishop Philip Carrington.

Today, the princess, sister of the late King George VI, will visit the legislature building where she will sign the Golden Book. Later, in her honor, the Union Jack will fly beside the provincial fleur-de-lis.

President Formally Resumes Business of Administration

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower's signing of two routine federal documents has put him back in business at the helm of his administration.

And his chief deputy, Sherman Adams, has set up shop at the Denver White House to try the groundwork for the president's gradual return to greater personal activity as his health permits.

Adams came in by plane Friday night to open his office in the Lowry air force base administration building, across the corridor from Eisenhower's executive office.

The first week has passed since the president, who will be 65 on Oct. 14, suffered an early-morning attack of coronary thrombosis last Saturday at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud.

While doctors will keep their fingers crossed for a second, potentially dangerous week, in absence of any complications has cheered his family and staff.

The president took the first small but significant step toward return to active command of government Friday night. He approved two lists of state department foreign service appointments in his room on the eighth floor of Fitzsimons Army Hospital.

The appointments themselves are routine enough, involving two State Secretary Dulles and checked by Adams, but the action has special significance as the first business transacted by the president since he was stricken.

Adams didn't see the president Friday night. The cabinet officer, Jackson, Maj.-Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the Ike's personal physician, and Gen. Goodpaster, staff secretary, went to the president's room and started to explain to the president where to initial items.

As to when and what future business will be taken up with the president, an aide said that would be up to Ike.

While there continues to be speculation on the president's future will come from Eisenhower himself, political plans, the final answer will be given by the president and he will serve out his present term, virtually choose his successor as Republican nominee and retire to the role of "elder statesman."

In Boston, meanwhile, Dr. Paul Dudley White, eminent heart specialist who was called in Denver after Eisenhower's heart attack, said "I would have no objection whatsoever to his running again."

Dr. White's statement was issued because of "possible misinterpretation" of a statement he made Friday on the NBC television show "Today."

During the program, Dr. White said that if he were Eisenhower he "wouldn't want to run" for a second term.

Dr. White's voluntary statement Friday night said in part:

"This morning I was make a full explanation of a remark that has been quoted somewhat out of context.

"I indicated that I, personally, as Paul D. White, would have no great desire to undertake such a job as that of President of the United States of America.

"That is a remark could, and probably already has been, interpreted to mean that I would give such advice to the president.

"Far from it.

"If the president has a good recovery, as he seems to be on the way to establishing, he will be free to continue his present career, which would be, of course, the great benefit of this country and the world at large.

"But that remains still for the future to decide."

NEW EVIDENCE REPORTED FOUND IN COFFIN CASE

Defence Lawyer Will Seek New Trial

TORONTO (CP)—A report of new evidence in the bush slaying of three American bear hunters came to light Friday, but whether it will have any effect on the fate of convicted murderer Wilmot Coffin appears to rest with the federal justice department.

Coffin's lawyer said the evidence would not be presented to the Supreme Court of Canada when it considers the appeal application of the 45-year-old Gaspe, Que., prospector convicted of killing Richard Lindsay, 37, of Hollidaysburg, Pa.

The lawyer, Francois Gravel, said in Quebec the evidence will be used, however, in an attempt to obtain a new trial order from the federal justice department if the appeal is refused.

Legal sources said it was "unlikely" the court would hear new evidence because it is concerned only with points of law. The federal justice minister, however, can order a new trial if he considers it justified on the basis of new evidence.

Coffin is scheduled to be hanged Oct. 21 but Mr. Gravel plans to be in Ottawa Monday to petition Court to grant Coffin leave to appeal the conviction earlier on identification for leave to appeal was denied by Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott.

The new evidence came to light when Mrs. Gravel said he had received affidavits from two Moncton, N. B., men who reported they saw two American hunters riding in a jeep in the Gaspe bush near the spot where Lindsay's bear-gnawed body was found along with that of his father and a companion in July, 1953. Police said all three had been shot.

Alwin Tapp, a Moncton policeman, and his brother, Gerald, said however, that they merely repeated in sworn statements information they had made available to Quebec provincial police "more than two years ago."

Gerald Tapp said they first told their story by telephone to an inspector of the Quebec provincial police at Campbellton.

"He was glad to hear it, but we never heard anything more about it. Since then we more or less forgot about it, thinking the information didn't amount to anything."

He said they got in touch with Gaspe's lawyer last week after seeing a Toronto newspaper story reporting that a Gaspe Indian and his wife had disclosed seeing two Americans in a station wagon about the time of the murders.

Bitterly Protests Assembly Decision To Study Algeria

Unusual Grouping Produces One-Vote Margin for Action

Canadian Press Staff Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (CP) — The United Nations general assembly in its most dramatic session this year decided Friday by a one-vote majority to discuss the explosive Algerian question over bitter French protests.

The height of the drama was reached when the entire French delegation walked out after the vote.

"My government will consider as null and void any recommendation which this assembly might make in this connection.

"My government will consider—and I am saying this with seriousness and sadness—the consequence of the vote on the relations between France and the United Nations."

MAY LEAVE UN

Outside the chamber, French UN Delegate Herve Alphand said France might withdraw from the world organization. The French cabinet is expected to consider the situation during the weekend.

The French defeat came about by a razor-thin majority grouping including Russia, India, Pakistan, a large number of Asian-American countries and most of the African-Asian bloc. Britain, Australia, Belgium and Canada backed France.

It was the first tine in the UN's 10-year history that the assembly has overruled a steering recommendation. The steering committee, which suggests which items the assembly should put on its agenda, voted against inscription of the Algerian question.

The Algerian issue stems from demands of Arab nationalists for the independence from French rule. Since France drove out the Turks in 1830, Algeria has been considered as an integral part of metropolitan France.

The French position is that Algeria is purely a domestic question. Only last week Pinay and premier Faure declared that France would negotiate at all costs only with the rest of her African holdings.

Indian Delegate Krishna Menon pointed out, however, that the assembly had decided only to discuss not legislate on—the problem.

"We are not here in any way to interfere in the French people's government or delegation," he said. "We are only approaching this question adopt an attitude of hatred, antagonism or violence. The real Henri Spaak, Belgian foreign minister and a former assembly president, cautioned the assembly that to take up Algeria would violate the provisions in the UN charter banning interference in a member's domestic affairs.

The French delegation was absent when the assembly later approved without opposition the inscription of the Moroccan question on its agenda. Both issues will be considered by the political committee. The French had long boycotted debate on Morocco and did not propose its inclusion at this session since a settlement—climaxed by Pinay's deposition of the Moroccan sultan from his capital—was reached with the new pro-Western torate.

In the Algerian vote, the French delegates hurriedly tallied up the count themselves after the last ballot was cast. Only then was the official result was announced they knew they had lost by one vote.

10 British Soldiers Beaten By Cyprus Mob of Hundreds

British Envoy Sees Nasser On Arms Deal

CAIRO (Reuters) — British ambassador Sir Humphrey Trevelyan today told Prime Minister Gamal Abdel Nasser of British views on Egypt's arms deal with Communist Czechoslovakia with "grave concern."

Trevelyan called on Nasser to express the British government's feelings after the French ambassador, Count Armand Du Chayla, had been received by Nasser earlier.

The Associated Press reported that George Allen, U.S assistant secretary of state for Middle Eastern affairs, talked for two hours with Premier Nasser today. Afterwards he denied that the possibility of withdrawal of U.S economic aid to Egypt was discussed.)

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Ten British soldiers were injured Friday night in an attack by a Cypriot crowd in Limassol, second largest town on this British-owned Mediterranean island, in the latest flare-up of violence stemming from demands by Greek Cypriots for union with Greece.

Police salvos of shots were oft duty and in civilian clothes, were beaten up by a mob of hundreds in the centre of the amusement area of Limassol.

Night curfew was clamped down on Limassol immediately after the attack.

Faint Hope Toronto Men Are Still Alive

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Faint hope that 11 men, including two Toronto newspaper men, who vanished Monday on a business junket in a plane may still be alive spurred the United States Navy today to continue its air and surface search of the Caribbean.

An air force plane Friday reported that it had sighted what appeared to be a life raft in the Caribbean. The plane was flying at 8,000 feet and could not make a search because it was running short of fuel.

TOKYO (AP) — Dying typhoon Louise struck Japan a final staggering blow today with a wind-driven fire blizzard which burned the heart out of Nilgata City, 270 miles north of Tokyo.

A smash at the city began at 3:10 a.m. was turned into a raging inferno within minutes as 45-mile-an-hour winds from Louise's outlying gusts drove the flames through downtown buildings and houses.

It was Japan's worst fire since the wartime air raids.

Before it was brought under control seven hours later the fire had devoured 1,200 buildings and devastated an area totalling almost 100 acres.

Scores of injuries were reported but no one was listed as killed. Police said nearly 2,000 were left homeless.

The typhoon, dropping to storm force, raced over Hokaido, Japan's northern island with winds hitting 80 miles an hour.

In the last three days the giant storm has killed 31, left 41 missing and injured 253. A total of more than 197,000 are listed as homeless.

As Louise faded out, a new typhoon, Margo, was expanding today southwest of Iwo Jima with winds already mounting to 115 miles an hour. It was moving northwest and, at least for the moment, was aimed at Kyushu, Japan's storm - wracked southern island.

May Require Only Thousand To Man DEW Radar in Arctic

OTTAWA (CP) — As few as 1,000 men may be required to man the 2,000-mile DEW (Distant Early Warning) radar line in Canada's Arctic.

However, it apparently has not yet been decided whether manning will be done by Americans or Canadians or both though over - all command of the line probably will rest with the U.S. Air Force.

Target date for completion of the DEW line and mid - Canada radar chain — the former being built by the U.S. at an estimated cost of $250,000,000, the latter by Canada at an estimated $170,000,000 along the 55th parallel — is secret but they probably will be ready by the end of 1957.

Best guess here is that U.S. personnel will man most of the DEW line with some Canadians participating. The manning may be done by civilians.

MUCH IS AUTOMATIC

Comparatively few men will be required because much of the radar equipment will be automatic. Maintenance crews will be flown in by helicopter when a breakdown occurs. All stations on the line are designed to report but has put the number at more than 50 — are being supplied with plenty of spare parts.

There now are fewer than 3,000 American servicemen stationed in Canada, excluding the 15,000-odd at the three leased bases in Newfoundland.

A good many of the 3,000 help to man the Pine Tree radar network near the Canada-U.S. border. This chain, in existence for about two years, is employed primarily to direct the operations of interceptor planes.

Experience with Pine Tree, built jointly by Canada and the U.S., has shown that it is more efficient for each country to handle one operation.

Killed in Accident

OWEN SOUND (CP) — Allan H. Keeling, 30, of Owen Sound was killed early today and Robert R. Hamilton, 36, of Owen Sound was injured when their car crashed through a wire fence on a curve near the city limits.

Hamilton was reported in fairly good condition at hospital. X-rays were to be taken to determine his injuries.

Held Infants Over Their Heads As Waters Rose

BELIZE, British Honduras (CP) Refugees from debris - strewn northern British Honduras told today how women climbed on chairs and held their infants over their heads to save them from angry flood waters in the wake of hurricane Janet.

The refugees said 70 persons in the hurricane-shattered village of Sartenja fled for their lives as the village sank and dispersary when the flood struck.

Outside the school the flood reached a depth of eight feet, inside it rose steadily to shoulder level.

Women scrambled onto desks and tables, holding their children above their heads to protect them from the waters.

When the flood waters receded, one refugee said the villages and countryside "looked like some strange place and men could only guess where their houses had once stood."

The first emergency was declared Friday in the Corozal district of north British Honduras. It stretches from the north and that 16 persons are known to be dead and 30 missing. Many are feared seriously. The number of homeless is estimated at 5,000.

In the Mexican town of Chetumal, on the British Honduras border, 105 persons are reported dead.

Strike Is Called

DETROIT (AP) — A state-wide strike of 18,500 Michigan Bell Telephone Co. workers was set Friday for 6 a.m. Monday by the Communications Workers of America (CIO). Unless agreement on a new contract is reached in negotiations still under way, the Michigan Bell employees, including operators, plant department workers and others will walk out.

Two Miners Rescued After 20-Hour Entombment 1,300 Feet Underground

ELY, Minn. (AP) — The sound of cracking timbers and sliding rock remained clear in the minds of the two men rescued after a 20-hour entombment 1,300 feet underground.

Albert Marolt, 41, and Toyvo Hill, 55, entered shaft No. 5 Friday night. A desperate team of rescuers who pulled them to safety Friday night had to make a grave-like dash into the dark and frightening recesses of the deepest underground iron mines in the world.

Still imprisoned this morning were another man and four 150-foot of the Oliver Mining Company's Pionee mine near the Canadian border was a fellow worker, Joe Glinsek.

Workers said Glinsek apparently is chance that he was still alive, but fresh crews were sent into the mine.

The ordeal was recalled by Marolt, married and father of four children, through his brother:

"We could hear them drilling for us. It was our only hope because we had no chance of escape. The tunnel was filled with dirt and mud. I can still hear the sound of the timbers giving way.

"Our air got short. We could hear the pipe they were sending to us coming through. But when they turned the compressed air on through the pipe we thought it was the finish.

"It sounded just like another cave-in. The hissing was all around us. We thought it was the end.

Helpless in a space 40 feet by eight, unaware of what happened in the world above and still stalled as rescuers tunnelled up from the 1,300-foot level.

The pipe shoved through the pile of ore, dirt and rock gave them speaking contact with fellow miners. They knew help was on the way. "We knew we couldn't tell when it would get there.

"Then we heard the prayed from the time the cribbing gave way until the pipe reached us," Hill said. "We just slept there. It reminded like another cave-in.

"We didn't think they could get to us until Sunday."

Hill and Marolt were buoyed by the voice of Johnny Mulvihill, a fellow miner who was involved in a similar accident years ago.

"Thank God you're alive," Mulvihill told them through the pipe. "We'll get you out. Just sit tight."

PARIS (AP) — Premier Faure and Foreign Minister Pinay have decided to recall the entire French delegation from the United Nations meeting in New York, the premier's office announced today.

The recall mentioned only, the French delegation sitting in the assembly. It did not cite France's representation in the Security Council or the French members of the UN secretariat. It was not immediately clear whether the government's action was permanent or merely temporary.

The announcement said the decision to recall the delegation to Paris was made in a transatlantic telephone conversation between Faure and Pinay.

The French foreign minister is to leave for Paris by air tonight, reaching there Sunday.

The French delegation walked out on the assembly Friday night after the 60-nation group voted 28 to 27, with five abstentions, to upset a steering committee decision and put the issue of Algerian independence on the agenda to consider when whether France would go so far as to quit the UN altogether. Prime Minister Faure's delegate grimly replied: "We might."

There was no immediate hint whether today's action meant a withdrawal from the UN or was intended only to enforce French protests against the assembly action.

Observers here doubted that the withdrawal of France from the organization because of her consistent post-war drive for Western unity and for the building of international problems by diplomatic negotiations and group discussions.

sent when the assembly later approved without opposition the inscription of the Moroccan question on its agenda. Both issues will be considered by the political committee. The French had long boycotted debate on Morocco and did not propose its inclusion at this session since a settlement—climaxed by Pinay's deposition of the Moroccan sultan from his capital—was reached with the new pro-Western torate.

In the Algerian vote, the French delegates hurriedly tallied up the count themselves after the last ballot was cast. Only then was the official result was announced they knew they had lost by one vote.

Jas. Dolan Acquitted Here In Security Fraud Hearing

James Dolan, 11 First St., was acquitted Friday of a charge of making false statements with intent to fraud in connection with literature which he circulated on behalf of Piedmont Mines Ltd., Quebec.

Acquittal came Friday morning after the four-day non-jury trial held before Judge G. E. Smith of Napanee in the Hastings County courthouse.

The trial concluded an investigation begun three and one half years ago by the Ontario Securities Commission. It is not expected that the securities commission will appeal the verdict.

In a 45-minute judgment Judge Smith said that he could not find any false statements in the letters circulated to stockholders.

The charge was brought against Dolan by Rev. William Hovey of Owen Sound, who contended that he was misled by literature sent to him by Dolan about Piedmont Mines Ltd. and that as a result he had purchased shares lost $1,000 in stock purchases.

F. F. Lennox, Q.C., Crown Attorney for the Ontario Securities Commission conducted the case against Dolan, assisted by Harry Bray, a solicitor for the commission.

R. A. Pringle, Q.C., of Belleville, and Mr. Justice Kennedy of Picton, were defence counsel.

BACKGROUND OF CASE

Background of the case was revealed at a preliminary hearing in city magistrate's court, when Dolan's solicitor and stock transaction between L. Perris Kendall-Leicester, a stockbroker, and Dolan was made. Piedmont Mines Ltd. possibilities, and Dolan, was also surrounded by the sending of a letter describing this transaction.

Kendall-Leicester, who surveyed the property near Normetal, Quebec, described it as rich and valuable. He also expressed considerable optimism about the commercial value of the property.

Dolan then circulated a letter containing Kendall-Leicester's comments on the property of the property and his opinion that it might prove to be valuable as a Normetal. The circular also included a copy of the letter written by which Kendall-Leicester accepted stock at 45 cents a share as a bonus to prospective purchasers to buy stock in Piedmont Mines Ltd. at 19 cents a share.

The letter describing the property said the discovery was one of the most important discoveries in the country and hinted at possible profits.

A. O. Klein, in presenting the Securities Commission's case said that it was unfair to the judge to find that Kendall-Leicester and Dolan conspired to defraud between them. He stressed the fact that Dolan had left Kendall-Leicester his personal stock and not company stock. He contended that Dolan knew Kendall-Leicester accepted payment of his bill in shares and therefore knew the market value and received no cash, that the transaction was therefore fraudulent.

He contended that if there had been no intent to fraud, Dolan would not have included shares in the circular that Kendall-Leicester had got from Dolan for cash, but accepted shares in lieu of cash.

STATEMENT CITED

The letter to shareholders said that the company's property was "willing to pay 45 cents a share" for stock.

Kendall-Leicester, at the preliminary hearing last spring, told the court that had he received payment of his bill in cash he would have considered the purchase of stock in Piedmont Mines Ltd. At the trial he repeated his willingness to buy stock if he were paid in cash.

Witnesses called by the securities commission included Ted Schwab and Richard Ellis, of Belleville, who copied and printed the circulars distributed by Dolan.

Mr. Schwab stated that Dolan had dictated the list of stockholders to him and that he had copied it. He stated that he had no part in composing the letter.

Kendall - Leicester's testimony about his opinion of the commercial value of the property and his explanation of the transaction between himself and Dolan was described by Judge Smith in his judgment as "lengthy" but acceptable.

F. L. Crow, a special investigator for the securities commission, who interviewed Dolan in Belleville, was cross-examined by R. E. Nourse. Crow said that Dolan had been most complete co-operation in his investigation.

On questioning he said that he could see nothing false in the letters circulated by Dolan.

Judge Smith stated that it was the judge's function to discover if there was anything false in the letters.

Rev. Hovey's evidence was read into the record following testimony by an Owen Sound physician that Mr. Hovey's health was too precarious for him to make the journey to Belleville with safety.

James Murray Anderson, of Toronto, an accountant, said that he had examined Dolan's books and was satisfied they were in order.

Anderson's bookkeeper testified that she had received Dolan's books and had passed them on to her employer.

The record of examinations of Dolan by the Securities Commission on March 24th and June 8th, 1952, was read to the court.

An officer of the transfer department of the Canadian Bank of Co. provided the court with a list of shareholders of Piedmont Mines Ltd. stock who had received the circular from Dolan.

Defence witnesses called included Eric Gray, of Newcastle, a dietician, who testified to his experience who gave an opinion on the surface showings of the Piedmont properties.

Louis Grenier, a diamond driller from Normetal, Quebec, said that he had heard Kendall-Leicester say that the property would be as good as Normetal. Joseph Bonniferro, of Normetal, a furniture shop owner, testified that Kendall-Leicester had been described by Dolan's circular when he had such extensive experience in base metal deposits. He said, too, that Howey was a person who should not buy mining stock.

Mr. Dolan did not take the stand during the trial. His evidence was read into the record from minutes of previous examinations.

Cider was $1 a gallon.

Obituary

MRS. HENRY GRAHAM

Mrs. Isabella Graham, 13 Forbes Street, widow of Henry Graham, died at her home on Friday, September 30th, after having been in failing health for 2½ years. She was in her 95th year.

The deceased was born in Belleville, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. McLaren, and spent her life in Belleville and district.

She was always active in church work and was the oldest member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Violet MacGregor, West Palm Beach, Florida and Mrs. William (Bessie) Orr, of Edmonton, Alta.; one grandson, Graham MacGregor, Fort Lauderdale; one granddaughter, Mrs. William Bain, Belleville; West Palm Beach, and two great grandchildren, William B. and Elizabeth Anne Gail braith, of West Palm Beach, Fla.

Funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

Square dancing as a recreation has taken a tremendous hold on the people and adults as well in the past few months and the Recreation Committee of the city is taking them care of this end of the work.

Tonight at the Memorial Arena, they are presenting Stan Jack and his square dancing troupe from North Bay to show this section of the province the fine time that can be had at a square dance. Mr. Jack's troupe, the leader being recreational director at North Bay have won many prizes both in Canada and the United States for their perfect interpretation of this rollicking dance. The troupe, during the evening will demonstrate the many formations of the square dance with Mr. Jack as the "caller".

The public is cordially invited to be on hand to watch the troupe in action and also to take part. During the evening members of troupe will pass through dancers and assist them in executing the squares in the proper manner. A large audience has been secured and a good time is promised all those who attend.

This is the first venture of this kind to be tried by the committee and the success of it will depend on other functions being brought to the city for the enjoyment of all. Plans are expected to bring along their children, who will be instructed by the troupe's grown-ups. It looks like a big night at the Arena.

Model T Ford Demolished By Passing Train

A Model T Ford stalled on the tracks after it stalled in turn on the second concession of Sidney township was demolished by a train early today when it was struck by an east-bound CNR freight.

Provincial—police said wreckage of the auto was strewn for nearly 100 feet down the track. The car was owned by Archie Brown of Milford.

Brown had swung north across the tracks two miles west of the city but stalled at the turn and swished through the guard rails, where his car came to rest on the tracks 20 feet west of the crossing. He tried frantically to wave the approaching train down but was unsuccessful. Engineer of the train was Russell Bell, R.R. 7, Belleville.

The cow catcher of the locomotive was bent down by the force of the impact and it caught the wreckage on the front where it was then halted trainmen said. The fire department was up to keep it from scraping against the rails.

Provincial Constable Jerry McNutt investigated.

Police Blotter

A series of minor auto accidents kept city police busy yesterday and last night. No one was injured in the crashes, police reported actively light.

Motorists involved with a similar cause made grief for as many motorists.

Martin Halloran was proceeding up Station street when he was forced to swerve his car to the front and ran into a telephone pole and highway sign causing considerable damage.

Again on Front street near Barage's Tire Shop, John Mendlivary, 238 1-2 Front street, pulled out to pass another car which had failed to allow a truck to back out of an alley. As he cut back in line his car was in collision with the second car which had started forward.

James Orval Ross Committed For Trial for Armed Robbery

James Orval Ross, 32, of Toronto, charged with the robbery of the Bank of Montreal, Front St., Marmora last June 29th, was committed for trial by Magistrate A.C. Marsh, Q.C., in Magistrate's court at Marmora Friday afternoon.

Magistrate Jackson committed the accused for trial by Judge and jury following completion of evidence given by four witnesses. The preliminary hearing got underway Wednesday morning and was adjourned until Friday at completion of the day's testimony.

Ross is charged with being one of two robbers who were admitted to the Marmora bank on the rue that they were workmen coming to repair the bank's plumbing. The two men tied up the bank staff and escaped with $5,400 of the bank's money.

Police Chief Charles Lockwood of Marmora was the only witness called Friday by Assistant Crown Attorney Gordon Henderson who rested his case after calling four witnesses. Other witnesses heard Wednesday included Cpl. Reginald Rackham, police photographer, Toronto; bank accountant, and Karl C. McKay, bank manager.

Cpl. Rackham produced photographs of the bank interior and exterior, while Mr. Moss and Bank Manager McKay, told of happenings at the bank on the morning of the 29th when the two men held up the staff and escaped with the money.

Both Mr. Moss and Mr. McKay identified the accused as being the "leader" of the two bank robbers. Ross is the only suspect arrested by police in connection with the robbery.

QUESTIONED CLOSELY

The testimony of Police Chief Lockwood was confined to details of arranging a police lineup in Belleville following the arrest of Ross. Six of seven bank employees picked Ross from the lineup as being one of the bank robbers.

Chief Lockwood was questioned closely by Defence Counsel Kenneth G. M. Ross regarding procedure at the police lineup and with respect to police photos shown earlier to members of the bank staff.

The accused had nothing to say when asked to stand prior to his committal by Magistrate Jackson. Defence counsel Ross said he would call no witnesses, and neither did he present arguments.

The case now committing the Crown has proved anything but I have nothing to say at this time," stated the defence counsel.

It is expected Ross' trial will be heard in October at Belleville.

Loss Estimated Close to $12,000 In Barn Fire

Loss estimated at close to $12,000 resulted early this morning when fire completely destroyed a large frame barn on the farm of Mrs. Helen Reid, 47/8 concession of Sidney township.

Also lost in the blaze were 12,000 bushels of grain and about 2,000 bales of hay. Crop stored in the barn was owned by Mrs. Reid's son, milyea, who had the farm rented.

The blaze was discovered shortly before seven o'clock but already the barn was beyond saving. The Belleville Fire Department was called and fire fighters were successful in saving two nearby drive sheds.

The barn was on the former Al Woods farm, the building having been rebuilt following a fire in the middle 1930's.

552 Register For Night School

Some 552 Belleville and district residents have registered this week for evening classes at the Belleville Collegiate and Vocational school. Classes will begin next week.

Classes scheduled for Monday and Wednesday evenings include auto mechanics, building construction, mechanical drawing and engineering, electricity, welding, typewriting and English for New Canadians.

On Tuesday and Thursday evenings there will be courses in auto mechanics, bricklaying, electronics, machine shop, welding, woodworking, bookkeeping, shorthand, typewriting, sewing, advanced technology for servicing and painting and intermediate mathematics.

Monday evenings a new course in public speaking is being offered. This course is designed to give instruction and practice in public speaking and in methods of conducting group meetings. Parliamentary procedure, duties of leaders, chairmen and secretaries, and other topics, will form a part of the group discussion.

Collegiate authorities hope more citizens will take advantage of this opportunity to gain self-confidence and experience in group work.

Further registrations for most of the classes listed above will be accepted at the school between 7 and 9 o'clock each evening for a limited time. Early registration is advisable, the collegiate announces.

Because of insufficient registrations, classes in cooking, sewing and instrumental music will not be offered. Unless more registrations are received classes in plumbing and sheet metal will also be withdrawn.

IN MEMORIAM

KELLER. — In loving memory of my wife, Elizabeth Keller, who passed away October 2nd, 1954.

At twilight when the sun has set
And sunset flames the sky;
We linger, gaze and wonder,
And the happy days gone by.
Memory takes us quickly back,
Where fancies roam at will,
To know that you are resting,
When the twilight ends the day.
—Always remembered by husband and family.

BULPITT. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Mary Ann Madeline Bulpitt, (nee Woodcock), who passed away eight years ago, October 1st, 1947.

Sleep on dear mother, we love her too dearly,
Nor wish you back to fade from our view
Our lips have not spoken
Our sighs are not heard
For grief often dwells where it is not spoken.
—Always remembered
In our home she is fondly remembered.

Sweet memory clings to her name;
Sweet memory clings to his sincerity,
Sweet memory clings to his life's work.
—Ever remembered and dearly loved by Aunt Jessie and Gerald.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, and beautiful floral offerings received from our kind friends and neighbors during our recent bereavement in the loss of our dear husband and father, Mr. Ernest Wilson.
—Mrs. Ernest Wilson and family.
—Mrs. Thomas Church.

We would like to extend a special thank you to Dr. Ross Thompson on Third Floor West, also for the kind words of cheer and for his many personal calls while in the Belleville General Hospital.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

HALLELUJAH, WHAT A SAVIOUR!

"Man of Sorrows" what a name
For the Son of God, who came,
Ruined sinners to reclaim!
Hallelujah! what a Saviour!

Bearing shame and scoffing rude,
In my place condemned He stood;
Sealed my pard'n with His blood;
Hallelujah! what a Saviour!

Guilty, vile and helpless, we;
Spotless Lamb of God was He;
"Full atonement" can it be
Hallelujah! what a Saviour!

Lifted up was He to die,
"It is finished", was His cry.
Now in heaven exalted high;
Hallelujah! what a Saviour!

When He comes, our Glorious King,
All His ransomed home to bring,
Then anew this song we'll sing:
Hallelujah! what a Saviour!

There are grandfathers and grandmothers still with us who can remember when American revival meetings were ringing with this glorious old gospel song.

It was one of the last of the long list of religious songs written by the great evangelistic singers, Philip Bliss. It must have been one of his favorites because Ira D. Sankey, one of Bliss' religious contemporaries and comrades, used to recall how he had heard the author sing it on the platform in the revival meetings.

One of these "singings" took place at a great Chicago evangelistic rally. Another came during a religious service at the Michigan State prison where Bliss preached to the prisoners on "The Man Of Sorrows". Many in the prison audience, it is said, were so moved by the message and by the music which followed it that they came to the chapel altar at the close of the service, to give their hearts to God.

A few years later, when Mr. Sankey and Dr. Dwight L. Moody, the great American gospel preacher, were in Paris, France for a series of evangelistic meetings, several French audiences burst out in responsive to "Hallelujah! What a Savior!" as American audiences had been, and just as enthusiastic about joining in its choruses.

Fox Crusade Opens Sunday

The Lorne F. Fox Party, a group of internationally known singers, musicians, radio – television artists and evangelists, will visit the city, and will conduct a salvation and healing crusade opening Sunday, October 2nd, with services at 2:15 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. in the Collegiate auditorium.

Lorne F. Fox

Personnel of the group will include Lorne F. Fox, leading speaker and musician; Ruth L. Fox, song leader and contralto soloist; Ray and Aden Troyer, singers and musicians.

It is stated that Mr. Fox is a sacred concert pianist and organist, and that he has composed nearly one hundred gospel songs, dramatic pianoforte compositions and cantatas, some of which are "The Storm"; "Battle of Armageddon"; "The Crucifixion"; "Christ the Rose of Sharon" and many others. Many of these original compositions are featured in the evening programs. In addition, the entire group is featured in vocal quartets, trios, duets, and the contralto solo work of Ruth L. Fox is a highlight of the rallies. The Hawaiian guitar ensemble, with piano accordion is also included in the troupe's repertoire. Each rally will be concluded with a gospel message by the evangelist.

The Fox Party crusades have attracted capacity crowds in many leading Canadian cities, as well as from coast to coast in the United States. Foreign missions have taken them twice to Alaska, to Mexico, Central America, the West Indies, South America, and most recently to Australia, with a special, in less than two months, over 1,800 decisions recorded. Full color motion picture travelogues of these missions are shown on occasion in the public services. The music of the group has been aired on the Columbia Broadcasting Corporation chain, and three major American radio networks.

Mr. Fox declared that he was once critically ill, and that through prayer and faith in God, his health was restored. In gratitude for his restored health, he determined to devote his life to the ministry of music and evangelism.

It will be of further local interest to know that Mr. Fox was born in Roslin, Ontario and that many of his relatives live in this area, among them Sunday teacher, Mr. H. W. Fox, 19 Isabel St., resident of Belleville. This is the Fox Party's first crusade in Belleville area — nearest having been in Massey Hall, in Toronto.

In the Belleville Crusade, services are scheduled during the first week in the evenings of Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday, and on Sunday afternoon, and evening. The campaign is brought to the city under the sponsorship of the Full Gospel churches of this area. Services will be interdenominational.

Bulletins from Birdland

REAL HOMES

We thought the inhabitants of Birdland would be through with their nests long before this. Of most any year, however, to some species a nest is not just a nursery while the children are infants, but a family residence. It may be lived in for a comparatively short while, yet possibly for many years without a break.

Screech owls keep their nesting holes for sleeping quarters the whole 12 months. Often year after year they roost by day in the very same old tree hollow. Now and again in winter time you may see one of a pair sitting on its doorstep, blinking in the sunshine.

Unless obliged to, eagles rarely move, but each year add quantities of material to the old home, so that finally it is perfectly immense. There is one record of a bald eagle's nest 20 feet deep and 10 feet across. Sticks form the foundation, but all sorts of trash is piled in.

Much the same may be said for the osprey's nest, and as these birds often reach the age of 21, you may imagine how huge their old homes may attain. They are usually built in trees or cliffs, but in a few localities are made on the ground.

Occasionally (more often since the clearing of so many forests), they are placed on man-made structures. The story of the pair of ospreys that for four years appropriated one of the telegraph poles near Banff was told in Canadian newspapers. His name and communications were being broken, their home had to be lifted down while a "dummy"-crosspiece was placed on the top of the pole and the nest raised to this.

"Osprey" is the name given to the fish hawk. On account of its eating habits and large size it is sometimes called "fishing eagle". The wing spread is six feet, and its talons are especially adapted for catching and carrying fish. Both eagles and ospreys make their nests serve as dining tables. The food (generally fish for eagles and fish only for ospreys) is brought directly to the home, and there is dissected and eaten by the family. Young eagles are fed in the nest for nine months.

Red-shouldered hawks return to the same nest each spring. They always have to do a bit of repair work, bolstering up the sides where storms have done damage, and putting in new down for bedding ready for the precious eggs. These birds are fussy also about re-decorating, twining in fresh, green leaves every little while during occupancy.

Who Was This?

Bible Briefs

By A. A. M.

Who was the prophet who sent one of his followers to Jesus to ask whether or not Jesus was the promised Messiah? They inquired, "Are you he who is to come? Or, shall we look for another great leader?"

When they appeared, the Master was busy curing the people who were blind, or troubled with the plague or some other disease, or disturbed by evil spirits. Jesus answered the two questioners with these words: "Go and tell your leader what you have seen and heard: the blind receive their sight, the lame walk, lepers are cleansed, the dead are raised up, the poor have good news preached to them." He also added, "Blessed is he who takes no offence at Me."

Then when the two messengers had departed, Jesus turned to the crowds about him and said concerning this other prophet, "What did you go out into the wilderness to see? A reed shaken by the wind? A man clothed in soft raiment? Behold those who are gorgeously appareled and live in luxury are in King's courts. What then did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes, I tell you, and more than a prophet. This is he of whom it is written, 'Behold I send thy messenger before thy face, who shall prepare they way before thee."

It was at this point out how inconsistent was the reaction of the public. This prophet in the wilderness had come eating no bread and drinking no wine, and his critics cried, "He has a demon." But the Son of Man came eating and drinking and no more. It was said of Him: "Behold a glutton, and a drunkard, too, — a friend of tax collectors and sinners!" Read this prophet's name and this story in Luke, beginning at the Eighteenth verse.

A Lift For Living

The Strain of Pretence

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

Does your conscience bother you? Well then, why bother with your conscience?

Suppose we ignore the voices of conscience to appease your inner desires. We may think at first, as Neville Chamberlain felt after Munich, it's a case of shall have peace. But no, as Isaiah said, "There is no peace unto the wicked." The passion we indulge and the compromise we make produce tension. Evasions of moral law may produce a false peace, but conscience eventually returns.

We all seek peace of mind. Too often, however, we desire merely to be at peace with the world rather than at peace with God. We seem to think adjustment to circumstances and the banishment of worry provide peace of mind. But not so.

There is a point, we are told, where a freezing man feels no pain. It would be less painful for him to die than be revived to life.

Similarly a person's moral sensitivity can become numb through exposure to worldliness; he may feel quite at peace with the world. A life can be anesthetized on its lower levels, but it can be truly integrated only at its highest level.

THE REAL TEST

Maybe you question this. Maybe you think of some person who lives a second-rate moral life and yet seems well adjusted. He is at peace with the world because he fits the world on his own level. Being at peace with God, however, is being able to stand in case the world is removed.

Perhaps you have seen cement poured into a casing to make the foundation of a building. The test of how well the cement is integrated comes when the casing is taken off. Will it stand and bear its intended weight?

We are familiar with the heroic but ill-fated expedition of Captain Scott to reach the South Pole of some years ago. In the group was a brilliant physician, Dr. Edward Wilson. After the death of the explorers, a letter was found written by Captain Scott to Mrs. Wilson. The doctor's widow. In it were these lines:

"If this letter reaches you, Bill (Dr. Wilson) and I will have gone out together. We are very near it now, and I should like you to know how splendid he was at the end — everlastingly cheerful and ready to sacrifice himself for others, never a word of blame to me for leading him into this mess. His eyes have a comfortable, fine look of hope and his mind is peaceful with the satisfaction of his faith in regarding himself as part of the great scheme of the Almighty I can do no more to comfort you than to tell you that he died as he lived, a brave, true man; the best of comrades and the staunchest of friends."

Dr. Wilson, as thus described, was not merely at peace with the world. He was at peace with God. He was so well integrated that he could stand when the world's casing was removed.

SINNER HAS NO PEACE

The sinner has no such peace, for he is under the strain of conscience, uncertain what will happen when the earth's mold is broken.

Since we cannot laugh conscience out of court, sin puts us under a strain—the strain of pretense.

Some years ago an English novelist described a wordly woman, whom, he said, no longer had respect for the Ten Commandments. But, said the author, she had regard for an eleventh commandment, which is, "Thou shalt not be found out."

When a person is ever on guard to hide his real self from the gaze of those whose good opinion he seeks—that is a strain.

A few years ago Anne Lindbergh described the "Lone Ranger Sheldon as the "most unforgettable character" she ever met. Sheldon had a play on Broadway before he finished his course at Harvard. His career gave great promise. But in his late twenties he was stricken with a disease leaving him rigid and blind.

Yet so genuine was his character and so piercing his intuition that when you entered his room he instantly seemed to know all about you outwardly and inwardly. He saw you whole and in his presence you felt whole. Anne Lindbergh said she felt that "the outward and inward man were at one."

Only in such genuineness can a person live in peace or die in peace.

CITY COUNCIL'S BIG GAMBLE

When the Lake Ontario Region Development Board was first formed, opposition to Belleville joining in this co-operative expansion program was evident.

The Ontario Intelligencer stated in an editorial, that the City Council give this matter careful consideration before declining to have the city participate.

Several months have since elapsed. Presumably, during that period, all members of Council did consider the problem.

Monday evening of this week the Council divided evenly, seven to seven, on the question.

This is vote meant that Alderman Jane Forrester's recommendation that the city join the Board was defeated.

It is not for The Ontario Intelligencer to say that that decision is wrong.

But perhaps it is the duty of a newspaper to point out that those seven members who voted against Belleville's participation in the Board were committing the city to a gamble at long odds.

They were betting they were right, betting the future growth and prosperity of the city against $1,400 a year.

It is possible to make $1,400 a year sound like a lot of money. But at the present tax rate of 71 mills it is only the taxes on an assessment of less than $20,000.

Those seven members of the City Council who voted against the city joining the Board were betting that this municipal group would be unable to foster an annual development equal to this small assessment.

Perhaps they were right. But as the Lake Ontario Region Development Board was established under the direction of the Ontario Government, as similar regional development associations have been or are being set up throughout the whole province and as the Ontario Government is likely to channel all inquiries from industrial and commercial firms through these associations, there will be those who will be surprised if this gamble at long odds pays off and saves Belleville's taxpayers $1,400 annually, or less than one-tenth of a mill.

The cost to Belleville of participating in the co-operative expansion program is reasonably small. The cost for not participating could be extremely expensive. Can the city afford to pinch pennies under such circumstances?

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Some people display a keen interest in anniversaries. Others could not care less. They fail to see any significance in the fact that it is three years since a barber sacrificed his tooth, or ten years since Billy signed his first pro hockey contract, or 48 years since Great Aunt Susie died and left her fortune to a home for homeless cats.

Even those who normally do not appreciate anniversaries may, however, recognize the value of the observance of the 84th anniversary of the great Chicago fire.

The observance takes the form of the annual Fire Prevention Week, from October 9 to October 15. This seems a most appropriate way to mark the passing of the years since one of the greatest fire disasters in history, on October 9, 1871.

Like most of the other "weeks" dedicated to worthy causes, Fire Prevention Week will only be of value if it serves to remind citizens that here is work which cannot be accomplished in a week but must continue throughout the year.

Fire takes a heavy toll of life and property in Canada every year. Latest available figures show a property loss of $84,270,800 in a year, a per capita loss of $5.70 for every person in Canada, or $22.80 for the average family of four persons. To point out that the majority of the owners of property destroyed had their losses at least partially insured does not lessen the loss or mean that the country's economy escaped damage in the flames, or that this loss did not affect every one of us. Indeed, the greater the proportion of the fire losses which is covered by insurance, the greater the certainty that we all shared in the loss, through higher rates for the fire insurance we ourselves hold, or through higher prices for goods produced by firms which, of course, have to include the cost of fire insurance in the costs of producing their goods. As for the loss of life, with around 500 perishing, nobody can estimate the potential value to the nation of the victims of fire.

Canada's per capita fire loss is one of the highest of any country in the world. That is perhaps understandable, living as we do in a cold climate, where fire is essential to comfort or even to existence. This makes fire prevention all the doubly important in this country.

This year Fire Prevention Week has a particularly excellent slogan. "Don't Give Fire a Place to Start" is the theme. If we follow that advice, many of the problems of fire prevention work will be automatically solved.

INDONESIAN VOTE-KILLERS

From Jakarta, Indonesia, comes a report that the women of Indonesia are flocking to the polls in that new nation's first popular national election.

As the voting started, they far outnumbered men at many polling places.

Most Indonesians are Moslems. As such, the male of the species is permitted to have four wives. If any males in monogamic lands have sighed wistfully when reading of this custom, let them now survey the terrible results. It is bad enough, in Canada, to have the little woman kill your vote. But in Indonesia—your vote is not only killed, but buried four votes down.

TO A LITTLE FELLOW

Little fellow, by and by,
In the years that are to be,
You may sometimes wonder why
Heartache used to trouble me.

You are much too young to know
All that now is taking place,
But when you shall older grow
Disappointment you will face.

Little fellow, this I pray:
When some joy you cannot have,
Cling to faith and steadfast stay.
Life has much a man must brave.

Little fellow, happy be.
Childhood for delight is planned.
All that often troubled me
Some day you will understand.

Men Turned Down Job. James V. Boyce, superintendent of the local office of the government employment service, had much difficulty yesterday in getting two men to assist a trucker in unloading the contents of a house to a new location. Between twenty and thirty men registered at the employment office refused the job claiming that it was "too heavy". Men he spoke to standing around on the street corner refused to help for the same excuse. Finally he found two men who were willing and anxious to get a day's work.

Mr. Joseph Graham of Aberdeen, Washington, is spending a few days in the city after an absence of fifty years. He is endeavoring to locate old friends and will hold meeting with much success. He lived on the Trent River and was employed by J. Graham, was a pioneer resident in the district and carried on the business of a blacksmith and also worked at this trade for the Flaps Lumber Company. Except for the city hall and a few other landmarks, Mr. Graham says that he would not know the old town.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Cameron are in Toronto today and will attend the presentation of "Translator" by the San Carlo Opera Company this evening.

Mrs. L. G. Fozard has returned home after spending the summer in Toronto.

Mrs. Tovell has returned to the city from her summer cottage at Sydenham, and is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Douglas Ward and Mr. Brew.

The Rev. A. Beauchamp Payne, the Rev. C. G. Wright and Lieut. Col. E. A. Geen are in Kingston today attending a meeting of the executive committee of the Anglican Diocese of Ontario.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

MY FAVORITE SEASON

I have always been happy that I was born and reared in a part of the country where I could enjoy all of the four seasons in their order. It would be uninspiring and dull to live the entire year in but one season, even though many have had to do so.

I love all four seasons but my favorites are Spring and Autumn, and I name as my favorite—Autumn. It is then that harvests come in, all Nature clothing in color—the full array and with farmers resting from their labors, taking stock on all that Spring and Summer months have brought about.

As we advance in years and reach the Autumn of our lives, we grow mellow, are much more considerate of people and become more hopeful. Our faith increases and we have more and more reasons for being thankful. The picture of life expands and we become grateful to God for our endless blessings. Autumn is the storing up season, when we learn and become appreciative of little things and of our friends. Just one good action out as our greatest accumulated wealth.

Autumn becomes a reviewing time, too, when we begin to take inventory and appraise the values of life.It is then that wisdom gets its greatest gain and we are more listeners rather than talkers. It is a time of spiritual enrichment, when we like to distribute—we are not so selfish and forgetful of others. And oh, what a spectacle of beauty is every Autumn! October is outstanding. Just one great exhibition of colors, in golden tints and strokes of magneta. Everything is wedding garb. All Nature celebrates. The birds leave the memory of their long Spring and Summer outings behind, and often think that their songs linger to intermingle with the beauty of Earth. How appropriate those words: "What God has Wrought!"

Vanity Can Be Delightful

(Montreal Gazette)

The great 18th century actor, David Garrick, when at the height of his fame, was sitting for the Nollekens. In conversation, Nollekens was quite casually: "I heard somebody speaking very highly in your praise, as high as possible."

Garrick's interest was at once aroused. "Who was it?" he asked quickly. "Who was it spoke highly in my praise?"

"Why," said Nollekens, "it was yourself."

Garrick thought the reply was "vulgar." Yet it was probably a genuine case of asking and receiving. For the vanity of Garrick was notoriously offensive.

It recalls the vanity of the poet, William Wordsworth. Though a great poet, Wordsworth could show a distressing egotism when he talked about his own work. Once he remarked that he would have written like Shakespeare, if he "had a mind to."

Charles Lamb happened to be present, and on that occasion he played much the same part that Nollekens had played with Garrick. He made his contribution to Wordsworth's remark. That was the whole trouble, he suggested, it was the "mind" that was lacking.

Yet vanity is not easily avoided, and may appear even through the very modesty of the poet. Jane Austen, for instance, received suggestions for new novels—suggestions that were, in fact, orders—from Prince Regent himself, and from his librarian. She declined, while saying that such themes were quite above her humble powers.

She described herself as "a woman who knows her mother tongue, and a little French, Italian, and is being "the most unlearned and unaccomplished lady who ever dared to be an authoress."

Indeed, vanity may appear even in the tribute paid to another's lack of it. Such an example may be found in a letter by the duke of Wellington.

One day in 1832 the Duke had been angrily mobbed in the streets of London. Next day the Radical critics had incurred hostility. The crowd was in a mood to do him injury.

But among those who came to his help was a hot-tempered gentleman, who drove his two-wheeled carriage close behind the horse on which the duke was riding, thereby saving him valuable cover.

The Duke was grateful for this aid. But the Duke said that this anonymous gentleman was "among the particular reasons by "never looking towards me for any notice." It would be such a nice compliment for the gentleman in the two-wheeled carriage. But it is a compliment in which the Duke's own vanity makes its unintentional appearance.

Perhaps vanity is most acceptable when it is neither revealed by being concealed, nor expressed with an odious aggressiveness. Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes, the New England author of "The Autocrat at the Breakfast Table," was one of the most brilliant men and one of the most delightful.

As a professor in the Harvard Medical School, he took over the presidency of Dr. Charles W. Eliot. And of Holmes' vanity, President Eliot of Harvard once wrote:"—he was simple-hearted in a charming way, with a sort of natural vanity which he expressed without reserve. I was sitting beside him one day at the Club when I mentioned that I had just parted with an Englishman who had spoken of him with great reverence and admiration.

"Dr. Holmes inquired instantly, 'What did you say? What did he say, Mr. President? You know I like to have it laid on thick.'"

Dr. Holmes' vanity was remarkably like that of David Garrick in the studio of Nollekens. For Eliot, so far from being repelled or annoyed, only comments that Holmes' simplicity was a delightful trait.

Nor was this delightful vanity by any means unique with Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes. Even Mr. President, Arnold Bennett had it also.

He, too, was a literary lion. He had brushed up his whitening hair in a costume which he himself described as to create an impression of opulence and importance. He had, in fact, gone to his entry to a club or restaurant an event.

All this seems to us rather offensive, but it was neither. His friend, H. G. Wells has written of a couple of the traits in his nobody, but why should pleasant vanity be more offensive than offensive reception in a room or restaurant be any different from pleasant vanity with a wine? It was done with a humour all his own. Perhaps he was far to carry his mannerisms so that they bored. Some people found most people and offended none."

Perhaps vanity, like most things, depends upon the other qualities with which it is mixed. For when vanity is combined with humour, it is more likely to please than annoy.

When vanity is humorless, it degenerates what Holmes said of Garrick, or what Lamb said of Wordsworth. But when leavened with humor, it may become the delightful trait" mahneriams that offended some people and delighted others. G. had found in Arnold Bennett.

Sales Tax Iniquitous

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

The sales tax is rightly considered by many as an iniquitous levy because it pyramids costs and very often is hidden in the prices of the goods we buy.

Most of us here we pay in sales taxes is brought home to us by a survey of federal sales tax revenues made by the Canadian Federation of Labor. A total of $734,000,000 in the fiscal year 1953-55 the foundation is able to explain how every dollar of this was extracted from our pockets.

The foundation discovers, for instance, that if you buy a suit of clothes for $50 you pay $1.25 in sales tax. Strangely enough, if you buy a wrist watch for the same price, you pay $3.00, which is $1.25 more.

A $300 television set will include $7.50 in sales tax, a chesterfield selling at the same figure will include $6 in sales tax.

All down the line the story is much the same. A 40-cent tube of toothpaste has 2 cents sales tax; a gallon of gasoline costing 43 cents includes 3 cents sales tax of 1.8 cents.

About 15 per cent of the retail price of margarine is sales tax (butter is exempt). A pound of coffee or tea costing $1.30 a pound is taxed at six cents, or 5.5 per cent of the price.

A man who buys an auto at $2-250 is paying $170 in sales tax. A man who buys a $2,000 car is taxed in sales tax and shoes at the same price $5 cents.

This gives us some idea of how much we pay in taxes we seldom realize we are paying on the many things we buy. No wonder the government is getting tax as a sort of "painless" levy.

The Canadian Tax Foundation has performed a valuable public service by once again getting this information before us.

Also the foundation survey shows the disturbing discrepancies in application of the tax at the retail level. The tax is applied at a uniform rate at the manufacturers' level but in working up to the retail counter it undergoes changes. Thus since Minister Harris is aware of the situation and has promised to look into it. It is to be hoped that this turns out to be more than just a promise.

Irish Farmer Was Nervous

(Ottawa Journal)

When poor Archie Moore, dazed by the Fairmount, was dragging himself off the ring canvas a radio announcer stuck a microphone before Archie's face and shouted: "How do you feel, Archie, what are your plans?"

It reminded us of a story Sir Basil Brooke told last time he was here.

An American military lorry carrying along an Ulster highway struck a farmer's wagon, knocked the farmer unconscious and left the farmer into anther. Later in the day the farmer called a lawyer to suing the U.S. Government for damages, claiming a large amount. "Now, be a fact," said the judge to him "that when, after the collision, the U.S. officer asked if you were hurt you said that you were fine?"

"That I did, your Lordship", said the farmer, "but it was this way: After the collision the American officer jumped out of his lorry, went over to one stitch and shot both my horses because their legs were broken. Then, his gun still smoking in his hand he came over to my ditch and asked: 'What a bout you, are you all right?'

"What would you have answered, your Lordship?"

Cost of Car In Work-Days

(Milwaukee Journal)

The Economist recently reported that it costs an English working-man in manufacturing about 36 weeks' work to buy a British Ford car. It takes the American 49 weeks' work to purchase a standard Volkswagen.

On a comparable basis, how much does it cost the average United States factory worker to buy one of the three leading low-priced cars built in the United States?

The National Industrial Conference Board has done some computing. Based on average weekly wages for all manufacturing and the average of retail list prices over the United States States, the American worker can buy a standard four-door sedan without "extras" for 38 weeks' work.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Tribute To a Hundred Thousand Doctors

I'm afraid there are not that many doctors left — real doctors, that is — those rich specialists or "clinic" racketeers.

Real doctors practise general medicine. When they think it may do you any good they send you to specialist whose capability they respect, or they call such a physician, or any physician you may prefer, into consultation. That way you get far, far better treatment than you would get if you spurned the counsel and advice of your family physician and ran off to some pretentious "specialists" who is most proficient at getting his name in the paper.

If that's the criterion, I should have a whale of a practice by now, for who but some crooked quack, gets his name in the paper oftener than I do? But I'm different. You can't consult me about your ailment, not even if you wrote a Cook's tour before I lay a hand on you. For I exploit my publicity only to extend the range of my teaching. I teach personal health. I still have that dream, you know, of some recognized educational institution will make me the first person to receive the degree, P. H. D. — which means Doctor (teacher) of Personal Health. And if any copy reader changes it to Ph. D., I'll — take drastic action.

Tell me, Simon, have you ever consulted a "clinic"? I don't mean a consultation with a doctor, as the term is defined in Webster, but with the labor, the dirt and the indignity has been taken out of common toil. And what is infinitely more important, the dignity of labor is becoming generally better rewarded. The hardwork, not only in wages but in prestige.

"Headworkers" — personnel who have largely informed me, "are a dime a dozen."

Which makes headwork still more distressing is the state of the world, so that anybody who is in any way helping it by his head does not know what to think. His head aches.

In comparison, consider the handworker. The farmer stands happily aloft on his tractor, harrowing a field. O happy man! And the mechanic, busy all the eight hour day at his clean, tidy, enlightening job, has the blessedly resting upon his beautiful machine tools, his spirit lulled by a sense of security and of hourly accomplishment.

How long will it be before the white collar is the badge of the shabby-genteel?

FISHERS OF MEN

When Jesus sent forth his disciples, he declared that he was sending them forth to become fishers of men. They would cast out their nets and bring in Jewish schools of fish. Or they would halt hooks and bring in fish singly. But they would be fishers of something.

The church of the original idea of the Church has vanished in modern times. The Church has become an institution. It is the dwelling place of the faithful, the stronghold of sound and orthodox belief, the kindly helper to those in need. All these things are good, but Christianity started out as a fish-catching expedition. The disciples were to become fishers of men. They were to enclose great masses of converts in their nets, as the apostle Peter did on the Day of Pentecost when 3000 entered the church in one day. But also they were to bait their hooks and catch fish individually. The evangelist Philip did this when he was directed by the Spirit to seek out the Ethiopian eunuch. Great-

Strike Threat Hangs Over 5,000 Workers

HAMILTON (CP) — Threat of a strike by 5,000 workers hung over the big Canadian Westinghouse plant here today.

A conciliation board Friday wound up hearings after failure to crack a contract deadlock between the union and the United Electrical Workers (Ind.) The union announced it will take a strike vote among its members as soon as arrangements can be made.

Differences over seniority and incentive provisions were reported to be the chief cause of the breakdown. The company told the board earlier reduced production costs are essential if Westinghouse is to maintain its competitive position in the electrical industry.

The union asked for an eight-cent hourly wage increase across the board. Present basic rates are $1.49 for male workers and $1.28 for women.

City Barrister Speaks to Y's Men

Mr. Cass, a Belleville barrister, spoke on the judicial system in Ontario. He outlined the difference between civil and criminal law and gave typical examples of cases tried in each.

Mr. Cass listed the various courts of each type from the magistrate's and divisions courts, through to the court of last resort which now is the Supreme Court of Canada. The speaker was introduced by Max Maguire and thanked by Ron Elmy.

Former Mayor Ordered to Pay Damage Suit

MONTREAL (CP) — A former mayor and a one-time police chief of suburban Ville St. Michel were ordered Friday in Superior Court to pay $2,000 to Pacifique Plante, assistant Montreal police director.

The damage suit against Charles Lafontaine and Albert Lauzon stems from stormy municipal elections in Ville St. Michel in 1952 when Plante was thrown in jail for the day without being charged.

Robert D. Blasier, vice-president in charge of industrial relations for Westinghouse, called the offer the most liberal in company history.

James B. Carey, president of the International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO) and Robert Nellis, chairman of the CIO-IUE Westinghouse Conference Board, issued a joint statement toning down the proposal. They said Westinghouse "wants its employees to pay for management shortcomings."

Firefighting Test Causes Much Excitement

A smoke generator placed in barrack block No. 3 at 10.30 p.m. created more than the usual amount of excitement. Highway travellers were among those who believed a major disaster had hit the big base. Great clouds of smoke pouring from the windows in the barrack block created an impression of the real thing.

Forces' Doctors See Air Rescue Display

TRENTON (Special) — Medical doctors from the three armed services visited the Trenton Air Station Thursday to watch demonstrations of rescue equipment in aircraft. The 18 M.O.'s returned to Toronto following the show put on for their benefit.

BOY SCOUT ACTIVITIES

By CHRIS. F. LEGGAT

On October 15th, Cubs and Scouts will be selling apples. This is the main source of finances required to promote Scouting in Belleville. We would respectfully ask all citizens to buy an apple on Boy Scout Apple Day.

The Beaver Patrol and the Coyote Patrol of the 2nd Belleville Troop went on an overnight hike. As usual it was raining when they arrived out at 6.00 pm on Saturday. The weather cleared, however, during the night and the boys spent a very enjoyable and instructive day, returning on Sunday at 5.00 p.m. The boys made camp on Harry Sherry's farm, close to the Moira River. Objective, procure staves and a general review of elementary camping.

The Beaver Patrol were: PL Charles Hughes, Paul Pedan, Harry Hitchon, Norman Till and Dennis Galvin. The Coyote Patrol were: PL Ron Mayhew, Phil Bercarlo, Myron Lazenby, Gordon Cook, John Moore and Dennis Rowbotham.

Each day at the Jamboree about 3,000 Scouts loaded in 70 buses were sent to see the sights at Niagara Falls. During our boys from Sub-Camp St. Lawrence went, we happened to pass by the camp and one lonely Scout from Avondale was there. He explained that he missed the tour because of his "good turn" for the day.

On further enquiries we discovered the good turn consisted of his volunteering to guide a blind Scout through the camp. This is typical of Belleville Scouts. They practice their promise "On my honor I will do my best."

STIRLING

Stirling Extends Warm Welcome To Leader of Scottish Scouts

STIRLING.—On Saturday, September 24, the Scout Association of Stirling, held a public welcome at the public school for Sir Ian Bolton, of Stirling, Scotland, president of the Scottish Scout council and a representative of the Queen, Scotland.

He had been in attendance at the Scout Jamboree, Niagara-on-the-Lake, and since then has been visiting Scouts and Cubs in various districts in Ontario.

Mr. Arthur Jackson of Brighton, field commissioner, brought Sir Ian to Stirling on Saturday and following the afternoon program they toured the village with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Irish.

The guest of honor expected to leave by plane on Tuesday for London, England, and then journey on to his home in Scotland.

Scoutmaster Joe Irish welcomed the two visitors and then introduced Sir Ian personally to each Scout present.

SHORT ADDRESS

Following the period of introduction Sir Ian gave a short address and later he presented Mrs. Verna Woodbeck with Scouter's warrant.

On behalf of the Scouts and Cubs Marvin Tanner read an appreciative address and Jackie Donnan presented the Scotch visitor with a pen and pencil set.

Joe Irish made the presentation of an initialled leather brief case on behalf of the Scout Association of Stirling.

RECEPTION HELD

Following the service at the school afternoon tea was served at the home of David Duffin, president of the Trent Valley district and Mrs. Duffin. The wives of the Stirling Scout Association, were co-hostesses.

The guests included Troop leader Allan Wells, assistant Scoutmasters, Ronnie Woodbeck and Ronnie Wells; Scout leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Irish, Mr. and Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Bateup Woodbeck, Mrs. Ken Ray and their escorts; Reeve H. West and Mrs. West and Mrs. H. C. Secker of St. John's; Rev. and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker of St. Andrew's; Rev. and Mrs. Arthur Packman of St. Paul's; Mrs. Robert Leury, representing the Guides and Mr. Leury; Mrs. Charles Faires, leader of the Brownie group and Mr. Faires; Mr. Ray Farmer, representing the Stirling Legion which sponsors the scouts.

PERSONALS

Comrades Ray Tanner, Fred Hounsh, Bill Long, Bert Bateup and H. Wingarden, all members of Stirling Legion, No. 228, attended a special banquet in Belleville on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James Menzies of Rawdon, moved on Tuesday to the Lamb apartment on the Frankford Road.

Mrs. Louis Rodgers is entertaining her grandson, David Brown of Breckenridge, Quebec

NEW DRAIN

Last week the Morrow Brothers were busy installing a new drain on Front Street from the Frankford corner to Annis Street. This is a very decided improvement and should carry off the water and thus avoid numerous mud-puddles and flooded cellars of previous days.

A large new safe has been installed at the local post office following the recent robbery when the old safe was damaged beyond repair.

BORN—At Civic Hospital, Ottawa, to Mr. and Mrs. Ross Brown, Breckenridge, Quebec, on Saturday, September 17th, 1955, a son, Philip Ross, a brother for David.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sallsbury and their daughter Jean, spent a recent week-end in Toronto.

STIRLING (Special) — Despite heavy rains Stirling's annual fair this year was far from being a washout.

Crowds flocked to the big event of the year here to see cattle, horse and calf shows, notwithstanding the baby show, produce exhibitions, and the hundred and one things that go to make up an exciting day at the fair.

Although the attendance appeared to be lower than last year, enthusiasm for the event, both on the part of public and sponsors, was undiminished from previous years.

Heavy rain on the fair just after 3 p.m., sending crowds scurrying indoors and away from the grandstand with its attendant horse shows and the midway.

One of the proudest of all attending the fair was Harry Danford of Springbrook, young member of the 4-H Club. Harry was a dual winner when he took first place in two achievement programs of the club. He captured first in the Stirling 4-H Calf Club and also was first in the South Hastings Grain Club competition.

There were 18 contestants in the calf club show and 13 in the grain club. Harry also won first place with his Shorthorn calf and took second place in showmanship.

CALF CLUB WINNERS

Winners in the calf club on the year's work were: Harry Danford, Raymond Bonter, Douglas Detlor, John Sager, Ronald Heath, Chas. Spencer, Donald Heath, Peter Grant, who was first place with his Jersey calf; Paul Heagle, Bill McKeown, Gerrard Heath, Ralph Detlor, Julia Savage, Mell Patterson, George Mumby, Keith Donnan, Joe Hagerman, James Barrow, Raymond Spencer, Bill Morgan and Denton Bonter.

Raymond Ross had the best Holstein calf in the show, which was predominantly Holstein, with other winners being Ralph Detlor, Ron Heath, Julia Savage, Charles Spencer and J. Hagerman. The first three boys will show their calves at the Interclub show at Maple Grove.

One acre of Rodney oats was sown by members of the grain club placing of which was as follows: 1, Danford, Springbrook; Harold Harris, Madoc; Ross Brown, Tweed; Douglas Detlor, Stirling; Ed. Tobin, Madoc; Ted Burnside, Madoc; John Sager, Stirling; Doug Burnside, Madoc; Paul Heagle, Harold; John Craighead, Stirling; Harold Richards, Frankford; Grant Kitchen, Marmora; and Ronald Heath, Stirling.

Doug Detlor topped the grain club with his sample of grain with Ross Bateman, Harold Harris, Grant Kitchen and Harold Richards finishing in that order.

GOOD CATTLE SHOW

The cattle show this year although smaller than last year, represented all breeds. One show were dual purpose shorthorns, exhibited by H. Fry and W. A. Danford. Elmer West entered a good showing of Ayrshires while the Holstein breeders were entered by J. Petherick, Campbellford. H. Reavie of Flinton, exhibited a strong class of Herefords.

In between times of shows, the grandstand crowd was entertained by the Havelock Pipe Band, which attracted large crowds to the foot of the stage with its piping of old Scottish airs. A special exhibition of Highland reels, flings and the sword dance by girl members of the band, was given a big reception.

Little Dorothy Hoard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Hoard took first place in the baby show for infants from 1-6 months. Next two winners were boys, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Don Whiteman and Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. H. West of Stirling won the 7-12 months class, while the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hannah took second place. Third place winner was Carol Ann Maguire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Maguire of Belleville.

Oldest man on the grounds at a respectful 89 years was Mr. H. Ashley of Stirling.

On the less-elderly list of prize winners were pupils of S. S. 14, Rawdon, who took first place in the school parade. S. S. 19, Rawdon took second position. In third place was the Springbrook school with fourth while fifth spots were taken by S. S. 7 and S. S. 17, both also of Rawdon.

The produce exhibition appeared lighter than last year, but that was the only change. The quality remained the same. Besides exhibitions of prize-winning foodstuffs from pumpkins to pie pastry, there also was on display some fine cheese, two exhibits of square cheese and a show of silk-tons.

One of the eye-catchers at the indoor exhibition was the display of work of the school pupils. Intricate maps, with novel features, paintings and drawings, were a colorful mix of this particular phase of the exhibition. But drawing much comment were the achievements in woodwork of the pupils, showing to advantage several highly-polished individual techniques of the youngsters work.

Dominating the entire fairgrounds was a large ferris wheel, symbol of excitement to the junior set. The midway entertainment was provided by Marsh's amusements organization, which did a roaring trade on its bustling concessions.

However, there also were other attractions in the way of entertainment for the younger people — one of the biggest being the pet show.

Other local personalities connected with the organization of the big event were: Clarence Pitchett, president; Earl Wallace, 1st. vice-president; Charles Davidson, 2nd vice-president and R. E. Fox, secretary-treasurer.

Weddings

ROBLIN—NORTON

In St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Carol Muir Norton, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Norton, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Norton, was married to John Philip Roblin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Philip Roblin, in a double-ring ceremony, September seventeenth.

Large white 'mums and asters decorated the church while the guest pews were marked by white satin bows and bronze 'mums. Officiating was the Rev. R. D. MacLean.

The bride wore a full length candle-white taffeta gown with a long torso bodice with portrait neckline. The necklines was offset with a wide band of matching shirring while the short sleeves also were edged with matching shirring. The skirt was fashioned with a star-pointed inset of shirring encircling the hips and falling in crisp folds into a chapel train. A fingertip veil caught to a matching cap, completed the ensemble. She carried a bouquet of white feathered 'mums with yellow roses, stephanotis and philodendron leaves.

Matron of honor, Mrs. George Woodhouse, Belleville, and bridesmaid, Mrs. Eldon McGarvey also of Belleville, wore ballerina length emerald green dresses with matching headdresses and mitts. They carried muffs made of oak leaves with accents of yellow pom 'mums.

Groomsman was Mr. Kenneth Woodall, Picton, while the ushers were Mr. Hugh Sullivan, Belleville and Mr. Ronald Davidson, Kingston.

At the reception held in the bride's home the bride's mother received the guests attired in a dress of tan pure silk and imported Swiss taffeta with brown accessories. She wore a bracelet of Pinnochio roses and bronze feathered 'mums. The bridegroom's mother was gowned in a black and gold Italian printed silk dress with matching gold accessories. Her corsage was yellow Sweetheart roses and pom 'mums.

For the wedding trip to Niagara Falls and the Adirondacks, the bride chose a navy blue suit with velvet trim, navy velvet hat and navy accessories.

Guests were present from Toronto, Hamilton, Rochester and Kingston.

The couple will take up residence in Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith Happily Wed For 50 Years

The Smith family the other night, put aside everyday working chores to dish out a spot of romance.

Reason for the occasion was the wedding anniversary of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Smith, 84 Donald St.

The Smiths have been married 50 years and to hail the occasion the family presented their parents with two gold rings.

In their years of marriage the Smiths raised five children — four girls and and a boy — and all of them were on hand for the anniversary.

Excited as they may have been over the occasion, the Smiths however, prefer to be non-committal onside the family circle.

Both were born just three miles from each other in Prince Edward County, were married not too far away from their birthplaces and have been residents of this area all their life.

Mrs. Smith was born Mary, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Almond Dulmage in Gleonra. Just three miles away, on the Gleonra Road, Mr. Smith was born and raised, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Smith.

In those days, the Smiths recall, Gleonra was a bustling little place. One of its biggest industrial assets was the J. C. Wilson Manufacturing Company, which turned out metal machinery including water wheels and transmission machinery.

When he was of age, Mr. Smith joined his father at the plant, to start out on the job that was to make him a master machinist and lead to the position he holds today as superintendent of the Stephens-Adamson plant in Belleville.

MARRIED IN 1905

The Smiths were married on September 28th, 1905, in Picton, by Rev. A. C. Millar, the Methodist minister for the district. After a brief honeymoon they returned to Gleonra and settled down.

However, the stay was not to be long. In 1915, after the outbreak of World War I, the Wilson Concern decided to shift to Belleville. They opened, on the location now occupied by the Morch Manufacturing Company, for the production of the shells. With them went the Smiths.

After the Wilson establishment ceased operations in Belleville Mr. Smith turned to a job with the

Women's Institute

ELDORADO-BANNOCKBURN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Mrs. Beryle Bateman, convener for Citizenship, opened the program with a reading on "Citizenship." The part played by school and church, was presented by Mrs. H. Empey; the institute's role was outlined by Mrs. Bob Wright and the community's influence was explained by Mrs. K. Bateman. Mrs. Beryle Carman conducted a contest. Mrs. Harold Chambers gave a demonstration on cookie making and also gave the recipe.

Refreshments were served.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Empey for the use of her home.

The Institute presented Mr. and Mrs. Bert McCoy with a gift on their 50th wedding anniversary.

MOUNTAIN VIEW W.I.

The president, Mrs. S. Barber, was in the chair and Mrs. C. Sprung acted as secretary owing to the absence of Mrs. A. Wallbridge.

The topic was "Canadian Industries" and was under the convenership of Mrs. G. Neal, Mrs. Neal gave an interesting account of the Aluminum Company of Canada and also passed around an illustrated book about the aluminum plant.

Mrs. Seymour Hamilton gave a splendid report on "Current Events". Miss Anderson, assisted by several ladies, served refreshments.

Fruit Machinery Company (now the Foley Foundry Division), in 1939, Mr. Smith commenced his present-day relationship with the Stephens-Adamson plant.

During all that however, they also were busy raising a large family all of whom reside in Belleville area. They are: Hazel Helen Smith, Mrs. J. A. (Kathleen) Lazier, Mrs. G. M. (Doris) Thompson, Mrs. Charles A. (Vivian) Bruce and Bruce now an office-worker with the CNR.

Mr. Smith has been a member of the Eureka Lodge and here since 1920.

Speak Nothing But Plain Truth Liberals Told

WOLFVILLE, N. S (CP)—Mrs. Angus L. Macdonald said Friday statesmen who attribute their successes to the ladies are speaking nothing but "the plain truth."

The widow of the late Nova Scotia premier delivered her first political address before 100 delegates to a meeting of the Kings County Liberal Women's Association.

"If there is one thing I have learned in my years of interested listening it is the tremendous importance of women in politics today," Mrs. Macdonald said.

Women have an organizing talent that is by no means limited to politics, she said.

Civic Reception For Conference

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—More than 400 delegates from business and professional women's clubs from many parts of Ontario registered Friday night for the 10th annual conference of the Ontario organization.

The conference, being held in London for the first time, attracted representatives from most major centres in the area bounded by Windsor, Timmins and Ottawa.

Women's Activities

ST. ANDREW'S WOMEN'S GUILD

The Women's Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church of Belleville met in the church parlors on Tuesday evening. Mrs. Ryan presided.

The meeting opened with a hymn, followed by prayer. Mrs. R. McLean read the Scripture lesson, Psalm 65. The minutes were read, followed by the treasurer's report and roll call. A short business period followed in which Mrs. Ward announced that her group was having a rummage sale. Mrs. Mantle and Mrs. McLean reported on the progress of the Christian education program.

Mrs. Fleming gave a report from the Board of Managers.

The ladies enjoyed singing of favorite hymns, led by Mrs. Brown with Mrs. Mantle at the piano.

Refreshments were served.

MELROSE MISSION BAND

The re-organization meeting of the Melrose Mission Band was held recently at the home of the leader, Mrs. Ken McMechan.

Mrs. McMechan and her assistant, Mrs. Newman Demille conducted the election of officers.

Mrs. McMechan announced that a prize for perfect attendance would be given and that work would be started in preparation for a spring bazaar.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Edward Lazier on October 18.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HERE ARE TWO SUGGESTIONS YOU MIGHT TRY

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

It's a year and a half ago, my husband just walked out and left me, after 35 years of marriage. I heard he had come to another woman. We had eight children, and while he was good to me, he wasn't to them.

For seven months, I didn't know where he was. Then I found out he had tried to get a divorce, but couldn't. Finally I caught up with him, and now that he has to give me money, he wants to come back. But I hear he is after a divorce again. I don't understand it.

Some people tell me to take him back and others say no. I sure would like to know which I should do. — Mrs. N.

Dear Mrs. N.:

Anyone with such a problem would be just as confused and bewildered as you are about what would be best to do.

In some way, you would probably like to have your husband back again. Perhaps you still love him. It's pretty hard for a woman to stop loving a man after being married to him for 36 years. And certainly you need his support for yourself and whatever children are young enough to be still at home with you.

Yet in other ways, you're likely afraid to have him come back, because you think he may just walk out on you again, especially since you have heard he still seems to have divorce in mind.

There are two things you might do, and I suggest that you consider each of them carefully, then make up your mind which would help you most.

First, you might call on the telephone, or write to, the family welfare organization in your town and make an appointment to talk over this serious family problem. You need have no hesitation in doing this, because it is their business to help people in trouble, and they will keep anything you tell them in strict confidence. They have had long experience in advising and guiding those who have family problems, and they will also know what your rights are in the matter of your husband's responsibility for you and your children and how to safeguard those rights. Again, if your husband persists in trying to get a divorce, they will see that you are properly represented from a legal point of view.

It is quite possible that they may advise you to take your husband back, since he has indicated a wish to return, and give him another chance. If they feel you should, they will tell you the best plan to follow in doing this.

And this leads us into the second thing you might consider, which would be to postpone consulting the family welfare agency for a while and just decide on your own to take your husband back and see how it would work out.

In this case, you might ask him to come and see you to discuss the possibility of his return. If he wishes to do this, then, when he comes, simply tell him that you feel it would be best for all of you to have him home again, provided he sincerely wants to be a faithful husband and a good father. Don't waste time and energy, and perhaps spoil the chance of starting off again on the right foot, by reproaching or accusing him. Tell him you are willing to let bygones be bygones, and that all you want from the two of you is to work together at making each other happy and creating a home in which every member of the family will like to be. If he shows himself ready to accept your offer to start again, welcome him home and do everything you possibly can to make him feel loved and wanted. And show him, by planning to have some good times with friends every so often, or by just the two of you being together, that, however possible, that life needn't go on in the dull stay-at-home pattern that gets monotonous. It is possible that it was monotony that drove him away in the first place.

Try all this out for a reasonable length of time, and see what happens. Then you will be able to recapture the spirit of the days when there was happiness and harmony between you.

If it doesn't work out that way, however, then it would be well to do as I first suggested and seek guidance from your family welfare agency. If you don't know the name and address of the nearest one to you, let me know and I will find out for you.

. . . a recipe for mint jelly please.—Mrs. B.

ANSWER:

MINT JELLY NO. 1

Two well-packed cups fresh mint leaves, 1 cup cider vinegar, 7 cups white sugar, 1 bottle commercial liquid pectin, green vegetable coloring. Wash the freshly-picked mint leaves, place in pan serving kettle and mash well, using potato masher—of course a wooden one is best but they are rare these days. Add the vinegar and sugar, bring to a boil, then add 2 cups boiling water and bring to a full rolling boil. Color a rich green with food coloring. Add the pectin and bring to full rolling boil again and boil hard for 30 seconds. Remove from heat, strain, and pour into dry sterile jelly glasses. Seal with new hot paraffin, adding second coating when cold.

MINT JELLY NO. 2

One and one-half cups well-packed fresh mint leaves and stems, 2 lemons, 2 1-3 cups water, 1 box pectin crystals, 3 1-3 cups sugar. Wash mint leaves, drain well, measure and crush. Add the 2 1-2 cups water and bring to boil. Remove from heat, cover, and let stand 12 minutes. Strain and measure 2 1-4 cups of this mint infusion. Add 1-4 cup strained lemon juice. Bring juice to boil, adding box of pectin crystals while it is heating and bring to full boil. At once stir in sugar and boil hard for 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and green food coloring to make a bright green. Skim off any scum and pour into hot sterile jelly glasses, coating with hot new paraffin at once, and add second coating when cold.

QUESTION:

I was out for supper a few nights ago and had some coffee-flavored dessert. It was delicious. Would you have any recipes with a strong coffee flavor, preferably with a low-calorie content?—Grace W.

ANSWER:

I have a recipe for a Coffee Whip that seems to be made for you Grace. It calls for sucaryl tablets instead of sugar.

COFFEE WHIP (Sugarless)

One tablespoon plain gelatine, 2 cups strong hot coffee, 1-4 cup cold water, 16 sucaryl tablets. Soak gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Add hot coffee and sucaryl and stir until all are dissolved. Pour about 1-4 of this mixture into small, shallow pan to depth of 1-3 inch and chill until firm. Chill remaining mixture until syrupy—just beginning to congeal. Now beat with rotary beater until light and fluffy and quite stiff. Spoon this beaten portion into 4 stemmed glasses—six. Chill. Garnish the "fluff" with 1-2 inch cubes of the coffee jelly you put to set first.

NOTE:

The only calorie-containing ingredient in this Coffee Whip is the gelatine and each serving contains only six calories.

NOT CORRECT TO SEND CARDS ANNOUNCING ENGAGEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter's engagement is to be announced soon, and my husband and I are planning to give a small dinner party to make the formal announcement. Today my daughter told me that she is considering also sending out engraved cards announcing the engagement. I'm horrified, and I just can't imagine what our relatives and friends would think about this. Or am I just "old-fashioned" as my daughter insists I am about this? — Mother

You're not a bit "old-fashioned" . . . it's just that you know what is good taste and correct form, and you know these cards aren't in good taste. Unfortunately, as far as these cards are concerned, your daughter doesn't know what's what, and I imagine she is being persuaded about this by someone who doesn't know what's what. I hope you will, with a gentle spirit of cooperation, ask your daughter to consult with others of her friends in whom you and she have faith as to social taste. Point out the special charm she can put into the notes she can write telling her friends of her engagement . . . all the charm the cards lack!

A TEA FOR HER ATTENDANTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've been a bridesmaid twice, and in both cases, the party the bride-to-be gave for her attendants was a dull, stiff, formal (and therefore quite expensive) luncheon, with several other intimate friends besides the attendants being invited. Now I'm to be married quite soon, and I must closely watch every expense. I'd like to give a party for my attendants (maid of honor and four bridesmaids) and give them their gifts at that time, but I definitely can't afford an elaborate luncheon party. Would a very simple tea-party, several days before the wedding, be at all permissible? — E.M.R.

A very simple tea-party would be a very charming, and indeed entirely correct, way for you to entertain your attendants. It isn't really necessary for you to give any kind of party, but it would be delightful for you to give this party . . . simple, inexpensive, informal, and to make a friendly ceremony of presenting your gifts.

FEES FOR ORGANIST AND SOLOIST AT FORMAL WEDDING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

How does one find out whether or not there is a stated sum for the services of the organist (and perhaps soloist, too) for the wedding? Or does one give what is supposed to be fair? — C. A.

The bride's mother (usually) or the bride-to-be herself should inquire, either from the sexton or the clergyman, as to these fees — whether the amounts are stipulated and, if so, what the fees are.

BEAUTY

HAIR GLAMOUR FOR BABY

Up until now most baby girls—and boys, too, for that matter—have squawked long and loudly when it came to hair shampooing time. It was something of an ordeal for Mother, too. Trying to keep baby's hair as soft and pretty as her own, yet worrying when suds got into her wriggling darling's eyes, burning and smarting only. But no more!

A new hair glamour treatment until she was almost in tears herself made especially for the perambulator set has the young 'uns crowing instead of crying and this laboratory tested shampoo is guaranteed not to smart the eyes at all. It not only keeps scalp and hair hygienically clean, leaving the fine, young hair soft, silky, and easy to manage, but literally turns the shampooing chore into a joy. What's more, it rinses out easily, leaving their hair soft, silky, and easy to manage. And it works equally well in hard water or soft, on dry hair, oily hair, and normal hair.

Baby will be happier if her face is kept dry, so when you give her a shampoo, hold her tummy upward with her head over the water, supporting her back and hips. First wet the hair with lukewarm water, making sure it is not too hot for the tender scalp. Mother's darling will love her shampoo and the gentle massage that goes with it. Rinse with luke-warm water, letting it flow back over the head and away from the eyes. Apply shampoo again, and work into a foamy lather. Rinse thoroughly, particularly around the hairline, temples and crown. Wrap a towel around baby's head, and massage gently until the hair is dry.

And after the shampoo, what? Why, curls, of course—like Mama's. A special new baby hair treatment will put curls in baby's locks no matter how straight they may be. This gentle lotion, which is absolutely safe and is not a permanent wave, not only trains baby's fine hair into ringlets as soon as it is about an inch long, but also keeps the scalp fresh, clean, and sweet-smelling.

Pour a small amount of the baby hair treatment on a pad of cotton. Apply it to the hair with a light, circular "up" motion, strand by strand, using baby's hair-brush to form small curls. Then let it dry.

If used in the simple routine described, the baby hair treatment helps assure fluffy silken ringlets for years to come, and at the same time will keep the baby's hair and scalp free of accumulated secretions between shampoos. It also helps prevent the formation of "cradle cap", a brownish crust that may form over the soft spot of baby's scalp.

Did You Know?

That . . . . The Y.M.C.A. was founded in London, Eng. in 1844, by 12 young workmen to help them improve their living spiritually, mentally and physically, and that the idea has grown in all parts of the world with over 4,000,000 "Y" members in all parts of the world today.

That . . . . Since 1893 the Y.M.C.A. in Belleville has continued to develop leaders and citizens worthy of Canada.

That . . . . All Y.M.C.A. Programs are based on sound Christian principles and in a practical way meet the needs of our day.

That . . . . the more the membership in the "Y" the more funds must be found since no member pays his full share of the cost.

That . . . . the local "Y" building is 44 years old, and the Board is continually faced with major improvements that are "most necessary."

That . . . . there are only a few families in Belleville of which one or more of its members have not been directly or indirectly influenced by the Y.M.C.A. Advertising helped make the difference

FOLKS USED TO BUY refrigeration in fifty pound pieces. Frozen foods were unheard of . . . ice cubes an impossibility . . . and that drip pan under the ice box always seemed to be overflowing. Today, a silent white-enameled ice man stands in most Canadian kitchens.

But to mas produce many thousands of refrigerators, manufacturers must be able to sell them by the thousands. Only by advertising can a manufacturer talk to thousands of people at one time.

ADVERTISING TELLS the story of new refrigerators . . . and helps sell them. The more it sells, the more must be made — keeping the production lines and the jobs going. The result: newer, better appliances at prices more people can afford to pay. Advertising helped make the difference — i nrefrigerators and in our Canadian way of life.

Garden Notes

News About Fall Gardening

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Last week-end I attended the Grosse Point Garden Center flower show. If your garden club has been in the habit of having a summer flower show may I urge you to try a fall flower show.

Many of the most colorful flowers are at their best in September, and it is a wonderful incentive to keep your plants in the pink all summer so they will be show material. Then, too, the entries inspire us to try new combinations. "What the Smiths can do I can do," we tell ourselves.

Friendly rivalry and inspiration are an unbeatable combination for flower growers.

HELP COMES FROM NEW SOURCES

The Canadian government has published a pamphlet to cover practically all garden problems; there are local experimental stations, local garden clubs; and nurserymen, to say nothing of the seedman either local or mailorder, all willing and eager to help answer garden problems.

In this flower show there were eight sections. I will tell you of one exhibit from each section to give you an idea of the overall show.

SPANISH STYLE

Section B. French and Spanish Era. Here, black lace, Spanish comb and fan provided background and accessories to small bouquets of pastel - colored annuals. The French section had multi-colored blooms in pastel shades in pedestal vase in alabaster, or porcelain. Many containers were decorated in flowers and gold handles reminiscent of the old days. There were also pedestal fit grapes in pedestal dishes in this section.

Section C. Our Pilgrims: One entry was a Pilgrims' Thanksgiving dinner table. Pewter plates and mugs were set for six on a rough pine table. Wooden bowls at either end contained small yellow pumpkin gourds and tiny squash. Two pewter bowls of evergreen completed the picture.

In section D—Williamsburg: One table featured entries which used one candlestick as an accessory. Another used fruit and flower combinations and a third was of small flower arrangements with a colonial China figurine. The blending of colors produced lovely arrangements.

Section E—Westward Ho!- This could be cacti, or succulents, or dried material with an accessory interpreting the West. The bleached, bone skeleton of a steer's head and horns on the burlap-covered table gave a note of authenticity to the scene.

Section F:- There were three classes in each section. Here a velvet lined shadow box presented a tiny fireplace with chair and flower arrangement on the mantle, a tiny basket of bouquet of flowers, or fruits, and flowers and nuts under a glass dome. The beauty here was one of small yellow roses and purple pansies.

DRIFTWOOD DESIGN

Section:- An arrangement of driftwood—one a piece of punkwood from an old stump with a hollowed portion containing a bird nest. Nestling into the base was a small-leaded geranium and sparingly on the same plant a stem of flowering strawberries with seven ripe berries.

Other entries, contemporary and modern, were driftwood and mountain ash berries and black and white arrangements. The containers and plant material and accessories were all black and white.

Section H, Juniors, members, children:- This display featured a large pink dolls favorite chair flanked by potted pink geraniums. One entry had made a tiny pool with mirror, moss, sedum and colored rock. A China rabbit and frog gave life interest-to the woodland scene.

Class 3 was an arrangement using a small doll as an accessory. One of the entries had a small Victorian hairrack with mirror and red geraniums where the seat would be. A doll in Victorian dress stood near.

Section I:- Classes of horticulture specimens — annuals in bloom, fruit, and vegetables were included as single entries.

Section J—Glamor on a budget:- TV trays were cleverly arranged with dishes and small flower arrangement to compliment each other.

3,000 Forest Fires in Canada In Year Cover 2,000,000 Acres

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A better-educated public, more efficient fire-fighting methods and improved equipment helped this year to prevent a major forest fire disaster in comparison with fires of other years.

But forestry men had a busy time fighting numerous small fires because of an exceptionally dry summer. It was one of the driest in a long time.

A Canadian Press survey showed about 3,000 forest fires in Canada by Sept. 1 covering an estimated 2,000,000 acres, an area larger than Prince Edward Island.

COVERED SMALLER AREAS

The number was about the same as in previous years but, except for two fires covering 1,220,000 acres of spruce in northern Saskatchewan, they were confined to smaller areas because fire fighters had them under control faster.

Ontario had the most outbreaks with 1,000 covering 373,000 acres. Some burned top-grade hardwood timber and destroyed although most of them destroyed cutover slash. The worst covered 100,000 acres of spruce in the Rivers district area.

Forestry officials in all provinces this year put on intensive publicity campaigns to make the public more safety conscious and the anti-fire campaigns helped keep outbreaks down.

Quebec closed private forests of more than 100 acres to smokers and made when fires reached their peak in mid-July, Ontario banned travel in northern forest areas during the peak months of July and August. British Columbia closed all of the Vancouver forest district Sept. 6 following southern B.C.'s hottest August, shutting more than 8,000 loggers out of work.

PROVINCIAL RECORD

Newfoundland had almost fire-free this year. Only 1,787 acres burned compared with 1,820 last year and 300,000 in 1947. The government closed all forests for a month during the peak period. It hopes to eventually build enough safe outdoor fireplaces to permit leaving the woods open.

Prince Edward Island—there are no forests in the province.

Nova Scotia—more than 220 fires, covering 11,351 acres. There were three bad fires, two on the south shore near Bridgewater and Liverpool and one at Mt. Uniacke, near Halifax. The Liverpool fire destroyed 80 buildings and 14 fishing boats and took 3,500 men to control. The Bridgewater five houses were destroyed.

New Brunswick—more fires this year than in 1954 when 187 fires burned 2,000 acres, but the department says it was not able to supply an exact figure.

VALUABLE STANDS BURNED

Quebec—the three biggest fires were at St. Marguerite, where 128,000 acres of hardwood were destroyed and at Baie Comeau and Lauzeville, where 64,000 acres were destroyed in each area. The three areas contained valuable spruce and pulpwood. Quebec's educational campaign started early in the spring. Field workers and private fire fighting associations went to social clubs and schools, clergymen warned their parishioners and the government set up safety exhibits at 25 fairs.

Ontario — fire fighters concentrated on improving water-bombing techniques. The department of lands and forests perfected a technique for laying bare by helicopter and has been studying a spraying technique developed several years ago. Jack Dillon, supervisor of forest protection, said one illustration of how much improved are techniques is in a comparison of figures for this year's fires. In 1936 there were 2,261 fires covering 1,204,000 acres. So far this year there have been almost the same number of fires but only a third of the area burned.

Manitoba—Forestry officials said the fire situation this year was not too serious, although the hazard reached the critical stage during August. Most of the fires were started by tourists and Indians, officials said. One was set deliberately. The department of lands and forests, in co-operation with the Canadian Forestry Association, stepped up its safety campaign. It erected a number of fire protection signs and set up displays at exhibitions. Publicity campaigns were conducted by newspaper and radio and school took rovers bearing a conservation message were distributed to children.

Saskatchewan—more than 1,250,000 acres of forest were destroyed by fire. Half of these fires were started by prospectors, trappers and fishermen. The biggest were in the Athabasca and Stony Rapids areas where about 1,220,000 acres were destroyed. Saskatchewan's little potentially commercial forest in the area and timber losses were insignificant. The biggest fires were a large part of northern Saskatchewan's caribou range. The natural resources department said quick action by fire fighters, particularly the province's crews of "smoke jumpers," kept fires from getting out of hand in most cases.

Alberta—by mid-September there were 180 fires, the largest in the Hay River district, 400 miles north east of Edmonton, covering about 150 square miles of timber. T. B. Hammer, senior superintendent of the Alberta fire protection branch said improved patrol and fire inspection precautions were responsible for the good fire record. The department is adding seven new detection towers to system of 48 towers in the central and northern regions.

British Columbia — about 1,125 fires, covering 2,000 acres were reported, mostly in the Vancouver and Peace River areas. Cost of $50,000.

Police Forces In Toronto May Be United

TORONTO (CP)—A special committee of the metropolitan Toronto council will recommend abolition of the Toronto and 12 suburban police forces and establishment of a super-force, it was reported Fri.

The committee, it is said, will make its recommendation to metropolitan council Oct. 4. It will suggest the new force be established by Jan. 1, 1957.

After studying unification of the area police departments for the last year, the metropolitan committees will recommend conferences with the Ontario attorney-general on the proposed creation of eight suburban and one city police district to replace the present administrative establishment.

Four of the present suburban police chiefs are due to retire on pension prior to the target date. The new force would include 220 mobile units and 1,900 officers, it was reported.

Gem-Laden Girl Questioned About Peron's Ladies

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Police said today they have been questioning a petite brunette 16-year-old girl with a streamlined figure, described as a "close friend" of ousted dictator Juan Peron. They said the girl had a fabulous collection of gems, apparently from the coffers of Peron's late wife, Eva.

A high police official of the new provisional government, who declined to be quoted by name, identified the girl as Nelida (Nelly) Rivas.

The new government is reported to have learned about her after two letters addressed to her from the Paraguayan gunboat where Peron has taken refuge were intercepted when a sailor tried to deliver them.

Police added that, following leads furnished by the young girl, they were seeking others of Peron's many girl friends. The authorities said they are particularly interested in locating a 19-year-old who, according to rumors, became Peron's wife earlier this year. The girl is said to be in Europe.

Farmers from Coast to Coast Given Nearly Perfect Summer

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The weatherman presented Canadian farmers from coast to coast with nearly perfect summer and fall weather this year, a Canadian Press survey shows.

There were a few exceptions, however. Ontario dairy farmers watched milk production fall sharply during the summer months as high temperatures shrivelled pastures.

Despite early pessimism because of spring floods in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, Prairie grain growers expected this summer's yield to be considerably better than in 1954. Warm, sunny weather across the three provinces produced a crop of better-than-average quality.

HIGH-QUALITY GRAIN

Although grain market values have been dropping since the peak year of 1951, high quality will probably push the cash value above that of last year. But because of the still-hazy picture on wheat deliveries and farm payments, reliable estimates on the cash value of this year's yield were not available.

Early harvests of potatoes, the backbone of the Maritimes farm economy, were brought in under ideal weather conditions. Both New Brunswick and Nova Scotia apple growers reported good harvests.

In British Columbia, the 1955 fruit tree crop will probably exceed 1954 —with apples ahead about 6½ per cent.

But both apple and potato producers are confronted with doubtful export prospects for their crops.

Farmers in the central provinces of Ontario and Quebec expected only a slight change in farm production from 1954.

Quebec agriculture officials predicted 1955 would be generally ahead of last year on the basis of estimated production. Ontario officials, however, said early forecasts indicated net farm income for the province equal to or slightly lower than last year.

LABOR SUPPLY ADEQUATE

The supply of farm labor was adequate in most provinces, with only Ontario reporting a severe shortage. One province, Quebec, experienced an increase in the number of workers looking for farm jobs.

In Manitoba, high-quality wheat with a high protein level was threshed under ideal harvesting conditions. The cereal harvest was complete with only a limited acreage of flax still in the field.

Saskatchewan wheat growers, hard hit by an outbreak of wheat rust last year, looked for one of the best quality crops on record. Warm weather, with plenty of sunshine and soil moisture matured wheat beyond expectation.

Total production in the province was estimated at 303,500,000 bushels more than double last year's production. The oat crop was estimated at 28 per cent higher than 1954. The barley crop, however, dropped to 2,600,000 bushels less than 1953's record output.

It was estimated the total Saskatchewan field crop would pass the $700,000,000 mark compared with $659,740,000 last year.

ALBERTA PRODUCTION

Alberta reported wheat yields considerably above average although dry weather in the Peace River district cut into the crop there.

Based on 1953 prices and with slightly higher grades expected, Alberta statisticians think wheat production might reach a total value of $183,600,000; oats $696,000,000, and barley $93,960,000.

Field crops in British Columbia were below average but of good quality. The harvest in the Okanagan valley was a week later than normal because of a cold spring. Total value of the 1955 fruit crop was estimated by officials as "considerably" higher than in 1954. Last year tree-fruit production amounted to $16,317,000 and small fruits $3,267,000.

Ontario farmers experienced one of the hottest and driest growing seasons on record. The dry weather was offset to some extent by the increased use of irrigation for cash field crops.

DAIRY FARMERS HIT

The loss in pasturage cut into dairy production. Although the cattle population was at a record high of 3,600,000—an increase of 55,000 over last year—milk production dropped sharply in July and early estimates predicted production for the year would be lower than 1954.

A record crop of corn and grain was anticipated in western Ontario. The fruit crop showed signs of surpassing last year's figure but vegetable production was adversely affected by dry weather.

Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick reported good yields of potatoes. In general, field crops were average in the Atlantic provinces.

Apple growers in Nova Scotia's Annapolis valley anticipated a bumper crop of 4,000,000 bushels—the biggest since the Second World War.

Quebec farm officials said the quality of hay, grain and potato crops improved greatly over last year due to the light rainfall. Cereal yields were down, however.

Police Release Love Letters Written by Peron to Girl; Money and Jewels Recovered

MISSING TEENAGER SOUGHT BY POLICE

The grandparents of 13-year-old Jeanette Bateman, of Ridgetown, Ont., top, who disappeared on Sept. 16 after visiting the Western fair in London have issued a plea for her to return or telephone them. Missing along with her are Corrine Gerrard, 15, above, and Gail Whitlock, who has since been located near Markham. Police department-wide in the province have been alerted to their disappearance.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina's new government today was reported planning "inflexible" action against persons who wrongly enriched themselves during the regime of ousted president Juan D. Peron.

The newspaper La Razon says "It has been learned . . . that the government will be inflexible against those who may have fallen into the crime of unlawful enrichment."

During the last few days the provisional government of President Eduardo Lonardi has released a broadside of charges that many of Peron's henchmen acquired huge fortunes through shady dealings. The government also has reported finding fabulous collections of jewels and other valuables belonging to the fallen dictator.

Federal police Friday released two letters they said Peron wrote to a 16-year-old girl, and said they found $25,000 worth of jewelry and $22,000 in cash at the girl's home.

ROMANCE STARTED

Police said a romance between the 60-year-old Peron and teen-ager Nelida (Nelly) Haydee Rivas began in 1951. Peron's wife, Eva, died July 26, 1952.

One of the letters addressed Nelida as "My dear child" and was signed "Your Daddy."

In a letter written Sept. 20, apparently from the Paraguayan embassy where Peron took refuge, the one-time dictator said: "I will send for you so we two together will have a tranquil life. . . . You are the only thing I have and the only love I have left. . . ."

Peron today was spending his fifth day aboard a Paraguayan gunboat still anchored three miles off Buenos Aires, ostensibly awaiting a green light from the government for his exile to Paraguay.

Stone Is Thrown Through Window Of Mayor's Home

MONTREAL (CP) — A stone the size of a baseball was hurled through a side window at the suburban home of Mayor Jean Drapeau early today awakening the mayor's wife and three children.

The mayor himself was away on a business trip and is not expected to return here until Sunday. Friday night he addressed the annual meeting in Cornwall, Ont., of the Canadian social conferences.

The stone throwing came less than five months after a similar incident in which a brick was heaved through a front window of the mayor's residence.

Mrs. Drapeau, awakened by the sound of crashing glass at about 3:30 a.m., said she heard a car driving away but did not see it.

She telephoned police and the Drapeau home situated in a quiet avenue was put under police guard.

Mayor Drapeau described the earlier brick-throwing, which took place at about 4:20 a.m. last May 12, as the work of "gangsters" seeking "revenge" for his administration's crackdown on vice.

Motorist Chased Back Into Car By Bull Moose

ORILLIA (CP)—A bull moose with one antler chased a motorist back into his car Friday before turning to move and disappearing into a swamp.

Reg Bush of Coldwater said he got out to have a closer look at the animal when he found it standing on the road near Waubaushene 15 miles west of here. When the bull charged him Bush scrambled back into his car. The moose is the first reported seen in the area in several years.

Heart of Dispute To Be Tackled Early Next Week

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiators seeking a solution to the strike of 17,000 General Motors of Canada employees are expected to clear up secondary problems and get down to the heart of the dispute early next week.

Officials of the company and United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) called a weekend adjournment Friday in talks aimed at settlement of secondary issues involving individual plants.

As soon as all such problems have been resolved, the teams of negotiators will head into discussions on the UAW's major financial demands.

FAIL TO COLLECT

Meanwhile, some 3,300 employees of the Oshawa plant failed Friday in attempts to collect cash from the company or picket-duty pay from their union. The strike was called 13 days ago.

Secondary talks involving plants at St. Catharines, Toronto and London have been completed. Only Oshawa and Windsor still have further points to discuss when the meetings resume Monday.

Meanwhile, the main negotiations will get underway early next week, were raised when it was announced the company's top-level negotiators and financial experts will arrive here from Detroit Monday.

The union has demanded a 15-cent hourly pay increase, eight paid holidays a year instead of six and a company-paid medical and hospital plan.

The company has offered to pay half the cost of the plan, seven holidays a year and a modified version of the guaranteed annual wage. Union officials have said the company offer is worth 17.7 cents an hour.

Basic wages vary in the five plants but a union spokesman said the lowest wage is $1.46 an hour.

Japan Displays Military Might At Anniversary

TOKYO (AP) — A resurgent Japan sent wave after wave of troops, tanks and big guns surging across tree-bordered Meiji plaza today in a proud first-anniversary display of the reborn armed strength.

The slowly growing self - defence forces, officially created a year ago today, crossed before Prime Minister Ichiro Hatoyama, parliamentary leaders and United Nations military observers.

Ships of the rebuilt navy were on display in Tokyo bay. The air force had planned to fly 111 of its planes over the city, but the flights were called off because of weather conditions.

Supreme Court Structure Is Criticized

CORNWALL (CP)—Noel Dorion, former batonnier of the Quebec bar, Friday criticized the structure of the Supreme Court of Canada and said it could become the most dangerous instrument of centralization" in the hands of an unscrupulous government.

He said the Supreme Court's jurisdiction is such that it could, by its decisions, alter substantially the governing and the course of provincial legislation.

Speaking to the annual meeting of the Catholic Social Conferences, Mr. Dorion said Section Canada's decision to abandon the Privy Council in London as the country's last court of appeal in favor of the Supreme Court was a happy decision.

APPOINTED BY OTTAWA

"But it was also a gesture with heavy consequences for the provinces because from then on all of our conflicts, including constitutional problems, fell to magistrates appointed exclusively by Ottawa (the federal government)."

Mr. Dorion said he does not question the competence, integrity and impartiality of the nine judges on the Supreme Court bench.

"But in my estimation, that tribunal could become a most dangerous instrument of centralization."

"It would suffice for an unscrupulous government to double the membership of the court, appoint loyal and partisan members and thus assure itself of the support of the judiciary in carrying on the abuses of its power."

ROAD TO MOROCCO

TO BE COMMISSIONED

The navy's anti-submarine destroyer escort, HMCS St. Laurent, will be commissioned October 19 at Montreal. First warship to be designed and built in Canada, the St. Laurent is shown at the completion of three weeks' sea trials at Murray Bay, Que., on the St. Lawrence River. (CP from National Defence).

Moroccan Palace Deserted As Sultan Flies Into Exile; Action Breaks Long Deadlock

By CARL HARTMAN

RABAT, French Morocco (AP)—Sultan Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa, a symbol, despite himself, of French colonial rule in Morocco, flew today into exile to leave his countrymen free to develop a limited home-rule government.

The elderly monarch rode in a long motor convoy from his palace grounds as the sun rose over the great mosque. He boarded a French special military plane which landed him some two hours later in Tangier, the international zone opposite Gibraltar.

Technically Tangier is part of Morocco but it is under international administration, and neither the sultan nor the French have any direct authority there.

BREAKS DEADLOCK

The early - morning departure broke a long deadlock between the French government and Moroccan nationalists on one hand, and French officials and Moroccan conservatives on the other, over the future of the North African protectorate. The colonialists had bitterly denounced the Paris policies and had even forced the resignation of a resident-general Gilbert Grandval.

As expected, the 74-year-old sultan did not abdicate. Instead, in a statement which was broadcast by Moroccan radio stations, he said he was leaving his capital for an unlimited period in the interests of peace and unity.

His vaguely worded statement said he was delegating to a cousin, Moulay Abdallah Ben Mouly Ahfier affairs relative to the crown. This could mean that the cousin would simply exercise the royal duties of the sultan in the appointment of a regency to handle throne affairs in his absence.

FAURE VICTORY

The sultan's departure was a timely victory of French Premier Faure, who has been under fire in France for delays in putting the government's three - point reform program into effect. Under the influence of his close advisers, the sultan had long stubbornly refused to budge, thus blocking the French plan for his replacement by a three-man "council of the throne," or regency.

Moroccan nationalists regarded Ben Moulay Arafa as a usurper and a symbol of French repression because the French imposed him on Morocco two years ago. For three years they refused to co-operate with France as long as Ben Moulay Arafa remained on the throne.

Federal-Provincial Parley Broadest in Scope of Series

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal-provincial conference next week will be the broadest in scope of any of the series that started more than 15 years ago.

Apart from wrestling with the main issue of over-all fiscal arrangements among the governments, it will delve into such topics as public investment to boost unemployment relief and health insurance.

Previous conferences of the kind have been largely confined to the over-riding problem of tax rental agreements between the federal government and provincial governments.

Ontario's Premier Frost insisted successfully, on getting a discussion of national health insurance on the program, and it also became expanded to cover these points:

1. The question of public investment and development of natural resources to step up employment.

2. The timing and scope of further special conferences.

3. The establishment of a permanent body of conference ministers.

Observers here believe that some of the controversial issues before the convention — such as health insurance and public investments—will not be resolved at the one-week meeting and will be turned over to the proposed continuing body for further study.

On public investment, for instance, the federal government could find such a committee a convienct way of temporarily disarming a variety of demands from provinces in a field in which the spokesmen contend it is doing plenty.

Pearson Arrives at London On 'Exploratory' Trip to USSR

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson arrived today by air from Canada on the first leg of his "exploratory" mission to Moscow.

He was accompanied by Defence Minister Ralph Campney, who immediately flew on to Rome.

In a talk to reporters, Pearson described his trip as a "goodwill visit" and expressed the hope that it would play some small part in helping to ease the international situation.

Of the Moscow visit, Pearson said: "It will follow the normal course of such visits and we will no doubt talk about international difficulties and possibilities, and about trade matters between Canada and the U.S.S.R."

Pearson, accompanied by his wife, was welcomed by Norman Robertson, Canadian high commissioner in London, and a group of military officials from the Canadian joint staff in London.

Pearson leaves tomorrow for Paris. He will spend the day there, then fly to Moscow via Berlin.

A reporter asked Pearson for a general comment on the international situation.

"Well," the minister replied, "the atmosphere seems to be a little better, in keeping with this lovely October morning at London airport.

"We can hope for better things while preparing for all eventualities."

Minister Better

Mr. Thomas, 58, was flown to Manitoulin Island Wednesday to open a big cattle sale here. However, he was taken to hospital suffering from pneumonia and a severe attack of bronchitis.

His daughter, Patsy, a student at the University of Toronto, flew to Little Current Friday and will remain with her father until he is well enough to return home.

Plant President Convicted Of Hitting Worker

GALT (CP)—A Galt manufacturer convicted of assaulting an employee after an argument was told Friday by a magistrate his action was "a stupid attempt to rough up an employee connected with union activity."

Edward Bibby, president of Bibby Foundry Limited, was remanded two weeks for sentence. Bail was set at $2,000.

Evidence was Bibby attacked William Vrooman with a cane after calling Vrooman to his farm home near here. Vrooman said of Bibby, accused him of having brought a union into the foundry.

Magistrate J. H. H. Kirkpatrick in rejecting defence evidence denying the assault, said he could see no evidence that union activity in the foundry had been illegal.

Witnesses said Bibby struck Vrooman across the face with the cane, then punched him in the face, drove him out of the house and threw a rock which hit Vrooman on the back of the neck.

Beer and Liquor Rationing Ends In Sweden

But observers in a position to know said they had already ended Saturday night. Thirsts for any big celebrations were quenched some months ago, they claim, by the government's gradual easing of rationing.

Sweden has never tried prohibition, but the theory behind its rationing system was that strict control and a maze of red tape would discourage buyers. A sex - year official official investigation disclosed, however, that maxing it legally difficult to drink did not necessarily curb drinking.

CBS Presents Answer To $64,000 Question

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — NBC Friday night presented an answer to CBS "The $1,000 Question" by offering a college coed $100,000 if she can break out of a hypnosis.

Pat Morris, 19-year-old daughter of an aircraft executive, was selected on the quiz hailey "Truth or Consequences" show as subject for hypnotist Arthur Allen.

The USC freshman will be under escort until next Friday, when she will appear on the show. Then Allen proposes to hypnotize her, suggesting to her subconscious mind that she cannot rise from a chair.

One hundred thousand dollars in cash will be placed before her. If she can rise, she gets the loot.

Two Indicted On Four Counts Of Robbery

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Two men were indicted on four counts of first degree robbery Friday in the thwarted holdup of a Brinks armored truck that was carrying $500,000 in cash from the Ft. Erie, Ont., racetrack last August. Shortly after the Erie county grand jury indictment, Anthony Pettinato, 39, of Baltimore, and Sylvester Mazzella, 46, of the Bronx, pleaded not guilty to arraignment before state Supreme Court Justice Lee L. Ottaway and were remanded to jail to await trial.

The men said they had engaged defence lawyers.

The indictment alleged that the men took money boxes containing upwards of $100,000" from a Brinks truck in an ambush on Sage Aug. 2. One guard was shot and wounded in the holdup, and Mazella and Pettinato were captured after a wild gun fight down residential streets. The loot was recovered.

PERSUADER ARRESTED

BERLIN (AP) — A 40-year-old East Berliner accused of attempting to persuade U. S. government employees to become Communist agents has been arrested by West Berlin police. It was the third such case during recent months.

CO-PILOT ABOARD ILL-FATED NEPTUNE

T/L George W. Herlong of Lake City, Fla., was co-pilot aboard the U.S. navy Neptune weather patrol plane reported missing while spanning Hurricane Janet in the Caribbean. There is little doubt now that the huge plane went down in the 215-knot winds swirling about Janet's centre. On board the craft, the first one lost since the U.S. started hurricane hunting in 1946, were nine navy men and two Canadians. Douglas Crooks, photographer, and Alfred Tate, reporter, who were on assignment for their Toronto newspaper.

Sea Captain Sailed Onward On the Rideau

By LEONARD L. KNOTT
Illustrated by David Ransom

Captain Andrew Wilson was a captain in His Britannic Majesty's Navy during the Napoleonic Wars. By the time the wars were over, he had had enough of sea fighting and sought a new life of quieter adventure in Canada. He received a grant of land in a country he had never seen and moved to the banks of the Rideau River, near its junction with the Ottawa. There he built his home and became a famous and eccentric character.

First, he built a home in a clearing and called it Ossian Hall. There were very few people of education on the district and Captain Wilson soon became a citizen of account, becoming a Notary Public and a Justice of the Peace. He had little work to do but enjoyed his position and rank and particularly enjoyed presiding over weddings of young couples in the neighborhood. In this occupation he was technically breaking the law, which said that a Justice o the Peace could not perform marriage ceremonies if there were a church within 15 miles.

Brought up in the Nelson tradition, the captain recalled the great admiral putting a telescope to his blind eye so he could not see a signal to retreat. He used the same method couples called at Ossian Hall to be married.

Ossian Hall soon became a centre of other gatherings as well. The Captain had brought from England the only library of books in the district and he was soon besieged by eager borrowers. To add to his library, he himself wrote a three-volume naval history and also a biography of St. Paul, because, as he said, he had never found a story of the saint that satisfied him.

Far from the sea he loved, living on the banks of an inland river, Captain Wilson never ceased being a sea captain. One night at a party in Hull attended by all the leading citizens, Judge Macdonald was leading the singing of Canadian river songs. The captain took no part in the singing but sat alone scowling at the singers. Then, unable to be quiet any longer, he jumped to his feet and said, "Stop your freshwater nonsense; come out to the salt ocean, my boys, and I'm with you."

Ossian Hall near Hog's Back rapids was open house for wayfarers, particularly Chasers who had just come from the old land. Food was served in abundance and royal hospitality was given to all those who visited the lonely sea captain. The only person who demanded was that they listen to him talk of the sea and of naval engagements when he and Nelson had whipped old Boney and sent him scurrying back to port.

OCTOBER HOLIDAY
Golden sunlight flooding the furrows
Bare and brown in the new-plowed fields,
Autumn trees flaunting flaming torches
With all the glow that the season yields—
Over the hills and far away
Sing and hol for a holiday.

Past a wood whose flags are flinging
Their autumn splendor against the sky,
Then a little stream that lures . . . and beckons
As our motor car glides swiftly by—
Through city streets we wend our way
Height and hol for a holiday.

On through sung little hamlets sleeping
Unheeding the world and its strife,
Past peaceful homes and well-kept gardens
Where nought there seems to trouble life—
Tempting the tourist awhile to stay,
Then height and hol for a holiday.

Just a drive in October weather
Leaving behind all toil and care,
Spending a day on the open
Highway
With beauty and grandeur everywhere.
Oh! winter winds seem far away,
Then height and hol for a holiday.

— Helen B. Anderson

WELLINGTON — The changing seasons lend variety to our Canadian climate. Joyfully we hail the coming of Spring with its golden days and verdure, then summer comes with its golden sun and verdure; then summer comes with its fields of flowering grain, and the lure of autumn with its flaming foliage. A drive on the highway yesterday led us through an avenue brightened by the flaming foliage of autumn, causing us to quote Bliss Carman:

"On to the fall for all to see God planted a scarlet maple tree."

YOUR CAR

Replace Frayed Fan Belt

By EUGENE MILMOE

Even though the fan belt on your car hasn't given you any trouble, it's not a bad idea to make a quick inspection once in a while.

Check to make sure the belt isn't frayed, split or soaked with oil. If it is, better have a replacement handy—you will probably need it before long. Squeaking, slipping and overheating will result when the belt is too tight or too loose. Usually, tension adjustment is correct if there is a slack of approximately one-half inch.

See that there is no gum, dirt or grease on the fan blades . . . heavy deposits can actually reduce engine performance and gas mileage. This is also true in the case of bent blades, plus the added danger of radiator damage on sudden stops.

E.R. asks: "The clutch on my 1948 sedan began to chatter when I shifted into first. I had a new clutch installed, but it still chatters in first. Can you tell me why it does this?"

(A) The clutch may be entirely blameless. Don't overlook the possibility of loose engine mounts or worn universal joints.

FAULTY FUEL FLOW

From L.B.: "The fuel pump sediment bowl on my 1949 convertible will not stay transparent. I had a new pump installed and I have checked all the lines for leaks, but there are none. I would greatly appreciate some advice."

(A) Dirt trapped in the lines may be responsible for restricting fuel flow.

M.S. writes: "I have a rough running engine at 15 to 20 mph. Neither valves, ignition or carburetor adjustments cause this because they have been inspected by a mechanic and found in good order. I will welcome your suggestions."

(A) It might be a good idea to check for dirty carburetor idle jets and passages.

S.R. asks: "A friend who has an 8-cylinder 1953 model which has been driven over 39,000 miles, claims that he did not use any oil on a recent 1,800 mile trip. Here's the bit unbelievable?"

(A) I would say so. Considering the mileage on his engine, oil consumption of approximately three quarts would be considered a good average for driving that distance at moderate speeds. Of course, if the oil is badly diluted by fuel or water, it will appear that none is being used.

From L.O.: "My car is a 1941 model. It has a new water pump, new fan belt, new hoses and the radiator has been boiled out and repaired. The thermostat, better and head gas, ket'are in good shape. There is no sign of water leakage anywhere, but my car continues to overheat. Can you put your finger on the trouble?"

(A) Scale, errosion and sludge accumulations in the engine block water passages may be at fault. Reverse flushing the block will often clear these clogged passages and cure overheating troubles.

Thomasburg

THOMASBURG — The South Hastings Ministerial Association met in the United Church, Thomasburg, on Monday afternoon, Sept. 19. The guest speaker was Rev. R. Sherwin of Cherry Valley.

After the meeting, those present were served lunch by Mrs. C. R. Chapman in the United Church Parsonage.

Among those attending was Rev. Geo. Crabbe of Eldorado, a former pastor of Thomasburg Circuit and who called on several friends while here.

On Monday evening, a group from Fuller and Thomasburg district gathered to serenade Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brough, newlyweds. After the usual clamor of cowbells, tin horns and other noise-makers interspersed with an occasional shotgun blast, the participants were treated to ice cream, and departed wishing the bride and groom the best of everything for the future.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carter and Mr. W. H. Elliott spent the early part of last week in Toronto.

Several from here attended Orchard Fair and all report an excellent exhibition. The pupils of the local school enjoyed a holiday while the fair was on.

Mrs. Sandford Thompsen of Northumberland County, was the guest of Mrs. Ed. Thompson on Wednesday.

Mrs. Mabel Crawford, who visited friends in Tweed last week returned to her home on Saturday.

Mrs. W. A. Morton spent last week with her mother, Mrs. Emma Foster.

Mrs. Ronald Adams of the Ontario College of Art, University of Toronto, was home for the week-end.

Thomasburg United Church observed its anniversary on September 25 with services in the morning at 11 a.m. and at 7.30 p.m. in the evening.

Rev. R. Sherwin of Cherry Valley who was the guest speaker delivered inspiring discourses at both services. Special music was rendered by the choir accompanied by Mrs. Ray Wilson, organist.

At the morning service five teenage girls delighted the audience with "Lead Me to Calvary" in two parts. Miss Pauline Holbert and Miss Jean Boldrick played the alto and Miss Shirley Boldrick, Miss Carol Welsh and Miss Sharon Vance the soprano. In the evening, Mrs. Chapman sang very beautifully "Face to Face" as a solo. Good crowds attended both services and the financial objective for the day was not only reached but nearly doubled.

Many kind friends helped to make the anniversary a success were experienced by Mr. Chapman, Pastor of the Church who was present in the evening. In Sunday afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Schwagger of Saskatoon, Sask., are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Schwager and his brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. Schwager at present.

Solmar Notes

Seals, Shell Shock and Spending

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT,
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Department announces some very pressing status of the fur-seal herd that shows up on land on the Pribilof Islands in the heart of the Bering Sea for the annual mating season. Back in 1910 this herd of seals was facing extinction through the efforts of unscrupulous seal hunters. Then the total was approximately 132,000 animals.

Under careful management and supervision, the herd has grown until now it numbers about 1,500,000 animals. The harvesting of the annual crop of sealskins from this herd is carefully supervised, and the immature males are killed. Mature bulls, females, and young seals are not molested in any way.

The story of the fur seal is an interesting one. Some years ago I first was written up in an article in the Saturday Evening Post. I am sure that you would find it worth your while to look up this very interesting yarn at your public library.

Incidentally, since the United States government has had the management of the seal herd, it has realized more than a million from the sale of sealskins—more than twice the purchase price of the entire territory of Alaska.

SOLUNAR HUNTING

All too many people regard the Solunar Tables as being useful only in connection with fishing. Believe me, nothing could be further from correct. The Solunar Tables are just about the handiest aid to the hunter that I have ever had anywhere.

For example, let's take a look at ringneck pheasant shooting. Pheasants roosters, as you know very well, are very birds. They like thick, heavy cover and they will not above taking refuge in overgrown hedge holes or under farm buildings.

However, the times does come when they become shy and wild and is most apt to happen during the Solunar periods. Then they leave the security, burrows, hedgerows or what have you, and venture into the field in search of food. Then they will give you some shooting. Without knowing the times of the Solunar Periods, you may very well miss the best spirt of the day.

The same is true of the ducks, bulls, quail, dove and grouse. During the Solunar Periods they are in the feeding areas. Between times they are hard to find.

In the days to come, you will find that the birds tend to move about more during Solunar Period than at other times. To be sure, you will probably find some movement at dawn and again around sunset.

We used to hunt ducks down in Chesapeake Bay. There they were raft-up in great "ricks" out in deep water after the early morning feeding flurry is over. There they will stay during the daylight hours unless a fierce storm happens to come in.

When this occurs, small bunches will break off from the main ricks and fly shoreward in search of food. They never apply a fly and at these times and even on "bluebird days" I have had some excellent shooting for two hours or so during mid-Solunar Periods.

So, as I say, don't think of the Solunar Tables as "fish charts." In some they refer to them. You will find them useful every day of the year.

PELLET SHOCK

Those of you who read this column last September may have had a bit about this time I did a story about the advantages of small shot for upland game birds. The gist of what you the theory that states that multiple pellets have a greater hydrostatic progression to the number-four pellets.

That sounds involved, but it isn't really. It means simply this. Say that the shooter scores a hit at a single shotgun pellet, when it strikes a bird, it has a shock effect on the sight—according to that theory, the shocking power of 2 pellets, instead of being twice as great, is actually the square of 2. The shocking power of 5 pellets is 25—nine squared, and so on.

Now anybody would go about measuring the extent of the shock to the nervous system of a bird, caused by a pellet hit, I'll admit I can't say. But that is the theory and it seems to work out in practice.

Last January my son and I, my sister-in-law, Kingston newspaper men went to a game farm to demonstrate the theory of multiple pellet shock—shells and nines—on ringneck pheasants.

In all, the dog found 14 birds for us. We killed 13 of these with small shot—shells and nines. We missed one in the first barrel and eights in the second. It was a very pretty cock rooster and I used a twelve gauge.

Twelve of the birds came down stone-dead. The thirteenth, hardhit, scaled into a thicket where he lay immobilized for the dog to pick up and bring him to us. The fourteenth was a wild-flushing rooster that jumped directly behind me after allowing me to walk past him. I centered him with a load of nines but he landed directly beside a ground-hog burrow. He had just enough left to crawl those three feet before either the dog or I could reach him, that was that.

A representative of The Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers Institute was in the party. When we started out, he stated flatly that we could not kill those big birds with such small shot. We managed to change his mind on him.

To be sure, we used rather extreme measures to prove our point. Normally, the range for the low-base eights in the first barrel and high-base nines-and-a-half in the second. Believe me, these loads, with their multiple-pellet shocking power, will be found of any upland game for you that you find within shotgun range in your hunting this fall.

SPORTSMEN'S SPENDING

The Wildlife Management Institute of Washington, D.C., has sent out an announcement that the Cross-Ley, S-D Survey, "An Area of New York City will undertake a nationwide study of hunting and fishing expenditures throughout the nation on an average year. This is being done at the request of the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners, a group representing the conservation departments of all 48 states.

In past years several of the states have undertaken such a project but only in-so-far as individual sport was concerned. In addition, "Sports Afield" Magazine made a similar study, this on a nationwide basis and they came up with some truly astonishing figures.

We have known for a good many years that the sports of fishing and hunting amounted to, in reality, one of the major businesses of this country, one which rivals in magnitude both the automobile and oil, the clothing business, jewelry, cosmetics, etc. I am sure that all of us will be extremely interested in looking over the findings of this survey. The totals are eventually put together.

SPORT IN BRIEF

ENGLISH HOCKEY BEGINS

LONDON (CP)—Another English hockey season—the 88th—officially starts this weekend, economizing Britain has.

Four English clubs and one Scottish team survived the hardships of the British Ice Hockey League at the end of the season. The remainder of the Scottish teams have reverted to hockey on a smaller scale.

The five senior clubs are carrying nine Canadians each instead of the usual two. Canadians are the rule in every case.

President has been set with the naming of Englishman Wilson Oxley to handle Brighton Tigers, who replace the late Alex Shuttleworth. Harrinyay and Wembly teams and Nottingham are Paisley.

SPINKS BEATS TROY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young Chuck Spicer, a blood-spattered veteran of 10 years in the ring, belted Willie Troy senseless to win by a technical knockout at 2:52 of the fifth round of their night.

SUSPEND SIX

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Six players in the Eastern Canadian Association Friday suspended indefinitely six harness drivers accused of "intentionally" losing a 10-heat, 10-mile raceway 10 days ago.

The suspensions were given five day suspensions by the Freehold raceway a week ago for not trying to win.

TAKES MIDDLE TITLE

FREDERICTON (CP) — Lou Cavanagh middleweight boxing title here Friday night with a split decision victory over McCluskey of Dartmouth, N. S. The champion's ship had been vacant.

Lawrence weighed 157 and Mc-Cluskey 155.

There was little to choose between the two in the early rounds. Then Lawrence began to press and took the advantage. They were dodging toe to toe at the finish bell.

SOCKEYS HURT

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP)—Injuries to two Detroit Red Wings in a spectacular three-horse spill going into the first turn during the fourth race at Bay Meadows.

Taken to hospital were Pete Mosienko of Arcadia, Calif., with a possible fracture of the left shoulder, and apprentice Lawrence Lee, 17, Hollywood, Calif., with cuts to the nose and a possible concussion. Both live with Merrill Faulkner, 21, of Salt Lake City, was not injured.

BRUINS LOSE MACKELL

TORONTO (CP)—Fleming Mackell, a Boston Bruins forward, will be lost to the National Hockey League team for at least two months. It was reported Friday. Mackell will be operated on today to remove cartilage on one knee. He injured the knee in Bruins' training camp at Hershey, Pa., a few days ago.

Trappers Offer Compromise On Salary Dispute

NORTH BAY (CP)—North Bay Trappers came up Friday night with a compromise plan on a salary dispute which has split the Ontario Hockey Association down the middle.

The Trappers decided at a club meeting to offer a $5,000 a weekly salary limit of $2,100 but to cut their roster down to 16 players instead of a proposed 18.

Manager Eric Palangia expressed a hope that the Sault Ste. Marie, Greyhounds and Sudbury Wolves, who, have been pressing to increase the limit to $2,400 per week, would also adopt the new plan as a solution.

Officials of Pembroke Lumber Kings were reached during the meeting and conveyed their stand in staying with the original limit approved by the Big-team loop at a previous meeting. At that meeting, however, Sault Ste. Marie, Sudbury, Kitchener were granted the $2,400 limit because a U. S. immigration law prevents the team from lining up jobs for players.

Trappers intend to dress 15 players, the same number as last season, for all games with an additional man in reserve. The North Bay club will start training sessions at Sundridge Monday night under playing coach Eddie Reigle. It will be another week before the $10,000 North Bay Arena is ready.

Dutchies Trounce Imperials 24-7

KITCHENER (CP)— Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen assured themselves of a playoff berth in the Ontario Rugby Football Union Friday night by trouncing Sarnia Imperials 24-7.

Dutchmen, who have won six of seven games, moved four points ahead of second-place Sarnia with the win. Winless Toronto Beaches occupy the cellar with three times and even on "bluebird days" I have had some excellent shooting for two hours or so during mid-Solunar Periods.

So, as I say, don't think of the Solunar Tables as "fish charts." In some they refer to them. You will find them useful every day of the year.

PELLET SHOCK

Those of you who read this column last September may have had a bit about this time I did a story about the advantages of small shot for upland game birds. The gist of what you the theory that states that multiple pellets have a greater hydrostatic progression to the number-four pellets.

That sounds involved, but it isn't really. It means simply this. Say that the shooter scores a hit at a single shotgun pellet, when it strikes a bird, it has a shock effect on the sight—according to that theory, the shocking power of 2 pellets, instead of being twice as great, is actually the square of 2. The shocking power of 5 pellets is 25—nine squared, and so on.

Now anybody would go about measuring the extent of the shock to the nervous system of a bird, caused by a pellet hit, I'll admit I can't say. But that is the theory and it seems to work out in practice.

Last January my son and I, my sister-in-law, Kingston newspaper men went to a game farm to demonstrate the theory of multiple pellet shock—shells and nines—on ringneck pheasants.

In all, the dog found 14 birds for us. We killed 13 of these with small shot—shells and nines. We missed one in the first barrel and eights in the second. It was a very pretty cock rooster and I used a twelve gauge.

Twelve of the birds came down stone-dead. The thirteenth, hard-hit, scaled into a thicket where he lay immobilized for the dog to pick up and bring him to us. The fourteenth was a wild-flushing rooster that jumped directly behind me after allowing me to walk past him. I centered him with a load of nines but he landed directly beside a ground-hog burrow. He had just enough left to crawl those three feet before either the dog or I could reach him, that was that.

A representative of The Arms and Ammunition Manufacturers Institute was in the party. When we started out, he stated flatly that we could not kill those big birds with such small shot. We managed to change his mind on him.

To be sure, we used rather extreme measures to prove our point. Normally, the range for the low-base eights in the first barrel and high-base nines-and-a-half in the second. Believe me, these loads, with their multiple-pellet shocking power, will be found of any upland game for you that you find within shotgun range in your hunting this fall.

SPORTSMEN'S SPENDING

The Wildlife Management Institute of Washington, D.C., has sent out an announcement that the Cross-Ley, S-D Survey, "An Area of New York City will undertake a nationwide study of hunting and fishing expenditures throughout the nation on an average year. This is being done at the request of the International Association of Game, Fish and Conservation Commissioners, a group representing the conservation departments of all 48 states.

In past years several of the states have undertaken such a project but only in-so-far as individual sport was concerned. In addition, "Sports Afield" Magazine made a similar study, this on a nationwide basis and they came up with some truly astonishing figures.

We have known for a good many years that the sports of fishing and hunting amounted to, in reality, one of the major businesses of this country, one which rivals in magnitude both the automobile and oil, the clothing business, jewelry, cosmetics, etc. I am sure that all of us will be extremely interested in looking over the findings of this survey. The totals are eventually put together.

SPORT IN BRIEF

ENGLISH HOCKEY BEGINS

LONDON (CP)—Another English hockey season—the 88th—officially starts this weekend, economizing Britain has.

Four English clubs and one Scottish team survived the hardships of the British Ice Hockey League at the end of the season. The remainder of the Scottish teams have reverted to hockey on a smaller scale.

The five senior clubs are carrying nine Canadians each instead of the usual two. Canadians are the rule in every case.

President has been set with the naming of Englishman Wilson Oxley to handle Brighton Tigers, who replace the late Alex Shuttleworth. Harrinyay and Wembly teams and Nottingham are Paisley.

"Hawks Will Cause Trouble Settle for Second"--Irvin

By T. N. MORRISON
Canadian Press Correspondent

WELLAND, Ont. (CP)—Dick Irvin, newly-appointed Chicago Black Hawk coach, returns to the National Hockey League site where he began his NHL coaching career 25 years ago.

But the situation facing Irvin as he leads his Black Hawks into the 1955-56 season is entirely different to the one in 1930-31 when he led the Hawks in second place of the American section—one league was divided into two sections, a Canadian and American—for the second straight year.

Last season Chicago finished in the cellar for the second year in a row with only 13 wins in 70 games. The year previous saw Black Hawks win 12 verdicts.

SETS SIGHTS HIGH

When Irvin was lured to Chicago from Montreal Canadiens last May after completing 14 years with Habs, presenting nine years with Toronto Maple Leafs, he said he would settle for 'no worse than third place in the coming season.

But with the Hawks' first game less than a week away, Irvin has changed his tune.

"I have seen statements to the effect that Boston, Canadiens, and Detroit are all first-place clubs. Since it appears as though there'll be crowding at the top, I'll settle for second place."

Acquisition of Irvin was only one of several moves made by Black Hawk owner James Norris to restore Chicago's badly - battered hockey fortunes.

MORE PLAYER STRENGTH

Other changes were the purchase of Buffalo Bisons of the American League as a farm club, a transaction that netted some 50 players, and the trade with Detroit Red Wings which sent Tony Leswick, Benny Woit, Glen Skov and Johnny Wilson to Chicago in exchange for Bucky Buckshon, Clarence Creighton, Jerry Toppazzini and Johnny McCormack.

"The talent we are viewing at the training camp here and elsewhere impresses me in the play of a number of players makes me believe we are going to cause plenty of trouble in the coming campaign," Irvin says.

"We are blessed 15 proven NHL players and will have five defencemen, one more than we had a year ago. Last year, all the boys are honest workers but when we started out here as a tribe of many colors, we're gradually working into a cohesive unit."

ROLLINS FOR GOAL

It looks as though Al Rollins is going to be the defender's position, according to Irvin.

"He has been playing well and, our scouts tell me, is showing a marked improvement over his work of last season's camp," the coach said.

OTHER CENTRE MEN

Skoy, Larry Wilson of rookie Hank Cleslo, who joined Hawks from St. Catharines TorPees of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league where he led the league last season, could wind up in that centre spot.

Gus Mortson, captain of the squad, Allan Stanley, Frank Martin and Woit are almost assured of defence roles. Elmer Vasco, up from St. Catharines, has impressed Irvin at his blueline position but he still has another year of junior hockey left. Whether he will stay with Hawks or go back to St. Catharines is not certain.

Irvin, who is not used to plotting a last-place team, sends his experienced Black Hawks against Red Wings at Detroit Oct. 6 in the league opener.

Maybe someone should remind Dick that it's a long way from sixth to second place in the NHL.

Sam Snead's Golf School

Here's a two-in-one picture. The front view is of a player who has just completed a penalty trip to the bell and followed through nicely. The dotted lines show a side view of the same player. The weight of the player facing us is forward, so that we can swing his arms against that weight and hit down at the ball. See how his head still maintains its address position although his hands are already hip high in his follow-through. And notice how that left shoulder has risen almost perpendicularly permitting his right shoulder to pass under his chin. This rather perpendicular shoulder pivot permit an upright swing which is the best swing there is. Of course, a perpendicular shoulder pivot with weight at the equator, must use a flatter swing but even he should swing as upright as he can. The upright swing provided the best method of timing, power, rhythm and accuracy. And it permits the clubhead to follow along the desired line of flight for a longer distance before and after impact.

Germans Get Come-Uppance In Eight-Man Mat Convention

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

The German Vons Erich and Schober last night were like the proverbial plumber. They did not bring along enough O'Tooles.

However, Austryiia, Quebec and Vancouver in the persons of Zbyszko Aitkis, Lionel Baillargeon and Whipper Billy Watson supplied the necessary wrenches. And they were not of the monkey type, except for the Vancouver boy.

Nearly 1,500 bowling fans dished out rafters when Aitkis, Baillargeon and Mr. Heyboo whomped the behabers out of the ill-assorted trio, but they had to call Phoenix-like from punishment ashes to cop the knee.

Heppy did the trick after Peverini Fyvush and Lizbe Lluuni had whittled the Vons into a reasonable facsimile of Von and reduced O'Toole to the state where he was satisfied to be a spectator.

Heppy and hangman. He developed Erich after a flying marriage two and the Golman yelled "uncle" while Mr. Heyboo went nestalgic and executed a few kangaroo vows. Vincent Massacharciosos yodelled "c'est la vie" while Heppy bigged himself proudly around the ring.

Twas a merry old melange at a time with Heppy, dillo and four of each garbed in white mixing matters like an overcast convention. Maieus Joe Golobo and Bert Maxwell merry-go-rounded the brawl with both ending with eyes glaring in opposite directions due to attempting to look at six places at once.

Terence the Turnble O'Toole, he of the extreme villian of the piece, had a yen for eyeball rubbing. He wore a husky hunk of lipe around an Irish mitt which he used to wipe the tears from the eyes of the frustrated foemen at times.

Mr. Heyboo and companions had the third fall when Atkins leaped into the air and descended on a transplanted it in the mid-back region.

But Fenshus Freddie bided his time and he sent his boys home in soften the Irish-Heinie trip by dumping the Phoenix-like Von into a heaped into combat himself. He grubbed Von Schober and made that worthy putzuel the center several head-jolts over his knee.

Came the third fall and the Anglo-Australian - French company went into action. They disposed of O'Toole, sent Von Schober to the cleaners and concentrated on Erich. Atkins and Baillargeon bunny-hugged him until his eyeballs resembled tennis rackets and Mr. Heyboo completed the demolition by executing a flying dim fly promoting their boniness. The decision was given to the company's national directors at a meeting here.

Then you'd buy a country place in the Hollywood Hills with all the 14 bedrooms on the ground floor with a private elevator to every room from the basement, and a reversible swimming pool on the roof, pop said, and ma said, No thank you, I wouldn't have more than one space bedroom if I was the queen of Aricka, and in the first place there is no such thing as a reversible swimming pool.

There certainly is, the under side is a tennis court, pop said, and ma said, Do you want to know what I would do with unlimited money, or dont you?

Of course, my dear, but you told me to guess, pop said, and ma said, You've guessed enough.

Then I'll listen, pop said, and ma said, All right. I'd simply and solgy hire a first time combination cook and cleaning woman, and ask my frends with 2 Cadillacks and a station wagon to hold up their hands at my extravagants.

My dear, you've got something there, and some day I hope you'll have something there, pop said. Meaning I would like to as it is actually happen.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THAT'S THE SKILL OF IT!

Some of the hardier specimens of the species duckhunting home anglers had braved the rainy skies for ah hour or so the other morning, then decided to quaff a beaker or two of thermos coffee and reminisce. The topic was a favorite one; guns, hunting, shells and shotguns.

The talk got around to guns with the discussion centering on twelve-gauge for the ducks and the .410 for grouse. Surprisingly few of the hunters were aware of the origin and meaning of shotgun gauge sizes.

District Forester G. A. Hamilton offers this explanation:

"Originally, the diameter of a one-pound round ball of lead was accepted as 1 gauge. The diameter of each round ball of a pound of lead, equally divided into four round balls, represented 4 gauge. The diameter of each round ball formed by dividing a pound of lead into 12 equal portions corresponds to the calibre of a 12-gauge gun, and so on.

"The Nimrod is just as interested in the size of shot used as in the gauge of his gun; No. 6 shot for ducks, No. 8 for snipe and so on. This number designation of shot used in shotgun shells is something which simply grew. For some reason, apparently no longer known, the number of the shot can be found by subtracting the diameter of the shot in hundredths of an inch from 17. For example: No. 6 shot is 0.11 inches in diameter, and 11 subtracted from 17 gives 6, the number of the shot. Similarly, No. 2 shot is 0.15 inches in diameter.

"The shot size, naturally, governs the number of pellets in a load. This, in turn, helps govern the pattern of your shot and density of shot within the pattern. There are 90 No. 8 pellets to the ounce, 222 No. 6 and 585 No. 9 pellets."

And speaking of hunting if you are going after the partridge, ruffled grouse and sharp-tailed grouse you will get nearly six weeks seeking the succulent dinners.

In Frontenac, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland and Prince Edward, as far as city and district hunters are concerned the season on these birds opens on October 8 and closes November 19, both dates inclusive.

If you're going out of your way, the same season prevails in Bruce, Carleton, Dufferin, Dundas, Durham, Glengarry, Grenville, Grey, Huron, Leeds, Lanark, Ontario, Perth, Peterborough, Prescott, Renfrew, Russell, Simcoe, Stormont, Waterloo, Wellington and the provisional county of Haliburton.

The aggregate number hunted, killed, or destroyed in a day shall not exceed five, and the aggregate number possessed at any time shall not exceed 15 in the above-named localities.

So there you are. Good luck, good hunting and if you have excess birdage the phone number is WO 8-2388.

MIGHT HELP!

Mebbe the Dodgers have been too serious about this world series. Mebbe they took pre-series instructions too much to heart. The games to date have lacked the traditional "daffiness" that has characterized former series.

Take the 1920 series between the "Bums" and Cleveland. The Flatbush zanies pulled almost everything in the book. The series developed the first grand-slam homer in series history (and that one on the $64,000 Question); the first and only unassisted triple play. (Myrt had that one, too.) The first and only instance of a batter hitting into five outs in two successive turns at bat; the first arrest of a player for scalping tickets, and the first and only arrest of a club president for giving away snake-bite lotion to frozen press-boxers.

Southpaw Silences Foe Bats As Robinson, Campanella Star In Brilliant Support Roles

JOHNNY PODRES . . . Happy Birthday

By JOE REICHLER

BROOKLYN (AP)—Sparked by the running of Jackie Robinson, the clouting of Roy Campanella and the pitching of Johnny Podres, the Dodgers were back in high spirits today confident they have a real chance to overtake the New York Yankees and become the first Brooklyn club to win a world series.

Friday's convincing 8-3 triumph over their ancient tormentors roused the previously dormant Dodgers and proved a tonic to their sagging spirits. For the first time in this series, they actually showed no awe of the club which whipped them in five other series.

"We showed we can beat them and there's no reason why we can't beat them in Yankee Stadium, too. Carl Erskine, Don Byrne beat us there, but I doubt very much whether they'll be that effective against us again."

ROBINSON DEFIANCE

"Anyone who says we're afraid of the Yankees doesn't know what he's talking about," he said.

They beat us the first two games simply because they played better baseball. Their uniforms mean nothing to us."

This "must" victory, bolsterously acclaimed by the packed house of the 34,209 spectators, saved the National League champions from almost certain extinction and catapaulted the Yankees' lead to 2 to 1 in the best four-of-seven series.

Another capacity crowd of some 34,000 was on hand for the third fourth game today with Brooklyn's Carl Erskine, a world series veteran, opposing Bob Turley, a rookie in the classic. Both are right-handers. Erskine, hampered most of the season with a sore elbow, posted an 11-8 season record. In series play, he has a 1-0 mark. One of his victories was a 3-2 decision over the Yankees in 1953 during which he struck out a record 14 batters.

Larsen, a tall, gangling right-hander who relies on fine control, had a 9-5 season record. Unbeaten with a sore arm early in the season, he won eight games after his recall from Denver of the American Association at the end of July.

ODDS CHANGING

The Dodgers' new born confidence has rubbed off on the odds-makers who have installed them 7 to 5 favorites. Today's game and deadlock the series at two games each. In the three previous contests, the individual game selection has justified the odds. The Yankees, however, remain favored to win the series, but the odds dropped from 17 to 10.

The weather prediction was for partly cloudy with little change in temperature, high around.70 with moderate northwest to west winds.

Back amid the familiar surrounds of Ebbets Field where they hit 119 home runs in 77 games during the regular season, the Dodgers for the first time showed the awesome power that crushed all National League batters.

The sight of the friendly fences undoubtedly sharpened the batting eye of Campanella, heretofore the hitting "goat" of the series. The stocut catcher fired the opening salute against Bullet Bob Turley, the Yankee starter and loser, with a first inning home run homer. From there on, the aroused National League champions, behind the steady hurling of their young lefthander, Podres, went on to gain their first triumph of the classic.

CAMPY IS HITTING

Campanella, who had gone 0 for 8 in the first two games, snapped out of his hitting slump with a bang. He added a double and single to his four-bagger to pace the Dodgers' 11-hit attack against four Yankee pitchers.

Podres celebrated his 23rd birthday, working hard to achieve his first world series triumph with a sparkling seven-hitter. He had just one serious moment. That was in the second inning when the Yankees scored twice to tie the score at 2-2. He was brilliant after that to become the third straight left-hander to come through with a victory.

"It was the happiest birthday I ever had," beamed Podres as he was congratulated by his teammates in the winners' dressing room.

WENT SOUR EARLY

For the first time in the series a Yankee starter went sour early when the Brooks banged Turley for two runs in the first and, after the Yankees had tied the score in the top of the second, the Dodgers roared back to get two more and chase Bullet Bob to the showers before he could come through with two innings.

Turley added to his woes with a touch of wildness. He hit a batter, walked two, and forced across a run with a pass in the second. Before the incoming Tom Morgan could quell the uprising another walk with the bases full sent over another run. Morgan was clubbed for two more tallies in the fourth and, after Johnny Kucks had pitched two scoreless innings, Tom Sturdivant was cuffed for two more runs in the seventh.

Stirling Edges Marmora 6-5

MARMORA. —A touchdown by Wells and convert with only five minutes left to play gave the Stirling high school a narrow 6-5 victory over Marmora on the Stirling field last Wednesday evening.

Marmora had taken a 5-0 lead at the ten minute mark in the game but failed on their try for the extra point. Darrah took the ball over for their major.

They hung on until Wells' TD in the dying minutes gave his club the victory.

Series Sidelights

Before the game, he said he couldn't wait to see outfielder Bob Cerv in action in Ebbets Field. "Cerv's going to have to pitch to him and he can hit homers with one hand to any part of Ebbets field," gloated Weiss.

Result: Cerv bounced weakly to Podres his first time up and struck out the next three.

Yank manager Casey Stengel still has other things on his mind besides the series — his archenemy Frank Lane, former general manager of the Chicago White Sox for example.

Lane is expected to be signed as general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals right after the series.

Former mayor William O'Dwyer is back in action with the news that the Brooks' president Walter O'Malley's "Mexico City won't be far enough."

Dodger pitcher Johnny Podres threw a variety of stuff, none of it very fast. He reminded observers of Eddie Lopat, late of the Yanks. Opposing batters couldn't understand how Lopat could get batters out. His performance gave the Yanks a taste of their own medicine. He was particularly effective with the big motion followed by a half-speed pitch down the middle.

Dodger manager Walt Alston said he was undecided between Karl Spooner and Don Newcombe to pitch the fifth game Sunday.

"If Carl Erskine goes all the way today, I'd like to use Spooner," said Alston. "But if I have him in the bullpen and if he has to relieve, Newcombe will get the assignment."

"Yankee Moiderers"

By JACK HAND

BROOKLYN (AP)—Jackie Robinson at 36 still is the daring young man on the flying trapeze in the Brooklyn lineup.

"You should never throw behind that fella," cautioned manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees Friday. "He's a bad one on the bases."

In the opening game at Yankee Stadium, it was the same Robinson, dancing off third base and finally stealing home on Whitey Ford at a critical point in the ball game.

FEINTED A STEAL

In Friday's game when Bob Turley was having control trouble in the second inning, there was Robinson feinting a steal of home, doing his best to help undermine Turley who walked Junior Gilliam with bases loaded, breaking a 2-2 tie.

Robinson had read how Earl Torgeson stole home against Turley in an important game at Detroit in late season and how Bob has allergic to a dancing base runner.

Jackie played tremendous ball at third base for Brooklyn in Friday's 8-3 Dodger victory, his seventh fielding only two short of a record for third basemen.

SPPLIED THE SPARK

He proved to be just the spark the Dodgers needed. Besides his brilliant fielding, he smacked a single and a double, handled seven groundouts, several of them toughies, badgered Turley into wildness when he got on base in the second inning, and chattered encouragement to young Podres on the mound all afternoon.

The irrepressible Robinson certainly has been up delighted with anything as much as he was with his contribution Friday. He had great days on the field before but this gave him a distinct pleasure because he did the things at the age of 36.

"I must admit I had a pretty good day for an old, gray and fat man," he laughed. "It certainly was one of my most enjoyable days."

This is Robinson's fifth series and his fourth different position. In '47 against the Yanks, he was a rookie first baseman. In '49 and '52 the Yanks saw him as a second baseman, and in '53 as the left fielder.

Jackie Is Toast of Flatbush Podres Heard Glasses Clink

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BROOKLYN (AP)—Johnny Podres has a chronic back ailment—a dislocated disc in his vertebrae—which years ago might have discouraged a less resolute young man.

The ailment was severe enough to keep him out of the service. The pain is so numbing he sleeps on a board.

Last year, his sophomore year with the Brooklyn Dodgers, an attack of apprehension hit him down in the middle of the season and hinged a full month from what could have been a highly successful campaign.

A streak of phenom-nally bad luck latched onto him like a leech this year. From June 14 until the end of the season he didn't complete a pitching assignment with a team that won the National League pennant by 13½ games.

He started only 17 games over this span and 13 times he was sent to the showers.

HURT SEVERAL TIMES

He was disabled six weeks with a bad shoulder. Ten days ago he ran into a batting cage during a workout and so injured himself he couldn't raise his arm to lob the ball. Then he strained a side muscle in batting practice.

If there was any man in the Brooklyn employ to halt the proud, relentless New York Yankees, who already had humiliated the Dodgers' top aces in the first two games of the world series, the least likely candidate was John Joseph Podres, 22-year-old baseball southpaw from Witherbee, N. Y.

But dramatically on his 23rd birthday at Ebbets Field this blond, blue-eyed athlete of Little Canada hurled for the Dodgers back into the series with a 7-hit 3-0 victory Friday.

"We kept waiting for him to flow up," said Casey Stengel, Yankee manager, "we didn't think he could last nine innings."

Walter Alston, Podres' own manager, had little more—if even as much—confidence. He kept Don Bessent and Carl Labine warming up in the Dodger bullpen as Podres baffled the Yankees with his teasing change-of-pace.

CHANGE-UP DID IT

"It was my change-up that did it," the Brooklyn lefthander said in the dressing-room. "I kept them off balance most of the day with my 'out' ball."

Podres said it was Charley Dressen, the then manager of the Dodgers, who taught him the change-up which turned him into a doubly reflective pitcher.

Cerv, Yankee outfielder who struck out three times, said: "I never saw so much different stuff in all my life. I think he threw everything at me and I missed it all."

Podres served Mickey Mantle a fast ball, which Mickey promptly lofted into the center field stands but later fed the Yankee power hitter a change-up. Mickey hit into a double play with two on base and none out.

"This Ain't No Alamo"

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel said he made a last-minute switch to crippled Mickey Mantle in his Yankee lineup Friday at Mantle's request, but added that Mickey may be back on the bench in the Brooklyn series' second game today.

"With the Dodgers pitching a righthander (Carl Erskine), I may go back to Ivy Noren," the caustic New York manager said. "Mickey would have to bat lefthanded and he tells me his leg bothers him more from that side."

Mantle, a switch-hitter who has been on the sidelines with an injured right leg, was a surprise starter at third base for Yankee Stadium at Ebbets Field, won by Brooklyn 8-3.

He lashed a 400-foot homer into the centrefield stands in the second inning, his but hit into a double play in the sixth inning with two men on base and runners on first was as easy out as he limped to first base.

Stengel, however, was disinclined to blame the Yankees' defeat on any such development as this.

"They got better pitching, that's all," Casey said. "That Podres (JACKIE ROBINSON . . .Good Hit, Field) was plenty sharp out there. It was the pitch that made Mickey hit into a double play, not his leg. It would have been a double play probably regardless of who hit the ball."

Stengel whistled tunelessly as he led his beaten athletes into their quarters and the entire team took the setback with a professional calm.

WANTED TO PLAY

Mantle said afterwards that he was handicapped in his movement by his bum leg but that he had told Casey he would like to play.

Hank Bauer, the other ailing Yankee outfielder who pulled a thigh muscle Thursday, said he didn't know whether he would be able to play today.

Stengel answered the question for him: "I don't think he's ready to play."

First baseman Bill Skowron who scored in the second when the ball fell from Roy Campanella's hand on the bat, said he didn't knock the ball from the Brooklyn catcher's grasp.

"He just reached out and tagged me on the shoulder," Skowron said. "And the ball started loose. It's baseball, that's all."

Foe Faces Will Be Familiar To Castoffs Custis, Caroline

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The stage is set for a couple of castoffs to bring irony to the Big Four this weekend.

There's a few sideshow attractions lined up in C. C. Caroline, the highly-touted halfback from Illinois, and Bernie Custis, a four-year league halfback, are on the spot.

Both will be playing for the first time against the team that let them go in games at Toronto and Ottawa. Caroline will be in the Montreal Alouettes' lineup at Varsity Stadium against Toronto Argonauts and Custis will be playing for Ottawa Rough Riders against Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

Other football action in eastern Canada during the weekend will feature the opening of the inter-collegiate schedule. University of Toronto Blues, last year's Big Four champions, play the University of Western Ontario Mustangs at London and Queen's tangle with McGill Redmen at Kingston.

HOT SUNDAY

Caroline was cut by Argos because coach Bill Swiacki said he couldn't handle the passes and run the way he was supposed to. Custis was cut because he didn't get along with Hamilton coach Carl Voyles.

Caroline, picked up for much less than the $15,000 Argos were paying him, will be teamed up with brusising Pat Abbruzzi, who happens to be big Four scoring leader, as the Alouettes principal plunging and running threats.

This will be the first appearance in Toronto of the Alouettes, who trounced Argos 43-31 a couple of weeks ago in Montreal. An expected crowd of 23,000 will see the first time the starry Abruzzi and Corky Tharp of the Argos. Tharp an Alabama star last Fall, played his first game for Argos last Saturday and sparked them to a win over Ottawa.

Argos will have an old home-brew back in the lineup. A bit rusty perhaps, but just as eager as ever, will be Jackie Parker, the team manager Harry Sonshine persuaded to come out of a year's retirement to do the kicking. Krol should give Argos the extra 15 or 20 yards they've been dropping all season on kicks.

Out West, if you can believe what you hear, Edmonton Eskimos are in for their first Western Interprovincial Football Union loss of the season today at Winnipeg.

Coach Frank Clair has been asserted a distinct pessimistic tone into his public comments on the weekend possibilities for his Grey Cup champion Eskimos, who now have a 10-point edge on the team this fall.

"They're tired," Ivy said of his charges, who meet the Blue Bombers at Winnipeg Saturday night, then return home to entertain Saskatchewan's second-place Roughriders Monday.

"It's a long hard grind and some of my boys are pretty tired. When you are tired, you don't go on winning forever."

BCI Juniors Defeat OSD 6-1

Due to a heavy rainfall quarterback Dick Hurst kept the B.C.I. attack on the ground, with Ken Vogelaar supplying the masterfully of the power, as he continually drove through the O.S.D. defences.

Andre Bourget, talented OSD kicker, kept BCI from his end zone with two fine 65-yard quick kicks. While later in the half he punted a rouge in the BCI end zone. The half ended OSD 1; BCI 0.

Fine runs by both Vogelsang and Paul Kennedy along with Bertrand's fine punting kept the improved OSD offence from scoring in the second half.

In the final quarter Doug Patterson recovered a Bertrand fumbled punt in the end zone for a BCI touchdown, which he converted.

The final play of the game saw Bourget complete to Meany on a fine 50-yard pass play.

The line-ups:

OSD Juniors — Skenkle, Bourget, Fossum, Patterson, LeBlanc, Deschener, Sattler, Griffore, Pearson, Murphy, Yats, Legate, Baron, Ogowna, Martin, Meany, Riggin, Renshaw, Cassell, Coach, Bill Williams.

BCIVS Junlors :— Houston, D. Rollins, Morris, Robb, Kellar, G. Rollins, Patterson, Hanthorn, Hurst, Kennedy, Langlois, Vogelsang. Alternates, Adair, Rodbard, Shandraw, Pollard, Wagar, Bowbotham, Camp, Chumbley, Kvarda, Alexander, Holgate, Deacon, Whitfield, Mitchell, Skelley, Bertrand, Brant.

Indians Upset Bruins 1-0

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League upset the National Hockey League Boston Bruins 1-0 Friday night in an exhibition game. A crowd of 1,500 saw Indians' Jimmy Anderson register the lone goal early in the third period.

"The Bigger They Come..."

Red Wings Ice NHL Giants, Ten New Faces Feature Team

BY PAUL PATTON
Canadian Press Correspondent

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP) Jack Adams, a large man himself, likes big hockey players. That's why he's so happy with the current National Hockey League edition of Detroit Red Wings.

"This is the biggest team we've ever had at Detroit," the Wings general manager said. "I can't recall ever being one as large."

Statistics bear out his statement, made as the Wings trained for the 1955-56 season. Detroit's 12 regular forwards average 183 pounds and the six defencemen three pounds more.

ADAMS GAMBLES

Adams, starting his 37th year in hockey and his 29th with Detroit, has always likes to gamble. Never before in NHL history has a Stanley Cup champion been so torn apart.

One of the biggest shakeups sent Terry Sawchuk, league's all-star goalie, to Boston Bruins. Other trades completed with Chicago Black Hawks and New York Rangers as well as Bruins involved 18 players.

When the Wings take the ice in their first game against Chicago at Detroit Oct. 6 in search of an eighth straight league title, five rookies and five other new players will be on the roster.

Missing from on the club will be Glenn Hall, 23, the Western Hockey League's all-star goalkeeper who is with Chicago Black Hawks.

Another rookie, 19-year-old Norm Ullman, who played for the WHL in 1954, Adams predicts he could win the "rookie-of-the-year award if he has the right linemates." A centre, Ullman scored 25 goals and 39 assists in the league last year.

STAR WITH FLYERS

Except for an ankle injury suffered in a softball game in 1954, the 194-pound husky probably would have been called up last year. Termed the best prospect with the Edmonton Oil Kings, Memorial Cup finalists in 1954, he ended the season with Edmonton Flyers.

Another Flyer star, Johnny Bucyk, who captured the rookie-of-the-year title in the western league last season, also figures in Adams' plans.

Other rookies include Larry Hillman, an 18-year-old defenceman, and Norm Corcoran, a five-year veteran with Hershey of the American League.

Hollingworth, 22, a product of the Montreal Canadien chain, was picked up by the Hawks after Canadiens put him on waivers. He was the key man in the Detroit-Chicago trade. Godfrey, 24, is teamed with veteran Red Kelly. Sandford, 27, is an eight-year veteran from Boston.

THIRD LINE OPEN

The right combination for the club's third line bothers Adams. Naturally, he's pleased with his big line of Gordie Howe, Ted Lindsay and Dutch Reibel. His second line of Delvecchio, Dineen and Chevrefils. Ullman will centre the third line but the wing slots are still open.

Adams, who made the trades because "this team can stand pat," cites his defence this year as proof the 1955 Wings are stronger than last year's Stanley Cup champions.

Bob Goldham, at 32 the oldest Red Wing in the other defenceman, with Marty Pavelich, Jerry Toppazzini, the extra forwards along with Corcoran, Bucyk and Sandford.

What team figures to give the Wings the toughest opposition this season?

"Well Toronto has a lot of kids and you never know about them," Adams said. Montreal will be tough if their goaltending straightens out. Boston now has Sawchuk. Montreal has some good players. But I like our chances."

City, District Secondary Schools Ready for COSSA Football Season

Seven junior and three senior teams will compete for the Bay of Quinte C.O.S.S.A. rugby titles here this fall. Defending champions are Belleville's five schools plus entries from Trenton, Picton and Brighton.

Vic Swinton of Trenton is the convener of both leagues, the junior division opening this week. The senior circuit gets under way on October 5th.

Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School and Albert College have entries in both divisions while Picton is the third junior entry, Quinte Secondary School, Stirling, and Bay Quinte School for the Deaf, Albert College, Trenton and Brighton are entered in the junior setup.

The Quinte Secondary School team captured the C. O. S. S. A. championship last year in their initial year of play and hope to repeat this season with most of the same club.

Coach Jack Sisson reports that he has a small but fast group of boys. They stress the wide open exciting style of play, working out of the split T, with plenty of passing and running. George Musgrove and Bill Dickey will share the quarterback spot while Grosbeby, Clarke and Dickey are ends.

Jim Phillips is a blocking back with halves Kemp, Kerrulch, Goodman and McLaurin. The line, described as "fair" by Sisson, consists of Hickie, Spencer, Jamieson and McGuren. Dean Kemp is considered Sisson's best threat at halfback. Ross Walmsley, ace quarterback last year, and Bill Elliott aid Sisson in the coaching department.

Father McGee, coach of the St. Michael's squad, reports that his team is in poor position due to injuries. "We've lost a surprising number of players due to a series of injuries and sickness but my team has all the fight in the world to partly make up for it" Among the players out of action is Lee St. Denis, the key man of the team, with a broken finger. St. Denis is a half-back and should be back in action soon.

St. Mike's boast a strong line although the team is light in number and weight. Bobby Ross will handle the quarterback spot, a new position for the boy. Father McGee feels that the will to win and experience of a few games will give him a club to watch before the schedule ends at the end of October.

"Red" Townsend helping with both the B.C.I. teams insists that the senior club has an excellent backfield.

Wallace Ewald and Harold Mott coach this team. They expect a fair all-round club with the backfield consisting of Bill Gault, Cameron Bukkard, Barry Hay, Jan Gemely, Joe Kennedy, Glen Maracle, Garry Durno, Charles Rowbotham, George Sinfield and Pat Smith going great guns.

"This team can really run" said Townsend, "and along with the juniors have good spirit and are willing to work hard." The club has lost a few of the school's better players due to graduation and failures as have the juniors.

Fred Bradley is the junior coach, aided by Don Seadings. They have an inexperienced team but quite willing to learn. "They have a really big line" claims Townsend "with the average weight about 180 pounds." The backfield has only two repeaters from last year, Dick Hurst and Ken Vogelsang. The coaches look forward to a good club here after a few games.

Bill Williams coaches this team and states that because of a lack of players, he will use some over-age boys in these exhibition tilts. "We have a small but fast team and I wouldn't want to say how they'll do until I see them in action a couple of times," Williams said.

John Fossum, a left-half carrier William of hope Fossum is a terrific runner and the coach expects great work from the speedy boy. Glen Skinkle will fire them from the quarterback position.

All Star Team Just That In Literal Sense

DETROIT (AP)—General manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings, his Wings will be teaming "the greatest all-star team in history" on Sunday night in the annual National Hockey League classic.

This time Jolly Jack may be right.

For when Red Wings take the ice in Olympia Stadium, they will be going up against a group of players who scored a smashing total of 223 goals last season.

This compared to the Red Wing team mark of 204—a respectable mark, but not even close to the all-star tally.

TERRIFIC THREE

Heading the list of all - star sharpshooters is the "Terrific Three" of the Montreal Canadiens—Bernie Geoffrion, Maurice Richard and Jean Beliveau.

Geoffrion and Richard each netted 38 goals last season while Beliveau was only a step behind with 37.

These are the players who will take target practice on young Glenn Hall, Red Wings' new goalie.

Hall, who is well seasoned in the Red Wing tradition, having spent a good number of years in the Detroit farm system, is replacing Terry Sawchuk, who was traded to the Boston Bruins in an off-season swap.

'Bums' May Get Dome-Covered Baseball Stadium

PRINCETON, N. J. (CP)—Walter O'Malley, president of the National League champion Brooklyn Dodgers, has commissioned an architect to design a dome-covered, all-weather stadium.

R. Buckminster Fuller, an authority on self-supporting dome structures, said Friday that if the idea of a dome-covered stadium proves feasible, O'Malley said he would like to build it in Brooklyn.

Fuller, visiting professor in Princeton University's school of architecture, described the proposed arena as circular and covered by a thin plastic dome 750 feet across. The dome, supported by lightweight aluminum arches will be 200 feet high.

There would be no pillars in the stadium, which would be air-conditioned in summer and heated in winter.

O'Malley has not commented personally on the project. He said earlier that the Dodgers cannot remain at Ebbets Field on a profit-sharing basis after 1957 and appealed to the city for help in finding a new site in Brooklyn.

Irvin Uncertain About Goalie

WELLAND (CP) — When the final drill at the training camp of Chicago Black Hawks ended here Friday, coach Dick Irvin said his mind is made up on the starting goaltending but that he need to see other few days to decide definitely on his goalkeeper.

"It is true that Al Rollins will get the nod, but Hank Bassen has been performing well and I will not call on either goalie until the season opens with Boston at Syracuse Saturday and with Chicham at Chatham Tuesday are out of the way before making the final choice," the coach said.

In addition to the four players obtained from the Detroit Red Wings, the Hawks intend to carry centre players Hank Cicia from the St. Catharines junior A club and Ken Kalanda from the Galt junior club.

Fai.field Leads Golf Tourney

HUNTINGTON, N. Y. (CP)—A four-under-par 66 gave 28-year-old Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., the lead Friday after 36 holes of the 72-hole $15,000 Long Island Rotary open golf championship.

Fairfield's 137-total gave him a two stroke lead over PGA champion Doug Ford, the first-round leader, who fired a 71 Friday. Also tied at 139 were George Fazio, Gardner Dickinson Jr., Marty Furgol and Max Evans.

'Jacobs Night' For Indian Jack

WINNIPEG (CP)—Jack Jacobs, a name synonymous with football in Canada from 1930 to 1954, will return tonight to Winnipeg Stadium—the scene of many of his triumphs—to be honored by the fans he thrilled with his brilliant passing.

Ceremonies for "Jacobs Night" will occupy the entire halftime interval at the Western Interprovincial Football Union game between the league-leading and unbeaten Edmonton Eskimos and the fourth-place Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

Jacobs, who retired two months ago after quarterbacking Bombers to two unsuccessful Grey Cup finals in 1950 and 1953, will be presented with more than $1,500 in gifts and a cheque.

MAY DRAFT FOR CD

BOSTON (AP)—A draft of American youth may be necessary to strengthen civil defence because of "public apathy" federal civil defence administrator Val Peterson said Friday night.

Gracie and George Arrange Coming-Out Party for Son

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—This week George Burns and Gracie Allen provided a new note for the bustling social season—a coming-out party for son Sandy, Ronnie.

The comedy pair tossed a supper dance in honor of their handsome, husky six-foster of 19 years. He'll now be a regular cast member in his parents' popular television show.

Ronnie greeted all the guests in a personable manner and appeared capable at handling his acting chores with assurance. This was confirmed by a preview of the first Burns and Allen show of the season, which will be on CBS Oct. 10.

You might ask how the Burnses can introduce a son to the show after years of playing a childless couple. It's typical of George's logic that there is no explanation. Ronnie just appears as if he had been a member of the cast before.

The Burns and Allen show is noted for its lack of logic, and not merely in Gracie's inanities. It is a sit-com by-word in the program started? The neighbor, Harry Morton, was played by Hal March, a fellow who has been appearing on some quiz show recently.

Then one year Larry Morton turned out to be Fred Clark, Now he's harry Cooling. All of which must be confusing to the audience, not to mention Bea Benaderet, who plays Mrs. Morton.

Ronnie's appearance on the show is a bit of a surprise to his parents as well as the audience. For a while they expected Ronnie to be a lawyer, or an architect. "But I decided I wanted to act," he explains. "So I enrolled at the Pasadena playhouse."

One night his parents went with their pals, the Jack Bennys, to see Ronnie perform in "Picnic."

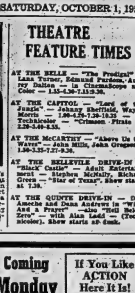
Rangers Win

EDMONTON (CP)—Centre Dave Creighton scored twice Friday night to lead New York Rangers of the National Hockey League to a 4-2 win over Edmonton Flyers in an exhibition game before 4,582 fans.



Flyers, last year's Western Hockey League champs, led a scant two minutes when they drew first blood on a goal by Johnny McCormack.

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Sunday, Oct. 2, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Fine influences generally invite you to enjoy the good things about you, to appreciate the little but truly real assets. Don't think only about promoting business or other material things.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Coordination of effort can bring you gains now. Happy high-minded friends stimulate thinking and try to join in group activities. Put your talents to good use.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — This will not be an unfavorable day if you approach it properly. Associate with loved ones; enjoy a definite period of relaxation with them.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A bright outlook in many ways. Make plans according to carefully thought-out rules. Pay due honor to your Creator at church, then engage in wholesome relaxation to fill yourself for the week ahead.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Sports, theatricals, community affairs are all favored now. Devote some time to loved ones, good friends.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — There is no room for discouragement now. Make each day of good deeds. Think about how you personally can help the needy and your family.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Spend some time in good reading, clean sports and intelligent recreation. A change of pace and activity during free hours might be advantageous. Romance favored.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Sidestep the usual Sunday lethargy. This doesn't mean to over-exercise. But do project yourself into a new endeavor, pastime. A fresh new outlook is desirable and effective.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Coordinate your plans with those of friends. Don't go it alone. Variety of activity can make the day interesting and educational. Allocate some time to religious services, visiting the infirm. Have cheer.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Auspicious aspects. Take advantage of them. Develop that new idea, fresh approach. Get advice of friends who have your interests at heart. Spread cheer.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Always tell the truth —to yourself as well as to others. Consider your position, evaluate it, and strive to make plans to better it. Satisfy desires in moderation.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — A day for due rest and relaxation. Enjoy Sunday activities with loved ones. Radical changes taboo. Maintain your sense of honor. It is always welcome and appreciated.

You born today are endowed with integrity, valor, loyalty, goodness of heart, especially where the unfortunate and under-privileged are concerned, and sturdiness. Cultivate and use these fine traits daily. You were born under the Sign of true Balance. Yet you can go to extremes, especially in indulging pleasures, or working too hard. You respond to intelligent reasoning and kindness; love peace, justice. You may dislike to do things in orthodox manner. Birthdate of: Richard III, King of Eng.; Cordell Hull, Amer. statesman; Ferdinand Foch, World War I generalissimo-hero.

Net Earnings Up

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific Railway Wednesday reported net earnings for August of $3,287,443, an increase of some 40 per cent over the corresponding month last year.

Gross earnings during August increased to $40,257,478 from $33,539,156 in August last year while working expenses advanced to $37,240,036 from $33,917,328. Last year net earnings were $1,941,828.

For the first eight months of 1955 net earnings jumped to $17,898,466 from the $12,902,538 reported for the first eight months of 1954.

French Battling Moroccans; Death Toll Is Heavy

Tanks, Planes, Troops Used In Guerrilla Outbreaks

By CARL HARTMAN

RABAT, French Morocco (AP)—French tanks, planes and troops battled a serious new guerrilla outbreak today in the Atlas mountains of eastern Morocco and along the frontier of Spanish Morocco.

Armed bands—one consisting of some 2,000 Berber tribesmen—attacked five army outposts defended by Moroccans in French uniform Saturday night and Sunday. French officials admitted that two posts were given up under pressure, but claimed both were retaken.

His going was the first step in a French plan to meet the demands of nationalists in the urbulent protectorate, but he left new problems in his wake.

In leaving, Moulay Arafa delegated his authority to a cousin Moulay Abdallah Ben Moulay Abdel Hafid. This apparently was a concession to French colonials who had bitterly fought the government's ouster of the sultan.

In an effort to quiet aroused nationalists, Pierre Gilliat, minister for Moroccan and Tunisian affairs, termed the delegation of powers an "intermediate" step. Resident-s General Pierre Boyer de Latour in a broadcast asked all Moroccans to support Abdel Hafid "for the moment" as a symbol of unity.

Nationalists termed the sultan's action illegal and urged that France go ahead immediately with its original plan of naming a three-man regency to take over powers of the throne.

The guerrilla attacks in the eastern Atlas mountains and near the border with Spanish Morocco were the first serious outbreak since the uprising of Berber tribesmen Aug. 20 in which more than 100 French and more than 1,000 Moroccans died.

Govt. Sticking To Existing Offer On Federal Aid

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent today indicated the federal government is sticking belicately to its existing offer to the provinces for federal aid on unemployment relief.

He told the federal-provincial conference he hopes the "main line of assistance" has been settled.

This calls for the federal treasury bearing half the cost of jobless relief in each province when that province's unemployed goes over 42 per cent of its population.

As a result of the plan, he said, it is hoped no one in need will go without help and that the burden of relief will be lifted from the municipalities.

THREE AGREE

Mr. St. Laurent expressed the hope that ministers and officials directly concerned can deal with the matter here this week or in later correspondence. He indicated it should be dealt with in committee rather than by the plenary conference.

Mr. St. Laurent said three provinces now have accepted a draft agreement proposed by the federal government and several others have indicated assent.

"We do not quarrel with the decision of any province not to enter this year," he said. "We will be glad to keep the offer open to all provinces."

Found Unconscious

TORONTO (CP) — Douglas Holmes, 39, of Erin, about 15 miles east of Guelph, was found lying unconscious about 25 feet from his wrecked car early today.

Police said the car plunged into a ditch and then turned end over end three times.

Today's Chuckle

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Skies are sunny in advance of a high pressure area moving across Ontario this morning, but in the wake of this region of high pressure a band of cloud accompanied by a few showers is moving into the province, to cover northern Ontario by noon and southern Ontario by midnight. Tuesday's weather will see clearing beginning in southern Ontario with somewhat higher temperatures.

LATEST REPORT EASES ANXIETY OVER PRESIDENT

No Complications Indicated in Report

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Anxiety over President Eisenhower's illness eased considerably this morning as physicians reported his condition "showed no changes to indicate complications."

The bulletin said the president's condition "remains satisfactory."

The official report from Fitzsimons army hospital served to lift tension created when the doctors summoned Sunday night that Eisenhower was "a little tired" and "not feeling well as usual."

That bulletin was the first which had said that Eisenhower was progressing satisfactorily "without complications."

Sunday was the 64-year-old president's condition Sunday night came on the ninth day of the crucial first two weeks.

SLEPT SOUNDLY

This morning's medical bulletin, about two hours, 40 minutes later than usual to permit thorough examination of the president after he awakened late, said the president slept soundly from 8:45 p.m. to 7:10 a.m., with the exception of a half hour from 4:23 a.m. to 4:55 a.m.

At that time a medical examination showed his temperature, pulse and blood pressure to be normal, and when he awoke this morning the president felt rested and refreshed.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said at the time he issued the Sunday night bulletin that the president's physicians would make a thorough examination this morning in an effort to find out what made him tired.

This morning Hagerty told a press conference:

NO COMPLICATIONS

Asked whether they had discovered any complication of the fatigue, Hagerty simply called attention to the first sentence in the latest bulletin saying that Eisenhower's condition "showed no changes" to indication of complications.

Responding to a question, Hagerty said the morning examination of the president showed there had been no change in the president's basic condition from the time when the fatigue developed last evening.

Newspaper men noted that the latest bulletin on the president's morning cardiogram showed "slow, progressive evolution."

Asked what that was a good indication, Hagerty replied that it was.

Killed by Car

ORILLIA (CP) — Cecil Young, 43, a farmer, died at Penetang, about 30 miles south of here, was killed Sunday night when struck by a car while walking along the highway.

FISH BLOCK TRAFFIC

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police, fire-men and ambulances were called out Saturday when traffic at a road and intersection was blocked by fish heads, ankle deep on the road. A truck was hauling the fish heads to a reduction plant when the tail gate of the vehicle opened.

Toronto, District Men Killed In 2 Mishaps Over Weekend

A Toronto youth and a Belleville district man were fatally injured in separate accidents over the week-end. Both died almost instantly, one when the car in which he was riding struck a transport, and the other when run over by a gravel truck at Lonsdale.

Dead are John Fitzgerald, 19, of 114 Reiner Rd., Wilson Heights, Toronto, and Joseph Hamilton, 53, of Lonsdale.

The Toronto youth died early Sunday morning, when the car in which he was riding struck a highway transport just east of the city on No. 2 highway. Driver of the car, Earl Fitzgerald, 20, 17 Moodie Street, Belleville, suffered lacerations and is in Belleville General Hospital.

The two youths had been to visit their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Fitzgerald at Milltown, and were on their way home to Belleville when the accident occurred. An eastbound Smith Transport driven by Reg. Tinson of Toronto, had swung across the boulevard toward the transport depot. Hastings driver swung sharply to the left to avoid the truck but struck the right rear corner of the transport shearing off the right side of the car. The transport driver was uninjured.

Mr. Haight was killed on the 4th concession of Tyendinaga in the driveway at the home of his son, Angus Haight.

Hastings county road foreman Mr. Haight was assisting to repair his son's driveway Saturday afternoon. He was on the edge of the driveway as two trucks of gravel arrived for dumping. William Waddingham, R.R. 1, Marysville, driver of one of the trucks, failed to see Mr. Haight and the front wheel of his truck struck him.

Yanks' Five Runs in First Give Them Lead Over Bums

NEW YORK: Bill Skowron, Yankee first baseman, was the hero at the trigger Monday afternoon, as Stengel's stars picked the first inning to show why they are called the Bombers. Skowron hit a homer with two aboard to climax a five-run opening assault on the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Yankees' scoring rally gave the Yanks a big lead in the sixth game of the world series, a game which they must win if they are to force the series to the limit. The Dodgers staged a stirring comeback to go ahead 3-2 in the series after dropping the first two games.

The Dodgers, still fighting, scored once in the fourth, but the Yanks still held a big four - run lead going into the seventh inning.

FIRST INNING

Dodgers: Gilliam lined the second pitch to Howard in left. Reese was called out on strikes. Snider also looked at a third strike.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees: Rizzuto walked on a full count. Martin struck out on a 3-2 pitch and Rizzuto, breaking fast on the hit and run, stole second as Gilliam was late covering the bag. Skowron singled over the five pitches. Berra bounced a single past Gilliam's outstretched glove into centre field, scoring Rizzuto and sending Skowron to third. Bauer singled into left field, scoring McDougald, Berra stopping at second.

Skowron hit a home run into the lower right field stands scoring Berra and Bauer ahead of him to give the Yankees a 5-0 margin. Mc. Meyer, a relief pitcher, replaced Spooner. Skowron's homer was the 37th hit by the two teams in the series, tying a record set by the Yankees and Dodgers in 1951.

Cerv lined out to the right side of first and beat it out for an infield single. Collins was safe at first on strikes. Ford flied to Amoros.

SECOND INNING

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING

Dodgers: Ford snagged Amoros' hot shot to the pitcher's box and threw him out. Meyer struck out. Mc. Dougald lined a single to left of Gilliam's grounder and threw him out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees: Berra walked. Bauer singled, Berra stopping at second. Skowron flied to Snider, the runners holding. Cerv bounced to Robinson who tagged Berra on the base line and threw to Hodges for a double play. It was Brooklyn's 11th double play, a record for one team in a series.

FOURTH INNING

Dodgers: Reese beat out an infield single for Brooklyn's first hit. Don Zimmer batted for Snider and was called out on strikes. Campanella walked and Furillo forced him, Skowron to Martin.

No runs, two hits, no errors, none left.

FIFTH INNING

Dodgers: Amoros grounded out to Skowron. It was announced that Snider twisted his right knee when he stepped into a hole chasing Skowron's fly in the third inning. Martin tossed to Meyer. Gilliam walked to left. McDougald darted to his left for a glo ved hand stop and threw to Martin and forced him out.

Yankees: Martin singled into left field. McDougald flied to Amoros in deep centre. Berra lined a single into short centre, sending Martin to second. Bauer forced Berra. Collins batted for Skowron and grounded out to the base. Cerv popped to Reese.

No runs, two hits, no errors, none left.

Federal Govt. Is Agreeable To Committee

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government is agreeable to the establishment of a continuing committee made up of federal and provincial representatives to discuss questions arising between governments, Prime Minister St. Laurent said today.

Mr. St. Laurent, speaking at the opening of this week's federal-provincial conference, was commenting on a suggestion by Premier Frost of Ontario made at last April's conference.

Mr. Frost had proposed that such a committee be set up to meet from time to time between formal federal-provincial fiscal meetings to discuss matters considered by held about every five years.

Mr. St. Laurent proposed that the committee, if established, should meet to exchange technical information and not to negotiate.

He said officials attending the committee meetings would merely report back to their own governments and make no concrete recommendations unless requested to do so.

ARRESTED FOR ESPIONAGE

COPENHAGEN (AP)—The Danish government has arrested a Danish defence worker on charges of espionage for an unspecified foreign power. It was the first such case in Denmark since the war. The announcement did not name the employee.

EX-PRESIDENT OF ARGENTINA BEGINS NEW LIFE

Arrives in Paraguay To Start His Exile

By ROMAN JIMINEZ

ASUNCION, Paraguay (AP)—Juan D. Peron, the toppled Argentine dictator, today took up residence in exile here behind a guard of police and tommy-gunners.

The weary one-time strong man was flown here Sunday in a Paraguayan amphibian plane 13 days after he had taken refuge aboard a Paraguayan gunboat in the River Plate at Montevideo, Uru. His departure had been delayed while Argentine and Paraguayan officials straightened out the technicalities of his asylum.

The new Argentine government of provisional president Eduardo Lonardi obviously hopes Peron will not tarry long in Paraguay. A spokesman from Lonardi's regime said it was "confident" Paraguay would prevent Peron from "being an obstacle to friendly relations" between the two countries.

There have been suggestions that Peron may go ultimately to Spain or Switzerland.

The first greeting the former president got as he stepped down from the plane was a jeering insult from another Argentine exile. Peron paid no heed.

Back in the Argentine capital the press and the government are still busily uncovering angles of Peron's secret love life and financial dealings.

The Buenos Aires newspaper La Prensa published that Haydee Rivas 16-year-old high school girl who has been linked to the dictator's love life, as saying he liked to call himself "the man."

She said Peron, who will celebrate his 60th birthday Oct. 8, was a generous lover who gave her some of the jewelry of his wife, Eva, who died of cancer in 1952. Police said they found jewelry and cash worth $40,000 in Nelida's apartment.

A fortress-like hideaway of the former president in the basement of the Alea Publishing Company building in Buenos Aires was opened to the public by the government. The steel and concrete structure was packed with food and had its own independent power, heat and ventilating systems so it could remain for days if he chose.

Jail Constable As Drunk Driver

WINDSOR (CP) — Constable William Baxter of the Ontario Provincial Police detachment at nearby Ruthven was sentenced Saturday to seven days in jail when found guilty on a drunk driving charge.

Sgt. John Haich of the Essex detachment said he found Constable Baxter's car from a tavern at nearby Belle River and stopped it after it swerved across the highway. He said the constable was not in uniform at the time.

Baxter, who pleaded not guilty to the charge, said he had consumed three bottles of beer and one drink of whisky but was sober when he drove. The officer's evidence was ordered suspended for six months.

Young Couple Missing Since Sunday, Went Into Bush Hunting Partridge

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) —A youth and a girl, lost in the bush near here since Sunday, were found unharmed today.

KIRKLAND LAKE (CP) — A dawn search started today for a young couple missing since early Sunday when they told friends they were going into the bush to Leo Cain and Helen Buhtala, both 19, entered the bush off Highhunt partridge.

not way 11 after leaving their car parked on a sideroad. Police said neither was dressed for bush travel and temperatures were close to freezing during the night.

Police said the car was found with the couple's lunch still inside. It was surrounded by moose tracks.

An Ontario department of lands and forests plane was reported being held in readiness to join the search.

Cain is a mining company employee and Miss Buhtala a beauty keeper. Both are from Kirkland Lake.

St. Laurent Says Ottawa Willing To Scrap Pacts

Frost Asks Bigger Share Of Income Taxation Fields

OTTAWA (CP)—Ontario's Premier Frost today rejected the federal-provincial tax rental pacts and called on the federal government to hand over a bigger share of the personal and corporation income tax fields to the provinces.

He suggested also the central government get out of the succession duties field altogether.

First of the provincial premiers to speak at the historic federal-provincial conference, Mr. Frost proposed that federal tax deductions allowed on provincial levies be boosted to 15 from 10 per cent on personal income tolls and to 15 from seven per cent on corporation income charges.

He favored a single tax collection agency where provinces collect the taxes in conjunction with the federal government.

FIVE PROPOSALS

He also endorsed a full hospital insurance plan, to be implemented in stages, and made these other suggestions:

1. Logging and mining companies be allowed to deduct from federal tax 100 per cent instead of any provincial taxation imposed.

2. Efforts be renewed to provide additional revenue sources for provinces and municipalities to meet pressing revenue needs.

3. Full consideration be given to devising a joint federal-provincial policy for economic development and for stable investment limited grants as required."

4. Creation of a federal-provincial technical committee which might become a permanent link in federal-provincial relations.

NOT REALISTIC

Mr. Frost said Ontario did not question the desirability of the federal government paying subsidies to needy provinces. But the subsidies should not be such as to "destroy enterprise and productivity in the province from which the money is taken" or to "tax where the revenue is taken."

Ontario welcomed the federal move to boost to 10 per cent from five the deductions from federal income tax allowed for persons subjected to a provincial income tax. This would remain at 10 per cent.

In Quebec, the personal income tax credit is 15 per cent. The federal government amounted to one-ninth of the federal revenue from this field, he said. Federal rental paid Ontario for this personal income tax was based only on one-nineteenth of the federal take from this field.

"We frankly do not think this situation is realizable. In the light of the terms of reference of the provinces and the acknowledged contribution that provinces make to the national income, we suggest that rates of 15 per cent of personal income tax and 15 per cent of corporation income be considered."

FLEXIBLE APPROACH

On a national health insurance plan, Mr. Frost urged a flexible approach. He suggested:

1. A full hospital insurance plan be implemented in stages with premiums met by payroll deductions, Governments and municipalities would pay premiums for indigent cases.

Sweden's Liquor Rationing Ends; Saturday Is Soberest in 36 Years

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Sedwen's reputation as a hard-drinking nation went overboard in one Saturday night — the first time it was put to a real test in 36 years.

The orgies of whisky swilling forecast for the end of liquor rationing Saturday failed to come off.

Instead, the Swedes guzzled oceans of strong beer all Saturday night and into the wee hours of Sunday morning. With the switch from hard liquor to beer drinking, the Swedes spent one of their soberest and quietest weekends since liquor rationing was imposed in 1919.

A great many Swedes tasted real beer for the first time in their lives. For 36 years they have been forced to settle for a watery brew containing 2.8 per cent alcohol. The first legal beer in the United States after prohibition contained more alcohol than that — 3.2 per cent.

Reports from all over the country told the same story — it was one of the calmest Saturday nights in decades. Expecting riots, police forces throughout the country had mobilized full strength and mostly they stood around idle.

Zzymbla Loses Tail-End Spot, Ousted by Zzzu

LONDON (AP)—A man who may be the last to ask for a beer took over today as holder of the last place in London's telephone directory.

His name: V.K Zzzu.

HAS FILLY AT 30

LONDON (AP)—Horse breeder Fred Unwin says his old grey mare Stargold has proved he is a filly at the unheard-of age of 30. "It's as though a human being had a baby when 120 years old," Unwin told a reporter. "But I bought Stargold as a yearling myself in 1926 so there can be no doubt of her age.

REV. C. E. STAPLES NEW ASSISTANT AT CATHEDRAL

Formerly of Belleville, the Rev. Charles E. Staples has been appointed assistant at St. George's Cathedral, Kingston. Mr. Staples is a former pupil of Queen Victoria School and a graduate of Belleville Collegiate Institute. He graduated with a B.A. degree from Bishop's University in 1951, and was ordained by Christ Church here. In 1953 he was ordered priest in the cathedral. He recently returned from England where he studied at St. Augustine's College, Canterbury.

PORTABLE RADIO TAKEN TO SCHOOL TO HEAR GAME

His grandma wasn't ill and his grandpappy had commandeered the TV set. So the young student devised his own ideas of listening to the world series. In his classroom in a city school the teacher was amazed to hear a strange voice cry out "It's a high fly going to centre field". He quickly sensed the reason and sternly ordered our hero to "turn off that portable radio." The Dodgers won — anyway.

1936 JALOPY NEEDED REPAIRS

Peterborough police inspected a jalopy the other day and nearly fainted from surprise. The jalopy, a 1936 model, had no muffler, no tailpipe, no brakes, no brake pedal, no tail light, no rear marker light, no horn and no floorboards in the driver's position. Nor could either of the passengers, elderly people, produce a driver's license. The police chief admitted the car had a steering wheel.

'BACK TO NATURE' LIFE GIVEN TRY

Two Bancroft residents Grenville Martin and Francis Plumm decided to give the "back to nature" life a try. They spent a week near Burnt Lake, Bruton Township, living entirely off the land. They took no food of any kind, eating fish, frogs' legs and wild fruit. They enjoyed the outing and came home none the worse for wear after their sojourn in the woods.

20 STITCHES NEEDED TO CLOSE WOUNDS

Despite severe facial injuries sustained while playing softball with his team the Bobcats, on Saturday, Robert Temple was back at his law office today. Mr. Temple suffered facial injuries that necessitated 20 stitches not to mention the loss of several teeth. The injury was the result of an accidental collision with a team-mate during the game between the Bobcats-Toronto playoff game.

25 New Members Received Into Church Family

Returning to the fall and winter work and worship in Holloway Street United Church, with emphasis upon the call of the General Council to a nation-wide evangelistic campaign, a capacity congregation gathered Sunday morning for the second dedication service and to receive the Sacrament of Holy Communion when twenty-five new members into the church family. The minister, Rev. Sidney E. Lanning, presided a communion meditation entitled "Are Ye Able?" and spoke of the three cups offered to Jesus Christ when upon the cross. The minister was assisted at the communion table by the Clerk of Session, Mr. J. D. Robertson, and elder William Cavers, who also assisted in extending a welcome to the new members.

The following new members were received: Rev. and Mrs. F. and Mrs. Townsend, Mrs. Margaret Church, Miss Ida Mae Mundy and Mr. John McCurdy, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jeffrey, Mr. and Mrs. Irwin Badgley, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. John Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hopwood-Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hamilton, Misses Jane Corrinne Townsend, Beverly McDonald, Shirley Ann Kirby, and Messrs. Ronald Burnette, Fayley Vermilyea, John Hyde.

The Albert College Student body attended the evening service when the minister was assisted in the service by Messrs Norman Jarvis and Gordon Mallory. The minister's sermon titled "The University of the Spirit" was helpfully received. The senior and intermediate choirs presented the musical part of the morning service and were directed by the minister in music, Mr. Clifford Templer.

2 New Members Named to Public School Board

Members of the Belleville Public School Board have submitted for the submission on the part of the council of the city of London, that it should be decided that regular classrooms should be eligible for provincial grants.

At their October meeting the local board concurred in the London recommendation and for school auditoriums, home economics and manual training, for school rooms and offices in school buildings, within reasonable limits, the maximum of which to be fixed by construction grants.

Two new members Morley J. Lovelace and James Ritchie, were appointed to the board replacing Messrs. Carman Bowerman and Charles Hewson, who have resigned. Previous to the board meeting were Chairman Mac Smith, Dr. J. Russell Scott and Mrs. Norma Wills, Mrs. Ivan Sagebeer, Don McGinney, George Wilson, Fred Clements, Gordon Trill, William VanTassel and James Ward.

Mrs. Bruce Bishop was selected to fill the position of the chairman of the supply committee vacated by the resignation of Mr. Hewson.

PERMISSION GRANTED

Permission was granted to Miss Marion Mutchinall and Miss Marion Morton to attend a course to Britain for the teaching year 1955-57.

The board commended Principal J. E. Bateman on completing the requirements for Bachelor of Aris degree and Principal M. M. Harkett on completing the requirements for the Bachelor of Pedagogy degree.

The board conferred to a special committee the application of the Youth for Christ group to have the use of one of the school buildings throughout the year.

Approval was given to a supply committee recommendation for the purchase of a set of music appreciation records for the Sir Wilson Churchill School, and also two new instruments for the boys' band.

Deepest sympathy of the officers and members of the lodge go out to the family of the late brother, "Duke" Smith.

The company of all brothers at all future meetings is solicited.

Battle Scars and Lighter Side Of War to Fore at Reunion

MEMORIAL SERVICE

The members of Bethlehem While Shrine of Jerusalem, Order No. 11, are requested to assemble at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, 27 Campbell Street, Tonight, Monday, October 3rd, at 8.00 p.m., to attend a memorial service for our late sojourner, Hilda Sargent. — Worthy High Priestess.

By order of the Worthy High Priestess, Mrs. Emily Stevens.

MRS. MARGARET NELSON, Worthy Scribe.

The Bridge Street armouries rang to wartime reminiscences over the week-end when the 155th Light Anti Aircraft Battery RCA marked its 9th annual reunion.

Over 125 former members of the unit reassembled to talk over battle scars and the lighter side of wartime fighting at the week-end event.

They came from Belleville, Picton, Trenton, Napanee, Cobourg, Kingston, Bowmanville, Oshawa, Peterborough and district. It was rated one of the best get-togethers since 1946 when the battery first gathered in post-war assembly.

The "troops" registered on Saturday afternoon then went into the armouries' parade at seven o'clock they sat down to a sumptuous chicken dinner served by Murray Hunter of the Penguin Restaurant, listened to a few brief addresses and spent the evening reliving the old days.

On Sunday they paraded to the Station Street Cenotaph, where a wreath presented by the Rev. W. J. Robinson, rector of St. Thomas Anglican Church, officiated.

Don Thomas acted as master-of-ceremonies at the Saturday evening banquet in a highly capable and humorous manner. At the same time as the banquet awarded banter to pay tribute to the committee mainly responsible for the success of the reunion. These included, Harold Hall, Gerald Turner, Bert Descote, Ken Ashley, Art Cockburn, Fred Sprague and Frank Bailey.

At the head table were Lieut. Col. K. S. Falkenau, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and Major Edward Regimbal of the 49th Battery; ex-mayor Harry Rollins; Hon. Capt. Rev. W. J. Robinson, padre; Peppe chaplain; Capt. Fred Symons, Major Charles Dafoe, Major Alderman Claude D. Tice, William Ford, president Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans; Alderman Ben Ketcheson, John Terry of Redsers-ville and Captain Gordon King, Cobourg.

Alderman Tice extended the official welcome to the city, paying tribute to the valiant service done by the battlerymen while overseas. He extended an invitation to "come back any time."

Col. Falkenau spoke the greeting of his organization, also extending an invitation to visit the ANAF club while the gunners were in the city. "You, like ex-servicemen can set a splendid example in these worrisome days," he said.

Mr. Rollins paid tribute to the gunners for the part they played in preserving civilization and democracy. If it were not for these outstanding ex-servicemen he would not be enjoying freedom today.

Captain Robinson limited his remarks to two or three humorous stories. While Col. Falkenau paid tribute to his former battery mates. "Once a gunner always a Belleville stay," he smiled, "but as OC of the armouries I hope you don't have to build here."

Captain King said the 10th reunion was getting bigger each year and hoped to have as good a turnout in Belleville. Several former non-commissioned officers of the 47th spoke briefly.

Battery Sergeant Major Cec Galway marched the unit in review parade which left the armouries at 2 p.m. Inspecting the parade was Lieut.-Col. Falkenau and Major Regimbal. The salute was taken in the case of your former comrades," he said. "The torch has been passed by them to us. We can all give our lives through our homes, our jobs and our God."

Five Hundred Attend Dance At Arena

Nearly five hundred city and district square dancing enthusiasts were present at the Memorial Arena on Saturday night when the Recreation Committee sponsored a most enjoyable evening. Sam Jack and his champion square dancing set from North Bay were present to instruct and show the latest in the way of the dance.

During the evening the set split up among the dancers and gave instruction while the dance was in progress. At the conclusion of the dance the visitors were entertained by the committee.

It is the intention of the committee to hold several dances later in the year so there will be sufficient instructors of the dance to go around and all may have a most delightful recreation.

Although the committee was disappointed at the size of the crowd, it was felt that the effort was worthwhile.

District Students Prize Winners At RMC

Alderman Tice extended the official welcome to the city, paying tribute to the valiant service done by the battlerymen while overseas. He extended an invitation to "come back any time."

Col. Falkenau spoke the greeting of his organization, also extending an invitation to visit the ANAF club while the gunners were in the city. "You, like ex-servicemen can set a splendid example in these worrisome days," he said.

Mr. Rollins paid tribute to the gunners for the part they played in preserving civilization and democracy. If it were not for these outstanding ex-servicemen he would not be enjoying freedom today.

Captain Robinson limited his remarks to two or three humorous stories. While Col. Falkenau paid tribute to his former battery mates. "Once a gunner always a Belleville stay," he smiled, "but as OC of the armouries I hope you don't have to build here."

Captain King said the 10th reunion was getting bigger each year and hoped to have as good a turnout in Belleville. Several former non-commissioned officers of the 47th spoke briefly.

Battery Sergeant Major Cec Galway marched the unit in review parade which left the armouries at 2 p.m. Inspecting the parade was Lieut.-Col. Falkenau and Major Regimbal. The salute was taken in the case of your former comrades," he said. "The torch has been passed by them to us. We can all give our lives through our homes, our jobs and our God."

Jury Requests More Equipment For Employees

A recommendation that public utilities investigate the possibility of providing additional insulative equipment for employees, when they are working on energized lines, was contained in the verdict returned today by a coroner's jury at the death of Robert Latta, electrocuted last Wednesday while working as a P.U.C. lineman.

The jury found that Mr. Latta came to his death about 4 p.m., September 28th, at the corner of George and Bridge streets when he accidentally made contact with a high voltage wire.

The jury was told that Latta was working with a pair of bolt clippers when the handle of the clippers came into contact with his chest.

The inquest was held before Coroner Dr. R. W. Tennent with the Crown investigation being conducted by Assistant Crown Attorney S. Gordon Robertson.

Witnesses called included Dr. Austin Walters, Hamilton Forrest, P.U.C. worker who was on the pole with Latta when the accident occurred; Charles Hiles, P.U.C. foreman and Roy White, Ontario Hydro.

Following completion of the evidence the jury returned to ask Utilities foreman Hiles how long power would be off if it had been cut during the repair work being carried on at the time of the accident.

Mr. Hiles replied that although the repairs in question had been completed in 20 minutes the following day, if power had been cut it would mean the lines would be dead for nearly one hour. Such a cut-off would have affected a wide area in the downtown section of the city.

The jury included William Van Tassel, Howard Booth, James McNamara, Don Leslie and Karl Kuntre.

FROST REJECTS

2. A plan for diagnostic services "which all authorities agree is one of the essential parts of a hospital insurance program."

3. A home-care plan to reduce the cost burden of specialized and extensive hospital services.

4. Assistance in meeting extraordinary hospital costs.

5. A hospital maternal-care program.

At the beginning, the full hospital plan could best be implemented by introducing a partially-subsidized and a partially-contributory system, Mr. Frost said.

He envisaged that eventually everyone would be covered by the scheme.

ST. LAURENT

He said suggestions in the past that the fiscal problems be dealt with by constitutional amendments had been unacceptable and hinted that situation still prevails.

NO PROPAGANDA

Mr. St. Laurent said his government will not make any specific proposals until there has been a full discussion of fiscal matters at the conference.

"We are not trying to persuade you of the advantages or disadvantages of any particular formula," he said.

But he added a formula that appears to recommend itself to the federal government would be one that would bring provincial per capita revenue up to specified levels defined in terms of what some of the provinces are able to obtain.

Mr. St. Laurent emphasized that the government of each province must decide for itself whether it is to re-enter the direct tax field.

Mr. St. Laurent, in launching the conference, said its job is to plan for the future.

After welcoming provincial premiers and wife Mr. St. Laurent said the main task of the conference is to plan for normal economy or a crisis. It should plan for Canada's growing population and expanding economy and to bring about higher standards of living.

Mr. St. Laurent said the conference must act at a time when the international outlook is more peaceful than for many years. Delegates had a duty to develop a federal system which would work "more efficiently in the changing conditions which confront us."

BIG TASK AHEAD

Mr. St. Laurent said the next few years will call for sound financial and economic policy by government.

Canada will have a big task of planning for growth in population, in the economy and in living standards. Quite considerable sums would have to be invested in Canada's growth.

The federal government, he said, still has defence problems "very much in mind." The situation had not changed much as regards federal defence spending since the preliminary federal - provincial meeting in April despite "more pleasant" international discussions.

Demands for social security were second to national security demands.

"We cannot deny such commitments in deciding what is to be done in other fields," he said. "We have to consider these competing demands."

OTHER TOPICS

Mr. St. Laurent's speech also dealt with another conference topic: public investment and development of natural resources.

He reviewed past accomplishments and said it seems likely that future action will follow the same pattern.

The federal government had followed a vigorous policy of public investment, subject only to the over-riding burden of defence costs and the danger of inflation.

There had been big progress in building such things as airports and aviation facilities and the federal view was that those would have to be substantially increased.

There had been "a tremendous series" of housing programs undertaken jointly with provincial governments. Federal aid had gone into the building of some 300,000 home units since the Second World War.

Edmund McQuaid Dies of Injuries After Accident

Fatally injured in a motor accident near Sorrento while on his way to work in Toronto, Edmund McQuaid 27, son of Mrs. E. J. McQuaid, 57 Donald street, died this morning in Toronto East General Hospital.

He had been working in Toronto as a timsmith and had spent the week-end in Odessa. He was on his way back to Toronto when the accident occurred about six o'clock this morning.

Details of the accident are lacking but it is understood some object being transported on a truck crashed through the windshield of the car which McQuaid was driving.

Born in Belleville he was the son of Mrs. Nora McQuaid and the late Mr. Edward McQuaid. He had been living in the Toronto area for some time where he worked as a timsmith. He was a member of Holy Rosary Church at Belleville.

Surviving are his mother; seven brothers, Edward, Stanley, James, Francis, John, Gerald and Bernard, all of Belleville and nine sisters, Mrs. Gerald (Rita) McArthur, Mrs. Kenneth (June) Nolan, both of Belleville; Mrs. Hubert (May) Maracle, Shannonville; Patricia, Eunice, Teresa, Joan, Helena and Loraine, all of Belleville.

New York Times Manager Dies

Adler, 62, died of an old ailment, for which he first underwent surgery during the Second World War.

He retired as commanding general of the 77th Infantry Division at the end of 1945. He had reached that army retirement age of 62 on Dec. 3.

POWs WILL MEET

TORONTO (CP)—Former RCAF prisoners of war from across Canada will meet here Nov. 4-5 to celebrate the 10th anniversary of their release from PoW camps in 1945. Hundreds of ex-PoWs and their wives are expected to attend.

Amplifone Corp. Celebrates Opening of New Plant Here

The birth of a new industry in the city was formally celebrated Saturday night when T. K. Handing, president of Amplifone Corporation of Chicago, entertained local municipal officials and representatives of the TV industry at a dinner party at the Quinte Hotel.

Approximately 30 persons enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. Handing who announced the setting up of a branch factory in Belleville for the manufacture of horizontal output transformers used in the production of television sets.

Initial operation of the plant located in the Morch building on Water Street will be assembly of transformer parts. Transformer coils will be wound in the company's parent plant in Chicago. Manager of the local plant is Eugene Mundorff.

Within a week it is expected that ten to dozen girls will be hired for assembly line work at the Belleville plant. The completed product will be sold to Canadian television manufacturers, including Stewart Warner at Belleville, and others.

A woman's intuition was partially responsible for the choice of Belleville as the Canadian location for Amplifone Corporation.

Mr. Handing said that his wife who is vice-president of the firm, liked Belleville and so had his son and daughter. During the search for a Canadian location centres from Windsor to Quebec border had been visited, he said.

He said he hoped his Canadian branch at Belleville would grow with the television industry and would play some important part in enhancing the friendship between Canada and the United States.

Mr. Handing paid tribute to Don Kingdon, secretary manager of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce who had done much to assist in finding a location in Belleville. He paid tribute to Ernie Summers of Stewart-Warner Corp., who had made the initial suggestion that Mr. Handing locate his Canadian plant in Belleville. Also he paid tribute to Mayor Both for his warm welcome to the new industry.

Mayor Both officially welcomed the new industry to the city which he termed "the most popular spot in Canada". He was both proud and pleased that Amplifone Corporation was locating in Belleville.

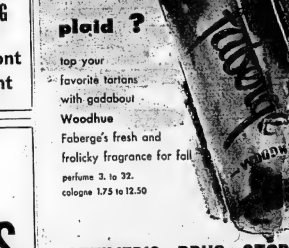
Carpenters Ask Commission On Labor Relations

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — About 46,000 carpenters demanded today that a royal commission be appointed at once to investigate Ontario Labor Relations Act.

Failing such action, the carpenters said, all building trades and the lumber and sawmill industry will request that they be excluded from the act.

The demand was contined in seven-page brief which will be presented to Labor Minister Charles Daley on Oct. 13 by the Ontario provincial council of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America (AFL-CIO).



About 7,500 carpenters in western Ontario are represented on the council.

The brief suggested that the royal commission be composed of equal representation from the judiciary, management and labor and that it report to the next session of the legislature.

Attacking the tremendous delay imposed on unions by present conciliation procedures, especially delays in awaiting reports, the brief warned: "While we hesitate to do it, often the cost of this procedure far exceeds the cost if we were to police the jobs illegally."

All of us who have been engaged in the real estate business for a considerable length of time have more than once met someone who was doubtful about the value of the services which we realtors render to the public.

I've even heard people say that no one needs an agent in a real estate deal.

Well, I suppose when you get right down to it, nobody really needs a contractor to build a house, either, for there is no reason why each home-builder couldn't order all the materials he needed, and then do the hiring of the carpenters, bricklayers, plumbers and other tradesmen whose skills were needed.

Yet the vast majority of people who are building a house will go to a contractor. Why? Because he has the contacts, he has the time and ability, and — most important of all, perhaps — he has the know-how, to get the job done in the greatest efficiency, which means a saving of both time and money.

The reliable realtor performs a similar sort of service, except that his attention is centred on the selling of the house, rather than the building of it.

Certainly it is possible for any intelligent person to make a satisfactory deal in real estate without the aid of a realtor. But isn't such a person trusting to luck, to some extent, if he hasn't the necessary contacts, the time, and the know-how, as wel las good business ability?

But don't let today's column throw you. I have no intention of using this space just to justify my profession. Next time, we'll discuss the "do's" and "don'ts" of buying a house.

SAD IRONY FOR JEWS

There is a sad irony in the news that Egypt will acquire arms from Communist countries.

No sensible person will be in any doubt as to why Egypt desires these weapons. The eyes of her soldiers are turned towards Israel.

The strife between the inhabitants of the new state of Israel and the Arabs in the lands which surround her is deplorable but understandable. The Arabs are not without a case. Nor, for that matter, are the Jews. It is not a question which should be judged lightly, nor hastily.

That, however, does not alter the irony of fate which should see the foes of the Jews armed by Communists.

For it is not so many years ago that the Jews, if they were not being accused of being international bankers and money-grabbers, were being exposed to a bitter tirade denouncing them as Bolshevists. Nor was Hitler the only one singing this song.

There was a grain of truth in both these contradictory accusations. Some international bankers are Jews. Quite a number of the early leaders of the Bolshevists were Jews.

The explanation for the prominent role which Jews played in the early days of the Communist Party in Russia is simple. They were oppressed. They were treated unjustly, but they possessed a keen sense of social justice. They were literate. They were intelligent. They were courageous. They led the revolt against Czarism.

They, then we forget, in our detestation of Communist methods today, that whatever we may think of its creed the Communist party originated as a revolt against oppression and that many of its original excesses were but a reflection of the earlier excesses of the oppressors.

There was a day, therefore, when the suggestion that a Communist country would deliberately arm the foes of the Jews would have raised eyebrows throughout the world—and this in spite of the fact that the Zionists who have carved out a new state for themselves in their ancestral homeland are not religious, while the Jewish Bolshevists were atheists or agnostics.

But the Jews have declined in power in the inner circles of the Communist Party. This is understandable. It was inevitable, as the Communists became the ruling party, that this party should include members of all the many races in the far-flung Soviet Union and that the early dominance of the Jews in the party could not help be argued, too, that the world mean the appearance in Communist Party ranks of anti-Semitism, strong in Czarist Russia. This argument, however, would probably not be faulty. The men who once led the Bolshevists were purged not so much because they were Jews as because they were Bolshevists. Any Jew who might set or would not follow the constantly changing twists which the Georgian Stalin gave to the party line.

And so, today, the followers of the political creed to which a Jew, Karl Marx, gave birth and to which Jews like Trotsky gave power sell arms which may one day be turned on the newly-green farms and the flourishing new towns of the long-Promised Land.

WHAT PRICE FREEDOM OF SPEECH?

The recent acquittal, in a Mississippi town, of two white men accused of murdering a 14-year-old Negro boy unquestionably aroused deep resentment among many lovers of justice and freedom everywhere.

Perhaps some of this criticism was unjust. For instance, if by and blamed by the jury they might reflect on the fact that three men, a sheriff, a doctor and an undertaker, all testified that the body of a Negro recovered from a river was not decomposed that the Negro must have been dead before the missing boy was kidnapped by the accused. How could a jury in the face of such testimony, register a contrary view? Of course the defence witnesses may have been lying, but it is extremely dangerous for a jury to register a conviction when there apparently independent and unchallenged witnesses to the fact wholly inconsistent with the guilt of the accused.

If, however, there may be some grounds for a different opinion over the result of this murder trial, surely no thinking person can fail to condemn the recent action by residents of another Mississippi town, Tchula. An angry mass meeting of white men demanded that two white men leave the county. Their crime—alleged advocation of racial integration.

In other words this Mississippi town would make it a crime, punishable by exile, to disagree with the traditional southern custom of segregation of whites and Negroes.

To make matters worse, the chairman of that mass meeting was a member of the state House of Representatives.

What price freedom of speech in Mississippi?

ABOUT TIME

Housewives are to get some help in selling their inventive ideas about household appliances. The Canadian Association of Consumers, representing 20,000 women, is coming to their aid.

Many a woman may have an idea for an improved clothes peg or a better saucepan, "but for lack of encouragement such good ideas have usually disappeared down the drain," says a communication from the association. So, a committee has been formed on "marketable ideas." (Sydney Post-Record.)

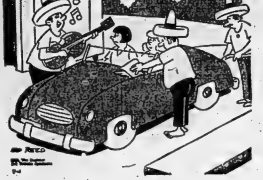
"JINGLES"

There are tears in a little boy's eyes; For childhood's first heartache they're shed.
How speedily happiness flies. Now Jingles, his poodle, is dead.



To danger dogs pay little heed, And highways most treacherous are.

Drivers race them at furious speed,
And Jingles ran under a car.

He was playful and loving and kind
And he welcomed his master with joy.
How comfort the heart and the mind When sorrow has come to a boy?

David Bacregar and Mr. M. W. Mott; representative to Ontario Educational Association, Miss M. Ketcheson with Miss B. Tummon as alternate.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Love nourishes us the way leaf and blossom nourish plants. Love can do to the very flesh and blood of its recipients what green pasture can do to the body of a heifer: make that manna did for the wanderers; what the Holy Grail did for the Arthurians. I am thinking of three sisters I knew in my youth. They were so alike in their beauty, disposition, characters, that we used to joke about them as a set of a mould rather than a mother.

One married a young fellow of no promise or distinction. His one merit was that he loved the girl to distraction and appeared ready to devote his entire life to loving and faithfully tending her. That he did. He never vanquished to mould the business world.

The second sister married the prize man of our whole circle. She was deemed the lucky one. She married a go-getter, a gifted man. He was. He rose to distinction and wealth. But he gave his whole life to the pursuit of success, and he certainly had no time, really, for his wife. She was thirty, to waste on the sentimental nonsense of love in the romantic or sentimental meaning. I knew him well. He was affectionate enough to his wife and family, but they were incidental to the chief interests of his life.

The third sister never married, but stayed at home to look after her parents who lived a long time and suffered a lot of illness and became filled with grievances and complaint in their ending years. I imagine there was not much love lost or won in the twenty last years of the third sister.

I saw all three of them lately at a funeral. The first one, who had been the object of persisting love all her life was so like her girlhood self that it was almost unbelievable. She was still beautiful, a kind of radiance about her. Even her voice, I felt, was unchanged, was that of the girl she had been.

The second one, very stylish, very poised, had lost every trace of beauty in exchange for a mask and a garment of fashion. She was brittle. Her beauty, I suppose, was withered up, humped up, dry, aloof, slightly sly.

So it is that I imagine on the street and in buses and crowds, that I can detect among all who pass by, both men and women, but mostly women, those who are loved. They look nourished by some thing mysterious, mystical.

Smallest Fish Claim Is Made

(Vancouver Herald)

Modesty is commendable but it can reach the point where reticence almost becomes boastful. In Norwich, England, a man is claiming the world's record for the smallest fish ever hooked.

In Canada we like to boast of doing things in a big way and a familiar sight is the fisherman posing with his huge catch. The smaller ones are thrown back into the water or hidden away.

But the chappie in Norwich landed a flatfish which weighed two and one-half grains, which is about 1-6000th of an ounce. The race will now be on for some person son to catch a smaller one.

Behind The Market Break

(New York Times)

In this week's case the effects of a good many persons pulling out of the market to await further news and its assessment, while potential buyers were deterred, understandably at least, from entering the market because of some considerations of a speculative repercussions. Trading volume on the New York Stock Exchange reached a total of 7,720,000 shares, making it the biggest single trading day since Oct. 29, 1929. The market averages of The New York Times suffered as a consequence of what was the single day since Oct. 29, 1929. By certain measurements—such as the decline in dollar value of shares—this week's was the severest in history. But while such comparisons have their uses it seems important to point out that they could carry implications that would be quite unwarranted by the facts.

For the comparative dollar values of the losses sustained on Monday with those of the days of 1929, 1 not to mean that there is any basis similarity between the present market and that of late 1929. In 1929 the market leaders, in all too many instances, did not go up gradually, up, and, after being put up, they were passed on to the investment purchasers, carrying them on their margins and without the financial resources to withstand the shock. When those margins "went below the line" the stocks were sold—and right and left. Added to this distress selling" was widespread public alarm which produced further demoralization in weak stocks. Moreover, stock prices at that time had lost all reasonable relationship to traditional values.

None of this condition was present in the stock market Monday. That the market was vulnerable to a technical reaction was to be expected, however, few persons, we think, will seriously believe that the 5-year-old bull market, alone, when a market is in that state, it is not only has it usually attracted to its ranks heavily interested speculative elements, inclined to sell when they see others selling. The bull market is perforated with air pockets in the form of stop-loss orders, the execution of which can produce a recital a certain point below the level at which they were placed. This is called.

These are largely technical considerations, however, which by no stretch of the imagination can be added up to a bear case. They do, on the whole, it may very well be that this shakeout was a much needed and badly overdue warning that the stock market doesn't always move in the same direction.

We All Suffer This Torture

(St. Catharines Standard)

The British, faced with the first commercial television programs, are apparently not the only ones agonizing shows as "$64,000 Question" will be produced here.

The London Evening Standard, in an editorial headed "Agony on TV" warns of an endless of quiz programs to the sensitivities of the victim [illegible].

The essence of the "$64,000 Question", suggests the London paper, is "the sight of perspiration exuded for a moment in nerve-racked agony before millions." The essence of financial state he happens to be in," it terms the sight is "cruel spectacle" in which the whole country it may not seem quite so entertaining to the many people in such mental torture."

The doubt in the agony of being offered a small fortune if you can correctly answer some rather obscure question, the British newspaper is a refined form of civilized torture. Perhaps it is better than this form of torture only involved $64, but due to inflation the ante may be raised to thousands has risen a thousand-fold.

But the fact is, in fact, the torture is one which faces every businessman daily as he makes decisions which may make or break his firm. There is even the parallel that having won the $32,000 question, should the firm double its investment for the $64,000 prize or sit tight with what it has? Most of us are not faced with decisions involving so much money. Employers are faced with the question of whether to call a $50-a-week job and shoot for the $100-a-week job elsewhere or stay put. Businessmen are faced with the question of whether to put their money in aluminum stocks or into safe bonds.

Tenants are faced with the question of whether to buy a house on a mortgage, or continue to rent. All involve gambling on bettering oneself financially at the risk of losing.

Still, for someone who is suffering great mental torture, that would be small comfort. Any great pain last night as she went for the $32,000 question. In fact she seemed quite composed and at ease. Perhaps it is because the torture is self-inflicted by those who choose to be present on such quiz programs that they appear no more nervous than the average person watching the show at home.

If there is anything that makes the program agonizing for the viewer over a year before a daring editor succeeded in raising public opinion to the point where the authorities were prepared to emphasize the illegality of imprisoning a man because he was a bear. A man may raise a beard today, without incurring the wrath of any of the manufacturers of razor-blades. But there are a great many people who would pass laws—racial—on which unpopular views are based and which would silence utterers to persecution. There are always individuals and groups prepared to take some rights to others which they demand for themselves.

In a democracy, no one's rights and liberties are stronger than his willingness to sweat way to safeguard one's own individual freedoms is to respect that of others.

Installments Too Numerous

(Detroit Free Press)

Doyle Senee of the Wall Street Journal interviewed a 29-year-old mechanic and his wife in Levittown Pa. Tony and Ingrid live on $4,000 a year. They have a baby and all the time I took seeing pleasure thinking that I ought to take it or let it alone, but I never drank a drop of the stuff, just to show them.

For years I had an antipathy for tomato juice, fresh or canned. When I was a boy in Canadaville we grew tomatoes in the garden, and some people picked and ate 'em right off the vine. The tomatoes were not far from that small structure — but we can't remember anybody ever thought of that. I just didn't like tomatoes. Certainly a citizen has a right to like or dislike anything he chooses to take or let alone. I carried on that attitude until my daughter, editor, ghost writer, biographer suggested that tomato juice might taste different than it did when I was a boy. She thought I'd like to take just a drop of tomato juice. I tried it, and it was good. I've enjoyed tomato and tomato juice ever since.

Fish and chips, bread and butter, cookies and milk, pork and beans, meat and potato, ham and eggs, crackers and cheese, liver and bacon, corned beef and cabbage, oatmeal and cheese, spareribs and sauerkraut are food combinations that appeal to most appetites.

From tests of volunteers physiologists concluded that the taste of meat induces secretion of a gastric juice especially suited for the digestion of meat. This juice is similar to the juice secreted in response to the taste of bread, but quite different from that secreted in response to the taste of milk. The scientists inferred that this explains why bread and milk or bread and meat are palatable, while milk and meat, or milk and fish do not go well together.

A motherly waitress was known to serve ice cream for dessert after lobster. On the other hand a traditional meal consisted pot, tato, coffee and toast or bread and butter, coleslaw and pickles, or olives, all at once, mixed everything thoroughly and ate the consequent mixture while other patrons of the lunch counter averted their eyes or fled the premises. The man declared it was all going into the stomach, so why fuss about the way it which one disposed of the items?

What! You Don't Like Schnitzel?

My antipathy for mashed potato developed when I was a little boy—at Thanksgiving dinner at Grandma's. I announced that I wanted just turkey and nothing else. I was served some mashed potato with the assurance I'd get some turkey when I finished eating the potato. I got even by spurning mashed potato thereafter.

Yes. For years I primly turned my glass upside down when urged to have a snifter of mashed potato—you drink it, don't you?—and all the time I took secret pleasure thinking that I could take it or let it alone, but I never drank a drop of the stuff, just to show them.

PALMER'S BEARD

Whenever we hear anyone boasting of America as the land of freedom and tolerance, we are apt to be reminded of Joseph Palmer's beard.

Joseph Palmer lived in Fitchburg, Massachusetts. By about 1835 he had raised a beard of magnificent proportions. His cleanshaven neighbors regarded him with suspicion. They made insulting remarks. They even threw stones at him. The leader of his church preached against him and finally refused him communion. He brought a committee of four citizens of Fitchburg decorated with razors to remove his beard by force; and when Palmer successfully defended himself, he was thrown into jail. He remained in the city prison in Worcester for

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

SUSTAINING CONVICTIONS

In the early days of my youth I heard a great deal about the use of "the rod" in correcting children. Sometimes I hear it spoken of from my experience! But I have always felt this method is all wrong. Kindly, humane efforts always seem to me more effective. It is best to make a child punish himself, or herself. One way is to deprive the child of some of the good or greatly wants. Otherwise you create resentment.

The simple and significant conduct of Lincoln that are typical of example stay with us throughout life. The simple virtues of honesty, truthfulness, truthfulness and unselfishness are the sustaining ones. Early taught and practiced, they become a part of character. They endure.

Henry Clay became immortal through the mere utterance, "I would rather be right than be president!" If all hopefuls could live that part of a convention, there would be better satirists for that great office! Convictions come from the heart. That's why they are sustained throughout life.

We have heard it said that if a child is brought up in the way he should go he will not later depart from those lessons. When I went a long distance away to college I became very homesick, as did many young people. I wrote back to college sad, in one of his early talks he sympathized. He would pass. It proved that such students came from good homes.

A successful people are sustained by the convictions that have been instilled in them in their work and living. I like to read the editorials of a great newspaper because they express the convictions of the publication itself. Convictions are like the rudder to a ship. They guide one safely through life.

It is not important if others do not always think so as we do, so long as we have honest convictions, and do not vary from them. No one else owns our self-respect.

Horrid Thought

The marathon swimming season in Lake Ontario seems about over. Perhaps next year a good idea for attracting public attention would be to arrange a marathon swim in which the only participants will be Toronto newspaper editors who have shown such great energy in persuading others to attempt the journey.

P.M. Says Health Insurance Plan Care of Provinces

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent made it plain today that any national health insurance scheme would be operated and administered by the provinces.

He told the opening meeting of the Dominion-provincial conference that health comes within provincial jurisdiction and the central government does not want to change that.

He indicated his government would wait until the provinces themselves set up health insurance and then see what help it might provide them.

Mr. St. Laurent suggested that the first prerequisite is to determine what agreement among the provinces is possible on health insurance. The next step might be a national radiological and laboratory diagnostic service, possibly followed by hospital insurance.

Only after the establishment of some form of hospital insurance could a provincially operated and administered health insurance scheme be considered.

COST BE JUSTIFIED

There would be little or no justification in the federal government taxing all Canadians to support a health program carried out by one, two or three provinces representing a distinct minority of the country's population.

Federal aid would be justified, however, if a substantial majority of provinces representing a substantial majority of the total population expressed willingness to undertake health programs.

Swimmer Fails

ST. IGNANCE, Mich. (AP) — Distance simmer William Handley failed Sunday in his attempt to swim the 5-mile-wide Straits of Mackinac.

Cold and heavy seas forced the 23-year-old marine engineer from Canton to abandon the swim about half a mile from his Mackinaw City goal. He was in the water four hours and 25 minutes.

Handley came here on his vacation to make the swim after he read that 21 - year - old Barbara Leonard of Los Altos, Calif., made the crossing last month in two hours and 36 minutes.

Rotarians Meet

Princess Royal Pays First Visit to Canada

Arriving in Quebec City, to pay her first visit to Canada, Princess Mary, aunt of Queen Elizabeth, is escorted from Empress of France by Governor-General Vincent Massey. The Princess' month-long Canadian visit, on invitation of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals of which she is colonel-in-chief, will take her across country to Vancouver before she returns to England October 25. As well as her connection with the signal corps, the only sister of the late King George VI is also colonel-in-chief of the Canadian Scottish Regiment. The Princess Royal, widowed in 1947 by the death of the sixth Earl of Harewood, has devoted most of her life to interests in nursing and hospital work. (Central Press Canadian).

Trains Collide Damage $80,000

OAKVILLE (CP) — A Canadian Pacific Railway freight train crashed into a Canadian National Railways freight on a siding here Sunday night, killing five head of cattle and causing damage estimated at $80,000 by a CNR official.

Police and firemen stood by through the night to prevent cigaret-smoking near an overturned oil tank car.

None of the crew was injured, but one locomotive and 12 cars were derailed.

Weddings

SPRY—KOLESNYK

A very pretty informal wedding was solemnized in St. John's United church, Telford, of Mary Sylvia Kolesnyk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Kolesnyk of Winnipeg, Manitoba, and William James Spry, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Spry, Tweed. The Rev. W. K. Pace, officiated.

The bride was attractively attired in a teal blue suit with navy accessories and carriage of white carnations. Her only attendant was Mrs. Katherine Dilling of Orhawa, also attired in a teal blue suit with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

The reception was held at the bridegroom's parents' cottage at Moira Lake. Receiving the guests were the bride's mother, attired in a beige rose suit with brown accessories and wearing a corsage of yellow 'mums. Owing to the bride's mother being unable to be present, the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Clinton Lough, assisted in receiving the guests, wearing navy blue with navy accessories, and corsage of yellow 'mums.

About 30 guests enjoyed a turkey dinner with Mr. Arthur McCarey, uncle of the bridegroom, as toastmaster.

Previous to the wedding, a miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Clinton Lough, Tweed, in honor of the bride. Also the nuptial of Peterborough Civic hospital, presented her with several lovely gifts.

Gamma Mu Chapter Holds Dessert Bridge

A most successful "dessert bridge party" was held at the Club Commodore last Thursday evening by the newly-formed Gamma Mu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority.

The guests were welcomed to the hall, decorated in black and gold, the colors of the Sorority, by Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, director, and Mrs. J. L. Aylen, president. Homemade pie, ice cream and coffee were served and afterwards the guests played bridge.

Mrs. Leona Wilson and Mrs. Charles Kennedy won prizes. Bridge prizes were won by, Helen Perry, C. C. McGuire, Betty Simpson, Harold Mott, Mrs. Pugh, Staff McKenna, Mrs. B. Irvine, and Grant Sullivan.

Door prizes were drawn by Dorothy MacKinnon, director of the new chapter, Mrs. Wilfred Weeden, its social sponsor, and Joanne Wood, president of Alpha Lambda Chapter, and were won by Sarita Lapham, Pauline Bishop, Herb Sweet, Jan Hayman, Mary Mott, and Mrs. Durant.

Jean Thompson and Alix Hartley were in charge of tickets.

The convenor of the party was Eleanor Sisson, assisted by Anne Acton, Cora Brain, Norma Cochrane, Joan Jamieson, Jane Langill, Vera Morphy, Barbara McDonald, Isabel Murray, and Madeleine Wolfenden.

The proceeds will be used by the Chapter to help furnish the pediatrics ward of the Belleville General Hospital and to help a needy family at Christmas time.

Should Send Sex Perverts To Hospitals

GUELPH (CP) — Sex perverts should be treated instead of jailed because they are "afflicted people," the Women's Institute convention resolved Friday.

The institute passed a resolution calling for changes in the law to enable courts to send perverts to hospitals or other centres for treatment.

"With the number of sex offences rising, this is not only a Christian moral attitude but an economic factor as well," Mrs. Luella Wolf, who introduced the resolution, said.

Four hundred delegates to the area convention condemned beer and liquor advertising on radio and TV. They also urged better material for radio, TV, movies and comic books.

New Students' Parents Enjoy H-S Meeting

Last Wednesday afternoon was "New Parents' Day" at Prince Charles school. Mothers and fathers of new students were entertained by the Home and School executive for Queen Mary-Prince Charles schools and all enjoyed a most happy afternoon.

Mothers of new pupils were escorted to the tea by the following ladies, Meadowvale: F. A. Beeby, C. Belsey, G. Bird, K. Chambers, A. Champagne, Mrs. Chappell, H. Craig, J. Fargey, J. Fletcher, P. Gelsthorpe, W. Hales, N. Hall, M. Lush, M. McClelland, K. Parks, C. Smith, E. Smith, P. Till, R. Wardle, who also acted as hostesses and had called at the homes to invite the mothers.

The guests were welcomed at the door by the principals and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Bateman, Prince Charles school, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Frink, Queen Mary school; Miss Cooke and Miss Hillis, kindergarten teachers, and Mrs. Pugh, president of the joint Home and School group.

Each guest was given a name tag, and was asked to sign the guest book. In charge of this was membership convenor, Mrs. J. R. Reed, assisted by Mrs. A. Halsey and Mrs. H. Halsey.

Those who had brought along tiny children had no need to worry, as music pupils took care of these tots while their mothers enjoyed a free hour.

A vote of thanks to these baby sitters who were, Cheryl Beeby, Marilyn Brown, Sheila Canning, Nancy Carter, Janet Horton, Lois Kennedy, Elaine Mirsky, Marilyn Rose, Minda Rosen, Sharon Rowe, Vonetta Valyear, Joyce White and Jo Anne Whalles.

CONTEST

A contest designed to help parents get acquainted was next, everyone was given a slip of paper and pencil, and the latest in getting the most names were Mrs. Fargey and Mrs. Hudson, each won a prize. In charge of this was Mrs. Orr, after which everyone gathered in the auditorium.

President Mrs. Pugh, presided and warmly welcomed the parents and old friends and gave an interesting outline of the aims and ideas of the Home and School Association. Mrs. Pugh also introduced her executive committee, called on Mr. Bateman and Mr. Frink to introduce their staffs.

Parents were told that the Home and School provided an excellent opportunity to meet the teachers and good programs are planned to provide entertainment and good fellowship.

Mrs. Pugh urged all new parents to become members and plan to attend regular monthly meetings.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Pugh introduced the special guest Mr. L. A. Kells, superintendent of schools here in the city. Mr. Kells spoke briefly on the importance of the Home and School Association and hoped for continued success throughout the year.

The president thanked Mr. Kells.

Mr. H. Frink then introduced Miss Cooke, kindergarten teacher, who spoke to the parents on the subject of their child's first year at school, explaining that her job was to bridge the gap between the carefree life the child left behind at home, and the more formal training needed for school, in an interesting and often humorous discussion, as Miss Cooke went on to say, that the first years were rather hectic sorting faces and names, the bold and the shy, but all settled down to peace and quiet and her little pupils learn to co-operate with each other, share their possessions, and to obey rules. She loved her work and held a great deal of affection for her little people.

Mr. Bateman introduced Miss Pickens, school nurse who told the parents her job was to give medical check-ups to children before starting school and expressed her desire to be of service anytime. Her office is at City Hall, Health Department and there is always someone there to take a message.

Both Miss Cooke and Miss Pickens were graciously thanked by Mrs. H. Craig.

Tea and delicious cookies were then enjoyed. Those responsible for the refreshments were Mesdames R. Woodley, Adams, Skinner, Orr, Smith, Hales, Halsey and Fletcher.

A special vote of thanks to Mrs. J. C. Withers for the lovely flower arrangements and to Misses Betty, Hillis and Wellburne, for the delightful chair arrangements.

Princess Royal Begins Visit To Montreal

MONTREAL (CP) — The Princess Royal, 58-year-old aunt of Queen Elizabeth, has begun a four-day visit to Montreal.

Greeting her as she stepped from the car were Mayor Jean Drapeau and Mrs. Drapeau.

They walked with her to the station concourse where she was met by the applause of some 2,000 spectators.

She then met city and armed forces officials and nodded, over-smartly-dressed, 100-man guard of honor from the Royal Montreal Regiment, stepping to chat with several of the soldiers.

A BIG SHY

As she left the station, Princess Mary smiled and nodded, overcoming the apparent initial shyness she showed when first confronted with the station throng.

She drove in a motorcade over a five-block route from the station to the Windsor Hotel, where she will stay until her departure Thursday.

During her visit in Montreal, Princess Mary will visit hospitals, meet charity workers, attend civic social functions and tour two armouries.

In Quebec City, the princess received an honorary doctorate of laws from Laval University, where she made her public address of her three-day visit. Speaking in French, she said it is the duty of universities to reconcile the effects of new discoveries with the legacies of wisdom from past generations.

U.K. DEFENCES IMPROVE

LONDON (Reuters) — A 10-day test of Britain's air defences which ended Sunday showed the country's defensive air net to be twice as effective as it was six months ago, Air Marshal Sir Dermot Boyle, commander-in-chief of the RAF fighter command, said. He added, however, that Britain's night fighter defence is still a weak point.

So-Ed Club Plans Full Fall Schedule

So-Ed (Social Education) has been part of most YMCA's in Canada for the past twenty years, and after a most successful spring session last February and March, the Belleville So-Ed Club will commence its 1955 fall session on October 12.

During the past two months, the committee has planned a program that they feel will be as well accepted and attended by the young people of Belleville and district as the session last spring. So-Ed is held every Wednesday evening for eight weeks with the evenings divided into several phases consisting of films; a speaker and discussion period, a period of arts and crafts, and closed with a social of dancing, entertainment, and refreshments.

So-Ed is a non-profit organization that strives to give the young adults of Belleville an opportunity to share their interests with others, add to their knowledge and increase their circle of friends.

Y'S MENETTES

The Y's Menettes' wiener roast, scheduled for Tuesday night was somewhat dampened by the rain, but went ahead and held it just the same on the inside. This was at the Sine cottage on Moira Lake. There were 24 out, despite the weather. An hilarious time was spent in playing charades, followed by dancing.

President Mary Fletcher moved a vote of thanks to Ella Moffatt, social convener and Jean Flindall, program convener.

Fire Fighters THROW OUT RED

The Kent Fire Brigade, in England, has given this tradition and now uses vehicles of aluminum—for three good reasons: No more painting. Less gas . . . we mean gas mileage. And better roadability and handling because of the lighter-weight aluminum bodies. We'd guess there's a further reason, too: the Kent folk enjoy; pride in their fire brigade when it flashes by in its gleaming new dress. Few materials can match aluminum for its fresh and lasting good looks.

Business Women Study Policies for Coming Year

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The Ontario Business and Professional Women's Clubs wound up their weekend-long conference Sunday with the election of officers and the eagerly awaited report of the association's joint committee on penal reform for women.

Miss Elsie Gregory MacGill, a professional aeronautical engineer from Toronto was elected provincial president. She will assume office in June of next year.

Miss MacGill told the 480 delegates that the Ontario government had accepted and was implementing the association's proposed penal reforms.

These included mainly new techniques for aiding offenders, she said, as well as the construction of new penal centres for juveniles and first offenders.

Among resolutions presented and adopted were two which attracted wide interest. One was a recommendation to appoint a committee to probe the government-owned amendment to the Municipal Act which would enable persons other than ratepayers to vote in municipal elections.

The other was a proposal to submit a brief to the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects.

A highlight of the two-day conference was the keynote address by Mrs. Esther Hymer of New York, the United Nations representative of the International Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Hymer told the women at their Saturday evening banquet that professional clubs were a strong power in the UN's struggle for world peace.

At the conference's closing luncheon Sunday, Mrs. Marjorie Lord, former women's editor of the London Free Press sounded a different note.

Mrs. Oliver told delegates not to push the "equality with men" theme unless they were prepared to back it up with deeds.

Half the resolutions called to jury duty in 1956 declined to serve, Dr. Marguerite Bailey, Toronto, informed the conference Saturday.

She recommended an amendment to jury laws Act, deleting the section permitting women to claim exemption from jury service.

Basing her report on a survey conducted by the jury service committee, Dr. Bailey said of 801 women called for jury duty 409 or roughly 50 per cent declined.

Other association officers include: vice-presidents, Mrs. Jean Sanders, Woodstock; Miss Madeline Rooney, Cobourg; Mrs. Morden Birbeck, Sudbury.

Miss Lillian McNab, Hamilton, was elected treasurer. Regional advisers include: Miss Beatrice Wilson, Niagara Falls; Mrs. Leone Dean, Kingston; Miss Jean Murphy, Timmins; Mrs. Grave Olum, Owen Sound.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PERHAPS YOU CAN HELP OUR FATHER

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

Our father is the type of man that gets drunk and then takes it out on his family.

One night when he got drunk, he picked on every one in the family. Then he got to me, he started calling me a bum and all sorts of awful names. He said everyone knew I was no good, and that when I went with a boy he could get whatever he wanted from me.

He hurt me so much by saying all this nonsense, over and over again, none of which is true, that I am just disgusted with him. In fact, I really despise him now.

I really wonder where he got such ideas, and what I can do to convince him that they are not true. If I were a girl who went with a lot of boys, and he saw me with a different one every time, he might get such an idea about me, but I go with just one boy, and I don't see very much even of him, because he is so busy. So when my father goes out and then comes home, he has always been busy working.

I can't understand him, because I am a very quiet girl and only interested in the boy I go with. Both my parents have never gone out with him, and he always comes to the house to get me.

I wish you could suggest some advice, Rosemarie M.

Dear Rosemarie:

To have a drinking parent is one of the most tragic problems a young person can face, and I deeply sympathize with you.

Your letter gives me the impression that you are an intelligent girl who is able to understand the kind of problem your father himself has, so I am going to try and explain it to you, in the hope that to understand it will make your burden at least a little less heavy.

First, I am sure your father is not really an understanding man who doesn't love his family.

Actually, he is a sick man, for excessive drinking is just that—an illness. Even the doctors do not really know what it is about just why people get this sort of illness, and it's a very difficult one to cure.

So try not to despise your father for it. Instead, be sorry for him. I know this will be hard to do, but know that it must be very hard not to get angry and disgusted with him when he comes home drunk and makes you all so unhappy, and especially when he criticizes you and says untrue things about you.

Something else I am quite sure of is that your father does not really believe you are the kind of girl he says you are when he has been drinking. I'm sure he knows very well that you are just what you say—a nice, quiet girl who would never do anything that weren't right. The reason he says such things is probably because he feels in his heart, even when he is sober, that he himself has been doing something wrong, and making his whole family unhappy. So in order to make himself feel not so guilty, he wants to believe that those around him have done something wrong, too. If he can pretend to himself that this is true, then he doesn't feel anybody can criticize him for his own behavior.

So will you try to remember, when he begins to find fault with you, and accuses you of things you know are not true, that it is deep inside himself, feeling badly about what he has done, and is playing a sad little game with himself in order to make himself feel better?

The fact is, that your father doesn't know, any more than the doctors do how he goes out and gets drunk. Maybe he's unhappy about something and it's the only way he has found to forget it for awhile. Or perhaps he's one of the many people who are literally poisoned by alcohol as some are poisoned by fish, or strawberries, or some other food that most people can eat but they can't without getting sick. Only alcohol makes people sick in a far more tragic way than foods do.

So try to be as gentle with him as you can, and that may help a lot. When he says mean things to you, just quietly leave the room, without answering back. Keep away from—him when he's been drinking, and when he is sober, make a point of showing his sober affection and talking with him in a companionable way. If you do this, you may be able to help him more than you think possible.

BUMPER CROP IS "STRICTLY FOR THE BIRDS"

Harvesting a bumper crop for farmer William Sapelak of Aylmer, Ont., is "for the birds", strictly speaking. Because, as you may have guessed, it's quite a problem trying to harvest a crop of all things, bird seed — a sample of which is displayed here by Betty Webster. For once the seed starts to ripen, birds by the thousands are on hand for the event. After trying unsuccessfully to frighten the winged creatures away from the crops, Mr. Sapelak came up with the successful idea of installing a couple of noise-makers in his 50-acre field which go off five times every seven minutes, producing explosions resembling shotgun blasts. While growing white and yellow millet is not unusual in Canada, Sapelak said he was the first in this country to grow spray millet, a kind of dessert for birds. Four other farmers in the area have since started to grow the stuff at request of a pet food company. (Central Press Canadian).

S.O.S. Budget

By Mary Moore

After reading a letter like the following my ever-recurring worry is that enforced budgeters will cut down on the proteins.

If you are not sure whether my problem can be helped by you or not, have two small boys, 2 years, and 4 months, and my husband does seasonal work, usually from April to November. . . my main problem is budgeting, the food bill—I've never been able to keep to one . . . we eat every vegetable and meat, which helps—and I do my own baking . . my budget should be kept in and around 50 to 60 dollars.—Patricia C.*

I think I will have to answer Pat. O. in instalments for I know that once this subject of budgeting is aired there will be a rush of letters asking for more.

The proteins are the expensive items on your daily diet. But the family who eats stew instead of steak gets just as much nutritional value from its protein—at half the cost. Another inexpensive and valuable protein is skim milk powder. Cheese is a high quality protein often called pure protein, and considered by many nutritionists the least costly per ounce of nutrition.*

While Pat. O. asks for a budget it is little use saying spend so much on meat, so much on vegetables, so much on fruits and exactly this much on milk and staples. She is asking a dietician who is fundamentally interested and concerned with the nutrition of the family.

I can make one sweeping statement though. Pat. O.'s budget will not permit her to buy pop for dinner, candies, ready-baked sweet goods, packaged cakes and cookies. She will have to do all of her own baking, and as an added dividend her family will be much healthier—for all of the above could stay on the shelves forever and no one's health would be the worse for the lack of the case.

So I'll put emphasis on protein foods that are inexpensive today, and hope that Pat. O. will watch for these items and buy such items as apples by the bushel and when skim milk powder is on the carton, and serve a different cooked cereal for breakfast every morning with honey or dark brown sugar.

The following recipe for a Baked Bean dinner will serve six hungry people generously. Pat. O. may want to cut it in half.

BAKED BEAN DINNER

Soak 2 lbs. washed dried limas overnight in 12 cups cold water. (Do not drain.) Add 1 or 2 cloves garlic, 2 sliced onions, 1 1-4 lbs. sliced salt pork or bacon ends or ground bacon ends. Drain off the liquid and measure it. To 2 cups of it add 1-2 cup molasses, 1-3 cup catsup, 2 teaspoons each salt and dry mustard, 1-4 teaspoon pepper. Pour with beans into baking dish, having the meat slices on top.* Sprinkle with brown sugar or top. Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes.

DUTCH FARMER'S DINNER

Put one or 1 1-2 quarts of sauerkraut in kettle with tight lid. Add 2 fresh pork hocks and cover with boiling water. Put on lid and simmer for about 2 or 3 hours, adding water sparingly as needed. My friend Dulce says she feels this oozes goodness for her children. My friend Garny serves this with dumplings.

More of these budget meals and ideas early next week. I have mailed to Pat. O. a booklet on the money management.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

AN INTRODUCTION - FORM OF SPECIAL GRACE AND CHARM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last evening I overheard a woman, a stranger to me, introduce her husband to a woman in this way, "Mrs. Field, I want my husband to know you." Her manner was most gracious, and when she said, "my husband" she turned charmingly to include him in the introduction. I was very much impressed with this form of introduction, and I'll never forget it. But I have never heard this form before, and I'm wondering if it is really correct. Is it? — S.L.C.

Yes, an entirely correct form of introduction . . . and I agree with you that it has a special charm and grace. And some women can make it sound as delightful and memorable as apparently this woman did.

IMPORTANT FEATURES OF A HOUSEWARMING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I'm not sure about the expected procedure of "showing the house" at a housewarming. Must I, the hostess, personally take the guests through the house, or may I simply let them wander around to inspect it (as I'm sure the women will want to do)?

2. Also about introductions. May I let the guests sort of get together on introductions (as for a lot of the time I'll be busy passing the snacks, and my husband will be busy making and serving the drinks), or must I introduce each couple as they arrive to those already there? (We're inviting eighteen couples.) — R.

1. You'll be a very wise hostess, a happier and more relaxed hostess, if you assign the "showing of the house" to two or three deputy-hostesses, each to take over during a specific time. Choose, say, a sister or a sister-in-law and a special friend on whose grace and graciousness you can depend. The showing of the house can be, should be, on the informal, casual side . . . "Would you like to see some of the other rooms?" . . . and the guest or guests, after the cue to proceed, may be left on their own, to wander as they will. (Hint: the clients should be in perfect order for inspection, and you may, if you wish, have the doors open . . . for those peering women, you know.)

2. You should, I think, adjust all your other plans to the important business of making gracious and welcoming introductions as the guests arrive. When necessary, postpone or interrupt the serving of the snacks and the drinks (or arrange the foods and the drinks so it is convenient for the guests to serve themselves) so that you and or your husband can make any introductions and say the pleasant and enthusiastic words of warm welcome.

FRIENDLY REMARKS WHEN TAKING LEAVE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I guess I'm what you'd call a cordial person! When I leave, after an introduction, I always like to express pleasure at the introduction. For example, I say the more-or-less customary "I'm very glad to have met you," or "I've enjoyed our talk together so much," or "I'm so happy to have met you—I hope I shall see you again." I've been told lately that it's all right for me to make these comments to a woman, but a woman shouldn't make these comments to a man. True? — Sallie

Not true. Why in the world shouldn't a woman make these pleasant remarks to a man, if she wishes to, and if she does it in a dignified way? The idea is that it is simply not human beings saying a friendly remark to another human being. What's wrong about that?

VALET . . . HOW PRONOUNCED?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

About the pronunciation of valet. Which is considered correct in this country — val-et (as spelled) or vahla (last a long)? — Alma K.

The generally-accepted pronunciation of valet in most parts of this country, is as spelled . . . val-et (neither syllable accented).

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

DRAMATIZE YOUR EYEGLASSES

No woman who needs eyeglasses should go without them for the sake of vanity. In the first place, she is harming, rather than helping, her looks since the squinting induced by eyestrain causes lines and wrinkles which are anything but flattering. And, in the second place, eyeglass frames today are so attractive that they can be considered as much an accessory as costume jewelry. They come in such a variety of size and color that some women actually have "collections" of them, adaptable to every costume and mood.

When fitting frames to your lenses, take your time. Try them on as carefully as you try on hats. And, just as you do with hats, view them not only from the front, but from each side. In this way, you will be certain that they are flattering from all angles. Select one is a shape that "does things" for your features and be sure that the color of the frames is complimentary to your complexion. Size is important, too, since they must be large enough to show the entire eye socket but not so large as if you were glasses and/ if you want to choose one which stops at the brows.

Don't go in for complicated hairdos either. Off-the-face coiffures are better than fluffy side curls which, together with glasses, give the appearance of frowsiness rather than smartness. In fact, you'll be wise to get some advice from your hairdresser as to the best hairdo for your face and make sure you keep your glasses on while he's dressing your hair so that he or she will be able to visualize the final result.

The British cruiser Cumberland looks as if it is suffering from a smoky fire on the decks as it goes through atomic warfare tests off Malta. The "smoke" is actually the spray set up by the ship's pre-wetting system which continually washes all weather surfaces with salt water to protect the craft from atomic fall-out. The aim of the system is to produce a sort of localized downpour exceeding the heaviest tropical storm. (Central Press Canadian.)

Mountain View

MOUNTAIN VIEW — Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Aunger of Los Angeles, California, spent several days with their cousin, Mrs. G. Harns, Mr. Harns and sons.

A meeting was called on Friday evening in order to organize a Young People's Society of the Ameliasburg Charge.

Mrs. Yvonne Poste was one of the guests at the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Cruickshank, of Melville, on Tuesday evening. A turkey dinner was served to about 30 guests at Maple Inn at Bloomfield.

Misses Lenna and Eloise Latchford were dinner guests on Thursday of Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Vader of Bloomfield.

Mr. and Mrs. William Daveron of Wellington; Mr. and Mrs. Ben Anderson, were Sunday dinner guests of Miss Lillian Anderson and Mr. John Anderson.

Mrs. E. Anderson of Belleville, who has been a house guest during the past week at this same home was also present.

Mrs. Alfred Poste and Yvonne were dinner guests on Monday of Mrs. G. Neal, Mrs. J. Smith and Pam.

On Tuesday evening several ladies motored to the home of Mrs. Robert Bowness of Centre. Mrs. Bowness had recently moved from Mountain View neighborhood. During the evening Mrs. Bowness was presented with a tri-light floor lamp and a kitchen stool from all her old neighbors and friends. Mrs. Bowness served lunch to the nine ladies who were present and a very pleasant evening was enjoyed by all.

Mr. Charles Sprague spent the supper hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Poste and family.

Some Scientists Believe Atomic Intervention Could Prevent Terrific Hurricanes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten deadly hurricane sisters, ranging from shy Alice to vicious Janet, have whirled up out of their Caribbean spawning grounds so far this year—and more may be yet to come.

Officially, the season of the big winds lasts until Nov. 15.

Experts disagree on whether it will ever be possible to throw a halter on these dangerous ladies from the tropics. But each time the grim red-and-black warning flags begin to fly, the U. S. weather bureau braces for an inevitable barrage of complaints:

"Why don't you do something to stop it?"

"Why are we hoarding our atomic bombs? Drop an A-bomb into the hurricane and destroy it before it destroys us."

MAY BE POSSIBLE

Some scientists believe atomic intervention could turn the trick. Dr. Edward Teller, so-called "father" of the hydrogen bomb, said recently that atomic research developments may enable mankind to control weather and "prevent or alleviate" hurricanes within the next 10 years.

How? By dropping A-bombs into the storm? Dr. Teller didn't say. But Dr. Francis W. Reichelderfer, breezy, fast-talking chief of the U. S. weather bureau, has strong doubts about atomic bombs as hurricane killers.

"It would take 1,000 atomic bomb explosions a minute to match the kinetic energy of a single moderate-size hurricane," Reichelderfer said in an interview.

"Radioactive fallout from an atomic explosion in a hurricane would be so tremendous it might kill 10 to 1,000 times as many people as the storm itself."

Groggy from repeated pounding, many easterners believe there has been a drastic change in hurricanes.

Ever since the great New England hurricane of 1938, they say, devastating tropical storms that chiefly afflicted Florida and the Gulf states have apparently shifted course and now pick on the long coastal stretch north from the Carolinas as their favorite hunting ground.

A record of eight full-fledged hurricanes swept out of the Caribbean last year. Three of them—Carol, Edna and Hazel—killed 279 persons and caused a billion dollars worth of damage in the U. S. and Canada.

Some experts say the switch to the north comes from the hurricane-steering action of the mysterious west-to-east jet winds blowing around the world at an altitude of 30,000 to 40,000 feet and at speeds up to 300 m. p. h. Other experts talk of sunspots and changes in the flow of the Gulf stream.

FORECASTERS DISAGREE

Still others suggest that the vast increase in world population and industrial machines has swollen the percentage of carbon dioxide in the global atmosphere and thus caused warmer weather. They say this would draw the hurricanes farther north.

To most of these theories, the weather bureau says fiddlesticks. Or a cautious "we just don't know."

"The paths of hurricanes have been different—more to the north and inland—in the last few years, but shifts in weather are common," said bureau chief Reichelderfer.

"It is safe to assume that conditions will change again, and once more the big storms will blow out to sea."

SYMBOLIC CHANGE IN ARGENTINE LIFE

A workman with an acetylene torch prepares to remove the foot-high letters of the name "Eva Peron" from the stern of an Argentine cargo ship in dry-dock in London, Eng. The vessel's new name will be "Uruguay." The switch is part of the new Argentine government's campaign to erase the name of Peron, who was forced into exile by revolt, from Argentine life. Members of the crew watch the symbolic change.

Billy Graham Gives New Twist To Bible Story

TORONTO (CP) — Evangelist Billy Graham gave a new twist to the old Bible story of Noah in a Sunday afternoon address to a crowd of 14,500 who jammed Maple Leaf Gardens to hear him open the third week of his Toronto crusade.

He said if Noah tried to build an ark today, sure that the day of judgment was at hand, men would call in a psychiatrist, and say he was a religious fanatic.

"The Americans would make a tourist attraction out of it and the phenomenon would be studied from a psychological viewpoint," he said.

But today, Graham said, not all the talking about the judgment day is being done by preachers. "Scientists are out-shouting the preachers."

"For the first time, with the advent of the hydrogen bomb, we are facing the stark reality of destroying the whole earth.

THE DAY WILL COME

"And the day will come when the wrath of God will be poured on men who have rejected Jesus Christ as their saviour."

The evangelist said the only thing that is keeping the world from war at this time is fear, but this should not be the only motive in surrendering one's life to Christ.

He suggested four rules to follow for people surrendering to Christ: "Read your Bible every day; pray every day; witness for Christ; let people see the change that has taken place by your graciousness, kindness and graciousness; and get into church."

More than 320 converts, the greatest number to come forward during the Toronto crusade, packed the space in front of the platform as he finished speaking.

UNVEIL MONUMENT

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— A grey granite monument was unveiled Sunday in memory of members of the Lincoln and Welland Regiment who died in action. Rev. J. A. Newman, former chaplain of the regiment, dedicated the monument.

That's why I keep on top of my form with Kruschen—just as much as I can heap on a dime—dissolved in my breakfast coffee. Since I started the daily Kruschen routine, I've had no more moving sluggishness. Actually I've got more pep all day long. Pearson Regrets UN Move For Discussion on Algeria

By CLYDE BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

PARIS (CP) — Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson issued a statement today expressing regret at the decision of the United Nations to debate the controversial Algerian question. France, incensed by the vote, recalled her permanent delegation to the UN.

Pearson, in Paris on the second stage of his 13-country round-the-world journey, added that he does not think the decision will weaken France's support for the principle of international co-operation.

The Canadian minister arrived Sunday night from London and issued the statement at the request of newspaper men. It said:

"I can only say that we opposed, and regret, the unfortunate decision to inscribe on the agenda a question which under the (United Nations) charter falls so clearly within the domestic jurisdiction of France.

"Decisions of this kind can in our view only harm the United Nations without advancing the cause of freedom and self-government in whose name they are made.

"France, whose contribution to man's liberation and enlightenment has been essential, will not I am sure allow this decision to weaken her support for the principle of co-operation among states through international organizations, of which she has been a staunch champion. In the past and which in the interdependent world of today is more necessary than ever if peace and progress are to be ensured."

Canada voted against inscription of the Algerian question and reporters requested the statement in view of Pearson's close associations with — and firm support for — the UN since its founding days in San Francisco. He is a former president of the UN General Assembly.

It can be taken for granted that the minister will do what he can, while in Paris, to try to smooth ruffled French feelings. Originally he had no official appointments in the French capital.

SEES AMBASSADORS

He will, however, have little time for conciliatory talks, as he leaves Tuesday for Berlin on the next stage of a trip which, the Manchester Guardian has said, "has all Canada ago."

Two Canadian ambassadors in Europe have come to Paris to see Pearson while he is here. They are C. P. Hebert, ambassador to Belgium, and Charles Ritchie, ambassador in Western Germany.

FIT DOWN RIOT

BOSTON (AP) — Some 230 inmates of Suffolk county House of Correction, hurling stones, lumber and furniture, staged a tumultuous riot for more than two hours Saturday night before more than 150 police and firemen subdued them with tear gas and a heavy stream of water. At least 30 guards, firemen and policemen were struck by stones but none was injured seriously.

Accidents Take Lives of 33 Throughout Eastern Canada 22 of Them in Ontario

HEALTH MINISTER MARTIN SELECTED TO RECEIVE BROTHERHOOD AWARD

The Canadian Council of Christians and Jews was announced that Hon. Paul Martin, above, minister of national health, Q. B. Roger and Joseph Jeffrey, are the recipients of 1955 Brotherhood awards. Each year the council honors three Canadians who have made an outstanding contribution to human relations in Canada with Brotherhood awards. Mr. Martin, who represents Canada at the United Nations, has taken an active part in the work of the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews, and is a member of its board of directors. Mr. Roger, a vice-president of an oil company, and Mr. Jeffrey, an insurance company president are also actively engaged in council work.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Thirty-three persons died by accident in eastern Canada during the weekend, 26 of them in traffic mishaps.

A Canadian Press survey today shows 22 fatalities in Ontario, eight in Quebec, one in Newfoundland and one each in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia from 6 p.m. Friday to midnight Sunday.

In Ontario traffic accidents took 16 lives. Two fishermen were drowned when a boat upset, a hunter was fatally shot, and three men died in industrial accidents.

Traffic accidents accounted for all the Quebec deaths. Seven occurred on the highways and one on a railway crossing. All the Maritimes deaths were in traffic.

FALLS TO DEATH

Ontario deaths:

Charles Alvin Flood, 18, of Woodstock, killed when his car rolled over near Drumbo, 36 miles north of London.

Ralph James Vickers of London killed when a Woodstock-to-London bread truck was struck by another truck.

George Beaushaw, 32, of Thedford, killed in a three-car crash near Watford.

ROAD TOLL HIGH

Mrs. Winnie Pym of Exeter killed in two-car collision near Exeter.

Dead are Henrick Cafe, 6, of Chatham fatally injured when struck by a car near his home.

Conrad Lapierre, 9, of Sudbury killed when struck by a car.

John Fitzgerald, 19, of Toronto, killed when the car in which he was riding struck an import truck at Belleville.

BOILER EXPLODES

Lieutenant Bernard Sperber of Moncton, Lake, N.Y., killed when his car struck a tree near Ottawa.

John Skalicky, 53, of Gravenhurst, died after being scalded when a boiler exploded where he worked.

James Lafferty, 16, of Toronto, fatally injured when his car rolled over.

Mrs. Cecil Young, 42, of Ingersoll, killed in a smashup 15 miles east of Sarnia in which five others were injured.

Egypt, Israel Pull Back Troops But Talk Tough

CAIRO (CP) —Egypt and Israel have finished pulling back their troops from the demilitarized El Auja-Nitsana zone but on the diplomatic front the battle of words continued with Egyptian plans to buy Communist arms.

In Jerusalem, a government statement today declared that Israel would take all possible steps "to close the gap" if Egypt acquired a substantial supply of arms.

In Cairo, Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser told military academy graduates in a Sunday speech that Egyptian intelligence had intercepted a message from the British war ministry to the foreign office saying Egypt would work to avoid aggression "but we have little confidence that Israel will follow the same policy."

There was no immediate comment in London.

Moscow radio defended the right of Egypt to buy arms wherever she chooses. A broadcast heard in London said the Soviet government has informed Egypt, Czechoslovakia — from which the Egyptians plan to buy heavy arms the West won't sell them — Britain and the U.S.

U.S. AGREED

On this point, the Russian and American governments are officially agreed, the broadcast said. George Allen, assistant U.S secretary of state, told reporters in Cairo Saturday that "every nation has the right to get arms from any source." Allen is continuing his conferences with Egyptian officials and the British and French ambassadors here in an effort to persuade the Egyptians not to get Communist bloc arms.

Observer in his speech blasted the U.S - British - French promise to maintain the Israeli-Arab balance of power. He continued the Western powers of arming Israel while trying to leave the Egyptian and other Arab armies weak.

Pravda's Ottawa Reporter Says Canadians Interested In Improving Soviet Links

MOSCOW (Reuters) — E. M. Litoshko, Ottawa correspondent of the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda, writes in that newspaper today that "after the Geneva conference, there was in Canada a great increase of interest in the Soviet Union and in the perspectives of an improvement of Soviet-Canadian relations."

Litoshko's article, as quoted by Tass news agency, continues:

"The stay of the minister of the fisheries Sinclair in the Soviet Union, the impending visit of the Foreign Minister Pearson to Moscow and the visit to Canada of a Soviet agricultural delegation—these are all telling proofs that large circles of the Canadian people consider favorably the idea of strengthening and of expanding the political, business and cultural links with the Soviet Union.

"The Canadian press, highly assessing the importance of these events, notes also that they are a sign of the times, attesting to the changes which are happening in the international situation after the Geneva conference.

"With a genuine interest and a friendly attention, the workers of Canada met the members of the Soviet agricultural delegation.

"The fortnight's stay of the Soviet agricultural delegation in Canada has fostered the strengthening of the links of friendship and mutual understanding between the Canadian and the Soviet peoples.

"The Soviet opinion has received favorably the recent statement of the Foreign Minister Pearson that the time has arrived to establish normal diplomatic relations between Canada and the Chinese People's Republic."

The Canadian external affairs ministry actually said was that the time is fast approaching when Canada should take a searching look at the question of diplomatic recognition of Red China. It was also noted that the Pravda article makes no mention of the dissenters in several Canadian cities during the agriculture delegation's tour during demonstrations by anti - Communist new Canadians.

The article continues:

"What Canadians speak about those landslides which occur now in the public opinion of the country, they retire invariably to the growing demands that the volume of trade with the countries of the Socialist camp should be increased. .

"Some Canadian statesmen begin to realize that it is impossible to preserve peace and ensure the security of the peoples with the aid of narrow closed military groupings or an armament race. . .

"Canadian opinion has received with great satisfaction the news of great reductions of the armed forces in the Soviet Union and of the transfer to Finland of the military base in the Porkkala area.

"In these noble acts all peaceloving Canadians saw a concrete putting into practice of the 'Geneva spirit' and the wish of the Soviet Union to do all for a further easing of the international tension."

Canadian Climbs Big Ben Tower

LONDON (CP) — Lewis Bradfield, a Canadian stunt man and mountaineer, was under observation in hospital today after an unauthorized climb and adventure which won him headlines in the British press.

Bradfield, 41, Sunday climbed to the top of scaffolding around the famous Big Ben clock tower of the Houses of Parliament. Police finally brought him down and he was taken to hospital.

Newspaper accounts said various police and fire chiefs climbs to get himself on television, and to get publicity for "his housing problem."

The Daily Telegraph quotes Bradfield as saying the climb was not really dangerous — "in Canada, sometimes, I've often climbed trees 300 feet high when I was tree-felling."

It was reported that Bradfield served in the Canadian Army during the Second World War and later worked as a stunt man in British films under the name of Slim Dexter. He was born in the Canadian Arctic.

Fiberglass Workers Reject Board Report

SARNIA (CP) — More than 350 fiberglass of Canada employees, members of Local 1610, Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers (CIO-CCL), voted unanimously Sunday to reject a majority report of a conciliation board set up to arbitrate a company-union dispute.

C. G. Gauthier, international representative of the union, said Sunday night the union representatives would meet with management today in an attempt to resume contract negotiations.

The conciliation board report turned down by the union membership recommended immediate wage increases ranging from 10 to 17 cents an hour plus a three per cent increase effective in March.

The union, which had requested a 25-cent per cent increase and a one-year contract, vetoed the board's recommendation on the grounds that it was virtually identical with a company offer turned down in July.

60,000 MARCH

PITTSBURGH (AP)—An estimated 60,000 Holy Name Society men of the Roman Catholic Church marched through the streets Sunday in an eight-hour-long parade ending the society's sixth national convention.

Nationalists Increase Lead In Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—The vote in Indonesia's first general election is piling up on the border line of communism, with the nationalist Pendeleran Front" party increasing its commanding lead over its major opponent.

Mohammad Natsir, general chairman of the Moslem Masjumi party, Sunday night in effect conceded defeat, saying "we no longer can expect to get a working majority in the new parliament."

With more than a third of the estimated 34,000,000 votes counted, unofficial results give the Nationalists 3,988,954, Masjumi 2,710,951, Communists 3,069,616 and Moslem Orthodox Radicals 1,660,314.

Although the Nationalists are far short of a majority in the popular vote, they can count on the support of the Communists whose backing has kept Nationalist leader Ali Sastroamidjojo's cabinet in power for the last two years.

PRESS AMAZED

The final outcome will not be known for weeks as voting continues by stages in the 3,000 islands of the archipelago.

Jakarta Djakarta Baru amazed the non - Communist Indonesian press and business community who hoped the Ali Sastroamidjojo government out nine weeks ago with complaints that nothing was being done to halt the worsening economic and financial situation.

Policy Debate Of UN Assembly Is in Last Round

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United Nations General Assembly came back today for a final round of general policy debates with France's delegate in the assembly hall, empty in a protest gesture.

The French Saturday declared a boycott of the assembly and its committees in protest against the world forum's 28-to-27 vote ordering a debate on French administration in Algeria.

Members of the permanent delegations today were still awaiting specific orders from Paris on their next moves. Orders are not expected, only four or five of the 14 in the delegation will continue their UN activity here.

FLEW HOME

Herve Alphand, president of the Security Council for October, flew home during the weekend with Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay and several others in the delegation to get instructions for the UN assembly sessions. Others of the French delegation plan to leave tonight.

Only Jules Moch and two aides, working in the disarmament subcommittee, are authorized to attend current meetings. But the French consider that the sub-committee has been dissolved for the present session, is here because the Big Four "summit" parley—Eisenhower, Eden, Faure, Bulganin—is in preparation for the Big Four foreign ministers meeting in Geneva to begin in Geneva Oct. 27.

Bitterling growing in the UN since the Algerian row, became a celebrity overnight when the bird was photographed beaking an egg in the Stanley Park zoo.

That was two months ago today. For 61 days Matilda nursed the egg.

On Sunday curator Alan Best said that "short of a miracle," the egg is dead.

France Carefully Keeping One Foot Inside UN House While Boycotting Assembly

PARIS (AP)—France is carefully keeping one foot inside the United Nations house after deciding to withdraw its permanent delegation and boycott the assembly because of its vote against Algeria.

The cabinet Sunday night announced withdrawal of the UN delegation and an end to participation in all activities of the international organization except those of the Security Council, its disarmament commission and subcommittee, and its military staff committees.

But the communique left the door open for France's return and avoided any mention of withdrawal from the UN as a whole. By remaining in the Security Council, France keeps her preferred position as one of the five veto-holding permanent members.

This morning the foreign ministry announced that the proposed visit of Premier Faure and Foreign Minister Pinay to Moscow Oct. 14-16 has been postponed. The announcement, which had been forecast Sunday night, was made before France received the charge d'affaires of the Soviet embassy and given him the news.

The ministry said the visit was merely thought it preferable to put off until a later date. Russia cost a decisive vote in the assembly to take up the Algerian question.

Moroccan developments promise serious trouble for Faure when the National Assembly comes back Tuesday from its parliamentary vacation. Many of the 627 are breathing fire over government policies aimed at curbing North African nationalism, while others think the government has moved too slowly.

The UN assembly's 28-to-27 vote to look into affairs in Algeria aroused fury here because under France's constitution Algeria is an integral part of France, not a colonial territory.

France will not permit having its territorial unity put on trial," Pinay declared as he arrived here from the UN. "Algeria is just as much a part of France as California is a part of the United States," a foreign office official added.

Faure, in a speech at Amiens, backed up Pinay without naming the UN assembly, declaring: "Algeria is French land. There is not, and there can't be, an Algerian administration."

Unidentified Man Is Killed

AGINCOURT, Ont. (CP) — An unidentified man was killed today when the car he was driving collided with a truck six miles east of this Toronto suburb.

Police occupants of the truck, loaded with lumber, escaped injury. They were: Cornelius Pieter de Gall; his wife Anna; his son Dick, 3; and Matthy Dornelaar, 31.

Egg Goes to College

VANCOUVER (CP) — Matilda is just another penguin today.

But the female penguin Matilda famous is on its way to the University of British Columbia zoology department.

Matilda, a king penguin of unknown sex, became a celebrity overnight when the bird was photographed beaking an egg in the Stanley Park zoo.

That was two months ago today. For 61 days Matilda nursed the egg.

On Sunday curator Alan Best said that "short of a miracle," the egg is dead.

Businessmen Consider Ways, Means to Keep Tide Rolling

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian business men, meeting in what possibly is Canada's greatest year of prosperity, today considered ways and means of keeping the tide of good times rolling.

Gathered here from coast to coast as delegates to the 26th annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, they started four days of discussions which will set a pattern for business views for the coming year.

Today's deliberations were in closed sessions of the big policy committee which considered recommendations developed during the last 12 months from big and small local chambers and boards of trade of 700 communities. The day's job was to put them into shape for presentation to a later general session.

The current state and problems of agriculture, trade and natural resources development will be chief topics of discussion.

Traditional chamber policy is to favor multilateral trade, or wide exchange of goods among the world's people as free of restriction from this policy is expected, but the chamber may suggest that Canada examine closely just what is her position in today's trading.

Another topic the chamber's them is "teamwork for progress" and this year's gathering aims at suggesting ways in which capital, labor, management and government may co-operate to the best advantage.

The annual dinner Wednesday night will be addressed by James Muir, president of the Royal Bank of Canada.

Hoax Horrifies Air Show Crowd

VIRDEN, Man. (CP)—The loud-speaker at the Virden Flying Club Sunday announced the final stunt: A man would jump from a low - flying light aircraft without a parachute.

Almost 2,000 horrified spectators gasped as they saw a dummy, with 1,500 feet and load behind a hay-stack. A Virden ambulance, sirens wailing, sped to the spot.

Don Whitehead, president of the Virden Chamber of Commerce, cleared up the confusion. It was all a flying club hoax — a dummy was hurled from the plane and a live parachutist was waiting behind the haystack.

Union to Defend Organizer Who Was Against It

TIMMINS (CP) — The United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL) has announced it will defend an organizer for an opposition union which recently made an unsuccessful bid to unseat USW as bargaining agent for Aunor Gold Mines.

Leonard Michaud, 35, who was fired by Aunor Saturday, was a scheduled witness at a labor relations board hearing of an application for certification by the Communist-dominated Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union (Ind.)

The application was turned down by the board.

Mine-mill officials termed the firing "a flagrant and deliberate breach of the labor laws."

PROTESTING CHARGES

Meanwhile, the Porcupine area council of USW decided at a meeting Sunday night to protest "contesting Michaud's dismissal to Labor Minister Daley of Ontario and French Canadian members of the Ontario labor relations board.

"We regret that Michaud has not been fit to file a grievance," said Lee Heibin, a steelworkers official. "We must fight to get him back as a worker to testify, even though he's working against us."

The telegram to Mr. Daley said Michaud had been "victimized as a result of appearing as a subpoenaed witness before the board."

KILL 5 WOLVES

Will Visit Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Evangelist Billy Graham arrived here by plane Sunday night. The United States evangelist is to address a prayer and open-air rally at Lansdowne Park Monday. Organizers said they expect an attendance of 25,000.

Rally or no rally, Graham said the evangelist is to be presented to Governor-General Vincent Massey this afternoon. Later he will meet Prime Minister St. Laurent at the prime minister's office.

Eden's Trip to Visit Queen Stirs Gossip About Princess

LONDON (Reuters) — Gossip about the rumored romance between Princess Margaret and Group Captain Peter Townsend intensified during the weekend as Prime Minister Eden flew north to visit the Royal Family's summer home in Scotland.

Ostensibly, Eden went to Balmoral Castle for a purely social visit to the Queen and members of the rest of the Royal Family. Such visits have been customary since Queen Victoria's reign.

But London's sensation - loving popular press was quick to give the trip added significance. The tabloid Daily Sketch said Eden would "have an opportunity to discuss with the Queen a proposal that a public statement should be made about the rumors concerning Princess Margaret."

The papers here have been clamoring for such a statement ever since the princess celebrated her 25th birthday in August. They claim that a statement would end the spate of world-wide rumors — never confirmed or denied by any official source — that the 25-year-old princess wishes to marry Townsend, a 40-year-old divorced man, despite the stern attitude toward divorce by the Church of England.

If Princess Margaret chooses to marry a divorced man, a full-scale wedding in London's Westminster Abbey would be out of the question. But the Church of Scotland takes a different view, and there has been some guessing that the princess might wed in Edinburgh's St. Giles Cathedral.

But with Eden's visit over, the public is sone the wiser on what was or was not discussed.

Dame Flora, Chief of Clan, Visits MacLeods

The white-haired matriarch, who for 30 years has headed the clan, will roam Canada from Cape Breton to Vancouver Island fleeking the wandering MacLeod.

Dame Flora returned earlier this year from a 30,000-mile trip to the United States, Australia and New Zealand. Purpose of her worldwide journeys is to swell the pilgrimage of overseas MacLeods to her home, historic Dunvegan Castle, perched on the rocky shore of the isle of Skye.

Created a Dame of the British Empire in 1953 for her social and public service in Scotland, Dame Flora is the 28th chief of the clan and is the first woman ever to hold the position.

CANADA'S DEFENCE BOARD LOSES SOLANDT TO CNR

One of the most important figures in Canada's defence system, is retiring as chairman of the defence research board to become the CNR's assistant vice-president in charge of research and development. Dr. Omond M. Solandt, seen above, who is 46, will be succeeded at the defense board in Ottawa by A. Hartley Zimmerman, 53, a native of Hamilton, Ont., who has been vice-chairman of the board since January. Dr. Solandt's value to the government was his singular combination of a sound scientific knowledge and background together with the executive ability to manage a research and development program employing 2,500 persons with an annual budget of some $22,000,000.

Cease Fire on NFB Player Raids Called by Big Four Football Union

TORONTO (CP)—The Big Four Football Union has reached two major decisions regarding its high-priced help.

A league meeting Sunday agreed teams may carry 11 American imports after Oct. 15—16 active players and on the inactive list. It also agreed to call a cease-fire on player raids of National Football League teams.

The Western Interprovincial Football Union, Big Four officials say, is going along with them on the no-raiding offer.

During the no-raiding period—Oct. 15, 1955 to March 1, 1956—the two Canadian loops will—try to reach an agreement with the United States professional league.

Big Four president Ralph W. Cooper of Hamilton was authorized to join with WIFU commissioner Syd Halter of Winnipeg in an approach to the U.S league. The NFL at last March abandoned efforts to reach an agreement with the Big Four, leaving its member clubs to work out individual agreements with Canadian clubs.

WANT IN ON DRAFT

Chief Canadian demand has been for a chance to get in on the U.S college draft. Canadian clubs also object to the option clause in U.S contracts. They say it's not legal because if the player under option doesn't agree to terms he can't play for anyone else.

But during the truce period no Big Four team will go after a player under option or contract with an NFL team.

The league ruled that up to midnight Oct. 15, each team may carry 10 active imports and two inactive imports. After that date the clubs can carry only one inactive import in addition to the 10 active imports.

The new ruling, in effect, permits teams to carry a spare import after the Oct. 15 Canadian Rugby Union deadline for signing new players.

Another new feature is the use of the term "inactive." Until now, Big Four teams are permitted to carry two players on an "injured" list. They may, instead, carry two players on an "inactive" list until Oct. 18.

CAN SWITCH PLAYERS

A team may switch its players around and name a different import on the inactive list every week if it wants to, but only 10 imports may play in any one game.

Agreement was reached also on distribution of the league's share of Grey Cup tickets. Each of the four clubs will get 10 per cent of the Big Four's total by Oct. 13 with the remainder being divided among the three teams making the playoffs.

The Big Four, the WIFU and the CHU each receive 20 per cent of the total number of tickets, the remaining 10 per cent going to various minor leagues under CRU jurisdiction.

Other decisions:

Big Four clubs may increase admission prices by no more than 50 cents for a proportion of the better seats for playoff games.

Ottawa's protest of Toronto Argonauts' use of Ed Fouch in a Sept. 17 game at Toronto will be studied further before any action is taken.

U.S. Football

NEW YORK (AP)—Ohio State, ranked the No. 1 team in the country in 1954, was tumbled for a 6-0 upset by Stanford Saturday for the biggest surprise to date of the 1955 U.S. college football season.

Michigan barely escaped the same fate at the hands of Michigan State, but Georgia Tech, Notre Dame, Oklahoma and Army rolled along impressively.

Maryland's Terrapins, No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, invaded Texas and roared to a 20-6 victory over Baylor's ambitious Bears at Waco.

A blocked punt and two bristling stands on their own three-yard line saved Michigan, ranked No. 2, in a 14-7 decision over Michigan State in an important Big Ten Conference game.

Third-ranked Georgia Tech pasted Southern Methodist 20-7; Notre Dame, No. 4, rushed past Indiana 19-6; fifth-ranked Oklahoma defeated hopeful Pittsburgh 26-18, and Army, No. 6, knocked off previously impressive Penn State 35-6.

Evans Wins Golf Tourney

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP)—Max Evans of Utica, Mich., Sunday captured the $15,000 Long Island Rotary open golf championship over the par 70 Huntington Crescent Club course of 6,550 yards with a 72-hole total of 272.

The 36-year-old Evans, one of the oldest players in the field of 120, fired a 67 in the final round to win the top prize of $2,400.

Tommy Bolt of Chattanooga, Tenn., shot a 67 to move into a tie for second at 274 with Don Fairfield of Casey, Ill., who matched par in the final round. Bolt and Fairfield took $1,800 each.

Bobcats Trounce Toronto Packers 8-1 Point Anne Triumphs Over Waterloo

TORONTO (Staff) — Behind the three-hit pitching of Vic Allen, the Belleville Bobcats raced to a convincing 8-1 victory at Fairbank Park here Saturday, defeating the Toronto Packers in the first of the best-of-three series for the OASA Intermediate "AA" championship.

The second game of the series is slated for Belleville next Saturday. If a third game is necessary, it will be played as part of a double bill.

The game was marred, from a Bobcat point of view, in the first innings when spensor — catcher Bob Temple was seriously injured and taken to hospital where he spent the rest of the afternoon. Temple collided with first-baseman Doug Bone when both attempted to catch a foul pop fly back of the first base line. Bone's knee crashed into Temple's face smashing several teeth and causing severe facial injuries.

Allen was in rare form on the mound for the Bobcats. He allowed but three hits, all of them singles struck out nine and walked one. He smashed out a homer and two singles to help his own cause.

Both teams played scoreless ball for the first two innings. Then the Bobcats broke out with a three - run splurge and never looked backwards. Allen had the Packers eating out of his hand with his mates committing but one miscue to bobble behind him.

The Packers came back with their only run of the game in the same innings but from then on were held off the scoring column.

Bobcats scored singles in the fourth and packed the pastime ice in the fifth when they got to the Packer hurler for another three runs. For good measure they tacked on another single in the 6th and went scoreless the rest of the route.

Bud Davis a six-foot three colored hurler went the route for the Packers.

Allen paced his own victory with a homer and two singles; Harry Wardhaugh helped with a pair of singles while Stan Creeggan, Dave Lockyer, Clare Woods and Rose Empey donated a single each.

The score:—

Bobcats	003 131 000—8 9 1
Toronto	001 000 000—1 3 4

Series Sidelights

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn catcher Roy Campanella shook his head sadly today and allowed as how he wished the world series had ended in Ebbets Field.

"The Yankee Stadium is a tough place to hit in," he said, "especially when you're not used to it. The shadows make it awful hard to see the ball. In Ebbets Field it's different. I know the place."

The figures bear Campy out. He couldn't buy a hit in the first two games in the stadium, but when he got to Ebbets Field he found the range. But then so did Duke Snider, Gil Hodges and Co.

Yank manager Casey Stengel pointed to the fact that this is the most injury-riddled team he ever has led into a series. Two-thirds of his regular outfield, Mickey Mantle, Hank Bauer, is in bad shape, the other one-third, Irv Noren, is going on a bad leg.

But what about his pitching?

He has a problem there too, and he admitted as much when he was forced to take Bob Grim out of Sunday's 5-3 loss, even when Grim was taking a pasting.

"I didn't want to come in with all those guys from the bullpen like I did the other day," said Stengel. "In fact, if we had tied it, I would have sent Tommy Byrne in and worry about tomorrow's game when I came to it."

In past years, Stengel always had Allie Reynolds to call on and toss the ball past the Dodgers' whiskers.

Duke Snider's slugging average for four world series is a striking .636. The Dodgers' centerfielder has 63 total bases in 96 at bats, including seven doubles and nine homers.

"When you get past the Yank starters, they're in trouble," expounded Jackie Robinson. We have the better relief pitching.

"Furthermore, we're not scared of those two lefties (Whitey Ford, today's pitcher, and Byrne). We showed them we could come back and now we'll show them we can stay ahead."

On the subject of Robinson, Brooklyn scout Andy High said he was amazed at Jackie's base running in the series. "You see plenty of good base runners in the majors," said High. "But you don't see many in the series. They're afraid to gamble. But Robinson isn't. He's not afraid of anything."

Duke Snider, who has been murdering Yankee pitching, also upholds all sorts of series slugging records, said he was happy about setting so many marks.

"But, gosh," he grinned, "now every time I break a record, it seems to be my own."

Wellington Evens Caledonia Series With 5-3 Win

Scoring all their runs in the early innings, Wellington Midgets defeated Caledonia 5-3 on Saturday to knot their OBA midget "C" final series at one game each. The third and deciding fixture is slated for Caledonia next Saturday.

Wellington went in front to stay with one in the initial frame, added two in the second and one more in each of the third and fourth innings. Caledonia broke the goose egg in the 6th with one and finished with two markers in the ninth.

Tom O'Halloran toiled on the hill for the winners, allowing nine hits, striking out nine and issuing three free passes. Mudie started and took the loss for Caledonia in four frames, giving up all the runs on six safeties. Lawrence took over at this point and fired hitless ball while fanning seven the remainder of the game.

Purtelle accounted for the victor's initial tally, driving in Tripp who had singled earlier, with a double. A walk, Tripp's two-bagger and Holding's single made it 3-0 in the second.

Purtelle walked and rode home later on O'Halleran's base hit in the third while another base-on-balls preceded Platt's double in the fourth for Wellington's final marker.

Mudie doubled and scored on Thorne's sacrifice fly for the loser's first tally while McMuldin's single and Lawrence's double made the final score 5-3 in the ninth.

Tripp paced Wellington's offence with a double and single while Platt and Purtelle also cracked doubles. Holding added a single as did O'Halloran.

Thorne pounded three singles in defeat while Minlinder doubled and singled.

The Royal Duke of Flatbush Shining Star of Series Todate

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—In late August, when Brooklyn Dodgers were coasting on their long lead, centrefielder Duke Snider fell into a woeful batting slump which drew boos and catcalls—and an occasional beer can—from the Ebbets Field stands.

The next day a chastened Snider amended his outburst to say, "Well, some don't." And today, with Brooklyn needing just one victory for its first world championship, thanks to his own spectacular exploits, he commented:

"I'm not interested in personal records. My one big thrill will come the moment we clinch the world series, and that will be soon."

Once a problem child because of his trigger, temper and over-exuberance, the 28-year-old powerhouse from Los Angeles is providing the momentum which may end Dodgers' series of failures in this dramatic post-season showdown.

Two mighty home runs Sunday in Brooklyn's 5-3 victory at Ebbets Field gave him a total of four homers for the present series, tying the record held by Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and himself.

His total of nine home runs in world series play place him third in the list of great sluggers who have come to the plate in the classic through the years. Babe Ruth hit 15, Lou Gehrig hit 10. When Snider hit his ninth in the fifth inning Sunday he surpassed another great Yankee, Joe DiMaggio, who had eight.

"DiMaggio has always been my inspiration," the big, rugged Snider said in the dressing room. "I don't know Joe well. I've only chatted with him a few times. But I think he's the greatest."

In Saturday's fourth game, won by Brooklyn 8-5, Snider made seven putouts, two short of a series record, including breath-taking running catches of potential hits by Irv Noren and Gil McDougald in the sixth and another great stab of a ball hit by Bill Skowron in the eighth.

His batting average for the first five games is .381. He has eight hits in 21 at bats, with four homers, a double and seven runs-batted-in.

Snider's real name is Edwin Donald Snider. He got the name "Duke" from his dad, a former semi-pro player, when he was four. He was reared in the baseball tradition.

Snider has a loose, vicious swing at bat. He has steel-spring legs which produce fantastic leaping catches. He has tremendous getaway speed.

Snider broke into professional baseball with Montreal in 1944 but played only two games there before dropping to Newport News in the Piedmont League. He played at Fort Worth and St. Paul before he had a hitch in the navy before coming to Brooklyn in 1947.

Regarded in the past years as a bit immature, given to flareups and moodiness, he seemed to reach his full potential late in the 1952 season when he led the Dodgers to the pennant and had a brilliant but losing world series—four homers and .345 average.

Now he appears at the height of his career and the 1955 world series may well go down as the "Duke Snider Series."

New Chevrolet Task-Force Trucks

A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE

They're the most modern trucks on the road. If you don't get all the advantages they offer, you stand to lose money on the job today . . . and again at trade-in-time!

IT STANDS TO REASON, when you think about it, that the most modern trucks are the trucks that will save you the most. They're the trucks that will move your loads most efficiently and quickly. They're the trucks that offer the most comfort and convenience for the driver so that his efficiency goes up, too. They're the trucks that have the most modern and efficient engines — and you know what that means in terms of lower ton-mile costs!

Naturally, we're talking about new Chevrolet Task-Force trucks. For here are trucks so modern that anything less is old-fashioned!

Shortest stroke V8's . . . most advanced sixes

In most new Chevrolet truck models, you have your choice of V8* or 6. And you're way ahead whichever you choose. Chevrolet's new truck V8's have the shortest stroke of any V8 in any leading truck! That means less friction and wear per mile. The valve-in-head sixes are new editions of the engines that have long been famous as the "work horses" of the truck world! And all Chevrolet truck engines have a modern 12-volt electrical system for quicker starting, better ignition and a greater electrical reserve.

That's the closest we can come to describing the new Flite-Ride DeLuxe cab. What truck driver wouldn't go for features like the Panoramic windshield for wider, safer vision; concealed Safety Step that stays clear of snow, mud and ice; High-Level ventilation that provides a more constant supply of clear fresh outside air in all kinds of weather.

Most modern truck styling

We call it Work Styling—and you get it only in new Chevrolet trucks! Two fresh, functional styling treatments are offered — one for light- and medium-duty models, another for heavy-duty models. Your Chevrolet truck will do your job better—and look better doing it!

Most modern features throughout

Advanced suspensions, engineered for a smoother, load-steady ride! More rigid, ladder-type frames! Tubeless tires standard on ½-ton models! Come in and see all the ways you're way ahead with new Chevrolet trucks!

THEIR TIME TO HOWL!

The blatros of Flatbush rang with paens of victory over the week-end. The faithful toasted the victorious "Bums" who hurled back the Yankee threat with two glorious victories to take a 3-1 lead. Of course today could be another story.

But you can't take that "Won Week-end" from the Flatbushers. From the Battery to Greenpoint the roar of victory echoed and re-echoed. "Dis is da year," was the sudsy chant. And topping the toast list was the valiant Duke of Flatbush, one Snider, whose blasting thirdgreen and sensational fielding has helped spark "Da Bums" to triumph.

Nor forgotten is Clem Labine, whose sparkling relief work has highlighted the Dodger successes to date. Twice Clem has quelled the Yankee uprisings, aided and abetted by the torrid trenchmens of his mates.

Up and down Flatbush Avenoo to Greenperut and rippling the waters of the Gowanus rolled the "Bums" week-end theme song:

"Oh me darlin, oh me darlin',
Oh me darlin' Clem Labine,
With da Duke ya'll live forever
Beatin' Yankees down da line."

GOOD WEEK-END

Point Anne and the Belleville Bobcats came through handsomely with sparkling wins over the softball week-end to renew hopes for OASA championships for the city and district. The Ox Pointers, playing flawlessly both on offence and defence, easily defeated the Waterloo Seagrams 13-1 to secure their OASA Intermediate series at one game each, behind the fine 4-hit hurling of Pat Marsolo. They smashed out 14 safeties behind the veteran hurler to clinch the win. The third and deciding game will be played either in Toronto or Oshawa next Saturday.

Bob Temple's Bobcats whipped the Toronto Canada Packers in their first game of the OBA Intermediate "A" finals series but it was a costly victory. Temple was seriously injured during the first innings and was rushed to hospital where he remained for the rest of the day.

Vic Allen was in rare form on the mound and turned back the Packers on the mainwhile blasting out a home run and two singles to help his own cause. The second game, and third if necessary, will be played here next Saturday.

Bob Temple received a badly lacerated face and the loss of several teeth when he waded into Dougie Rose while the Packers were at bat in the opening frame. Two men were gone. The third batter hoisted a pop fly down the first base line. Rose raced in from first to make the catch while Temple dashed from behind the plate with the same objective. In the ensuing collision Rose's knee crashed into Temple's face driving the steel mask back into the flesh of the face.

Don Lee, OASA executive, who was at the game rushed Bob to hospital where he was treated for the painful injuries. Meanwhile the "Cats" went on to win a handsome victory, and at present have a stranglehold on Belleville's first 1955 softball championship.

In the minor baseball division Deacon's Quakers peewees went down gallantly before the Hamilton Redwings in the OBA finals. The Hamilton youngsters racked up double victories in the games played Saturday morning and afternoon. The Deacon youngsters, although beaten in their first quest for titular honors were by no means disgraced. They are a credit to their city, coach, sponsors and themselves. Better luck next year, fellas.

In the district Madoc bowed to Wingham 8-1 in the first game of the OASA Juvenile "C" series. Over in Wellington Johnny Mowatt's midget "C" OBA youngsters whipped Caledonia 5-3 to square the championship series. The third game is slated for Caledonia next Saturday.

THEY HAVE IT!

Queen's has a quarterback!

Gus Braccia, 22, a 195-pound strong-armed passer and brilliant faker, wasted Saturday afternoon last week like the answer to a coach's prayer. Saturday afternoon in the same stadium he convinced veteran observers that this year Queen's has the best quarterback seen in the intercollegiate league since before the war.

A three-year veteran with Temple University of Philadelphia, Braccia put on a dazzling display as a T-formation pivot as he ran, passed and faked the Gaels to a comparatively easy 30-10 victory over McGill.

The Gaels' pony backfield of Ron Stewart, Gary Schneider and Bill Surphlis, admittedly the best in the league, need a fast, sure-handed strategist at quarter to exploit their breakaway running ability.

Braccia is the man. He passed to Schreiber for 35 yards for a TD, hit Stewart on the dead run with a perfect throw that was good for a second TD, threw a flat pass to Stewart for a third major, sneaked over for a score himself, and set up Schreiber with brilliant faking as Gary zipped off huge gains up the middle. Stewart, with three TDs, was his teams' brilliant self. Schreider, now weighing 185 and the fastest man in the league, is as dangerous as Stewart if not as tricky a runner.

Sparkling Weekend Victories Poise Flatbushers for Kill; Rated 13-5 to Win Gonfalon

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers' first world baseball championship appeared within sight today.

The jubilant National Leaguers went out to apply the crusher on New York Yankees after bounding back from the brink of elimination with three successive world series wins over their arch tormentors.

Sunday's 5-3 win over New York, following an 8-5 victory Saturday, gave Dodgers the lead for the first time in the series—three games to two—as the teams returned to the wide open spaces of Yankee Stadium from the compact and friendly confines of Ebbets Field.

Dodgers dropped the first two games in the stadium but from manager Walt Alston down, the Brooks believe they can win at least one in Yankees' home territory. If not today, then Tuesday for sure.

"Either Don Newcombe or Karl Spooner will be my pitcher," Alston said. "I can't make up my mind. But if there is a seventh game, Johnny Podres will pitch Tuesday."

HAS NO DOUBT

Yank manager Casey Stengel had no doubt about his pitchers.

"Whitey Ford will pitch Tommy Byrne tomorrow," he said flatly. "I'm not pitching anything except that it will go seven."

Newcombe may insist Alston's mind for him. Dodgers' 20-game winner, who lost the first game, complained that the soreness in his arm hadn't left him.

"It's still sore," he said Sunday. "I didn't even bother to throw today because of the pain. I don't think I can start 'till the side is able to pitch."

Spooner, who worked three innings in relief in the second game, said he is ready to go despite being the youngest boys in the bullpen.

LARGEST CROWD

The largest crowd of the series, some 65,000 is expected for the sixth game, starting at noon EST. The forecast was "fair and continued cool," with the temperature in the high 50s.

Although the Yankees were 6-to-5 favorites to win today's game, the odds-makers, for the first time, made the Dodgers the choice to win the series . . . a standout 13-to-5.

Dodgers led after five games in 1952 yet dropped the series to the Yankees. But as Alston said when reminded of that:

"This is a different year and a different Dodger team." He could have added . . . "and a different Yankee team."

Injuries to outfielders Mickey Mantle and Hank Bauer have stripped the Yanks of much of their attack and the Yankee bullpen has been of less service than anticipated.

Right now the Dodgers' staff appears the stronger. The Brooks not only have the pitching but they've proven they have the power and the surehanded defence that goes with making a championship club.

LINEUP SHIFT POSSIBLE

Bauer, however, was expected to start in right field today, gave leg and all. If he left-handed Spooner pitches for Brooklyn, Bob Cerv will play centre-field and Elston Howard left. Both are righthanded batters.

With a lefty going for the Yanks, the Dodgers also shifted lineups to get another righthanded hitter in there. Second baseman Junior Gilliam, a switch hitter, goes to left field with Carl Furillo batting righty, taking over second and Sandy Amoros, left fielder against right handed pitchers, going to the bench.

Never before had a Brooklyn team won three in a row over the American League champs. In seven clashes over 40 years, have the Dodgers won a world championship. Negro has a team lost the first two games and come back to win the title inside seven games. The first has been done. One more victory would accomplish the other.

Sunday's victory was by far the sweetest for Alston. He gambled and won with a surprise starter in Roger Craig, a 24-year-old righthander who only a year ago was pitching in the class B Piedmont League. The bony six-foot-four righthander, who pitched only 91 major league innings since his professional baptism with a Brooklyn farm in mid-season, upheld Alston's judgment. The kid didn't pitch but he yielded only four hits and two runs before he was yanked in the seventh.

AFTER A WALK

Alston excused him after he had walked Howard following a home run by pinch-hitter Bob Cerv that cut the Dodgers' lead to 4-2. Clem Labine, Saturday's winner, then stalked in from the bullpen for his fourth appearance in the series and threw a double-play ball to Irv Noren.

Labine pitched almost perfect ball from then on, except for a home run by Yogi Berra and a single by Eddie Robinson in the eighth. In the ninth, he relived pinch hitters Andy Carey and Sammy Byrne and blanked the last batter.

Once again, it was the home-run ball that ruined the Yankees. Bob Grim, the Yankee starter and loser had good stuff but it looked especially good to Duke Snider and Sandy Amoros. Snider whacked two out of the park and Amoros contributed a two-run blast that got the Dodgers off and running in the second inning.

The Dodgers now have nine homers in the series, one short of the record set by the 1952 Yankees.

Just to prove their versatility, they executed three double plays Sunday for a total of 10. That, too, tied a series record.

THE LONG PARADE

Saturday, pitchers marched from the Yankee bullpen in a long parade while the Dodgers slugged away for 13 hits, covering up the flaws in their own staff.

In the end, it was Labine, Brooklyn's finest relief ace, holding the fort after his mates had taken a one-run lead.

Snider smashed a zooming homer into Bedford avenue, far and away over the right-field fence, with two men on base for the clincher in the fifth inning.

New York took a 3-1 lead into the fourth inning with loser Don Larsen struggling but still alive. Roy Campanella's second series homer into the left-field stands narrowed the gap to one run but Gil Hodges' blast over the right-field scoreboard, following Carl Furillo's broken bat infield single, gave the home club a lead it never surrendered.

Hodges and Campanella each weighed in with three hits of the assortment of Yank pitching but the man of the hour in the late innings was Snider.

Although the Duke let a fly ball sail over his head for a double by Billy Martin in the sixth, allowing Elston Howard to score from first, he was also the one the Ike Hit dug far to his left to snag Irv Noren's bid for a single in the eighth and then took Gil McDougald's loft to end the inning and the last Yankee threat.

B.it'h Swimmer Inspired By Bell Picture

WHITSTABLE, Eng. (Reuters) — A photograph of 17-year-old Marilyn Bell, Canada's ace swimmer, was dangled Sunday in front of Barry Woodward, 19, as he fought cramps trying to swim the swirling River Swale estuary both ways.

He managed the four-mile crossing from here to the Isle of Sheppey but on the way back was attacked by cramps and had to give up.

Latter, he said: "Marilyn could not be here to inspire me today but I had the next best thing—her photograph.

They met when Marilyn came to Britain to conquer the English Channel last August. Barry paced beside her for 21 miles while she made her successful attempt.

"Marilyn is a wonderful girl," Barry said. "We are very close friends."

Red Wings Trim NHL All-Stars By 3-1 Score

By W.R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DETROIT (CP)—Those who figured that the Detroit Red Wings lost strength through player swaps and an infusion of rookie blood had a chance today for a hurried revision of opinion.

On the eve of the new National Hockey League season, the Red Wings Sunday night brushed aside the challenge of the aggregate collection of stars from the five other clubs in the circuit with a convincing 3-1 decision.

The thing that stood out in this ninth all-star game was the work of Detroit's famed production line of Dutch Reibel, Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay.

Reibel, the crew-cut kid from Kitchener, bagged two of Detroit's goals and big Gordie Howe got the other. It was virtually a lost cause for the All-Stars even when defenceman Doug Harvey of Montreal Canadiens slammed in a goal to avert a shutout with less than three minutes to play.

Reibel added the squelcher with a shot into the open net with 27 seconds of the game remaining.

Playing before a home crowd of 12,187, it looked almost as though the Red Wings could fit anything into their hockey machine so long as the production line is functioning.

At the same time they came up with a powerful trio of reinforcements from Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League. Their goalie Glen Hall, rookie goalie.

On the forward line me Wings had Norm Ullman and John Bucyk at their prize collection of farm club youngsters.

The best functioning line the all-stars produced was the trio of Jean Beliveau and Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Montreal Canadiens and Sid Smith of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Individually, Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Canadiens packed the most dangerous hot for the Stars and Eddie Litzenberger of Chicago Black Hawks, rookie of the year last season, wasn't far behind.

GOALIES PRESSED

The two All-Star goalies, Harry Lumley of Toronto and Terry Sawchuk of Boston Bruins, playing against his old Detroit mates, had far more work to do than Hall and were given far less protection by their defence.

After 37 seconds of the second period Howe took Reibel's short passout and scored. Reibel made it 2-0 at 8:45, taking Ted Lindsay's perfect pass to heat Lumley with a lob shot. Harvey drilled a low screened shot past Lumley at 16:38 of the last period.

The Wings are the only team to win all-star-game history to win. They have done it once before and they also earned a tie in the seven games between the Stanley Cup champions and the combined first and second all-star teams. On two other occasions the first and second teams faced each other. Each game was a tie.

Gus Braccia Quarters Queen's To 30-10 Win Over Redmen; Varsity Whips Mustangs 20-2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Gus Braccia, an American import playing his first Canadian college football game, made his reputation in 60 minutes Saturday.

Braccia quarterbacked Queen's University Golden Gaels to a 30-10 win over Montreal's McGill University Redmen at Kingston in the 1955 Senior Intercollegiate Football Union opener. The former Temple University star threw four touchdown passes and went over himself for the Tricolor's other touchdown.

In the other opener at London, the defending champion University of Toronto Blues gave University of Western Ontario Mustangs a 20-2 beating. It was one of Mustangs' most humiliating debuts in many seasons and it came before 10,000 Western fans.

Braccia unleashed a devastating aerial offence with halfback Ron Stewart his main target. Stewart bagged on three touchdown passes on pass plays covering 45, 66 and 72 yards—a Senior Intercollegiate touchdown total to a record 31.

ALONG THE GROUND

Stewart's running mate, Gary Schreiber, bulled his way to most of the 161 yards gained by the Gaels along the ground and scored a touchdown when Braccia hurled Queen's 62-yard pass and ran the reline.

Braccia scored the fifth Queen's touchdown on a smash through the line after passing for touchdowns of 32 yards. Jocko Thompson completed the winners' scoring as he kicked four converts and a single when his field goal attempt went wide.

Blues, who couldn't do any better than tie Mustangs in the teams' only regular scheduled games last season, were never behind and Western seldom threatened.

Mustangs outgained Varsity 171 yards to 105 in the air but the story was told in rushing — 224 yards for Varsity against a meagre 53 yards by Western.

Varsity opened the scoring in the first quarter when Ed Skrypzek hit end Bert Kalloch for a 57-yard pass-and-run touchdown.

On the first play of the second quarter, after marching 62 yards, Skrypzek went over from the five-yard line for Blues' second touchdown. On the last play of the same quarter Gene Charoteski caught Western's Willie Casanova behind his goal line for a safety touch.

Midway through the fourth quarter halfback Phil Muntz scored the final Toronto touchdown. Pete Malik kicked three converts.

Tackle Ted Roman booted the Mustangs' point. His first single came in the second quarter and the other in the third.

Bombers Break Edmonton Eskys Unbroken String

Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Interprovincial Football Union had their winning streak halted after 10 games Saturday night when the Blue Bombers blanked them 12-0 at Winnipeg.

The victory put the Bombers in a third-place tie with B.C. Lions who bowed 24-8 to the second-place Saskatchewan Roughriders in Vancouver. The Eskimos have 10 victories and one defeat for 20 points, one more than Saskatchewan who have won six and lost four. Lions and Bombers each have eight points—the Lions with four victories in 10 starts and Winnipeg four wins in 11 outings.

Victory for Winnipeg was an added gift for their former star quarterback Indian Jack Jacobs, who received gifts valued at $1,500 and a $4,000 cheque at halftime to mark his retirement.

Backs Gerry James and Leo Lewis went for long gains on the ground as the Bombers picked up 293 yards rushing to Edmonton's 142. Winnipeg had an 11-8 edge in first downs.

Quarterback Buddy Leake and Lewis scored the Winnipeg touchdowns in the third quarter and converted both.

In Vancouver, the Roughriders took advantage of B.C. Lions' fumbles to score three touchdowns and a pass interception to run up for a field goal by Joe Aguirre. Halfback Ken Carpenter went over for two Saskatchewan touchdowns and Ron Adam another.

With star tackle Arnie Weinmeister sidelined with an injury, the Lions' line gave scant protection to the backs. The Riders outgained the home team 280 yards to 241 on the ground. Quarterback Arnie Galiffa completed 13 of 20 passes for 159 yards, while Saskatchewan's Frank Tripucka clicked on six of 10 passes for 75 yards.

Murphy Defeats Brian Kelly

BOSTON, (AP) — Undefeated Bobby Murphy of Boston won an eight-round decision over Brian Kelly of Niagara Falls, Ont., Saturday night.

Murphy weighing 140, floored Kelly twice in the second round but the Canadian, who entered at 144, came back strongly later in the Murphy's left eye in the seventh.

Dr. Nate Shapiro ordered Murphy to Harley Hospital after the fight. Dr. Shapiro said he may need plastic surgery for the cut Murphy also was cut less severely over the right eye.

In the Dressing Rooms

By WILL GRIMSLEY

BROOKLYN (AP) — Casey Stengel, blaming himself for the rash of Brooklyn home runs which has put the New York Yankees down 2-3 in the world series, said yesterday he expects the Dodgers' Duke Snider was the "turning point of the fifth game.

"That fellow was the biggest thing they had out there," the Yankee manager added. "Nothing else hurt us—just him. Two home runs in a big double.

"I blame myself. We oughtn't let a man hit that many home runs on us especially when we get two strikes on him.

"We ought to know how to get him out—but we don't. I take the blame."

YANKEES GRUMPY

The Yankees as a whole were a grumpy, solemn lot after absorbing their third straight defeat at Ebbets Field, 5-3, to go behind in the series in which the Yankees got out to a two-game start.

Stengel was not ready to admit that the change to more friendly surroundings would be any better break for his athletes.

"It's no sign we are goin' to beat them over there (Yankee Stadium)," the crusty pilot of five world champions said. "We ought to beat them in his park. We beat them here before. Our men ought to hit the fences and the stands here as well as they can. He's beat them here before."

The Yankees trailed the Dodgers 2-3 in the 1952 world series but finally won, winning the last two games at Ebbets Field.

HOME RUN FOR SERIES

Stengel said his power hitting center fielder, Mickey Mantle, is probably lost for the rest of the series, except for pinch-hitting purposes, but that Bauer, who pulled a thigh muscle in the first game, appeared to be okay.

Young Bob Grim, who started on the mound for the Yankees and who was the victim of Snider's prodigious home runs in the third and fifth innings, was disconsolate over his setback.

"I could understand how Snider connected on that first one," he said. "It was a change-up curve which had nothing on it. It came across high, just right for the Duke.

"But that second one, I don't know how in the world he hit it. We're supposed to pitch to him low and outside. This was a slider—a perfect pitch, I thought, low and away from him. But—boom!!—he knocked it to Kingdom's Come."

Grim said he never weakened but felt he was simply a victi mof the "long ball."

PLENTY SHARP

"I thought Grim pitched very well," he said. "He got in trouble with those home runs, but otherwise he was plenty sharp.

I never considered taking him out until the fifth when Tom Morgan started warming up."

Bob Cerv and Yogi Berra both said they hit fast balls for their home runs, but their talk was mostly about the Dodgers' phenomenal Snider.

"I don't know how to pitch to him," Yogi said glumly. "With the guy swinging like that, he's hitting everything."

"Now we're going over to our park," he yelped loudly for all to hear. "We'll be catching all their cheap home runs in our pockets."

Roger Craig, who subdued the Yankees for six innings, and Clem Labine, who came to his relief, together with Snider were the centre of attraction in the many Dodger dressing room.

"It sure felt funny," said Craig. "Last year I was in class B playoff—the year I'm in the world series. It's real funny."

Manager Walt Alston was warm in his praise of the lanky, 26-year-old Craig, who started Sunday's game with only 91 innings of major league baseball behind him—the least that any series starting hurler has ever had.

"The reason I started him was that I had confidence in him. He's got a lot of guts. He didn't want to come out. However, Labine has done a good I thought he might keep the ball down and give us a double play," said Alston.

That's exactly what happened. Labine got Irv Noren to hit into a double play, and Gil McDougald grounded out. Thus Labine retired the Yankee side in the seventh—after Bob Cerv had hit his pinch-hit homer off Craig—with only seven pitches.

"I was worried about Craig's control," the Dodger manager went on, "but his stuff—just his control."

Craig, who hails from Durham, N.C., spent half the season with Montreal, where he made a brilliant 10-3 record, and joined the Dodgers July 16 along with Don Bessent, another young Dodger pitching ace. Craig did 5-3 with the Dodgers.

Snider said he is convinced the Dodgers will win the world series now.

"We weren't bad in the first two games," he commented. "The Yanks just had two real good pitching going for them. I don't think Whitey Ford and Tommy Byrne will be that effective again."

Was this his biggest day?

"My biggest day hasn't come yet," he answered. "That will be when we win the world championship. I don't care if I never set a record. All I want is for us to win the series."

With the long clubs the backswing is completed when the hips have rotated about forty-five degrees. That is, one-eighth of a circle. While this action is taking place the shoulders are pivoting twice the distance—they make a quarter—or ninety degrees—turn. The shoulder pivot is made in a sense what more vertical-plane than the hip pivot. That is to say, the left shoulder rotates down and under the chin while the right shoulder rotates up and back. Complete pivot of the shoulders will have occurred when the back of the shoulders renders "faces" the green. If you use too much hip pivot it is difficult to avoid too much shoulder pivot. But, this is a fault only of youth and supplenes. It won't worry golfers over twenty-five very much. The great older players is apt to be too little, both in the hips and shoulders, rather than too much.

Double Blues Blow Converts As Lead Changes Six Times; Kusserow Powers Cat Drive

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A crowd of 18,211 fans at Toronto Varsity Stadium Saturday watched an open-air facsimile of the boop game when Montreal Alouettes tangled with Toronto Argonauts. Seventy-eight passes were thrown—more than one a minute—as the free-wheeling Als outlasted Argonauts 30-28 in a wild Big Four game.

Ironically, the foot—or lack of it —cost Argos at least a tie. They fluffed two convert attempts.

The victory enabled the Als to maintain their first-place tie with Hamilton Tiger-Cats who clobbered the Rough Riders 40-0 at Ottawa. Tiger-Cats did much as they pleased but it was a heart-throbbing Als-Argos game that saw the lead change hands six times.

In the senior ORFU, Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen inflicted the seventh straight loss of the season on Toronto Balmy Beach 29-6 before 300 fans at Toronto.

The largest crowd of the season at Ottawa, 12,000 lured by an expected aerial duel between the Als' Sam Etcheverry and Toronto's Jim Dubinski and they make a gutter—or ninety degree—turn. The shoulder pivot is made in a sense what more vertical-plane than the hip pivot. That is to say, the left shoulder rotates down and under the chin while the right shoulder rotates up and back. Argos appeared to be headed for victory in the first half when they led 9-1 at the end of the first quarter, 22-12 at the half and 22-18 going into the final 15 minutes but Etcheverry uncorked his passing magic to set up two touchdowns.

The statistics showed Etcheverry and Dubinski hit 24 passes and clicked on 18 for 375 yards. Dubinski also completed 12 on 17 tries for 238 yards. Montreal intercepted four passes and Toronto three.

On yards rushing, it was Montreal 164, Toronto 104.

It was a much different story at Ottawa. Tiger-Cats piled up 336 yards rushing against Ottawa's 112 and 140 yards on passing against 186 for the Riders. Tiger - Cats clicked on 10 of 13 passes and Riders 11 of 27.

Lou Kusserow powered the Tiger-Cats offensive with two touchdowns on plunges from inside the Ottawa 5-yard line. Ron Howell, Steve Oneschuk, Frank McDonald and Paul Dekker scored the others while reliable Tip Logan converted all six and kicked a 29-yard field goal. Cam Fraser booked a single, with three. Al Pleitzer, who missed on two of five convert attempts, gathered in three touchdown passes from Dubinski to become the highest scorer of the week-end Big Four action.

Dick Fosbrook was the target for the other Toronto touchdown pass. Corky Tharp, Argonauts new running star from the University of Alabama and Los Angeles Rams, counted the other touchdown on a sweep from the two-yard line after passes carried Argos downfield.

Joey Paj, Jacques Belec and Rod Coplin handled the Etcheverry touchdown passes. Belec went over from 11 yards for another touchdown and Etcheverry sneaked over from the one. Bud Korchak kicked the convert and one point on the Montreal touchdowns and the Als picked up single point on a first-quarter single by Tex Coulter.

Writer Tells How First-Rate Comedy Series Came Into Being

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Here's how with Nat Hiken, an old friend of mine who used to write the Martha Raye show and has done a lot of TV writing at NBC. Hub Robinson had got him. He just knew instinctively we'd hit it off.

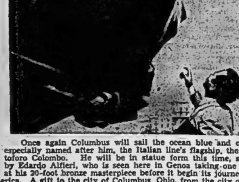
"Nat likes to spend a lot of time sitting around thinking before he starts writing anything. But he couldn't stand our big plush office. He insisted we move our office off to an empty loft in a tenement building. I think they were tearing down. Nobody was using anything like it. I was getting hoarse shouting at Nat could hear me. He'd shout at me and I'd shout at him. We must have shouted 50 ideas at each other.

"All this time CBS left us alone. One day we walked into Hub's office and said it looked as if I ought to be in the army, and Hub said swell. Then he said we ought to film the series, and Hub said swell, when did we want to leave for Hollywood?

"Nat and I started screaming 'Not Hollywood!' New York is our town. We told 'em there was no reason why CBS couldn't film 'You'll never get rich' here. So they said okay and we did it."

The story has a happy ending because everybody we know is nuts about "You'll never get rich."

NEW YORK (AP) — Here's how a first-rate comedy series was born. The series is "You'll never get rich" (CBS-TV Tuesday evenings), starring Phil Silvers as Sergeant Bilko, Sary Silvers.



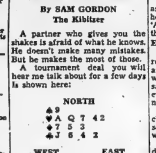
When I finished "Top Banan' (the Broadway hit which he made into a movie) I was invited to entertain at a president's dinner in Washington. All the networks were represented. Well, I was really hot that night and I knew it. I'm really a modest guy but I knew I was hot that night.

"Afterward I was talking to Hub Robinson of CBS (vice-president in charge of TV programming) who said something that really jolted me. He said, 'Phil, what's a typical Phil Silvers show?' That was the nicest thing anybody in television ever said to me. Whenever they made a pass at me before they always seemed to have me tabbed as a big loudmouth with glasses. In short, they were telling me what I ought to play.

LIKED APPROACH

"But here was a guy who knew there has to be a spring that makes you really tick. I went for that approach.

"The next thing I knew I'd signed with CBS and I found myself sitting around in a big plush office



COLUMBUS SAILS OCEAN BLUE AGAIN

Once again Columbus will sail the ocean blue and on a boat especially named after him, the Italian line's flagship, the SS Cristoforo Colombo. He will be in statue form this time, sculptured by Edardo Affieri, who is seen here in Genoa taking one last look at his 20-foot bronze masterpiece before it begin its journey to America. A gift to the city of Columbus, Ohio, from the city of Genoa, the statue will be unveiled by vice-president Richard Nixon on Columbus day. (Central Press Canadian).

The Kibitzer

A partner who gives you the shakes is a pest of what he knows. He doesn't make many mistakes. But he makes the most of those.

A tournament deal you will hear me talk about for a few days is shown here:

	♠ 9
	♥ A Q 7 4 2
	♦ K 10 6
	♣ J 5 4 2
WEST		EAST
♠ K Q J 10 8		♠ A 7 5 3
♥ 6 5		♥ 10 9 3
♦ A Q 9		♦ J 7	8 3
♣ 8 7		♣ 10 9
	SOUTH
	♠ 8 6 4 2
	♥ 8 5
	♦ K 5 4
	♣ A-K Q 3 3

At one table the bidding went like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Double	1 ♥	Pass
1 N-T	Double	2 ♠	Pass
Pass	Double	3 ♣	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
5 ♣	Double	All Pass

The opening bid of one club by south needs no explaining. This read that a player should know the reason for or he will not understand what else I may say about the rest of the bids.

When a defender doubles at the first opportunity he is often a take-out if partner has not yet bid and the double is not more than three in a suit; or more than one at no-trump.

Thus, the first double by west ordered partner to bid something if there is intervening bid by north. North made the correct reply of one heart, which relieved east of the obligation to bid.

The second and third and fourth round doubles were also only for takeout. Why? The east partner had not yet bid. The doubled bid was not more than three in seven suits.

Each time that north bid after the double, east was relieved of the obligation to bid in reply to the double. And the north second and third bids were correct; two raises with his third and fourth tricks.

Time out until we find more space. Meantime, study those doubles. Fumbles of doubles cause troubles.

Samuel Goldwyn, 73, Enjoys Five-Mile Walk Every Day

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Memo: If you ever go for a walk with a 72-year-old named Samuel Goldwyn, bring along your hiking boots.

I had heard that the producer walks five miles every day, but I thought it might have been part of the Goldwyn legend. Seeing is believing, so I arranged to join him on his morning walk.

The producer was waiting outside his Beverly Hills mansion when I arrived. He signalled the chauffeur in the black limousine to go ahead. Then Goldwyn took off down the hill, walking in the middle of the street with a brisk, springy pace. I hastened to catch up.

"We'll walk for 40 minutes," he announced. "I am going to make it easy on you. You should be going on my uphill walk."

He took a deep breath of the cool morning air.

WALKING "WONDERFUL"

"I've been walking all my life," he observed. "It's wonderful for you. You can feel the fresh oxygen going into your system."

He explained his routine. He usually walks about half way to his studio every morning (full distance: Five miles). In the evening his driver takes him half way home and he trudges the rest. He usually walks alone, thinking out his studio's problems and the schedule for the day ahead.

Isn't he accosted by people?

"Oh, a lot of people stop and ask me if I don't want a ride," he said. "Others stop and say, 'Aren't you Mr. Goldwyn?' But they don't bother me."

EXERCISE, TOO

Walking is only part of the regime that permits him to lead an extremely active life at an age when most men are retired. He said he performs half an hour of exercises on the floor every morning.

"Look at that stomach," he declared, opening his coat. "Absolutely flat. I've always altered my weight from 158-60 in years."

This is accomplished by careful diet, he explained. "I haven't had a taste of gravy in 25 years."

After 2½ miles of steady walking and talking we encountered the limousine, which returned us to my car. "I hope I haven't overextended you," said the refreshed Goldwyn as he was driven off to work.

Quinte Juniors Blank Brighton By 20-0 Score

By ERIC MOODY

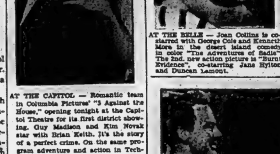
Playing with coolness both teams fought gamely till the finish. The Brighton team, a fine sportsmanlike team but their defences could not resist the constant shattering forces from Quinte.

George Musgrove, Quinte quarterback kept most of his plays on the ground and sent McLaurin and Goodman over for TD's during the first half. One convert was completed and at the end of the first half the score rested on the 11-0 peg in favor of Quinte.

From the start of the second half, Brighton made many valiant threats but just couldn't penetrate the defences of the "Quinte Blues."



Eleven more points were collected by the Sisson troupe in the second half, five of which were scored by Eric Beeby, on an outstanding 55 yard pass from Bill Dickie, who shared the signal spot with Musgrove.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, Oct. 4, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Often minor improvements are just the little touches needed to make the difference between mediocrity and success. Brush up on a latent talent.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Let the other fellow have the last word today. And remember, a strong will must be guided carefully.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Evaluate situations thoughtfully. Give the other person credit for all he can. Well chosen words can carry great weight.

June 22 to June 23 (Cancer) — Thinking and planning must be followed by action or it will be merely day - dreaming and wasting. You can assist others in community, loved ones, children—more than you realize.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Waste no time on questionable persons or activities. There are many worthwhile interests to pursue. Double-check for errors.

August 24 to September 23 — (Virgo) — Let no one sway you from good principles. And do not be fooled by outward appearances. Respect others' right to differ.

September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — Material things may keep trying to push aside the fundamental and spiritual. Mind that you differentiate carefully. Tolerance and charity are vital now.

October 24 to November 23 — (Scorpio) — Eliminate unessentials wherever you can. But don't be brusque or too quick. Stop to confer and deliberate where it can produce better results. Review methods, habits.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — Let there be no moaning over past error or disappointments. Rather, use your experiences as a guide in a surer, happier way for the tomorrows. Be sensible about your diet.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Whether you are rarin' to go, or seem logey and listless, don't judge others by the way you feel. Cooperate wherever you can. A smiling heart will see you through.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — It may not be easy to convince or persuade others today. Yet you may find that cooperation will come from unusual sources. Past efforts will begin to show good results.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Don't just skim over the surface, nor close your eyes to defeats or errors that could (therefore should) be corrected. Now is the time to make repairs, improvements, advancement.

You born today have many strong characteristics; are a definite and straight forward individual, with true sympathy for the "underdog." You are a devoted parent, lifemate or friend, too; have principles and just pride. You can become highly skilled at a profession or trade; would be an excellent soldier. Birthdate: Rutherford B. Hayes, 19th U. S. President.

KING-SIZE PUMPKINS FOR PINT-SIZE SUSAN

A spectator at fall fair held at Barrie, Ont., 6-year-old Susan McDonnell marvels at the number of pies these prize-winning pumpkins will make. Large crowds jammed the fair grounds to set record attendance for 102nd annual event which was officially opened by Rt. Hon. James Gardiner. (Central Press Canadian).

"Feathering" His Nest at Someone Else's Expense

It looks as if our feathered friends aren't the only ones who nest in the trees. This little white mouse also has designs on such a home, much to the annoyance of the owner, who apparently doesn't care to have his house occupied by such an unusual tenant. It looks like an eviction notice is in order here. (Central Press Canadian).

FUND-RAISING IDEA

LIVERPOOL, England (Reuters) —Eighty-five members of the congregation of Christ church in this church here each were given a pound note Sunday by the vicar, Rev. W. H. Wade, with the instruction: "Go out and use it—but don't forget to make a profit." The profits—if any — will be handed back to the church at a special service Dec. 13, together with the one-pound notes. The idea is to raise enough money to pay off a debt on church property.

PANTY RAIDERS RUN WILD

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP)—University of Michigan students overran three girls' dormitories in a panty raid Friday night. The raiders, estimated at more than 1,000, broke from a campus pep rally on the eve of the Michigan-Michigan State football game, and spread havoc along a campus business district. These marauders were torndown and cars pushed up onto sidewalks.

REDS EXPEL THREE PRIESTS

HONG KONG (AP) — Three Roman Catholic priests arrived Sunday from Shanghai by train after being expelled from Communist China. They are Rev. George Cezzar, 47, of Hungary, Rev. Joseph Tanaka, 52, a native of Japan, and Rev. Francisca Sanz, a Spanish Catholic missionary.

LIZ TAYLOR ILL AGAIN

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor was taken to University Medical Centre by her husband, actor Michael Wilding, Sunday night after she was stricken at their West Los Angeles home by severe stomach pains. Last week Miss Taylor had the flu. A month ago she was on crutches with sciatica from a pinched nerve in the spine.

De Havilland Strike Still On

DAY LEAD De Havilland Nwsh TORONTO (CP)—Employees of de Havilland Aircraft Co. voted Sunday to turn down a proposed contract agreement and continue a strike which began 12 weeks ago.

The proposed agreement, outlined in a "memorandum of settlement" issued last week by Louis Eine, Ontario's chief conciliation officer, offered initial wage increases ranging from four to six cents an hour. They were to be increased to from eight to 15 cents by March 1, 1957.

The 1,530 employees, members of Local 112, United Automobile Workers (CIO - CCL), instructed their negotiating committee to press for the demanded 10-cent hourly increase, retroactive to Sept. 1, 1954.

Speakers opposed the settlement plan on the grounds it would tie the union to a three-year contract. Present basic pay ranges from $1.44 to $1.85.

HUNGER STRIKE ENDS

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP)— A four-day hunger strike of 37 convicts at the state penitentiary here ended Saturday. The convicts, ringleaders of revolts in July and August, refused meals in protest against lack of sanitary facilities and because they are to be tried soon on riot charges. They were promised individual interviews today.

"Hey, Ed—wanta see something positively unbelievable?"

Little Benny's Notebook

Pop's head started to bob after dinner, proving he was starting to take a nap, which he's not supposed to do for the sake of his nerves at supper, and ma was sitting some sitting, and she got up and looked out the window, saying, My, William, look at that moon sailing through the sky. It's just as romantically full as a moon can get, she said, and pop said, I believe you're right, my dear.

Sounding half asleep, and ma said, William, you never even saw it, and you're not even looking now. I believe you're asleep, she said, and pop said, How little you know me, my dear. I'm mentally picturing a still more wonderful moon, at Sunrise Lake, on our honeymoon, he said.

Oh, yes, you took a picture of it, ma said, and pop said, That's right, I went and got the camera, and took a time exposure. It didn't turn out very well. In fact we couldn't locate the moon on the picture after the film was developed, but just the same, what a moon, he said.

Saying it with his eyes half closed, and ma said, My, I almost believe you have a spark of romance left in you.

I've got a whole bonfire of it, pop said. Why don't we go out right now and take a long sentimental walk under the moon? You or I miles, he said, and ma said, Goodness, my walking shoes are at the shoemakers. But it's dead—ey can stroll around the block, or perhaps down to the corner and back. That's just what we'll do, William, she said. G, ma, now he's really asleep, I said.

Which he was, and ma sighed a sigh to herself and went back to her sitting.

False Teeth Need A Special Cleanser
Don't Brush Your Plates!
Soak Them in Polident
As Dentists Suggest
Polident is the recommended way to clean dentures, dentists declare. Just follow these easy rules.
1. Never use a brush on them! Your dental plates scratch easier than natural teeth. Brushing wears down fitting glass and gets loose.
2. Never use soap or tooth-paste! They can injure plates which contain bristles and food particles, a major cause of offensive "Denture Breath."
3. Use a soaking-type cleanser made for false teeth only . . . Polident! Polident is recommended by more denture dentists than any other. No brushing, no handling of soapy plates; just pop them where a brush can't reach.
Best of all, Polident always leaves false teeth odor free. Get the world's largest selling denture cleanser, Polident, at your drug counter. D-11

New Governor Takes Charge On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — Field Marshal Sir John Harding flew here today and was immediately installed as governor and commander-in-chief of Cyprus.

Harding was relieved as British Army chief of staff in order to lead an all-out campaign against rising anti-British terrorism in this Mediterranean island colony.

Before his plane arrived, British soldiers and police roamed through Nicosia to paint out "death to Harding" slogans splashed across walls by Greek-Cypriot terrorists who demand that the island be put under the Greek flag.

The colonial office in London announced last week that Harding was being put into the Cyprus post because of the colony's strategic importance and in order to lead the fight against terrorists who have plagued British authorities here for months.

At a rally on the eve of Harding's arrival, Greek Orthodox Archbishop Makarios declared that the new governor would fail miserably if he tried to "use his Kenya and Malaya tactics" to block Cypriot demands to determine their own political future.

NEED SEA CADETS

TORONTO (CP)—Rev. Norman Ballard of St. Paul's Anglican church said Saturday that more sea cadet corps are needed in Ontario to meet the needs of growing boys. He told the annual luncheon of the Ontario division of the Navy League of Canada that boys will work and accept discipline if encouraged through such groups as sea cadets.

CHOSE GRAPE QUEEN

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Carol Dawson, 17, a Stoney Creek, Ont., girl lith an hour-glass figure and the idea that at five-foot-two inches she is too short to ever become a model, was crowned Niagara Grape Queen at the annual grape festival here Saturday. Her crowning climaxed the day-long celebrations which included a giant parade and a ball.

TO PRESENT GOAT

25-CENT REMBRANDT

BOY KILLED IN BALER

MALAD, Idaho (AP)—The body of 2½-year-old Floyd Neiffenegger was found Friday night tightly bound in a bale of hay. He and several other children ran along side a hay baler as it was operated in a farm field. In some way the boy was drawn through the baling mechanism.

EXCHANGE SHELLING

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Over a two-hour period Sunday, Communist Chinese guns on Amoy fired 238 shells across seven miles of water at Quemoy, Little Quemoy and Tatan islet before being silenced by vigorous counterfire, the Nationalist defence ministry reported. It was the second such gun duel in three days.

MATE SAVES LONGSHOREMAN

WEST NEW YORK, N.J. (AP)—A longshoreman trapped by burning sulphur in the hold of the cargo vessel Marion Merchant was rescued Friday by the ship's first mate. The mate, Manuel Machado, 36, made three trips into the hold of the vessel before he was able to carry the stevedore, Vincenzo Nicosia, 61, up a 25-foot ladder.

USE RESCUE CRANE

WINSTED, Conn. (AP) — U.S. Army engineers used a towering crane to pluck five firemen from a flame-licked rooftop Saturday during a blaze that destroyed two abandoned factory buildings in the business district of this flood-stricken city. The firemen were surrounded by flames when the army was called.

Twenty Argentine Generals Arrested By New Regime

Seen as Safeguard Against Future Assistance to Peron

World Series Train Strays To Jersey City

By BRUCE HENDERSON

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina's new government today was reported purging military leaders who held high posts under deposed dictator Juan Peron.

Arrests of some 20 generals were reported by unofficial sources close to the army. They appear to have been picked up mainly to prevent any aid to Peron should he seek to make a comeback.

There is speculation that the generals will be retired ultimately, since apparently their only error in the eyes of the new government was having obeyed the orders of the previous regime and protecting it.

Although there was no confirmation from officials, other sources reported that those under arrest included the former army commander-in-chief, Gen. Jose Domingo Molinas. The rest of the 14-man junta which took over the government after Peron resigned, and during its few days of rule in Buenos Aires negotiated the peace with the victorious rebels.

TO HOLD ELECTIONS

The peace resulted in installation of Maj.-Gen. Eduardo Lonardi as provisional president. Lonardi has said he will hold elections for a new congress as soon as the voting rolls can be prepared.

Maj.-Gen. Franklin Lucero also is reported under arrest. It was Lucero who rallied military forces to put down the abortive June revolution.

Peron, the Asuncion, Paraguay, private home where he is closely guarded said, Peron in a brief written statement to correspondents Monday, indicated that he still hopes to return to Argentina—and politics.

The ex-dictator said he would "not move a finger in political affairs, but will live a purely private life." But he added significantly:

"What I do (indulge in political affairs), I will return to my country."

"I have come to this generous country as a simple citizen, drawn by its lively sympathy and my great love for its people, in the quest for a new life. This does not permit me to make statements or lend myself to any publicity."

PLAN REUNION

TORONTO (CP)—A national reunion of all former "Kriegies"—RCAF prisoners of war—will be held here Nov. 4 and 5 to mark the 10th anniversary of their freedom from Nazi PoWs. Flood Brenton said a giant stag will be held at the RCAF Association HQ and a voting for the former PoWs and their wives will be held Nov. 5, followed by a banquet in the evening.

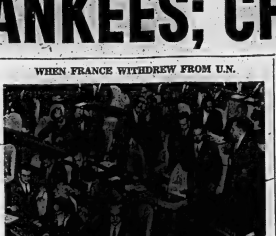
Four Are Killed In Vancouver Apartment Fire

Building Occupied By Elderly People

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four persons were killed in a fire which raged through the residential west end area here today, coroner Glen McDonald said.

The four, still unidentified, were found on the top floor of a rooming house occupied, police said, "mostly by elderly people."

The blaze, still burning but under control two hours after it erupted in the thickly - populated district, caused damage believed upwards of $200,000.



The fire, driven by a light wind, started in the framework of an unfinished apartment house.

Residents of the house leaped from the three-storey apartment house, destroyed an adjoining two-storey rooming house, and was eating its way into a second three - storey apartment house about 40 minutes after the alarm was sounded.

Firemen were unable to work their hook and ladders in close to the fire but ran pre-witness said "it looks like every piece of equipment in town is here."

Firemen were battling the blaze in a heavy rainstorm.

WHEN FRANCE WITHDREW FROM U.N.

Led by Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay, the entire French delegation walks out of the United Nations General Assembly hall in New York after the U.N. voted to place the Algerian question on the agenda of the current session. The vote, 28 to 27, with five abstentions, was a victory for the Afro-Asian bloc, supported by Russia. (Central Press Canadian).

Bank Teller Says Money Was Used For Good Time

Wanted Youth Picked Up on Traffic Charge

CALIENTE, Nev. (CP)—An 18-year-old Canadian bank teller picked up on a traffic charge is quoted as telling police he spent thousands of embezzled dollars on transcontinental pleasure wanderings.

Police also quoted him as saying Monday that he fell for a swindle during his journeys and invested in a non-existent gold mine.

Officers identified him as Nell Ellsworth Dickson, described by residents in his hometown of Stratford, as a "quiet, nice boy" who was an honor student at high school. He is charged in connection with the theft of $35,000 from the Toronto-Dominion Bank of Stratford.

Police said they found $14,000 in Canadian $100 bills in a suitcase in the new convertible Dickson was driving when they arrested him.

Prior to last Aug. 12 he periodically took from the Stratford bank, where he worked sums that eventually totalled $32,000 in Canadian money and $1,000 in United States currency.

GAMBLED MONEY AWAY

On Aug. 12 he left for Atlanta, Ga., contacted the Canadian funds in a bank and flew to Las Vegas, where he gambled and lost most of the U.S. money.

He returned to Atlanta, withdrew the Canadian money and went to Chicago and Detroit; where he converted it into U.S. funds.

From there he went on a pleasure jaunt to Cuba, returned to Miami, bought a car and drove to Las Vegas.

There he met James McMurray, 24, of Blythe, Calif., who induced him to buy an $8,000 interest in a uranium mine, a mine that did not exist.

McMurray was with Dickson when they were arrested for a minor traffic violation. Police found $14,000 when they found Dickson had no driver's license and his identification wasn't too good. Police said he gave his name as Calvin Kendall Dickson, 21, of Woodbury, Ga. They said he told them he has money on deposit in a bank in Las Vegas, Nev., and Atlanta.

Dickson was to be arraigned on federal charges of interstate transportation of stolen and converted funds. Officials of the Toronto bank are coming to Nevada to pick him up. They indicated he will waive extradition proceedings.

Dickson was last seen in Stratford Aug. 12. A bank teller said he saw him walking along a highway and carrying a woman's black suitcase.

He had been working for the bank for three years when his disappearance. After the bank reported the money missing a theft warrant was issued for his arrest. At the same time his mother appealed through newspapers and the radio for him to return.

Podres Shuts Out Yanks To Give Dodgers 2-0 Win

The Brooklyn Dodgers made baseball history today.

The colorful "Bums" defeated the New York Yankees in the seventh game of the world series to win the first baseball championship in Dodger history.

The Dodgers rose Phoenix-like from the ashes of two initial defeats, stepping the first two games to the Yankees then roaring back to take the next four in a row.

The Dodgers went into the lead in the fourth frame when Campanella doubled and Gil Hodges pinch-hit him across the plate.

The second run for the Dodgers was counted in the sixth when Jackie angled and moved around on an error, a sacrifice bunt and a sacrifice fly.

FIRST INNING

Dodgers: Gilliam went out on a high bouncer to Rizzuto. Reese struck out. Snider hit a single. He was given an ovation as he came to bat. He bounced out, Martin to Collins.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees: Rizzuto fouled to Campanella, Martin flied to Gilliam. Bauer singled and was out.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING

Yankees: Berra lined to Snider who made a running catch after getting off to a slow start. Zimmer threw out Bauer. Skowron lined a ground-rule double that landed in the right field stands on one bounce for the first hit of the game. Reese threw out Cerv.

THIRD INNING

Campanella's slow grounder hit Rizzuto as he slid into third and Martin was automatically out. McDougald was credited with a single.

FOURTH INNING

Dodgers: Snider struck out. Campanella doubled into the left field stands. His first trip around the stadium in 13 times at bat in four games. Rizzuto threw out Furillo as Campanella advanced to third. Manager Casey Stengel came out to talk to Podres. Podres lined a single into left, scoring Campanella to put the Dodgers in front 1-0. McDougald threw out Hoak.

One run, two hits, no errors, one left.

Yankees: Gilliam and Snider crossed paths on a pop fly. Furillo to center field dropped for a double between the two outfielders. Bauer struck out trying for a hit. Zimmer threw out Skowron, Berra to Hodges. Reese backed into short left centre for Cerv's towering pop fly.

FIFTH INNING

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Yankees: Howard sent a long fly to Gilliam in front of the left field wall 370 feet away. Byrne was called out on strikes. Hoak threw out McDougald.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SIXTH INNING

Dodgers: Reese shot a liner past Rizzuto's outstretched glove into centerfield. Snider laid down a sacrifice bunt and was safe when Skowron, after taking Byrne's throw off the bag, dropped the ball in making the tag. It was ruled a sacrifice, an error for Skowron and no assist for Byrne. Campanella dropped a sacrifice bunt half way to the mound and was out, Byrne to Martin covering first. Reese went to third and Snider to second. Furillo was intentionally passed, filling the bases. Stengel came out to the mound and signalled the end for Byrne.

Bob Grim was the new pitcher. Hodges flied deep to Cerv. Reese scoring on the sacrifice fly for Brooklyn's second run as Snider dashed into third after the catch. Grim's second pitch to Hoak became a foul to front of the plate, rolled away from Berra, Furillo going to second on the wild pitch as Snider held third. Hoak walked on five pitches, filling the bases for the second time. George Shuba, a left handed hitter, batted for Zimmer. He grounded to Skowron, who tossed to Grim, covering first, for the out.

One run, one hit, one error, three left.

SEVENTH INNING

Dodgers: Podres bounced out to Martin. Gilliam singled to right, Martin after a started warning up in the Yankee bullpen. Gilliam was cut down stealing. Berra to Rizzuto to Collins as Martin was forced at second. Byrne threw out Reese.

No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Yankees: A fan came out to the field and approached Snider as he was playing and he quickly escorted off.

Reese threw out Skowron. Cerv went out the same way. Howard then sped sharply into left field. Mickey Mantle batted for Grim, hitting right handed. He raised a towering fly to right field behind third.

EIGHTH INNING

Dodgers: Bob Turley became the Yankee third pitcher. Campanella looked at a third called strike, Campanella flied to Howard. Furillo struck out.

Yankees: Rizzuto singled to left centre. Martin hit a drive safely to right. McDougald crashed a hard single off Hoak's left shoulder into left field, sending Rizzuto to third. Alston came out for the Dodgers to look the game and decided to allow Podres to remain in the game. Podres threw three straight balls to Berra before got out a strike. Berra hit the next pitch and raised a fly to Furillo in shallow right centre and Furillo's strong throw to the plate kept Rizzuto at third. Snider struck out, missing a fast ball.

NINTH INNING

Dodgers: Hodges fouled to Skowron. Hoak singled to right centre. Amoras walked on a full count. Reese received a tremendous ovation as he came to bat. Cerv took "Jackie" out for a short centre. Bauer raced back to the auxiliary scoreboard in deep centre for Gil Hodge's long high drive.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Eisenhower Cheerful After Good Day Monday

By ERNEST B. VACCARO

DENVER (AP)—President Eisenhower, after writing his vice-president Monday night to carry on affairs of the national security council and the cabinet, was reported by his physicians "in a cheerful mood" after a "good day."

Uneasiness created by word Sunday night that the president didn't have a good night's rest was allayed after physicians found no evidence of fatigue.

Dr. Paul Dudley, White, Boston heart specialist, reported "everything goes on as usual" at the sickbed on the eighth floor of Fitzsimmons Army Hospital.

This is the second crucial week in the aftermath of the coronary that has made the president, who will be 65 on Oct. 14, suffered Sept. 24. Dr. Denver Love of the White House, in-law, Mrs. John S. Doud.

UN Observers Expect Menon Will Ease Assembly Tension

By TOM HOGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Observers at United Nations headquarters looked today to India's V. K. Krishna Menon for a move to ease tensions caused by the French boycott of the general assembly.

Menon, Prime Minister Nehru's chief foreign affairs adviser, was slated to wind up the assembly's policy debate. As a leader of the Arab-Asian bloc, he could do much to influence fellow anti-colonialists to ease up on the Algerian issue until French cools off.

Although India voted against the French in the assembly ballot to debate Algerian demands for independence, Nehru's government earlier had praised Paris for giving up the small colonies France established in India in the 17th century.

Following the decision to debate the Algerian issue, France called home her representatives at the assembly and then her permanent delegation to the UN. The French cabinet decided, however, to hold on to France's permanent "big power" seat on the security council and her place on the disarmament committee and sub-committee.

The French had more bitter comment Monday about the assembly's vote to take up Algeria. Jules Moch, delegate to the disarmament sub-committee, labelled the decision to debate the Algerian demands for independence "a flagrant violation of the charter that French government could not accept."

The French contend that Algeria is a domestic matter—not a fertile holding subject to UN intervention—because under the constitution it is an integral part of France rather than a colony or protectorate.

Moch said the only reason he was continuing to serve on the disarmament sub-committee was because the French government attaches such paramount importance to the question of disarmament."

The assembly rebuffed another colonial power Monday night, voting 31 to 18 to take up Indonesia's demands that The Netherlands give up western New Guinea.

The Netherlands made no move to emulate the French boycott, but Foreign Minister J. M. H. A. Luns told reporters he regretted American failure to support his government on the issue. The United States, which backed France on its Algerian stand, was one of 19 countries abstaining on the New Guinea vote. Canada also abstained.

Experiments With Dogs in Michigan May Be Solution to Police Shortages

By HILLEL BLACK

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Four German shepherd dogs—who at a command will jump through a plate glass window—are being used in an experiment which may prove the solution to the shortage of police officers in many communities.

The experiment, first of its kind in city police work according to commissioner Marquette C. Johnson of Dearborn, Mich., is being conducted in her city of 120,000.

"Instead of having two policemen on a beat we can send out a dog and an officer," she said. "The dog, if commanded, will jump through any door. He will flush out a suspect and disarm him, enter a burning building to search for victims, seek a lost child, point and stand guard."

Mrs. Johnson, only woman police commissioner in the United States, is attending the 62nd annual International Association of Chiefs of Police conference here.

"So far," she said, "we think the experiment is terrific."

"The dogs, who also travel in police cars, could save many officers' lives. If a man is armed with a knife or gun or is holed up somewhere, the dog will find him, flush him out, disarm him and then guard him until the officer arrives."

She recalled how a dog held four men at bay while an officer left him and walked down a long block to call for a patrol car. When he returned, the men hadn't budged an inch.

In Detroit, she noted, a man recently ran berserk and finally was cornered in a house. It took six policemen using tear gas to flush the man out. During all this, one officer was wounded.

"All this wasn't necessary," asserted Mrs. Johnson. "Two dogs could have crashed through a window after the man and then brought the man out disarmed."

The dogs' rookie training started last year and they went on duty in April.

Floods Threatened

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)—Flooding Lake Wichita Monday night threatened Wichita Falls with the greatest flood since the disastrous overflows of 1950.

Britain Confirms 'Secret' Missive Quoted by Nasser

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today confirmed that the alleged intelligence "secret" document quoted by Egyptian President Nasser Sunday to have intercepted does in fact exist.

But a war office spokesman said today that because it is secret its contents cannot be disclosed, but it had "a fairly wide distribution in the army."

Britain will investigate the claim of Egypt's Prime Minister Colonel Abdel Nasser that he has a copy of it, the spokesman added.

Nasser mentioned the document while addressing a graduating parade of Egyptian army officers in Cairo Sunday. He said it disclosed the extent of Western military aid to Israel, and forecast that Egypt would not attack Israel but that Israel would attack on the Egyptian front.

By JIM BECKER

TOKYO (AP)—Japan is the bull's eye at which from one to three Pacific disastrous Pacific typhoons are aimed each year.

October is when most of them slam home.

When the typhoons rip into densely populated Japan, thousands of houses are blown away, scores of persons are crushed by flying debris and drowned in floods, huge waves splinter fishing craft and thousands of acres of sorely needed rice plants are destroyed.

Typhoon Louise, the year's most violent, took at least 42 lives last September in its rampage through southern Japan. Another 300 were injured. The storm's howling winds came down a high-tension wire and started a fire which destroyed the centre of Niigata, a city of 250,000.

On her way up "typhoon alley" from Guam, Louise also flattened the American base on two Jima and took a pass at Okinawa, where the United States maintains a large garrison.

And new typhoons are brewing out there for the August month.

When full grown, Pacific typhoons are fierce storms with whirl winds of 75 to 175 miles an hour around a hollow centre. Torrents of lashing rain—sometimes as much as a foot in a day—add.

Some of the storms blow themselves out harmlessly over the ocean, but an average of three to six a year streak right up the island chain. By a tragic quirk of nature, typhoons traditionally follow almost the exact course of the island string.

A typhoon in 1923 sank one of Japan's great warships, the cruiser Mutsuki. Two wartime typhoons killed more than 1,500.

House Slows Traffic

TORONTO (CP)—Traffic slowed to a crawl Monday at suburban Malton because there was a house in the road.

The house, a 90-ton, five - room bungalow, was one of nearly 37 recently auctioned off by the government of transport to permit expansion of Malton airport.

Only 20 Blocks Of Tampico Will Escape Floods

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The flooded Panuco river rose to all-time heights in Tampico today and officials predicted that only about 20 blocks in the highest part of the Gulf coast Mexican oil city will remain above water.

More than 60,000 of Tampico's 110,000 population have been driven from their homes to government centres. Officials say the city is in far worse shape than after the record hurricanes of 1905 and 1933.

Obituary

GEORGE ROSE (Picton)

PICTON — For many years a widely known cattle buyer and farmer, George E. Rose, passed away Monday morning at his residence, Woodcrous Corners. He had been ill for nearly three years. On November 6th, he would have marked his 85th birthday.

Up until his last illness he had been active as a livestock buyer and shipper. In earlier years he had operated a wholesale meat business, with Belleville firms, and he had spent eight years in the United States in similar work.

Born on the Ridge Road, township of Hallowell, Mr. Rose was the son of Sylvaneus Rose and his wife, Harriett Mann. Most of his life had been spent at Woodcrous where he operated the former Werden homestead, specializing in Holstein cattle. He was keenly interested in the livestock business in all its phases.

Mr. Rose was president of the Prince Edward Agricultural Society when it was re-organized under the present name and he contributed much to its present success.

He was an adherent of the United Church and a good supporter and always sympathetic to the needs of church and the work of friends.

In December 1947 Mr. and Mrs. Rose marked their golden wedding anniversary. She passed away in 1950.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. E. P. Doddz (Ruth), with whom he made his home, two sons, Eugene of Belleville and Gordon of Oshawa, also three grandchildren. He was the last surviving member of his family.

Resting at the Funeral Home of G. M. Hicks and Son, Picton, the funeral service is being held at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon, with interment in Cherry Valley cemetery.

MRS. ISABELLA GRAHAM 13 Forin Street

The funeral of Mrs. Isabella Graham, 13 Forin Street, took place from the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Home chapel on Monday with the Rev. R. D. Mclean, St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, officiating at the chapel and graveside services.

Interment was in Belleville cemetery.

MRS. WILLIAM J. BRANT (Deseronto R. R. 1)

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Brant, widow of William J. Brant, was held Saturday, Oct. 1st, from the home of her daughter, Mrs. Laverne Thompson, R.R. 1, Deseronto.

Rev. Walter F. Smith, chaplain to the Tyendinaga Reserve, conducted the service.

Bearers were Huron Brant, Clarence Brant, Simon Brant, Walter Hill, Kenneth Lucas and Willard Thompson.

Interment took place in Christ Anglican cemetery, Deseronto.

The deceased was born on the Tyendinaga Reserve, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. David C. Maracle, and lived her life in Deseronto and district. She died Wednesday, Sept. 28, at the home of her daughter, after a brief illness. She was 82.

She is survived by one son, Clarence, of Tyendinaga Reserve, two daughters, Hilda, of Hamilton, and Mrs. Laverne (Olive) Thompson, of R.R. 1, Deseronto, nine grandchildren and 10 great grandchildren. She was predeceased by her husband, William J. Brant.

The deceased was a member of Christ Anglican church and the Women's Guild.

OWEN O'BRIEN

The funeral of Owen O'Brien, 27 Everett St., was held Tuesday morning from the Dunn Funeral Home of George F. O'Brien to St. Michael's church. Very Rev. Dean R. B. Gervin sang the Libera.

Members of the Belleville fire department under the direction of Chief Gerald Vance formed a guard of honor for the deceased, a brother of Deputy Chief Gerald O'Brien.

Bearers were Gerald Clement, John McHugh, William Bella, Michael Graham, Anthony Bero and Harold Gordanier.

Weather Did Not Get Far Off Normal in Sept.

High temperature for last month was 82 degrees and a low of 36 degrees being recorded. Mean temperature was 58.5 degrees and rainfall two-and-a-half inches.

A year ago the high reading in September was 85 degrees and the low 38 with a mean reading of 59. Rainfall was 4.57 inches.

And just for comparison, the average rainfall for October is 2.78 inches, and the mean temperature for the past 20 years during the same month has stood at 60 degrees.

Ministerial Assoc. Elects New Officers

The first meeting of the Belleville Ministerial Association was held in the Bridge St. United Church parlors at 10 a.m. Monday, Oct. 3.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Past president, Rev. J. B. Creegan; president, Rev. J. Spearman; vice president, Rev. W. Eric Strain; secretary - treasurer, Rev. E. Smith; chairman of radio, Rev. J. Cantrell; director of religious education, Rev. K. Daniel.

A presentation was made to Rev. W. Robinson, who will be leaving for Orillia soon.

The ministerial meetings will be held in the Y.M.C.A. in the future, with the members taking recreational time each Monday morning, and the business meeting the first Monday of each month.

Bridge St. W.A. Hears Talk On Radio Work

The September meeting of the Bridge Street United church W.A. took place in the S.S. auditorium, with Mrs. Frank Allen in charge. Attendance for the opening fall meeting, Mrs. E. S. Fairman president, presided.

Reports were received from treasurer, secretaries and various committees.

The association was reminded of various future events including the annual bazaar, which will take place in November; also an announcement was made by Mrs. Denyes on behalf of the WMS regarding the birthday tea to be held this month.

After the business was concluded, the meeting was turned over to the group in charge of the program for the day: Mrs. D. Stanford, Mrs. J. W. Miller's group with Mrs. Stanton presiding.

Mrs. J. E. McArthur led in the devotional period the theme being "Radio". Mrs. Ackerman read the Scripture, which was followed by prayer.

At this time Mrs. J. G.Demeza favored with a pleasing vocal solo, accompanied by the pianist, Mrs. J. R. Guthridge.

SPEAKER

Mrs. McArthur introduced the speaker, Mrs. John Healy, ("Harriett Stephens" of the local radio station). Mrs. Healy gave an interesting account of her work as a radio commentator, relating many humorous incidents and experiences and some of the various types of interviewees she receives from time to time. Mrs. Healy said that especially in the case of conduct interviews over the radio and that she frequently received favorable comments on this sort of radio program, especially from the ladies in the listening audience.

Mrs. C. Burr graciously thanked Mrs. Healy for her interesting address.

Mrs. E. S. Fairman, president of the association, also thanked all those taking part in the program. The tea served by the group in charge.

Big Tree Brings Driving Lessons To Abrupt Halt

A big tree on MacDonald Ave. brought Belleville girl's three-and-a-half weeks' driving experience to an abrupt halt late Tuesday afternoon, causing approximately $450 damage to her father's car.

Donna Lott, Point Anne, was westbound on Dundas Street East and in making a right turn onto MacDonald Ave. lost control of the car, which mounted the curb and crashed into the tree. The girl's father was riding in the car at the time of the mishap.

Howard G. Rainbird, 92 Sander Street, was westbound on Bridge with Charles A. Weir, 232 Front St., northbound on William. The two cars collided in the centre of the intersection.

Noted Evangelists To Speak Here

Phil and Louis Palermo of Minneapolis, Minnesota, American-born Italian Youth for Christ International evangelists, will conduct a week's crusade in the ministry in Italy, will speak at the first Pentecostal Church, North Front street, on Sunday evening.

The Both young men, with their musical instruments, guitar and accordion, have been active in evangelistic work for more than 15 years, preaching, singing and giving their testimony both in the United States, Canada, Italy and other European countries.

Youth for Christ and Youth for Christ in Italy; brought delegates from there to the first World Congress on Evangelism in Beasenberg, Switzerland; were active in the revival in Belfast, Ireland; spent some time in Trieste with the American troops there; went to Tokyo, Japan to the sixth World Congress on Evangelism; appeared on the Far East Armed Forces radio and were the first-to present a religious program on TV in Japan.

New United Church Men's Committee Elects Officers

The Men's Committee of the new United Church of east Belleville was formed recently. There were 27 men present, with the Rev. J. W. Platt presiding.

A sing-song was conducted, after which the following officers were elected: President, J. Allen; secretary, J. Murdoch, and treasurer, D. Lamb.

Many important items of business for discussion. The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, October 17, in the Bridge Street United Church, Fairway Avenue.

50th Birthday Is Celebrated By Magazine

TORONTO (CP) — Maclean's magazine celebrated its 50th birthday Monday night at a party for more than 200 business men, advertisers, writers and artists.

Horace T. Hunter, chairman of the board of Maclean-Hunter Publishing Co. Ltd., made the "ceremonial incision"—the phrase is Maclean's—to cut the first edition of Maclean's, from 1914 to 1921; Blair Fraser, Maclean's Ottawa editor; and photographer Yousuf Karsh.

But the earliest days of the publication—when it was first Business Magazine and then Busy Man's Magazine—were not entirely forgotten. Introduced to the audience was W. L. Grant, first editor of Maclean's under the late Col. John Bayne Maclean, its founder.

Wool-Textile Firms Enjoy Better Business

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian wool-textile and knit-goods industries enjoyed a modest increase in business level in the last year but are still far behind 1951 production peaks, J. L. Bisson, president of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association, said today.

Mr. Heon, addressing the group's 53rd annual meeting, said he doubted that the deadline in the textile industry appeared to be stopped. But employmen totalled only 33,200, compared with a peak of 45,000 in 1951.

He said the upturn in business came "entirely from our own efforts."

"It seems that our government is still ill-disposed to correct those situations beyond our control. I refer to the severe increases in import pressures and the consequent damage done to our industries.

"This is an unfortunate state of affairs but one about which we can do little," he said. "We must continue to demonstrate to those in authority that we are making every effort to better our own position. Then they may come to realize that no amount of efficiency and hard work on our part can overcome certain basic disadvantages with which our industries are confronted at the present time."

Normal Heart Subject of Talk To Rotarians

"The Normal Heart", organ extraordinary, was the subject of a talk to Belleville Rotarians Monday noon by Dr. Bruce Cronk.

"I am convinced that what we understand we do not fear, or fear less," said Dr. Cronk in his opening remarks.

He stated that three people are worried about their hearts for every one who has heart disease. Some with abnormalities are worried beyond the seriousness of their condition.

Dr. Cronk gave a simplified explanation of the circulatory system and the mechanical function of the heart using blackboard diagrams to illustrate his remarks.

"The heart is not delicate," he said as he pointed out that the heart of a man lying in bed for 24 hours does enough work pumping blood to raise a 300-ton diesel locomotive 15 inches.

"As muscles go the heart is the most powerful muscle in the body," he said.

Dr. Cronk explained difference between heart and voluntary muscle, the properties of irritability and rhythmic contraction and the control mechanisms governing heart rate.

Why is there an increase in heart disease in Canada?

Because the life span of the average man has increased making him more susceptible to arterial disease and because most North Americans eat too well of the foods that contribute to arterial disease.

Dr. Cronk was introduced by Dr. J. Aynes and was thanked by the Rev. H. M. Davis.

Shopping Made Easier At Canadian Tire

Canadian Tire Corporation for many years have built their business on cash basis, but to keep pace with modern shopping habits, they have now introduced their own Credit Budget Plan. The highlights of this plan are that a customer may purchase any merchandise or service for $20. with no down payment and weekly payments as low as $1.

Under this plan accounts there is no waiting, immediate delivery of any goods can be secured. Under this new scheme there is no outside interviews or references required.

As in all of Canadian Tire Corporation activities, they have been successful in setting up the plan within a matter of days for consumer. Carrying charges are much below most other arrangements.

Stock Market Faces Another Crucial Session

By ED MORSE

NEW YORK (AP)—A shadow of uncertainty stretched across Wall street again today as the stock market awaited one of the year's most crucial sessions.

A new wave of tension over President Eisenhower's condition sent the market skittering down early in day to a point even lower than the one reached the previous Monday when the president's illness sparked the biggest break since Oct. 28, 1929.

More than $4,000,000,000 was the estimated decline in the quoted value of listed securities on the New York stock exchange Monday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average fell $3.80 to $169.50, or 60 cents below the point reached a week ago when word of the big sell-off brought an estimated drop of $13,000,000,000 in market valuation.

MAJOR STOCKS HIT

Losses of around $1 to $6 a share hit key stocks in industrial and motion chief sufferers, although all major divisions of the list were stricken.

From the start the market was only slightly lower, but prices broke sharply around noon. As the world series game got under way the pressure eased, but when that ended selling hit hard again, knocking down prices right down to the day within the last hour.

Martin Gilbert, analyst for Bache and Co., said: "A good measure of uncertainty still exists." He called it "an intermediary reaction in a bull market," and observed that the country is in an extremely prosperous state for 1955 and beyond. Gilbert said the market was "testing its bone."

Alfred M. Perlin of Hooker and Fay said: "Historically, selling such as was experienced last Monday is generally followed by one or two more selling waves of lighter intensity before the market reverses its course."

Stratford Police Want Wage Hike, Other Benefits

STRATFORD (CP)—A three-man arbitration board headed by Judge Board arguments for and against a Stratford Police Association request for increased wages and other benefits.

The board, headed by Judge W.F. Schwenger of Hamilton, was named to rule on the request when the city and the Police Association could not come to terms on a new contract.

The association, representing Stratford's 19 police constables, asked for a salary increase of $600 a year, a work week reduction to 40 hours from 44, a 10-day period of time off in lieu of statutory holidays, a sick-leave plan comparable to that of other city departments and better lunch-room facilities.

N. L. Matthews of Toronto, representing the city, argued against any increase in pay.

"Salaries paid in Stratford compare very favorably with municipalities of similar size." He said Stratford ranks "around the top" in regard to salaries paid probationary constables.

He said the cost-of-living index is up only slightly over that of 1950, when the last arbitration award was made, and therefore there is no justification for an increase now.

Mr. Matthews argued against the work week reduction on the ground that in no comparable municipality do police work less than 44 hours.

W. R. Poole of London represents the Police Association on the board and D. Park Jamieson of Sarnia, the city.

Secondary Talks Aimed at Clearing Several Issues

TORONTO (CP)—Company and union officials were scheduled to meet today to continue secondary talks aimed at clearing the way for a resumption of main negotiations to settle the strike of 17,000 General Motors Corporation of Canada workers.

Groups representing the large Oshawa plant and skilled trades have arranged to meet to try to resolve their local problems. After all local problems are settled satisfactorily, top negotiators for both sides will move in to discuss the financial demands of the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL).

Although both parties in the dispute are maintaining a news blackout, some circles predicted they will try to speed up the secondary talks, which have dragged over 12 days of the 15 the strike has been on.

There was no meeting scheduled by delegates from the Windsor GM plant, although a union spokesman said one may be called some time today. The Windsor plant is reported very close to settlement of its local matters.

Other key plants in the strike-bound GM chain — at St. Catharines, Toronto and London—have completed their talks.

Thieves Make Vain Attempt To Rob Bank

Police said they became suspicious of the parked car when they found a back door open at the Canadian Legion hall, just a short distance from the car.

However, they later learned that all that interlopers were at work with a torch in an effort to cut through a heavy vault door at the bank. The safecrackers finally gave up.

Police spotted the car as it was driven from the village and chased it at speeds up to 100 miles an hour.

Last January three bandits stole $3,000 from the bank and fled amid a hail of bullets.

Textile Makers Advised to Take Greater Interest

MONTREAL (CP) — Dr. David L. Thomson, vice-principal and dean of the faculty of graduate studies and research at McGill University, Monday advised textile manufacturers to take a greater interest in the community life of towns where their plants are established.

The fact that the textile industry is located largely in small towns and villages gives it a special opportunity and responsibility to play a constructive role in community organization, Dean Thomson told the 33rd annual convention of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association.

The textile industry and other industries could initiate and sponsor activities that would contribute to a fuller life for everybody in the district, he said. But the industry must guard against forcing its help or its ideas on the community.

Pantless Police Arrest Hunters

MONTREAL (CP) — Informality was the keynote Monday when two RCMP officers arrested five duck hunters at the nearby Heron Island game preserve.

The Mounties had to push a boat through boggy marshland to reach the hunters. To make the going easier, they slipped out of some of their heavy clothing.

The arrest was made minus pants.

The RCMP also seized guns, ammunition, 26 dead ducks and 17 live ones used as decoys, an RCMP spokesman said.

Husband, Child Numbered Among Crash Victims

BRANTFORD (CP)—Mrs. Mabel Kine, a nurse at Brantford General Hospital, was on duty Monday night when three accident victims were brought in.

They were her husband, Rev. Albert Kine of nearby Oakland and their daughter, Linda, 7, and Mrs. Nora Robinson of Debolt.

The two Kine children suffered minor injuries in a car accident on Highway 53 on the outskirts of Brantford. Mrs. Robinson suffered a possible internal injury in the same accident.

In a second accident in Brantford, Nathan Koenig, 63, of Galt, jumped clear of his stalled car just before it was demolished by a train.

CNR Will End 1955 With Surplus--Gordon

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian National Railways will end 1955 with a "modest surplus", president Donald Gordon predicted today.

Mr. Gordon told a meeting of the Montreal Chambre de Commerce that "business conditions have improved and our freight traffic has increased considerably over that of last year." At the same time, "we have been able to cut down our expenditures."

Mr. Gordon recalled he had predicted at this time last year that the CNR would end 1954 with a deficit and the railway lost "a $28,000,000." He said now he was "able to forecast that we will end 1955 in the black."

Surgeon-General Of U.S. Reviews Salk Vaccine

DETROIT (CP) — Dr. Leonard A. Scheele, United States surgeon-general, said Monday Canada's Salk polio vaccine is "no better and no worse" than that manufactured in the U.S.

"What the Canadians know, we know," he told reporters after a meeting of the Economic Club of Detroit. He said the two countries are exchanging all information gained from experience with the vaccine.

Dr. Scheele said Canada has had problems with vaccine production and the Canadian program now is "being reviewed." He said he heard reports several weeks ago that Canada stopped production altogether.

These reports were denied in Ottawa Sept. 15 by officials of the national health and welfare department.

Court Grants Injunction Against Union

MONTREAL (CP) — Miron et Freres, one of the key construction companies working on the St. Lawrence seaway here, Monday was granted an interim injunction against a union involved in a work stoppage since last Wednesday.

The injunction, which runs until Thursday when a hearing for a permanent injunction will be held, was granted against the International Brotherhood of Teamsters AFL. It orders the union to stop all interfering aimed at interrupting, retarding or obstructing the normal operations of the company.

More than 1,000 men are involved in the dispute but Robert Lafleur, lawyer for the company, said between 15,000 and 20,000persons would be out of work by the end of the week if the walkout continued.

Airways Firm Ends Contract For DEW Airlift

EDMONTON (CP) — T. P. (Tommy) Fox, president of Associated Airways, announced today he has relinquished his responsibilities as a contractor on the DEW radar line airlift.

"The series of unsatisfactorily factors which have dogged the company the last four months have been such that the company does not feel it can continue with its responsibilities at this time," the company said in a statement.

Mr. Fox's statement came at a time when reports were searching over 250,000 square miles for an Associated Airways York transport lost since last Thursday night in the Northwest Territories where it was carrying on the DEW distant early warning radar line airlift.

The York was the sixth Associated plane to be lost since the company became the prime DEW line air carrier about six months ago. The previous five crashes were fatal, claiming a total of 12 lives.

Violinist Will Not Perform Due To Local's Rule

TORONTO (CP)—Violinist Donna Greseoe said Monday she has been refused permission by the Toronto Musicians' Association to appear on a CBC television network show.

Miss Greseoe, speaking from her Brooklyn, N. Y., apartment, said she received a letter from the secretary of the association telling her she could not appear on the Canadian program because she does not hold a membership card in the Toronto Musicians' Local 149.

Norman Hamlett, secretary of the association, said he "sympathized" with the Winnipeg-born violinist, but could see "no way to get around it for her." He said the practice was that all persons performing had to have membership cards in the Toronto local.

Miss Greseoe called the association's decision "arbitrary and outrageous."

"It wouldn't be reasonable to expect an artist to carry cards for every place he or she might be engaged to go," she said. "I had heard of the high-handed policies of the Toronto local, but never dreamed they would be invoked against a Canadian artist about to appear on a Canadian network."

Experts to Study General Fiscal Arrangements

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal-provincial conference today devoted most of its time to discussing general fiscal arrangements among the provinces and the amount that No. 1 subject over to a committee of financial experts.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said at the lunch adjournment that the afternoon plenary session will take up a new topic, to be decided when the conference reconvened at 2:30 p.m. EST.

The prime minister said the first closed meeting at the new chamber was given over to enlarging on a plan which he put before Monday's opening public meeting as a possible alternative to the existing tax rental agreements.

The five provinces which have asked specifically that the tax rental agreements be continued, but with higher payments, apparently made little progress in their demands. The five are Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Premier Frost, emerging from the conference, said he is "cheerful and optimistic."

Posed as Lover Of Own Wife To Get Divorce

PURLEY, England (Reuters) — A 33-year-old electrical engineer who disguised himself with a false moustache and dark glasses to pose as his wife's paramour and obtain divorce was sent to jail here today for four years.

Montague Harris pleaded guilty to 30 charges, including forgery and perjury.

The prosecution contended that Harris, masquerading as his wife's lover, and a Miss Hawkins, pretending to be Mrs. Harris, signed confessions necessary for Harris to obtain a divorce.

He was granted a divorce without his wife's knowledge, and married again.

Assessment Shows Increase

TRENTON (Special) — Evidence that Trenton is expanding is contained in the 1955 assessment figures released by town clerk O. W. Larry yesterday.

Assessment this year will amount to $10,732,664. Last year it was $10,415,079. The increase for the past twelve months is $308,585.

Assessment notices are now in taxpayers' hands. Appeals are being received by the town clerk for the Court of Revision until October 20.

FATALLY INJURED

GUELPH (CP) — Stanley B. Fleet, 32, of Point Edward and Clinton died in hospital Monday night, 48 hours after he was injured in a collision on the Guelph-Elora road. Fleet was driving alone when his car went out of control and overturned, police said.

REAL TROUBLE

Frank Flaherty, writing in "Canadian Business," organ of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, refers to "the fuss made about unemployment in the early part of the season" as a "joke."

Now it is true that the gloom-chasers have been confounded and the optimists have been proven right. Canada's economy has made a remarkable and a heartening recovery from the "recession" of last winter.

We are not so sure that Mr. Flaherty is on sound grounds when he says that "due to unemployment insurance and personal savings resulting from a long period of high employment at good wages, only a small proportion of the registered unemployed was in real trouble."

It all depends on what Mr. Flaherty considers "real trouble." If he means that few families in which the wage earner was idle were going hungry, that few children were going to school in leaky shoes or inadequate clothing, he is probably right.

Most of us, though, would consider ourselves in "real trouble" if we had to live for long on the comparatively small amounts paid as unemployment insurance benefits. This is not to suggest that these amounts should be greatly increased. It is necessary to avoid elimination of the incentive to work. But, if this incentive is retained, it is inevitable that the unemployed will find themselves in trouble. To them, at least, it will be real trouble.

The reference to personal savings may be misleading. Much of these savings are not in forms which are generally considered to be liquid assets. Life insurance, for instance, will represent a high proportion of the savings of the average industrial worker. It is possible to borrow on life insurance policies, but when a man has to do so he is likely to consider himself in trouble. Another big slice of the average man's assets is his equity in his home. Borrowing on this is more difficult; besides, in almost every case, he is committed to make further regular payments. When he cannot meet his mortgage payments, the unemployed worker is likely to consider his trouble real enough.

While the personal savings of Canadians have risen during the period of high employment at good wages, personal debts have also risen. Figures for consumer credit prove this. It may be argued that the unemployed worker who has heavy instalment debts is getting what he just penalty for his foolishness; he should not have got heavily in debt. While this may be true of the individual, unfortunately there is good reason to believe that, if every person stayed out of debt, this fact would throw a heavy load of grit into the wheels of the country's merchandising machinery. For better or for worse, our era of high employment at good wages appears to be wedded to a high rate of spending.

Most of us would think we were in trouble, real trouble, if we were forced to go without our regular pay cheques for even three or four weeks.

BUTLIN WILL BE BUSY

The news that the delegates to the British Labor Party's annual conference will assemble at one of Billy Butlin's hotels is the raw stuff of which chuckles are made.

The Labor Party is one in which there are many strange bedfellows. But few of them, it would seem, will feel at home in one of Mr. Butlin's beds.

The institutions are hardly likely to take kindly to an atmosphere of fun and frolic, to which Butlin has wedded his holiday-camp fortune.

The intellectual is not likely to be comfortable being pursued by cheerful young hostesses.

The labor union leaders, at least those of them lately up from the ranks of the workers, are less likely to be averse to fun, frolic and gaiety. Mr. Butlin's genius can transform his play-resort into a combination of a darkened garret, a study and a tavern. It's a good trick —and do not be surprised if he does it.

Next time, though, he ought to shoot for the Conservative convention—the transformation would demand little more than dressing his hostesses in jodhpurs by day and Parisian creations by night.

CEMENT SHORTAGE ONLY TEMPORARY

One man's meat is another man's poison! J. H. Breen, general manager of Canada Cement Co., says the current shortage of cement in Canada is temporary. That will be welcome news to builders. But if it was threatening to be permanent—why then Canada Cement Co. would certainly be planning to do something about it and we might see Point Anne bursting its seams.

Such an explanation would be pleasant. Or, come to think of it, would it? Seems as if local hockey and softball teams have enough trouble holding their own with Point Anne at present, without any increase in that community's size.

SECOND CHILDHOOD

They call it "second childhood," but when time has taken wing
There isn't any school bell after breakfast time to ring.
And there isn't any mother if you dawdle who will state:
"You must hurry, little fellow, or you surely will be late."

It may seem like "second childhood" but you'll walk instead of run,
And there won't be any ball game, for your playing days are done.

Your stomach may be aching; you may make a dismal scene,
But the pain won't come from eating peach or pear or apple green.

It is known as "second childhood" and it may be that is right,
But for cookies by the fistful you won't have the appetite.
On a diet strict they'll put you, leaving little to enjoy.
It won't be that happy childhood that you lived through as a boy.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 4, 1935

Dr. James H. Forrester, eye, ear and nose specialist, late of Toronto, has come to this city to reside and has taken the office on Victoria Avenue, formerly occupied by the late Dr. W. W. Boyce.

To serve as a missionary and nurse in the interior of Nigeria, Miss Vera Ray, Reg. N., whose home is a short distance east of Centenary Church in Sidney township, will sail on the 19 from Montreal for Liverpool on the first lap of her long journey. She will be one of a party being sent from Canada by the Methodist Missionary Society of Hamilton. Her companions will be one married couple, three girls from the prairie provinces and two single men. Miss Ray is a graduate of the Belleville General Hospital and of the Toronto Bible College and has been active in religious work for the past three years. For fifteen years she has been fired with ambition to go to some remote part of the world and assist in the healing of the sick and the care of the unfortunate. Miss Ray will be relating her experiences in connection with her work after she has left Canada off country in letters to the Bible Training Conference. Miss Ray is a regular attendant at the Alliance Tabernacle.

The mercury reached at times a maximum velocity of 45 miles per hour over Belleville and district for all of last night. Considerable damage was done to telegraph, telephone, hydro lines and trees. On the bay and lake it was one of the worst blows experienced for years; fishermen lost many nets, boats were torn from moorings in the harbor and some boats were almost wrecked by the pounding waves. The gale raged directly from the south.

Oct. 4, 1925

Messrs. J. Vincent Doyle, Clifford C. Walker, W. E. Schuster and A. F. Allen are spending a few days at Mr. Walker's cottage at Wesleyville.

Belleville Market Prices: eggs 43 cents to 45 cents per dozen; butter 50 cents per pound; chickens $1.25 to $2.50 per pair; broilers 60 cents to $1, per pair; potatoes $1.50 per bushel; corn 10 cents per dozen; cucumbers 90 cents per bushel; peaches $1.10 per basket for grade one and 90 cents per basket for grade two; pears 80 cents per basket; grapes 60 cents per basket.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Legate, Charles Street, are spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. McCaw and son, Jimmie, have returned to the city after spending a few days in Rochester.

Archdeacon the Ven. G. R. Beamish, rector of St. Thomas' Church, will be the special preacher at the services in St. Peter's Anglican Church in Brantford next Sunday.

40 YEARS AGO

Oct. 4, 1915

Dr. Mather in this city is spending some time at Mount Clemens, Mich.

Saturday night a soldier was sitting upon the wall near the upper bridge when he lost his balance and fell a distance of fifteen feet into the river. Ladders were secured from No. 2 fire hall and he was rescued from his perilous position. Fortunately he escaped without injury other than a ducking.

Messrs. D. D. Deshane and Adam Deshane will leave shortly for Edmonton, Alta., where the former will take charge of a factory. Many apples and considerable tobacco are grown in this district.

Mining in North Hastings. From our file copy at this time in 1915: Mr. Jonah Hoffman arrived home from the north last evening. He is developing a copper mine three miles north of Coe Hill and he brought home a rich specimen of the ore.

50 YEARS AGO

It will be of interest to citizens to learn that in the near future a change will take place in the location of two prominent stores, namely D. W. Sinclair & Company, and the Oak Hall Clothing Store, conducted by Chem. E. Wright. The latter establishment will move to the store formerly occupied by Wood's Fair, and the Sinclair Company will move into the store vacated by the Oak Hall.

Both people will be remodelled and made up-to-date.

Messrs. Joseph M. Doyle and William Doyle left last evening for New York City.

By GREGORY CLARK

In several Canadian cities, a thriving business has grown up for professional housecleaners. I am told it is a commonplace in the United States. Every fall the housewife come and take over your house for a week. I see it as much as a rooster that got caught in a tornado. As many as eleven men and women, armed with all kinds of aversize vacuum cleaners and highly specialized brooms, brushes and other equipment the housewife never dreamed of, arrive at 8 a.m. They wash the walls and woodwork, clean and polish the furniture—not every book case, desk, and bureau. They scrub the rugs full of suds and then dry them with some sort of vacuum machine. Scrub upholstery on chairs, wash pictures. For an extra fee, they will even clean up cellars, a monstrous job in most homes of any age. They took over a ton of junk from our cellar.

Of the eleven or more members of the squad, most are specialists in one job, such as wall washing or rug scrubbing. The women do the fine dusting, such as the book cases and books. The man who does the cellar is equipped with a special insulsect that tells him what is junk and what isn't. Anything he is doubtful about he puts in a special heap for further enquiry. The rest goes out; and you never feel a pang of regret—all the stuff you have allowed, in your weakness, to accumulate.

The chief work of these housecleaners is for insurance companies, cleaning up after fires or oil burning explosions so that the insurance valuators can assess damage. But in this now housemaidless world, in which a great many women who have not got the solo strength or enterprise to undertake the cleaning of a big and old house, the professionals have found a new field. The real-estate Americans is a natural found this out ahead of us old-fashioned Canadians. One of the crew who did our house learned the trade in Hollywood. A retired veteran, he went there on discharge for the fun of it, and got a job at his old trade remodelling sets in Bing Crosby's home and those of other stars. His specialty is wall washing, and to be that, he had to become expert at testing the paint or other wall coverings to know how much detergent it would take.

"The big thing in Canada," he told me, "is to persuade husbands with regard to the cost. But when the wife tells him that it comes to about one and a half times a maid's monthly wages, he gives in. Especially if the wife is no longer young enough to climb ladders and stand on tables."

Neat, Clean Girl Pleases

(Christian Science Monitor)

A few days ago three passengers, as yet anonymous, on a Chicago bus saw four teen-age girls get aboard, "Two of the three bus riders agreed among themselves, 'wasn't neat; another was neat and loudly one was chuck up. But the last one, she was neat and clean." So the three decided to send a check for $100 toward tuition to the private school the "neat and clean" girl attends.

A pretty story and heart-warming. We have nothing but praise for the spontaneous generosity of these three unseen benefactors and—one say double, for that matters, that the little lady, like the young woman Gladys in the fairy tales, is as clever as she is pretty.

But we've been bothered. Suppose all four girls who boarded that bus had been "neat and clean"? Would any one of them have so impressed the kindly three? Did they owe their fortunes not simply because she stood out in contrast to what struck them as the slovenliness of her mates? What about those beacons of wisdom, "Birds of a feather flock together" and "A man is known by the company he keeps"? Should we henceforth take pains to be seen in companionship with those against whom we can shine?

Harrid thought! We refuse to have our bright faith tarnished by unworthy skepticism. The story shall be laid away on the shelf of memory with the lavender of appreciation that kindness is bodiness however and wherever you find it. We're glad she got the $100.

Kind Heart Wins Prize

(New York Herald Tribune)

The annual award for the most kind-hearted school child in Italy went to an 11-year-old boy who did what brings most youngsters a heavy lashing—he went fishing. Roberto Contavalli, who lives in northern town of Imola, won a gold medal and 200,000 lire (about $320) for rigging a mirror in his bedroom window on sunny days and shooting the reflected light into a room in a house across the street.

Far from annoying a neighbor, the dancing beam brought cheer to a retired pensioner who confined by illness to a room which the sun never hits.

In Defence Of Blushers

(Hamilton Spectator)

A horrible indictment of persons who blush easily was presented recently to the British Association for the Advancement of Science by a psychologist, Dr. Joseph Sandler, of London's Tavistock Clinic.

Presumably not blushed, he charged: "The blusher is afraid of what people think of him. He cares about what other people think of him. . . . Blushers don't like jazz music because they think it is an invitation to be unblushed. They are uncomfortable when eating or drinking in front of others, embarrassed about being tips by waiters or hairdressers, and when they come to a meeting they would rather stand than sit. They prefer a front seat. . . . People who blush easily are rather timid in their affection, and don't find it easy to feel affection toward others."

Well!

In the first place, about being thought timid, I'm not a good judge for this community and this world that some people feel inferior, whether they are or not. Otherwise peace would never break out; even occasionally a war would seem to be lot more blood and broken bones around barbers' chairs than there are.

Nor do we think that blushers should be condemned as a class for their jazz aversion. Perhaps the truth is that perfectly normal people get red-faced from burying their faces in their pillows and from sobbing bitterly in their efforts to escape the rhythms.

Then there's this business about blushers being embarrassed when taking their meals in front of other people. All we have to say about that is that we think people were embarrassed when they made asses of themselves by using their arms would be quieter and more graceful. Which is to say that the fear of the embarrassment about upping more often than not is financial.

Yes, blushers are timid. They are more blushers than non-blushers in the world, and that increases the former of ordinating at the back of the hall. For is it not true that it just about every gathering a frantic chairman makes pitious pleas for the front seats to fill front—to make the only modest attendance appear to be a little more immodest?

As for the blushers being fickle in their affections, that's silly. It just can't believe it, and might recommend a course of Freud, Jung and Adler to find contrary evidence. Psychiatrists being what they are, such a course would challenge such a reckless, unfounded statement.

A world without a leaven of blushers would be too frightful to contemplate. The alternative is a world peopled entirely by pallid, cold-blooded extroverts; in short, a social anarchy.

Tidiness Urge Easy to Resist

(The Times of London)

Most untidy people have vague and unfilled aspirations after tidiness and are always meaning to turn over a new leaf. At the present moment they are busy planning with jealous admiration of Donald Bisdorp, which has just been published as the tidiest village in all Suffolk.

Last year it was beaten by Chatsworth by a bare three points, compounded for all we know by a single cigarette carton deliberately planted in the road by by a sinister stranger from a passing bus. This year it trimmed and brushed and dropped away hard than ever and has metaphorically hit Chatsworth for six. Tidiness is undoubtably a very pleasant thing, and never more so than by contrast. "Everything clean and comfortable," said Mr. Weller as he enumerated the charms of the inn at Towcester on that pouring wet night and then, carried away by the spirit of alliteration, added beans, taters, tarts and tidiness."

So the picture of Grundisburgh in his neatness is peculiarly enviable as we look at our own room, with references books almost on the floor, with ink spots dangerously near the table cloth, material and hopelessly imprisoned under a mass of old newspapers. Almost persuaded to make an heroic start in reducing things to some sort of order, we look at the distinct task requiring the dexterity of a juggling champion. A single book is coming out beautifully inch by inch when one unlucky touch sends the whole avalanche in motion, and no clutching hand can arrest it.

Such is the power of good changes and we suddenly realize that we hate tidiness. Is there not something rather fine in a better a hundred times to hunt daily through that room for what we want than seek after a Grundisburian perfection which is wholly beyond us. Admittedly there's also been some very great men who were in very fine fettle, mentally, after one of them; he could not work under certain conditions unless he set out in their right places on his writing table. In consequence no one was allowed to touch or remotely tidy heviews. They jingled spasmodically in drawers and cupboards, making notes about jam on a slate, and being generally a methodical and muddish sort of foolish little person. Should we be glad that Lord Iller Summerson or even to resemble her? And the same question is asked of Mr. Churchill, another basket jingler. If we answer the question honestly we find that we never intended to be tidy. We mean that we enjoy enjoying Grunisburgh the luxury of its own feelings.

Lack of Food Impaired' Him

(Sudbury Star

A Kitchener magistrate has ruled that lack of food can be as serious for motor vehicle drivers as too much liquor. He convicted a motorist of driving while under the influence of hunger.

Not that we think that a driver who had an accident while driving after going without food for 24 hours.

"I hold this every bit as serious as if he had been driving drunken," the magistrate declared, commented Magistrate Kirkpatrick.

Of course there's a fine other extreme—the man who eats too much. He also should be tempted to curl up for 40 winks, and perhaps wouldn't be in the ideal frame of mind to be allowed control of his vehicle under a well-fed, sleepy condition.

It seems surprising, however, that a man should get sleepy from the lack of food. That does not stack up with the midnight raids caused by hunger. This is a favorite subject for cartoonists who are considered to be keen observers of human nature.

The lack of food results in careless driving there is a new slogan for traffic safety publicists—Eat, Don't Drink. Don't be a Hunger-Impaired Driver.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ON BEING OBJECTIVE

A well-known figure whose career had had much publicity and who had been flattered and adulated in many circles said, despairingly, "The great purpose of my life has been to get away from myself."

Now ponder the fact that the best part of this man's life had been spent in a course of fashionable dissipation, with much self-indulgence, standing out as the most conspicuous for the abandon with which he sought pleasure for its own sake, he came at last to a tragic end—he became the pitiful object of his own hatred and scorn.

It is hard to endure the hatred of others, but the most terrible hatred man is ever called upon to endure is the hatred he has for himself when the realization comes over him that he is a selfish, self-centered, and miserable creature who works only for his own self-advancement and gratification.

Objectivity is one of the great achievements of which man is capable. Get out of yourself. Take a long look at yourself, and force yourself as others see you. If you do, you may be pleased. But it is more likely that you may be shocked and horrified. The man who lives for himself is headed for early breakdown, and the ashes of a hard task-master it is only when we lose our lives that we really find them.

Abandoning Pets

(Peterborough Examiner)

There are estimated to be forty million homeless dogs and cats in the U.S.A., there is no figure available for Canada, but there are plenty of people here who think that the way to get rid of an unwanted pet is to abandon it.

Personal Health Talks

By DR. WM. BRADY

Things We Can Do Better Asleep

Due, I think, to the nineteenth century teachings of the quacks and sectarian mongers, that in order to slave off all sorts of vague blood, liver and kidney troubles one had to watch his stomach and bowl functions and stir 'em up promptly or regularly if they didn't work as well as the charlatans said they should. The advertisements inculcated the old timers so thoroughly that a good many people believed, and some still believe, that a "good cleaning out" once a week, once a month, or every spring anyway was or is advisable to keep the alimentary system working properly.

As any enlightened knows, you have to "watch" this treacherous alimentary function constantly, lest it slow down or stop, allowing all sorts of "poisons," "toxic wastes" or other noxious fancies to clog your childish mind.

I'm glad you poor geeks who are obsessed with "constipation," "mucous colitis" or "protein putrefaction" don't, as yet, have to call you names in my usual way for believing what we doctors, or our predecessors, have been taught only yesterday. Well, maybe not actually yesterday, but it seems only yesterday.

fundamental physiological fact, namely that the entire alimentary process, that is, digestion in stomach and intestine, peristaltic motion of the digestive tube propelling the digesting food or food residues through the canal and evacuation of the bowel is autonomous — regulated and controlled by the same involuntary mechanism as that which regulates and controls the other vital functions, namely, breathing and the beating of the heart.

Just as these last mentioned functions are efficiently carried on while one sleeps, so is digestion most efficient when one is asleep. Not but digestion in the stomach but every organ of the entire digestive process.

This is the reason why it is natural, normal and healthful for a growing child who plays actively every day or an adult who does manual labor or gets the recommended 7 or 8 miles of oxygen on the hoof daily, to eat a substantial meal an go to bed immediately thereafter. Such bedtime feeding is not advisable for nambypamby youngsters who get their exercise vicariously via TV, radio, the funny sheets and the like; nor for adults who live without doing any exercise.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LEARN TO ACCEPT

It is my opinion that we should learn as early in life as possible to accept conditions as they come up for decision, no matter what those conditions may be. Learning to accept is one of the great things in the building of character and a short way of life.

One of the fine and able men in the President's Cabinet is named for Franklin K. Lane, a native of Canada. He became ill and went to the famous Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minnesota, for an operation. It was unsuccessful and when he was informed of this, he merely he joined that great throng of thinkers.

All you have to do is thumb a volume of "Who's Who" and there you will read the brief sketches of notable men and women who accepted the conditions of their birth — poverty, hardship, and many a discouraging start, finally to rise above them all, taking their place among the successful-and distinguished of their time.

I once read the story of Sam Rayburn, the present Speaker of the House in Washington. He youth was anything but easy. He had sterling stuff and accepted the conditions of poverty for a time without complaint. His life story is an inspiration to the youth of the land. I have just read the recent book about the Ziegfeld brothers, Flo and Bill, born in an average home in early Kansas. They all had to work, but each accepted the task and made good. All now marked successes in Mexico. Bill is then a great friend of President!

Lafcadio Hearn was totally blind in one eye and only 30 per cent efficient in the sight of the other, yet he left a distinguished number of books and was for years a Professor of English in the Imperial University of Tokyo. For years he was a wanderer and knew the very dregs of poverty, yet he accepted it all and went forward! Learn to accept and place where you can then be won. Your courage will win the other half!

Englishmen Best Idlers

(Paul Jennings, on the BBC)

It is probably a terrible thing to say in the middle of the bustling industrial century, but I believe the English are better than any other nation in the world at being idle. I'm not sure that this is not due to those who think of England as the cradle of the Industrial Revolution, of the inventions in steam and steel that changed the world and of the political ideas that had changed in the previous hundred years governments, but above those for whom the traditional contrast is between the indolent good-natured Mediterranean man, dozing in the hot sun, and the busy, businesslike Northerner bustling about in the keen cold air of temperate climates. I think the fact is that the English have given more thought to the constructive, happy, shrewd art of doing nothing than anyone else.

News Items From Madoc

MADOC — Madoc W. I. held its meeting at the home of Mrs. George Allore with a fine attendance. Mrs. Herrington presided. Business and reading of minutes by Mrs. W. Hill followed. The Extension Service lecture on "Food and Your Figure" is to be held in the community hall on Wednesday afternoon with Harts-Riggs W.I. members joining the local group. Everyone is welcome to attend this lecture. Refreshments will be served.

Delegates to the Area Convention in Belleville were appointed. The president, Mrs. Herrington, extended an invitation to the members to visit her home on October 22nd when she and her husband will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Allan Johnston, who reviewed "Historical Research of Madoc and Vicinity" and told of the many mines of the past and present. She spoke of the rich cinnabar in the old copper mines near Eldorado, of the "dozens of hotels" in Eldorado, where men paid 50 cents to sleep under a wagon; of the iron (hematite); of the many efforts to find gold, of the marble quarry near the high school, which was supposed to be for operation fifty years ago, but which the speaker remembers "as always," just a hole in the ground.

Mrs. Johnston also spoke of the Gatling mine near Delora, the slate mine north of Madoc, of the dolmite found on Mr. Campbell's farm, suitable for terrazzo floors, of the old diamond mine at Queensboro, the Madoc talc, which is the only white talc in America. Much of Mrs. Johnston's information was attained from an article written by Mrs. Fox in the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer, back in 1938 and local people.

Mrs. P. H. Hayler read the immediate current events referring to broadcast of Billy Graham, of the bursaries won by three local boys, the new career of nursing and spoke on the motto, "Hats Off to the Past—Coats Off to the Future."

Words of appreciation were extended to the hostess and the speakers. A social hour followed with refreshments being served.

SOAP BOX DERBY

The soap box derby, sponsored by the Madoc Kiwanis Club, in connection with National Kids' Day, was held on Wednesday afternoon with an attendance of about 400. Eleven youngsters competed for the Jack Baker trophy. The races being run in two heats with two cars in each. The winner was Bob Grant, with Tommy Moore the runner up in the final heat.

A midget hardball game was played at the ball park in the evening and the trophy and prize money was presented to the winners by officials of the Kiwanis Club. The ball game between two Belleville teams the same evening attracted a fair crowd. Competing in the Soap Box Derby were: Billy Howse, Jimmy Armstrong, Tommy Moore, Walter Kincaid, Paul Nickle, Bob Grant, Bruce Bristol, Rupert Howse, Bruce Duffin, Bobby Henderson and Lee Brintnell.

MOVIE FILM TAKEN IN MADOC

Madoc village is to receive some unexpected publicity when the film "On Guard," is released next March. For the past few weeks Leo Seltzer, free lance producer-director, has been in Madoc making the picture for Meridian Productions Corporation Ltd. Associated with Mr. Seltzer is Mr. Ernie Reid, facts and research expert; Captain Phillips, army technician adviser who is also associated with the production, spoke to the Madoc Kiwanians outlining the purpose of the film.

The premier showing of the film will take place in the Empire Theatre in Madoc next March and afterwards will be available from the National Film Board on service clubs and organizations across Canada.

Besides being shown in Canada it is expected it will be shown in Canadian Consulates all over the world. The film, which is a documentary one, will give all who see it a better idea of the Canadian militia and is being produced under Canada's Public Relations Program, which is one of the most advanced in the world.

Personnel of "B" Company, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment were chosen for the picture and Madoc is a typical small town on account of its location. Preliminary film took place in Niagara-on-the-Lake October when they were attending summer camp there. Approximately four minutes of the film will be at camp and the balance in Madoc. The film will be in color and those taking part appear under their own name. Ormsby Mehar is one of the key people in the picture.

NIGHT CLASSES

About 50 people were in attendance at the re-organization meeting of the Centre Hastings Rural Community Night School held at the Madoc high school on Tuesday night. The school will re-open on Wednesday evening, November 16th with classes to be held each Wednesday night. Officers elected were: Chairman, Philo Harris; secretary, Mrs. Jean Bailey; committee, Mrs. D. Pigeu, Mrs. Ken Connor and Messrs. E. Sager, F. Robson and J. F. Burns.

HARTS-RIGGS W.I.

In an address to twenty-one members of the Harts-Riggs W.I. Mrs. W. R. Bateman stated that the purpose of Girl Guide camps are threefold: primarily to train the Guides to do for themselves the things mother does for them at home. The girls learn co-operation with others and they make many new acquaintances. Mrs. Bateman explained the administration, safety precautions and finalizing of the camps held in Ontario. She concluded her talk by relating some of her daughter's experiences at the Dominion Camp in Alberta.

The chairman of the program, which was held at the home of Mrs. Percy Roadcourt, was Mrs. George Allore, W.I. convener for Health and Economics. With the assistance of Mrs. Arthur Fleming she presented an informative program, with articles on "How to Act on a Visit to the Hospital," "Ten Helpful Ways to Co-operate with the Doctor," and a short brief on "How to Can Peaches," explaining the meaning of "Home Economics" and the history of that branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Many agreed that this was one of the finest program of the newly formed branch, and are looking forward to the October meeting which will feature dairy products. A debate, "Resolved that from the consumer's point of view, butter is superior to margarine!" is being planned.

SEEK BOY'S PARENTS

TORONTO (CP) — Police Monday launched a search for the parents of a five-year-old boy found alone in a downtown rooming house. Two constables found the boy when called to the rooming house to investigate a theft complaint. The child told police that he hadn't eaten since Saturday morning, and that his name was James Cartwright.

Business Girl Plans Worry-Free Future

$150 Every Month For Rest of Her Life!

A young Toronto woman has solved the vital problem facing all business and professional women—future security. If she stays single, her future will be protected by a Confederation Life policy which, at age 50, guarantees her $150 a month for the rest of her life! If she marries, this policy will provide a comfortable "extra-income" for her and her husband.

Her Confederation Life policy is a systematic savings plan for building a secure future—without financial risks or investment worries. If, for example, she is totally disabled for at least six months by sickness or an accident before she is 50, Confederation Life's Disability Benefit will keep up her premiums for her until she is well again.

Cheese Displayed At Fall Fair Fine in Quality

CAMPBELLFORD—Five judges were kept busy at Campbellford's Fair this week judging about fifty entries in the cheese display. Thirty large cheese were on display as well as several square cheese and stiltons.

W. P. Moore, local cheese instructor, said he was quite happy with both the quantity and the quality of the cheese entered in the fair. Campbellford usually attracts more cheese entries than most other district fairs, and often boasts as many entries as either the Ottawa exhibition or the CNE.

CHEESE JUDGING

The results of the judging were as follows—

Commercial exhibit — Claude Reid, Murray Heath, Cecil Pack, Harold Rowe, Grant Anderson and George Haggerty.

Cheese Makers' division — C. Pack, C. Reid, M. Heath, G. Haggerty, G. Anderson and H. Rowe.

Local cheese division—C. Pack, M. Heath, G. Anderson, G. Haggerty and H. Rowe.

Northumberland Cheese Producers' Special—C. Reid, H. Rowe, G. Haggerty and G. Anderson.

Salesmen's Specials — C. Pack, M. Heath, G. Reid and G. Haggerty.

Finished cheese—M. Heath, C. Reid, C. Pack.

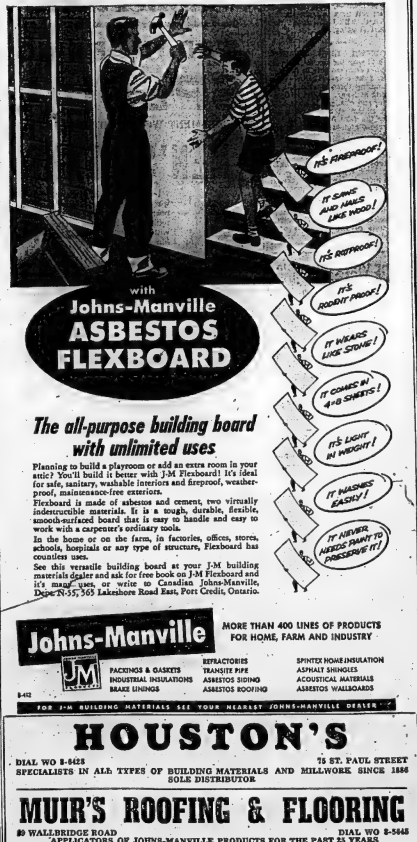
Brazilians Vote For President With 4 Running



RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters) — Early results of the Brazilian presidential elections may indicate by tonight which of the seven candidates will be president and vice-president of Brazil for the next five years.

If the voting is really close, however, it may be another 24 hours before a definite trend is established.

An estimated 10,000,000 of the 15,000,000 eligible voters Monday night finished casting ballots for four presidential and three vice-presidential candidates. Four per-

Woman Pays Traffic Fine Without Ticket

OMAHA (AP) — "Young man," said the grandmotherly woman to patrolman Harold Hug at the police traffic bureau Monday, "I'm here to pay a traffic fine."

Hug asked for the woman's ticket.

"Oh, I don't have one," she said. "No one saw me break the law."

The woman, who identified herself as Mrs. Chloe Lewis, 68, explained she had driven through a red light in downtown Omaha a week ago.

"I'm a good Christian," she went on. "My conscience has been dealing me fits. So do your duty."

The startled officer picked up his ticket book while the woman laid five $1 bills on the counter.

"Hurry up," she said. "I'm parked in a 10-minute zone."

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W. A.

Shannonville United Church W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Everett Stratton last Thursday afternoon with 20 ladies in attendance. The president, Mrs. K. R. Vivian, welcomed all.

After the hymn, the Scripture was read by Mrs. Kenneth Juby, and the Lesson Thoughts by Mrs. W. J. Reesorm, from the devotional leaflet, the theme being, "Jesus, the Bread of Life."

Mrs. Stanley MacDonald read a poem, "Memories," by Helen B. Anderson, and Miss Winnifred Eckhardt gave a reading entitled, "I Shall Not Pass This Way Again."

The president thanked the group for the nice devotional period, and took charge of the business period. Mrs. Doxtator thanked those who sent cards to her husband during his recent illness. Miss Eckhardt expressed thanks for cards she had received while ill; Mrs. Sam Elliott reported having sent fruit to Mrs. William White who is in poor health.

The secretary read the correspondence which included a letter from the minister regretting his absence from the meeting, and kindly offered his services as speaker at any of the gatherings of the W. A. of which the executive will be most happy to accept.

The expense share of sending the bale was voted paid; also that the W.A. pay its share for decorating the interior of the church. The date for the annual bazaar was set for Wednesday afternoon, November 23rd.

Mrs. Cammon, a former member who has left to reside at Colborne, will be presented with a gift in appreciation of her willing and efficient work in the W.A.

Mrs. Vivian thanked the hostess for her hospitality. Appreciation was also tendered to Mrs. Stratton for the work she has done on the quilt through the meeting and the quilt was completed.

An invitation was extended to all to attend the meeting in Belleville next week at the home of Mrs. J. F. McFarlane.

A shower of saleable articles was received for the bazaar; Mrs. Ross Linder kindly sent a large box of sage and summer savory which found ready buyers, starting the fund for the bazaar.

Miss Sara Stickney and Mrs. Clarence Martin created the venetian blinds in the church, which service was greatly appreciated by the members.

Following the close of the meeting, refreshments were served, and the time spent in a social get-together.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Raymond Clarke, on November 19 on the regular meeting day.

SUNBEAM M.B.

WHITE'S DISTRICT—The Sunbeam Mission Band met at Quinte View school with 34 members in attendance, on Friday.

The leader, Mrs. Leonard Young presided for the election of officers. Officers for 1955-56 are: president, Paul Hardy; 1st vice-president, Billy Arthur; secretary, Gail Goldie; treasurer, Iva Drouillard; program convener, Karen Gallupe.

President Paul Hardy presided and all repeated the Twenty-third Psalm. "Jesus Loves Me" was sung followed by prayer by the leader. The offering was taken by Iva Drouillard and dedicated by prayer by Suzanne Hockaday.

The minutes and roll call were given. Twenty-eight members paid dues.

It was decided to ask the mothers to the Thanksgiving meeting on October 28th. "The World Friends",magazine is now 35 cents for the year. Each family should have one magazine. The new study book is "The Boy with the Busy Walk."

Gail Goldie and Iva Drouillard read "Happy Childhood". Sheila Caves read "Five Little Kitty Cats" with finger motions for the cats, and Harry Richards read "Two Little Birds."

Two chapters of the study book "Fig Tree Village" were given by the leader telling of the Christian families in India going to "Island in the River" for a religious festival.

Princess Royal Meets Son's Wartime Friend

By SHIRLEY MORRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—The Princess Royal reminisced with a wartime friend of her son, stubbed her toe and received an accidental cold-shoulder from the mayor Monday as she continued her busy Canadian tour.

At a reception at city hall, the princess was introduced to Peter Barott, Montreal architect, who was interned in a prisoner-of-war camp with the Earl of Harewood, eldest son of the princess.

She had Barott, a former captain of the Black Watch, summoned to the mayor's office where she could talk with him. Later Barott said they chatted about camp experiences—"nothing harrowing, just pleasant, lackdenia."

SIGNED GOLDEN BOOK

The Princess Royal signed the Golden Book at city hall and a picture of herself in the robes she wore at the coronation of her niece, Queen Elizabeth.

Following the reception, she was accompanied to her car by Mayor Jean Drapeau.

As soon as the car door was closed, Mr. Drapeau turned and walked back into the main door to city hall. The princess, after settling back, turned to wave at him but caught only a glimpse of his back.

She was guest of honor in the evening at a dinner given by the city at a chalet on St. Helen's island in the St. Lawrence river.

Wearing a gown of pink brocaded satin, she sipped a glass of champagne as she was introduced to 250 guests. Across the room, she wore the blue sash of the Knight Grand Cross of Victoria.

As she was escorted to the head table, the princess stubbed her toe on a cable under a red carpet but Mr. Drapeau caught her arm before she stumbled.

She talked easily in French throughout dinner to Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger, archbishop of Montreal, who sat at her right.

The princess spoke in both French and English in reply to a message of welcome by the mayor. No third aides arrived Sunday night."

"I would like to tell you how happy I am to be in Canada to be dining with you in this ancient city of Montreal," she said. "I already feel quite at home in this beautiful province of Quebec about which I have heard so much from my father and mother and other members of my family who have been here before me."

Today, the princess will officially open the Montreal general hospital, visit the armory of the Royal Montreal Regiment and the armory of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals of which she is colonel-in-chief.

The princess, who is making the tour as the guest of the Signals Corps, will leave from Thursday to visit Kingston, Ottawa, Niagara Falls, Toronto, Winnipeg, Victoria and Vancouver.

WEDDING COUPLE

Fashion Flashes

STRONGLY ENDORSED for daytime wear is the wool sheath done with interesting detail. One such is of black, brown and green striped wool, with high breast pockets and back wrap effect and buttoning to below the waist. Fabric is used on the slant on bodice and sleeves, and in a horizontal line on the skirt.

STILL RUNNING in many collections, especially the Italian, is the Empire line. Cut on Empire lines is a suit of fine black and white checked worsted, the long, slim coat opening over a tubular skirt and detailed with below-the-hips pockets — huge ones that suggest flat tires. Jacket is fingertip-length with but a few inches of skirt showing.

NOTHING LIKE CHANGE, which is why the newest at-home costumes are all in favor of skirts. Fake chipmunk fur makes an amusing three-piece outfit for evening at home. Skirt is floor-length, and cardigan is snug, with black ribbon at neck and waist. Under the fake fur cardigan is a sleeveless, high-necked black jersey top.

MEET THE BROWNS, the fashion browns, that is! Brown, in its wide tone range, is everywhere from morn to dawn, a nice change from black or navy. In many instances, brown is teamed with black for a distinctive color combination that was as stylish in Victorian days. One of the smartest suits of the season is of a knit-look fabric in deep brown. The long, easy jacket has a small collar of brown-dyed Alaska seal and lapels of leopard, no less, so that brown is well represented.

NECESSARY for accessory is the scarf, and it's nicer than ever. Satin, harlequin-printed in bronze and black, is splashed with gold for effect.

LITHE AND SLENDER dresses of fine wool are being ordered for daytime wear, with emphasis on the slim-coat-front type. One such is done in lightweight worsted crepe in purple, brown or navy, with matching satin piping on the stand-away collar, sleeves and hip pockets. Good all-day dress.

Head of Clan Arrives to Visit Many Clansmen

SYDNEY, N.S. (CP)—A white-haired grandmother and the first woman to head Scotland's age-old clan Macleod arrived here Monday to be greeted by scores of the clansmen she calls "my children."

Flora Macleod stepped from a plane to the skirl of bagpipes carried by the Gaelic college's Macdonald hundred pipe band and spoke to a cheering crowd in a voice touched with a soft British accent.

She will visit Maritime centres and relatives in the Ontario county of Glengarry later this month.

The 77-year-old chieftain has maintained the traditional hospitality of the Macleods during her 31 years as leader of the thousands around the world whose roots are buried in the soil about Dunvegan Castle on the Isle of Skye where Mrs. Macleod makes her home.

ALWAYS WELCOME

The bridge to her mosted castle is always open to callers from throughout the boundless realm of Macleods. Visitors have come from Australia and South Africa, the United States and Cape Breton.

The 28th chief of the clan has dispelled the doubts that surrounded her feminine leadership in 1934. She has visited many of the clan associations and kept in touch with others by letter.

Flora Macleod was born in 1878 at No. 10 Downing street, the home of British prime ministers, where her father, Sir Reginald Macleod, was political aide to Disraeli.

She lost her Macleod name when she married a member of the Walter family, owners of the London Times. When the chief of the clan died she regained her Macleod name and moved into the castle on the mist-shrouded Isle of Skye.

She traces her ancestry through 900 years of strife-torn history to the Norse kings of the Isle of Man and through them to the fierce Vikings of Norway and Denmark.

YOUR JEWELRY NEEDS GROOMING, TOO

Regular brushing and polishing will keep costume jewelry from become dark and dingy looking.

If you are a well-groomed girl, and of course you are, you don't need to be told that such accessories as handbags, gloves and scarves must a l w a y s be immaculately clean. But what about your jewelry? Is it always as brightly sparkling as it was the day you bought it? It should be, you know. And, actually, it's very easy to keep clean. In fact, with a little care, it will never really get dark or dingy looking.

Because it's not "real," many women are careless about their costume jewelry. They leave it loose in bureau drawers and never think that it matters. But it does. For it's then that it becomes scratched and tarnishes more easily. Wrapped in tissue (preferably black or dark blue), cotton or felt, it will retain its lustre much longer. In cleaning costume jewelry, remember that it should never be soaked in any liquid. Since the stones are cemented in, liquids loosen them. Instead, brush the pieces with a small brush to remove all surface dust and then polish them with one of the cloths made for polishing silver.

There are several good methods for cleaning real jewelry but here's an easy one recommended by a big Fifth Avenue jewelry house: Make a fifty-fifty solution of water and household ammonia. Use a small cup for rings or a shallow pan for longer pieces. Have enough solution to cover. Let the pieces soak for 30 minutes. Once during that time, Lift them out and tap gently around the settings, on top and underneath, with a small brush. An eyebrow brush or a toothbrush will do fine. Just tap. Do not scrub back and forth or you might loosen the stones in their settings. Continue the soaking. The ammonia forms a soap emulsion with any grease on the jewelry (and even the natural oils in your skin adhere to diamonds), so no other soap is needed in this process. Ammonia evaporates faster than water so you will not need to rinse the pieces; just pat dry.

In between the soaking periods you can dip-clean small pieces right at your dressing table. Buy a prepared cleaner in a wide-mouthed bottle. Any brand you get from a jeweler will be reliable. Rings can be strung on a long tooby pin and held in the liquid a minute or so. Rinse in tepid water in a cup or dish. Never rinse jewelry around a sink or under running water unless you hold it in a teastrainer. Who wants diamonds down the drain? There are some dip cleaners you can use with jewelry containing pearls, but be sure to read the label on the jar before using.

Your jewelry is your most glamorous accessory. Keep it sparkling always and it will do for you the things you want it to do.

GOOD THEATRE

W[illegible]he drama is shaping up for new theatrical season, good theatre clothes are being padded, too. Here is a preview of what will be what at smart openings next season. The evening jacket is of paisley pattern lover lame and is cuffed and collared in mink. It is worn with the understated but distinctive dress, which is as it should be, full so opulent a jacket. The back crepe dress has a low, square neckline and inverted pleats through the middle lend a sightly shaped silhouette to an otherwise straight line.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PERHAPS YOU CAN HELP YOUR HUSBAND CHANGE HIS ATTITUDE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am expecting my first child in the late fall, and at present find myself involved in a situation that has me in a state of near collapse.

During our marriage of the past two years, my husband has had several occasions found it necessary to be away from home for one or two nights, supposedly for business reasons. I have never questioned him about this, as I had held him above reproach—until a few months ago, when rumors had begun to spread in my social circle about his behavior and, as a result of them, I broke friendship with two of my lifelong girl friends.

However, my husband's partner became associate recently became involved in an "..if color" situation, and my husband came to his aid with a large sum of money that we had planned to invest in a new home. His partner comes from a well-to-do family, and is not married. Therefore, he was well able to cope with the situation as far as finances were concerned.

My husband and I had an argument about it, and during it, he admitted in so many words to an "illicit relationship" of his own in the situation.

Since then, we seem to live in two different worlds. He acts as though nothing had happened, and I find that I have nothing to say to him any more. I think about leaving him, but don't know if I can. I will soon bear his child, and have loved him very deeply for many years, even before our courtship and marriage. Yet the thought of any further intimate relationship with him leaves me cold.

Can you be of any help to me in this problem? — Mrs. J.S.

Dear Mrs. S.:

Everything you say, and feel, is, as I am sure you realize, just exactly what any girl in your position would say and feel. I emphasize this, in the hope of warding off any possible sense of guilt that might come over you because of your feeling of revulsion toward the husband you once loved so deeply. It would be natural for you to feel any other way.

It is tragic enough for any wife to be betrayed by her husband. But it is doubly tragic to have such a thing happen at a time when she is in special need of all the love, loyalty and kindness her husband can give her. For a man to be unfaithful to the wife who is about to give him a child is about as low as a human being can fall. And for him to show no sign of remorse, but to go along as though he had done nothing wrong, simply makes him more contemptible.

You don't say whether or not you have told him that you have thought of leaving him, and perhaps it would be just as well not in bring it up at this point, especially since you are so uncertain as to what you really want to do. Your wisest plan right now would, I think, be to let matters ride along, until after the baby is born, try to maintain as normal a relationship with your husband as you can, and see if his attitude may not change.

It will not, I am certain, change if you reproach, nag, berate or otherwise keep the thing alive between you. But if you go quietly along, saying nothing about it and making the big effort it will take to create a home atmosphere that will be calm and pleasant, you may be happily surprised to find everything taking a turn for the better.

For while human beings are all too apt to prove stubborn and unyielding if reproached and made to feel guilty for something they have done, they often become secretly ashamed of it left to think about it by themselves, and start trying to make amends.

Let me know if you try this program and how it works. If it does not have the desired result, I might have further advice for you.

Year Round Elegance

By TRACY ADRIAN

There is great elegance in little fur pieces that were designed to enhance the beauty of important costumes. Today furriers are making these charming furs in styles which can be worn all year round.

For example here is a beautiful reversible kerchief stole of black Russian broadtail. It has a pointed back and is lined in white ermine. A perfect complement for dramatic even though disappointed. I can sense . . . and I'm sure you can too . . . that your real difficulty will come when you try to draw the line as to which "intimate friends" are to be invited, which are not to be invited.

Then, yes, have a happy time planning an "open reception" for immediately after the ceremony . . . and make it as inclusive as you possibly can. There are many ways in which you may bid your guests come. You may, if you wish, have engraved invitations. Or our mother, as hostess, may write cordial a little notes of invitation, with your writing the notes to your own intimate friends: all notes explaining "The ceremony is to be in church at—o'clock, with only

By MRS. BEECKMAN

WIFE'S NAME WHEN LEGALLY SEPARATED

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I am very personally interested in the answer to this question: When there is actually a legal separation between a husband and wife, what form of name should the wife correctly use? I (the "wife" in this question) I'm asking) would like to use the form of name you advise for a divorcee(my maiden surname with my married surname), but I've not at all sure this is correct before a divorce.

Reader.

When there is a legal separation, the couple are still married and therefore the wife is still Mrs. Robert Browne, and should use that form of name. If the wife divorces her husband, then she may assume the correct form of name for a divorcee, her maiden surname combined with her married surname: Mrs. Alice Browne.

BRIDE WANTS TO AVOID HURT FEELINGS

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I am faced with a real problem by my wedding plans, and I don't know how to solve it without causing hurt feelings. I am to be married in this small town where we live. We have all grown up here, and invite all the members of our family, including myself. We are all well-known and popular throughout the district. The problem is that we have a very small church, will not accommodate as many friends as I would like to invite to the wedding. But it is certainly hard to know where to draw the line in invitation list without hurting someone's feelings. So I am wondering if it would be correct to invite the members of the families and a few very intimate friends to the ceremony? If you approve of this, please suggest how we should go about making the announcement of the reception. Bride-to-be.

You are very wise to think to plan to narrow your list of those to be invited to the church ceremony.

However, my suggestion about this is that you plan to narrow the list even more, inviting only the members of the two families. Then you can say that no one but the families are to be invited, no friends, no matter how intimate, have the right to be hurt,

Griddle Cakes For A He-Man's Breakfast

By Mary Moore

What can you serve for breakfast but bacon'n eggs?

A pretty new bride asked me that. I had to grin, for she thought that was an enormous breakfast for her tall 200-lb. husband.

She had not eaten porridge since she was pablum-age. Her appetite was always too dainty for pancakes and French toast and waffles. Now she had a he-man to feed and please, fast.

This, offering is for little five —bless her—who knows good food and a good breakfast start a marriage and a day off on the right foot.

You will notice that these recipes for griddle cakes call for shortening or butter in the batter. That means that if you are using a heavy griddle you need to add no fat to the baking surface. If the pan is thin though rub it over sparingly with the smallest possible amount of unsalted fat—1-4 teaspoon is plenty. You don't want to fry them; you want to bake them.

GRIDDLECAKES

One and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, 3 teaspoons salt, 3 tablespoons baking powder, 3-4 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1 1-4 cups sweet milk, 3 tablespoons melted shortening or butter. Sift sifted flour with baking powder, salt and sugar. Mix together the beaten egg, milk and melted fat. Stir into flour mixture until smooth. Drop from tip of spoon onto preheated griddle leaving an inch space between cakes. Cook on one side until puffed and full of bubbles. Deftly turn over and cook other side. These amounts will serve four average appetites. TEST—To be sure griddle is hot but not too hot sprinkle a 3-4 drops of water on it. If bubbles dance around heat is just right.

VARIATIONS—

(1) Add 1-2 cup drained fresh or frozen blueberries to batter, folding them in at the last. (2) Add 1-4 cup chopped walnuts or pecans. (3) For Southern Corn Cakes use 2-4 cup cornmeal and 1-2 cup sifted flour instead of 1 1-2 cups of sifted flour.

BUCKWHEAT GRIDDLECAKES

(Baking Powder)

Six tablespoons shortening, 2 cups buckwheat flour, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs, yolks and whites separated, 2 tablespoons molasses, 2 1-4 cups sweet milk. Blend dry ingredients and cut shortening into them. Combine beaten egg yolks with molasses and milk and stir quickly into dry ingredients. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop mixture onto preheated griddle and turn over when top is puffed and full of bubbles. Cook other side. These amounts will serve five.

BUCKWHEAT CAKES

(Yeast)

Prepare this batter the night before.

Sprinkle 1 package granular yeast over 1-2 cup lukewarm water. Add 1 tablespoon sugar and let stand ten minutes until foamy. Stir. To it add 3 cups cold tap water. Sift together and stir into them 1 cup sifted all-purpose flour, 2 cups buckwheat flour and 1 1-2 teaspoons salt. Beat very hard until perfectly smooth. Cover well and put in refrigerator overnight. In the morning stir into this risen batter 1 tablespoon molasses, 1-4 cup melted butter and 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in 1-2 cup hot water. Let stand at room temperature 30 minutes. Bake as for buckwheat griddle cakes above. These are delicious and your husband will love you for your trouble, especially if you serve them with

PICTON

Rev. E. Wrightson Becomes Rector At Tamworth

PICTON.— Rev. E. Wrightson, rector of the Parish of Marysburg, which includes St. John's church, Waupoos and St. Philip's church, Milford, has been advised by the Lord Bishop of the Diocese, Rev. K. C. Evans, of his appointment to the parish of Tamworth. He will assume his new duties on November 1st, completing four years in Marysburg. At Tamworth, he succeeds the Rev. F. O. Ware, who recently retired from active ministry.

The new rector of Marysburg parish will be the Rev. Harrison Flint.

The Rev. Mr. Wrightson came from England in 1921 and did lay work for the church in the Diocese of Huron until 1926. Appointed to the Diocese of Algoma, he was ordained there, his work centring around Indian Missions at Magnetawan, then at Emsdale and for seven years at Little Current on Manitoulin Island.

When the First War prisoners were interned at Kapuskasing in 1940, Mr. Wrightson was appointed there. In March 1943, he joined the hospital ship Lady Nelson when she was first commissioned. He crossed the Atlantic 54 times in this capacity, giving comfort and hope to the wounded and ill. He held the rank of Captain. Four years ago he came to Picton from Blind River, where he was stationed after the war. In World War II he served with British units, holding the rank of Major. Here, he resided at Milford.

MARKED BY PROGRESS

Mr. Wrightson's ministry in Marysburg, has been marked by progress and growth. The churches were greatly improved, that at Milford having a new heating system installed and a fine new hall added to it. The rectory was also much improved. Vice-president of Prince Edward Horticultural Society, Mr. Wrightson's love of flowers has been demonstrated by improvements to the rectory grounds. He has been active in connection with Milford Fair, as acting padre for a time with the RCSL (AA) here, and in general community activities. Mrs. Wrightson, an accomplished amateur oil painter, has also been active in church and community endeavors.

WITH OLD FIREARMS, YOU GET A LOUDER BANG

Hunters may prize their new, shiny, double-barrelled shotguns or repeating rifles, but at Guelph, Ontario, during a marksmen's meet there wasn't a new gun to be seen. The meet was of the Ontario Arms Collectors' association and the members had a gay time of it firing century-old muskets, muzzle-loaders, flintlocks and assorted pistols. One member even treated out a small cannon. Left, is Charlotte Balmer of East York, showing the fast draw with a piece of old frontier-model pistols. Right, George Wertner fires a heavy muzzle loader from an arms rest. (Central Press Canadian).

PICTON

Rector Accepts Call of Bishop To Barriefield

PICTON — After exactly twelve years as Rector of the Parish of Picton, the Rev. W. G. Hope Swayne has accepted a call to become rector of the Parish of Barriefield, effective November 1st. Announcing to his congregation that the Parish had been offered him by Rev. K. C. Evans, D.D., Lord Bishop of Ontario, Mr. Swayne stated that after much thought he had decided to accept the invitation. His resignation has been placed in the hands of the church wardens who, with lay delegates to the Synod in consultation with the Bishop, will deal with the matter of his successor.

Rev. Mr. Swayne pointed out that he is the seventh rector of the Parish of Picton which was established in 1823 with Rev. William Macaulay as rector, a position he held for 47 years. He was succeeded by the Rev: Canon Edwin Loucks (with Rev. W. L. Armitage as Vicar for some years). Rev. F. Louis Barber, Rev. John Lyons, (who became Archbishop of the Diocese), Rev. Cecil Winter, Rev. J. B. Creegan, immediate predecessor of Mr. Swayne.

TAKEN ACTIVE PART

During their residence in Picton, Mr. and Mrs. Swayne have taken an active part in community activities. Mr. Swayne has been active in the Children's Aid Society, Boy Scouts and Rotary Club. In church work, both have given valuable leadership. In the many branches of the work, Mr. Swayne has been prominent in the work of the Synod.

Possible Clue To Some Types Of Disease Found

By FRANK CAREY

CHICAGO (AP)—A possible clue to the cause of some types of epilepsy, cerebral palsy, spastic paralysis and feeblemindedness is reported by a team of University of Illinois researchers.

Dr. Frederic A. Gibbs and two colleagues say new findings with a "brain-wave machine" suggest the possibility that certain neurological disorders of unknown cause may be late results of common virus infections of childhood, such as measles, mumps and whooping cough. They reported to the 24th annual meeting of the American Academy of Pediatrics.

The new studies "re-emphasize the need for finding improved preventive measures for common viral infections of childhood," Dr. Gibbs told a reporter, adding:

"Some important advances already have been made. And recent advances in the prevention of polio justifies hope that prevention in the wholefield of viral diseases will eventually be greatly improved."

CAMPBELLFORD

Fall Fair Attracts Over 3,000 Persons

CAMPBELLFORD — Campbellford had its annual Fall Fair on Wednesday of last week, and although gate receipts were down, officials said that they are better off financially than they were in 1954. Receipts were about $1,200, down about $200 from last year, but income from the midway rides and games and other concessions will put the figure over the 1954 mark. Officials said on Thurday night that they had no definite figures but were confident that they had been more successful than last year.

Weather for the event was ideal and the crowd was estimated at over 3,000 persons. There were more exhibits this year as well over 2,000 individual entries were counted in the various classes.

DRAWING CONTEST

The centre of attention was one of the last events of the day, the drawing contest. A team owned by Robert Way of Picton, took first prize: F. Silliman of Peterborough, second Fred Thompson of Campbellford, third, and J. Jackson of Peterborough, fourth.

The Campbellford Citizens' band was in attendance and entertained the audience in front of the grandstand throughout the afternoon. Grandstand attractions included a number of special events, such as nail driving contest, which was won by Mrs. F. Collins. Mrs. B. Herrington was second and Mrs. W. Wood third.

Carl Whitton won the nail driving contest for the men, with F. Thompson in second place and R. Fuller in third.

The oldest lady on the grounds was Mrs. John Free, who is 93, and the oldest man was William Hall, who is 87 years and seven months.

"APRON PARADE"

A new feature in the women's division was a class called the "apron parade." This featured seven entries, one for each month of the year and all were appropriately hand embroidered. First place in this class went to the Hoards Station W.A.; second place was taken by St. John's United Church W.A., and Seymour East W.I. took third.

A display of hobbies was particularly good. Out of 12 entries the judges awarded three firsts, three seconds, and gave a $2 award to each of the remaining six. The class is usually one of the most difficult of any of the exhibits to judge.

At the close of the evening a dance was held in the main building on the grounds.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE — At the time of writing the weather is ideal and fall work is in full swing and the forest is at its beauty point with all colors the visit of Jack Frost.

This community was shocked on Wednesday night when they heard that one of its esteemed young men, Mr. Robert (Bob) Latta, has passed away after being electrocuted at his work in Belleville.

Bob was well known as he had lived here all his life and was a member of Mr. Bleecker Ketcheson, where he lived on the farm where he brought his bride (Miss Iris Fisher) a few years ago, who is left to mourn a loving husband. Much sympathy is extended to all the bereaved ones.

Many attended the funeral of Mr. Bob Latta on Saturday afternoon held in Christ Church, Belleville.

Little Stephen Parks, who was injured a few weeks ago, returned home from the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, but was taken back to the hospital again on Thursday last where he will be treated for another two weeks. All hope for a speedy recovery.

Miss Marjorie Wannamaker spent the week-end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Carr.

Quite a number attended the anniversary services at the Stone Church appointment on Sunday on the occasion of its 100th anniversary.

Phone Strike Ends

DETROIT (AP) — A strike of 18,500 Michigan Bell Telephone Co. employees was settled Monday an hour and a half after it started.

The settlement calls for pay boosts of $2.50 to $5 a week plus other benefits, but continues the present 40-hour week. The union, the Communication Workers of America (CIO), had asked for a 35-hour week.

Company and union negotiators had been in session all night in an effort to reach a settlement before the 6 a.m. deadline set by the union.

Weekly wage rates of Bell Telephone operators range from $39 to $54.50 a week. Plant switchmen, repair men and cable splicers get from $40 to $103.

Announcing
new Ford for '56

17 Thunderbird-inspired beauties in 4 challenging new series...all with completely new Lifeguard design

It's here—the new, new Ford for '56 . . . bringing you three vital advances in modern motoring: new, lower, longer-looking styling, inspired by the famous Thunderbird; new Thunderbird Y-8 power; and a wholly new concept of safety planning —Lifeguard design! Inside and out, the '56 Ford has the look of a leader— in its wider, more massive grille, new wrap-around parking lights, big new jet-tube tail lights, slim, sleek new silhouette. Ford interiors are upholstered in exquisite new fabrics, custom-tailored and colour-harmonized with all interior trim to create a truly modern, truly luxurious décor!

New! Thunderbird performance
deep-block Y-8 engine

Ford for '56 brings you the thrilling 202-Hp. Thunderbird Y-8 engine with its wonderfully reassuring ability to pass quickly, safely when the situation calls for it. This brilliant engine is standard on all Fordomatic-equipped Fairlane and Station Wagon models, while on Customline and Mainline models with Fordomatic Drive you get the ultra-responsive 175-Hp. Y-8. Both these great new engines give you the new smoothness, quietness and flexibility of deep Y-block design—the product of Ford's 24 years' experience in building V-8's—more than all other makers combined.

New! Lifeguard design planned for modern safety needs

Ford's new Lifeguard design represents a major contribution to driver and passenger safety. It's based on two years of intensive research and testing by Ford; in co-operation with universities and safety experts. It includes a whole new family of safety features: deep-centre steering wheel that cushions the impact in the event of accident; double-grip door latches for extra safety, designed to prevent doors springing open; optional seat belts and padding for instrument panel and visors. All these, plus Ford's wonderful responsiveness, road-clinging ball-joint ride and safety construction; make Lifeguard design truly a new concept of car-building!

OTTAWA (CP)—First, tentative feelers between governments of national health insurance have been extended at this week's federal-provincial conference. It now remains for closed-door meetings to decide whether a firm agreement can be hammered out.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, whose government would be asked to share costs of any program, Monday set out these terms for federal participation in a step-by-step plan:

1. A substantial majority of provinces with a substantial majority of the country's population would have to take part.

2. It must be operated and administered by the provinces.

3. It must involve no constitutional change or interference in provincial affairs and must be in the national interest.

Mr. St. Laurent did not mention what the federal share of costs might be.

A GRADUAL PLAN

But Premier Frost of Ontario, who had asked that health insurance be on the conference agenda, proposed a 60-per-cent federal contribution to a plan which would develop eventually to hospital insurance covering everyone. Beneficiaries would pay a share through payroll deductions and other collections.

Reactions of other premiers varied.

Premier Duplessis of Quebec indicated indirectly he does not favor Quebec participation.

He said provinces have exclusive rights in the health field under the constitution and should have the right to raise necessary revenues for such matters.

Premiers Douglas of Saskatchewan and Bennett of B.C. favor some forms of health or hospital insurance, both of whom provinces have forms of health or hospital insurance, were strongly in favor of a plan. And Mr. Douglas would go farther than hospital insurance to provide medical care for ambulatory care plans.

Other premiers mainly took a wait-and-see attitude. Three—Premiers Matheson of Prince Edward Island, Manning of Alberta—made no mention of it.

Both Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Frost indicated they favor a gradual, developed plan.

FIRST STAGES

The prime minister suggested initial stages might be, first, provision of diagnostic services—x-ray and laboratory—after medical facilities have been built up under the existing hospital insurance program and, second, hospital insurance.

"Only after the establishment of some form of hospital insurance would it appear to be feasible to consider what further steps should be taken," Mr. St. Laurent said.

He referred to the possibility of agreement being reached either at this week's conference or at some later date.

Mr. Frost said there should be a flexible approach and suggested the steps on hospital insurance coverage: Diagnostic services, a home-care plan, help in meeting reconstruction of hospital costs, and a hospital maternal-care plan.

Mr. Douglas said he would be disappointed if the conference went no further than hospital insurance at present. Saskatchewan and B.C. would like more time.

"We have no wish to hurry anyone else," he said. But it was to be hoped that an agreement would enable Saskatchewan to go ahead with additional programs. Already a large part of its people were covered by tax-supported medical-care programs.

Premier Flemming of New Brunswick endorsed the principle of health insurance but said low income provinces such as his would need greater federal aid than others.

Car Registered In Name Of PC Member

GEORGETOWN (CP) — Police said LeRoy Dale of Streetsville was charged Monday with leaving the scene of an accident after a 16-year-old Streetsville boy was knocked off his bicycle Sunday night.

Max Harris suffered a bruised hip and lacerations when he was struck while walking along the road pushing his bike, they said.

Police said the car, later found abandoned after it crashed into a tree, was registered to Miss Sybil Bennett, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Halton-Dales is a law partner of Miss Bennett.

Police said Dales, also charged with careless driving and driving without a permit, told them the car was left at his disposal when Miss Bennett went away on vacation.

Justice Tel's Accused 'You Are Fortunate'

SARNIA (CP) — Arthur Henry Brown, Toronto hardware salesman, was acquitted by a Supreme Court jury Monday on a charge of negligence charge arising out of the death of a 16-year-old newsboy on Highway 40, on June 1.

Evidence showed the car driven by Brown went out of control on a curve in the village of Corunna, veered across the pavement and struck two newsboys on the boulevard before crashing into a house. One of the boys, William Wallace, was killed, while the second, Thomas Terry, 15, was confined to hospital for several weeks.

The defence contended Brown's driving was not affected by negligence or liquor, but by a sudden fainting spell.

Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel said, in discharging Brown:

"I think you are without doubt one of the most fortunate prisoners I have ever had anything to do with."

Burned in Explosion

TORONTO (CP) — A mother and her daughter were severely burned Monday when a natural gas explosion wrecked the kitchen of their apartment.

Mrs. Mary Green, 31, and her daughter, Mrs. Maude Whitton, 19, were admitted to hospital with burns to the face and neck.

Residents of the apartment building said the explosion blew out windows, blew out doors and cracked dishes in the building. Damage was estimated at $1,500.

FORMER CONSUL DIES

SUTTON (CP) — Joaquin de Estrada, 68, former Uruguayan vice-consul in Canada, died Sunday at his home near this Lake Simcoe community. Mr. de Estrada was born in Spain and served with Spanish forces in Morocco before joining the consular service with Uruguay. He left the service in Montreal and became a real estate broker.

COOL WEATHER AHEAD

Cool weather is the outlook for most of Canada for the next 30 days according to this map prepared on the basis of the United States Weather Bureau long-range forecast. Ontario, Quebec and Alberta can expect below-normal temperatures while Saskatchewan, Manitoba and northwestern Ontario may have much-below normal readings. Near-normal temperatures are expected in the Maritimes and the Pacific coastal area. (CP Photo)

Contractors Are Unable to Finish Excavation Job

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP)—Jack and Jim Masser, Inc., of Brownsioux, Pa., said Monday they have voluntarily defaulted on a $891,000 contract to excavate for the St. Lawrence seaway.

A representative of the firm said the company has completed 52 per cent of its work, and added that the job was a "total loss."

The firm representative, who declined to permit use of his name, did not elaborate, but said that the Seaway Development Corporation has been informed of its decision by letter, in which it was stated: "We have no alternative, since we do not have the funds with which to defray the cost of further construction operations."

The Seaway Development Corporation office here said it expected a new contractor would be named in about two weeks to complete the work.

Masserv Brothers had bid $386,000 under the government's $1,377,000 estimate for the excavation job in connection with the construction of the Robinson bay lock.

North African Problem May Defeat Govt.

PARIS (Reuters) — Another political crisis looms over France today as the National Assembly opened a new session which could see the government defeated.

Premier Edgar Faure's seven-month government is expected to come under heavy fire over the situation in North Africa and attempts to decide on North Africa, where France faces armed revolt in Morocco and Algeria, are expected before the end of next week.

A right-wing coalition which has been trying to sabotage the premier's plans to give Morocco home rule is expected to lead the North African attack. The rightists favor the idea of a regency council there to introduce a representative Moroccan government following the departure of Sultan Moulay Ben Arafa.

The Socialists meanwhile are asking whether the reform plan has not been overtaken by French Arafa action in delegating authority to him, instead of to the proposed council, while some Socialists say France has rejected the policies of former premier Pierre Mendes-France, only with less finesse and decision.

Faure will also face attacks on the home front, for a wave of labor unrest during the recess has provided ammunition for an attack on the government's sleeping wages within the framework of economic expansion.

CHINA GREATER MENACE

SEOUL (Reuters)—Gen. James van Fleet, former United States 8th Army commander in Korea, says that for the next few years "Communist China will be a greater menace to the free world than the Soviet Union itself." He told Korean military academy graduates that as long as China remains Communist it will not abandon the goal of dominating East and Southeast Asia.

'Teamwork for Progress' Theme of Canadian C of C Holding Meeting in Winnipeg

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

WINNIPEG (CP) — Teamwork among capital, management, labor and government was given leading role key to Canadian prosperity by G. S. Thorvaldson of Winnipeg, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Addressing the opening plenary session of the chamber's annual meeting, whose theme is "teamwork for progress," Mr. Thorvaldson said:

"The building of anything great and noble requires time and attention. Erection of a great cathedral, fashioning of an atomic bomb, building of a nation, all require skill, knowledge and the application of many minds to a myriad of details.

"In the creation of all of these many hands and many minds work as a team toward the final goal. In the building of a nation the scale is large and the blueprint not so exact."

Text of his speech was released to the press in advance of delivery.

Mr. Thorvaldson spoke as the head of an organization which represents chambers and Board of Trade in some 700 communities in all 10 provinces, the Yukon and Northwest Territories, and which have as their membership some 100,000 businessmen.

Of the relations of management and labor, Mr. Thorvaldson said: made.

"Failure of management to take advantage of technological improvements and to provide efficient management will result in a labor force unable to compete with efficiently-operated businesses in other parts of the world.

"On the other hand labor which fails to recognize its responsibilities to management and the public and fails to give value for what it receives will also jeopardize the business structure."

The annual report of the chamber, presented by D. L. Morrell, general manager, said of the Canadian scene:

"A capital expenditure program at a record $6,000,000,000 level and unparalleled consumer income would seem to assure a high level of business into the next year, provided export markets can be maintained and expanded.

"Adding strength to the economy also are such longer-term trends as the continued high rate of industrialization and urbanization, a high birthrate and resources development."

However, business was still faced with increasing production costs, not all of which were reflected in selling prices. Two uncertainties were the possible effect which a serious United Kingdom inflation could have on Canadian exports and Canada's continued reliance on the United States to absorb a high percentage of her exports.

In many ways, the report stated, Canada is at a crossroads where vital decisions will have to be made.

Say Firm Rehires Union Director After Firing Him

TIMMINS (CP)—The case of a Northern Ontario miner who won the protection of a union he tried to wreck was reported closed Monday night.

Leonard Michaud, 35, a miner at Aunor Gold Mines near here and a trustee of the Communist-dominated Mine Mill and Smelter Workers Union (Ind.), was the principal organizer for Mine-Mill in attempts last fall to unseat Steelworkers Union (CIO - CCL) from the mine.

He was fired by Aunor after testifying before the Ontario labor relations board last Thursday, at which time the Mine-Mill union was accused of using fraudulent methods in organizing. Michaud was reported Monday night to have been rehired.

The Steelworkers sent a telegram of protest to Ontario Labor Minister Daley Sunday, seeking to save Michaud's job.

Leo Zehile, a Steelworkers official, said "we must fight for the right of a worker to defend his union though that worker is against us."

The telegram to Mr. Daley said Michaud had been "victimized as a result of appearing as a subpoenaed witness before the board."

Manager of the Aunor mine, Robert Findlay, would not confirm or deny the report that Michaud had been rehired. Officials of the department of labor could not be reached for comment.

Fellow Traveler Gets Huge Vote In Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—All unofficial returns today was a long way back to leadership of the Indonesian nationalist party by Communist-oriented Nationalist party continued to roll up an impressive lead in elections for the island republic's first general elections.

With almost two-thirds of the total expected vote counted, unofficial tallies gave the Nationalists 6,814,820 and the Communists 4,878,773. The Moslem Orthodox Moslems had 3,747,837 and the Moslem Masjumi — before the election considered Indonesia's largest party — trailed with 3,382,299.

Organization of the new parliament is expected early next year, with the job of forming a new cabinet almost certain to go to Sastroamidjojo, 55-year-old former ambassador to Washington and Nationalist leader for the past years.

Just nine weeks ago he was toppled from power after long-drawn-out charges of widespread corruption in his regime and failure to halt the rapidly rising national deficit.

OSLO (Reuters) — Returns from Monday's municipal council elections from 90 per cent of the country show the government Labor party increased its number of seats by 91 to 1,090. Premier Einar Gerhardsen's party showed little change.

Five Provinces Would Keep Present Tax Rental Pacts While Three Desire Change

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The future of the war-time tax rental agreements hung in the balance today at the federal - provincial fiscal conference.

As the conference lip fo second day got down to work behind closed doors after a day of public sittings, the lineup of governments looked this way:

Five provinces favor retaining the agreements under which the federal government leases direct tax rights from provincial governments.

Three provinces would like a change.

The 10th and newest province—Newfoundland—is non-committal.

WOULD CONTINUE

The federal government is willing to continue with the agreements or scrap them, but is inclined to go for a new system or for several setups with individual provinces.

This simplification of initial attitudes disclosed at Monday's opening session of the 175 delegates could be shifted at later meetings during the week. No government appeared to have a take-it-or-leave-it stand.

However, it looked as though the rental agreements—backbone of finance arrangements of every province for years—would well go down the drain, at least in their present form.

Prime Minister St. Laurent made it clear the federal government, which initiated the agreements, is prepared to toss them overboard in the lean years when revenues enough money to meet their constitutional needs.

LOOK FOR CHANGE

The powerful provinces of Ontario, British Columbia and Alberta look for changes in the agreements for alternatives to the rental agreements that expire March 31, 1957.

The five provinces expressing outright support for retention of the lease system were Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

But every one had some modification criticisms of various kinds, generally involving a higher tax rent from the federal government, if renewal for signing.

Premier Duplessis of Quebec, second largest province, confined himself in his opening speech to a general statement on provincial rights. He gave no indication he would enter into any new agreement with the central government, whether or not it involved tax rentals.

Nine provinces now rent personal and corporation income taxes to the federal treasury. Quebec is the exception. It collects and levies its own tax for which the federal government allows a 10-per-cent deduction against personal tax liability. This is available to any other province.

THE SAME SCALE

Mr. St. Laurent indicated in his initial conference statement Monday that the federal government's view now is that this deductibility should remain at the same scale to provinces that want to switch from rental agreements to collecting their own income tax. The same would go for corporation taxes, which now calls for a seven-per-cent deduction against the federal tax.

But he got a miscellany of reactions to that, apart from a wide-ranging series of ideas on other aspects of federal-provincial relations.

The suggestions swung all the way from Manitoba Premier Campbell's idea for a federal-provincial conference on constitutional matters—the last was held in 1950—through New Brunswick Premier Flemming's proposal for federal aid in developing N.B. hydro to Saskatchewan Premier Douglas' plea for action on the south Saskatchewan dam project.

Mr. St. Laurent himself, declaring progress on the trans-Canada highway has not been up to expectations, suggested a new federal-provincial conference may be called this fall on that specific question.

WILL PAY HALF

With unemployment, he indicated his government is sticking to an earlier proposal whereby it will pay half the cost of relief for less without unemployment insurance in individual provinces where unemployment-rises above .45 per cent of that province's population.

Ontario—Federal tax deductions on provincial levies boosted to 15 per cent on both personal and corporate taxes. The federal government should leave the succession duties field to the provinces.

Quebec—There should be a demarcation of the tax powers of the various governments. Provincial rights must be maintained.

Nova Scotia—The tax agreements should be renewed with higher payments. There should be a "national adjustment grant" to lower-income provinces.

WANTS ADDITION

Manitoba — Tax rental agreements should be maintained with substantial additional amounts paid the provinces.

B.C.—Let the provinces return to the field of direct taxation; reduce the federal share of taxes taken out of the provinces.

P.E.I. — Continue tax rental agreements but pay more to the provinces for such things as education.

Saskatchewan — Continue tax rentals, with a moderate increase in payments to the provinces.

Alberta—Premier Manning urged a joint federal-provincial tax system which would replace tax rentals and would not involve double taxation.

MULES ACCEPTABLE

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia city council agreed Monday night that citizens might have mules for pets, but prohibited cattle, goats, swine, mink and foxes within the city limits. A proposed new by-law will also exclude the spa, rabbit.

MAKE BOOM LAST, THAT IS PROBLEM, SAYS STEVENSON

In an address at the University of Texas in Austin, Adlai Stevenson declares there are "serious flaws" in the nation's booming prosperity. Declaring he was not a "prophet of gloom," the Democratic leader said that the farmers are not sharing in the good times and urged government leaders to talk less of the "big boom" and consider how to make it last. It is now almost certain that Stevenson will be a U. S. presidential candidate in 1956.

Someone Erred in Seating Arrangements for Conference

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Premier Bennett had trouble the wife had with the seating arrangements at that tig dinner party?

They have the same trouble in officialdom. Somebody — nobody will admit who — erred on the seating arrangements at the opening of the Dominion - provincial conference.

According to protocol—and nothing can be stickier in the capital than protocol—Saskatchewan premier Douglas should have been fourth in seniority over Alberta though both provinces entered the conference the same day, Sept. 1, 1905.

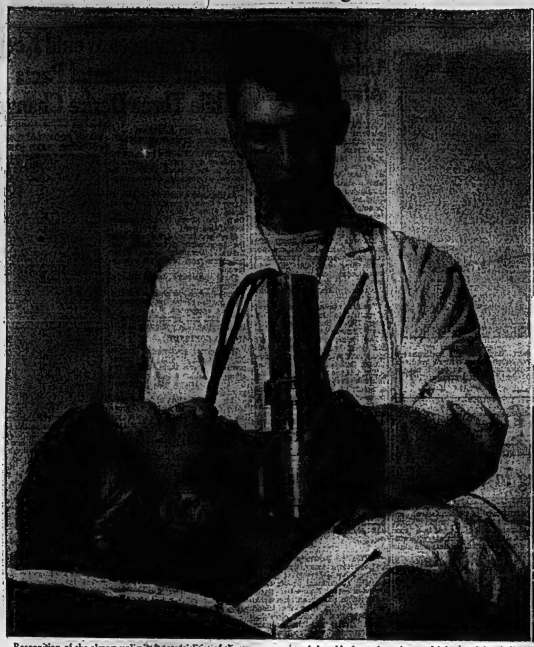
But when Prime Minister St. Laurent got to the provincial premiers gathered around the conference table in the Railway committee room, Premier Manning of Alberta was seated in eighth instead of ninth place, which was occupied by Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan.

The mistake was discovered later and Mr. Manning and Mr. Douglas switched positions on opposite sides of the table for the afternoon session.

The two western premiers obviously couldn't have cared less.

"Maybe they thought Premier Bennett (of British Columbia) would be more comfortable between me and a Socialist," the CCF's Mr. Douglas later told a reporter with a grin.

During the morning sitting, Mr. Bennett, Social Credit, sat between Premier Hearst of Ontario, Progressive Conservative premier of New Brunswick, and Mr. Manning, Social Credit.

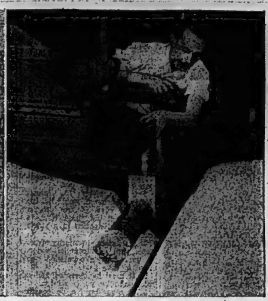


There was another odd thing about the conference, even for a chilly fact of a meeting on fiscal matters. There were no wastepaper baskets.

By the time the day was over, the floor of the room was littered a small heap of torn and discarded papers on the carpet around his chair.

There were few smiles and few chuckles and only one laugh. This came at adjournment of the morning sitting when Mr. St. Laurent invited the premiers to partake of some fish in the west block.

He noted this is national fish week, hastily adding that there is no connection between this and Dominion-provincial conference.



Canada's Peaceful Atom Aids Science, Medicine

Recognition of the almost unlimited potentialities of the atom as a tool for human good is becoming widespread in Canada as scientists in the fields of medicine, agriculture and industry daily discover new applications for the radio-active isotopes produced at Chalk River. Here, a technician makes a regional count of thyroid of a patient given a drink containing iodine 131. Radioactive iodine, collecting at the goiter source, emits rays which pinpoint the diseased area, at the same time destroying all excess thyroid tissue. Isotopes of gold and cesium are also being used in the treatment of cancer.

Supplanting radium in the treatment of cancer, the isotope Cobalt 60 is being used in some 36 Canadian designed beam therapy units in hospitals around the world. The Eldorado unit pictured is one of three models built by Atomic Energy of Canada at its Ottawa factory.

Canadian manufacturers are making wide use of isotopes in the testing of welds, castings and chemicals. This worker in a large Toronto paper mill, is operating the 'batameter', a machine which uses radioactive thallium to regulate the weight and thickness of paper.

Research on metabolism is being carried on by biologists studying the absorption of phosphorous into living cells. The path of radioactive phosphorous, fed to a plant or animal, is traced with geiger counter. Scientist, above, lowers apparatus overboard to collect organisms in the river mud.

Department of Agriculture scientists at Belleville pour 'tagged' mosquito larvae into a pond. Later, by examining all pond life for radioactivity, they are able to determine which of the larger organisms consume and thus exert control of the mosquito population.

Ship-by-Rail Assoc. Takes Rap at Trucking

TORONTO (CP) — A delegation representing the Ontario Ship-By-Rail Association took a roundhouse swing at the trucking industry Monday when it appeared before Highways Minister Allan.

Led by H. Wigglesworth of Stratford, the delegation asked the minister to increase policing the province's highways to ensure observance of highway regulations by truckers; make the truckers pay a greater portion of highways costs; and prohibit transport truckers from carrying steel bars, logs, timbers and other articles "which project beyond the truck body and thus create a hazard."

The association, made up of "interested employees" in all branches of the railway industry, said too many trucks are speeding on the highways, thus "creating a great hazard which could easily end in death and destruction."

Spokesmen said numerous instances are reported of truckers being fined for overloading and recommended that a temporary license suspension be put in practice "to keep truckers in line."

The association also asked that regulations be designed to prevent "discrimination, secret rebates or other unfair practices."

The association meets here today for its 26th annual conference. Fifty-five branches from the province will be represented.

TO ASK ADVICE

SARNIA (CP) — City council voted Monday night to request advice from the provincial department of health on fluoridation of municipal water supplies.

Council's decision came after the presentation of a report by city manager E. Royden Colter. In view of conflicting opinions on fluoridation, council felt it should be approved only after it has been recommended by the provincial department of health.

First Nuclear Power Reactor In Five Years

MONTREAL (CP)—Canada may have its first nuclear power reactor—apart from experimental reactor at Chalk River—in service within the next five years, a meeting of the Montreal branch of the Engineering Institute of Canada was told Monday night.

T. S. Fosier of Toronto, director of design for the primary contractors, Canadian General Electric Co., cautioned, however, that this is just an estimate.

"There are many serious design and engineering problems to the construction of this reactor," he said. "Right now, our major concern is establishing its basic form."

The new reactor will be built at the des Joachims power development on the Ottawa river. Heat from the reactor will be used to make steam to power electric generators.

The project was instigated by Atomic Energy of Canada, the crown corporation operating the Chalk River experimental reactor. The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission will use the electrical power generated by the plant.

Spanish Boxer Wins Title

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP)—Young Martin of Spain won the European fyreight boxing championship Monday night by knocking out defending champion Dai Dower of Wales in the 12th round of the scheduled 15-round bout. Dower weighed 110½, Martin 110¾.

The 24-year-old Spanish garage owner sent Dower to the canvas for a count of nine in the fifth round and again for two in the ninth. In the 10th the champion was down six times for counts of six to nine.

The young Welshman came back strongly in the 11th but finally was floored with a crushing left hook. In the 12th, the Spaniard dropped Dower with another left hook. The Welshman was no sooner on his feet than he was floored again. This time Dower failed to get up.

Ramsey May Play for Larks

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes announced Monday night that they are interested in Ray Ramsey, former Hamilton Tiger-Cats end, as a replacement for Hal Patterson, who is expected to be out for the rest of the season with a chipped vertebrae.

General manager Vic Obeck said he hasn't yet been in touch with coach Carl Voyles of Hamilton but that is definitely interested in getting Ramsey. The former pro player with Brooklyn Dodgers, Chicago Rockets and Chicago Cardinals is currently a scout for the Tiger-Cats.

Obeck said he has six other prospects for the job, however. These were players cut loose during the weekend when teams in the National Football League had to reduce their squads to 33 men. He did not disclose their names.

Belleville Service Darts League

The Belleville Service Darts League opened its fall and winter schedule last night with nine teams participating. Entered are Housmans, Army, Navy, RCAF, Hasty Pees, ANAF, Northern Electric, Legion, Brewers and Corbins.

Results of last night's opening games were: Army 3, Hasty Pees 0; RCAF 2, Corbins 0; Legion 2, Navy 0; Brewers 2, N.E. 0. Housmans drew a bye.

The league plays every Monday night. Scheduled games will appear in the sports calendar.

HAWKS, WINGS MAKE TRADE

CHICAGO (AP)—Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League have obtained right winger Norman Corcoran of Toronto from Detroit Red Wings in an even player swap for rookie Wally Blasidell, general manager Tommy Ivan announced Monday.

Corcoran, 24, was farmed by Boston Bruins to Hershey Bears of the American Hockey League in 1951, and with the exception of several one-game tryouts with the parent club, remained with Hershey for five seasons. Detroit got him in a recent player deal.

Will Sell Tracks For $4,000,000 Says Newspaper

TORONTO (CP)—The Globe and Mail says Long Branch and Dufferin race tracks here will be sold soon for $4,000,000.

The newspaper says it has learned that the purchasers will be linked with the Ontario Jockey Club, which owns the new Woodbine track being built at Malton and the present Woodbine and Fort Erie tracks.

Such a move would bring all major flat racing in Ontario under the control of the club.

Fred Orpen, owner of Dufferin, announced earlier Monday that no fall or winter harness horse meetings will be held at the track this year. He did not deny or confirm that the tracks had been sold.

DROUIN WINS

Horticulturists Outline Contest For Beautification

PICTON.— Plans for rural and urban beautification competitions were outlined at an enthusiastic meeting of Prince Edward Horticultural Society, attended by 72 members in Shire hall. The awards are to be for 1956 plantings with the emphasis placed on locations visible from road or highway.

In a rural competition open to all parts of Prince Edward, excepting Picton, prizes totalling $100 are offered by The Picton Gazette. Prizes of $25, $15 and $10 are to be offered for the most attractive plantings on public grounds such as schools, halls, churches, parks. Open to private individuals are prizes of $15 and $10 for most attractive new planting of flowers, shrubs, trees, and $15 and $10 for greatest improvements of exteriors of homes and lawn areas.

In the urban section, open to the town, Mayor H. J. McFarland is donating $100 in prizes. Final details are to be decided upon but include replanting of Benson Memorial Park in co-operation with town council.

Report of the committee composed of Jack Sutcliffe, L. B. Callnan and Mrs. Morley Jackson was given by Mr. Sutcliffe.

HEAR SPEAKER

Horticulturist with the Dept. of Veterans' Affairs, Russell Gomme gave a helpful lecture on landscaping. Using models of different types of homes, and model trees and shrubbery, he showed how planting should be done to create a harmonious over-all picture. The speaker stressed the importance of planning before building or planting, both to create a proper setting for the home and to save money. He warned against over-planting and the placing of trees, which hide the view from large windows. Using colored films, he showed the necessity of securing the right type of lot before building to avoid expensive fill afterwards.

Mr. Gomme was introduced by Major Howard Mr. Reid, local VA representative and thanked by the Rev. E. Wrightson, Society vice-president.

NEW SECRETARY

Jack Laundry, East Lake, a member of Picton Public school staff, was named secretary-treasurer, succeeding D. A. Taylor, who has acted in that capacity since the Society was organized in May. Thanks were expressed to Mr. Taylor for his work.

Mr. Taylor read a letter from the Highways Divisional engineer which stated the Department is unable to co-operate in the establishment of a look-out on Ashley-mt. Mountain, due to its distance from Highway 33. The matter is to be investigated further.

A membership of 117 in the Society was reported.

Society president Phil Dodds welcomed the large attendance and urged each member to do some planting during 1956 as a start to the county-wide beautification program.

Mr. Dodds reported on efforts to have the approach to Glenora ferry beautified by the Ontario Department of Highways, of seeking co-operation of Women's Institutes in undertaking local improvements on the flower show held at Picton fair when Mrs. Shepardson, Kingston, the Society's regional president, was judge, and of Department of Highway plans for Provincial Parks at the Outlet and at the UEL landing site at Adolphustown.

WANTS NORMAL LIFE

BRANTFORD (CP)—Robert McClelland of Windsor, Ont., was sentenced Monday to two years and six months in Kingston penitentiary after telling the court he wished to lead a 'normal' life after finishing his prison term. McClelland admitted breaking into the CNR express office at Paris last April. The sentence will be concurrent with a term he is already serving in the penitentiary.

Hockey's Here Again!

STAR WEEKLY PREVIEWS 1955-56 SEASON

It takes two good teams to make a good game of hockey, and a group of good teams to make a well-balanced league. That's the reason for the big pre-season shuffle now going on in the National Hockey League. Four teams start the season with new coaches. Surprising player transfers are being made. Read "Is Closer Race in the NHL?" It's a standout feature of this week's Star Weekly.

The Klondike Lives Again

KLONDIKE! Fifty years ago men braved Arctic ice and snow on foot to seek their fortunes. A Klondike rush is on again. Urged by the promise of nickel, copper, silver, lead, asbestos and oil, prospectors with modern equipment are combing the Klondike creek areas once more. Read "The Klondike Trail of '55".

"Petticoat Rule" Proves Popular

Just one man offered himself for public office in Bishop's Itchington, England, so the voters elected five women to serve with him on the parish council. The men woke up. They offered a male slate at the next election but all five women were re-elected. Read the feature "When Grannies Take Over a Town."

Oklahoma—an "Engineered" Movie

Scientists, engineers, agriculturists—play leading parts in the movie version of Oklahoma. They won't be seen on the screen but the story of the research and experiments made to produce the colored movie of this great stage success—and the statistics—provide most interesting reading for movie fans.

A Look at Paris Fashions

Fashions in the French motif are described and pictured in this week's presentation of The Star Weekly fashion parade. To quote: "The essence of the Paris look is that little something which evokes the Orient—long slender clothes with high necklines . . . lack of trimmings . . . sombre colors (black is the favorite) . . . embroideries on evening dresses"

Vengeance-Bent Yankees Square Series With 5-1 Victory Over Dodgers

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

ALL OVER!

Today tolls the world series story. By the time this edition hits your front veranda the wacky 1955 battle of the base-ball giants will be pushed into the archives with another record-breaking sequence of events.

Yesterday the flaming Dodgers who had whipped the damYankees three times in a row, appeared to take an Alphonse-Gaston attitude and practically handed the sixth game to the Manhattan freemen on a Spooner. And it toward a silver one either, b'dad.

The vengeance-bent Yankees tossed the Flatbush taunts: "We'll moider da Bums in da Yankee Stadium," right back down the Dodger throats.

The argument rages hot in the bistros of Flatbush. Who is the goat? Is it the misled Karl Spooner who was as effective as a slingshot against a seagoing battle wagon, or was it Marse Walter Alston for not starting Don Newcombe, as was the logical "cheice?"

To all intents and purposes the game was over at the end of the first innings. The Bombers coming in on hits, home run and a prayer, got behind Whitey Ford and checked the frustrated Flatbushers off with one run over the rest of the course. To make matters worse the "Duke" threw a knee out in the fourth and retired from the game.

Ah, me, there wuz no joy in Flatbush last night. Tonight? At point of writing, quien sabe.

SEARCHING THE RECORDS

Now the world series is over the following record recalls may help cracker-barrel enthusiats in the post-series chinwags this fall and during the winter,

If the series is not over some of the "dope" may apply if it is, it should be interesting to make comparisons.

These are some of the facts and figures of other series. The team that wins the second game usually wins it all (38 out of the last 53) . . . a team that gets behind, one win to three, has a handicap that's been overcome but once in a seven-game series—by the 1925 Pirates (but they did win the charmed second game) . . . The pre-series favorite has paid off three out of four times (37 out of 51).

Of the eight series that ended in four games, six were swept by the Yankees, the others by the 1914 Braves and the 1934 Giants . . . Nine of the 18 National League world's championships have been upsets . . . Most world series runs are scored in the fourth inning (353) and least (except for the partially-played ninth, in the second—but dunt ask why.

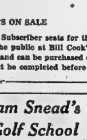
Only 6,210 saw the fifth game of the 1908 series at Detroit. (Whatsamatta, everybody watching TV?) . . . Pepper Martin's five stolen bases in the seven-game 1931 series are most talked about, but Jimmy Slagle stole six in five games in 1907 . . . Nobody has been given the hobo's heave from the series since 1945 when the Cubs' Mickey Livingston rough-armed Umpire Jocko Conlin . . . Nothing closer to a fistic display has developed since Joe Medwick's slide spilled Marv Owen at third in the 1934 Cards-Tigers series.

If it's a shutout the score's mostly likely to be 3-0 (18 times) or 1-0 (ten times) . . . But among the 25 other shutouts (record 58) there's never been a 6-0 or 7-0 score . . . Only one player has stolen home in the last twenty series (not counting Jackie Robinson's steal in the current fray.) Monte Irvin stole home on Allie Reynolds in 1951—but eight in all have done it. None, however, with the winning run in the ninth.

More world series are won before the fifth inning than after it (not counting overtime games) . . . The "edge" ran was scored 125 times before the fifth, 38 times in the fifth and 107 times in the last four innings . . . There have been 26 extra-inning games, the longest one 14 frames between the Red Sox and Dodgers in 1916.

The earliest world series was played September 5, 1918 (on account of the war) and the latest October 26, 1911 (on account of the rain). Only two clubs, the 1910 and 1913 Athletics ever went through a series without making a change in their starting line-up . . . But the 1947 Yankees used 28 players in the sixth game that year—and lost—8-6 to the Dodgers anyway.

The odds (may be wrong this year) are 4-1 that a team that's a runaway in its own league meeting up with an opponent in the world series that has had a tough way to go, will keep right on winning honors.



Just 29 times since the series' business began a little more than 50 years ago, have teams qualified by margins or ten or more games. These were divided equally between the two leagues.

Sam Snead's Golf School

Never convert your golf swing into a power swing. If you do you say farewell to rhythm and so with that goes your smooth swing. Then goodbye to low scores. Jamming, forcing the club, only spells disaster. The dotted line in today's picture shows the player's hands in the address position. The solid line shows him at the top of the swing in fine golfing form ready for a rhythmic, powerful downswing. Start down slowly from the top. Don't rush it in this area. Feel that you are pulling your hands down as pictured, rather than throwing them out and around. Your reversing pivot of hips and shoulders will supply the out-and-around motion without your adding to that action by throwing the hands out. Begin uncocking your wrists and hands when they are hip high in the downswing. Then the added power you transmit to your club-head will reach its maximum at the correct mechanical instant. This is when the club head meets the ball.

Bombers Pounce on Spooner For Five Runs in 1st Inning; Ford Fashions Neat 4-Hitter

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—A pair of winning lefthanders, veteran Tom Byrne of New York and youthful Johnny Podres of Brooklyn, carried the world series hopes of their respective clubs today as the Yankees and Dodgers came to grips in the seventh and deciding game.

The pendulum, which has been swinging back and forth, first favoring one team then the other, definitely had swayed toward the Yankees.

Not only did the American Leaguers have the benefit of their own Yankee Stadium, where they have beaten the Brooks three straight, but this time it was the Dodgers who were beset by crippling injuries.

The odds-makers, who have called the turn in each of the six previous games, have made Yankees 7-to-5 favorites to win today's game before a record-shattering room crowd of some 64,000. Game time was 12 noon EST.

THEIR SECOND START

This was the second series start for both Byrne and Podres. Byrne, 35, fired a five-hit shutout in second game and Podres, 22, brought the Brooks back to life with a pitching shutter in the third game.

"I'll have everybody else in the bullpen," vowed Dodger manager Walter Alston, a statement echoed by Casey Stengel, the Yankee skipper.

Monday's 5-1 Yankee victory, which deadlocked the classic at three victories apiece, was a stunning blow to the Dodgers in more ways than one. Not only was young Karl Spooner sidelined from the mound before he could retire two batters but Duke Snider, the slugging star of the series so far, suffered a severe knee injury which forced him out of the game after only one time at bat.

The centre-field star, who has hit four home runs in this series, wrenched his left knee while chasing a fly ball hit by Bill Skowron in the third inning. Several hours before game time, it was uncertain whether Snider would be in shape to play today.

Jackie Robinson was another Dodger mainstay on the doubtful list. He aggravated a pulled tendon in the back of his left foot and the injury aisted him so perceptibly Monday.

"I won't know until just before the game whether I'll be able to play," Robby said late Monday night. "Right now it's sore."

ALSTON OPTIMISTIC

Snider, his knee in a tight elastic "sleeve," vowed he would play "if I can walk."

Alston optimistically expected Snider and Robinson to play.

"If they do, it will be the same lineup that we started today," he said. "If not, we'll have to wait and see."

The Yankees, too, expected to start the same lineup.

Hank Bauer, back after a three-day layoff because of a leg injury, chipped in with three hits Monday.

Mickey Mantle, the other Yankee convalescent, was not expected to play, according to manager Stengel except in a pinch-hit role.

The Yankees didn't intend any help from Mantle Monday as they struck quickly, knocking Spooner out with a stunning five-run attack before the young southpaw knew what had hit him. Skowron capped the lightning assault with a three-run homer after Yogi Berra and Bauer each had singled over one runner.

BEST OF SERIES

After that the game was entirely in the strong left hand of Whitey Ford and the blond southpaw never faltered. The compact little guy pitched the best game of the series, and probably his best of the year, as he handcuffed the Dodgers with four singles to record his second series triumph.

Ford's complete mastery of the Dodgers' right-handed-hitting lineup had the crowd of 64,022 cheering throughout as he struck out eight and permitted only four fly balls to be hit to the outfield. Two of the hits were grounders and the other two looping liners over the infield.

Two key plays were instrumental in the undoing of Spooner who, in his previous effort, had fanned five in three scoreless relief innings. Junior Gilliam was the central figure in each key play, the first which, if consummated, could have averted the disastarous five-run explosion.

In the first inning, after leadoff man Phil Rizzuto had walked, Billy Martin struck out on a 3-2 fouldrop. Rizzuto, who had taken off with the pitch, seemed an easy out but Roy Campanella, who caught the foul tip on the wing of his glove lost a fraction of a second trying to get a firm grip on the ball.

PEG TOO LATE

When he was ready to throw, he discovered that Gilliam had not yet reached the bag. After a couple of feints, he made his peg but by then Rizzuto had slid safely into the bag.

Had Rizzuto been doubled there would have been two out and nobody on. Instead, after Gil McDougald walked, there were two on and one out. That brought up Yogi Berra and the second key play. Berra sent a medium-speed bouncer past Spooner's glove up the middle, just to the right of second.

Gilliam seemed to get to the ball a little late and before he knew it, the ball flicked under his glove and out into centre field. Rizzuto scored the first of the five runs on the hit.

The Dodgers again got fine relief pitching after the game was lost, but the third time the law happened. Russ Meyer, the forgotten man of the staff, rushed in after Newcombe crashed the ball into the right-field seats and blanked the Yanks on four singles in five and two third innings. Ed Roebuck added two more scoreless innings in the seventh and eighth.

Ottawa Riders Fire Coach At Loggerheads With Chief

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa Rough Riders kept their fingers crossed today hoping that the firing of backfield coach John Idzik after weeks of friction with head coach Chan Caldwell will shake the players from the doldrums.

The Big Four football club released Idzik Monday night to correct what club president Dave Gill described as "an impossible situation."

"Idzik and Caldwell have not been getting along and we feel it is in the best interests of the club to dispense with Idzik's services" Gill said. "Our only possible step was to support our head coach to the very limit."

DISAGREED ON POLICY

Although club officials were a bit reluctant to discuss the turmoil in the Riders' dressing room, it was whispered that Caldwell was being "overbearing," and that the two former University of Tennessee coaches had differences over player selection, strategy and line-ups.

"This (Idzik's release) will either make them (the players) or break them," said one football man who declined to be identified.

He was referring to Rough Riders' low spirits after the 40-0 clawing Edmonton Eskimos gave them Saturday.

Idzik, 27, split-T quarterback from the University of Maryland, was freshman coach at the University of Tennessee last year. When Caldwell, former assistant coach at Tennessee was hired this year he brought Idzik along as the backfield coach.

STARTING IN AUGUST

Officials said friction between Caldwell and Idzik began to develop in the exhibition season last August and three times the pair was called in by the executive and pitched up their differences.

The last time was two weeks ago when co-captains Pete Ladygo and Stan Barwegen, import lineman, asked general manager Jim McCaffrey to set things right.

"They said they represented the 32 players and asked us to straighten out this situation so evil-ent in the coaching," McCaffrey said.

"They said they were not taking sides but asked that something be done."

The friction between Caldwell and Idzik apparently came to a boil after last Saturday's game.

Pastrano Ready For Heavyweights

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Willie Pastrano, who takes off weight slower than a Japanese wrestler, may have fought his last fights in a light heavyweight Monday night when he slashed out a 10-round unanimous decision over rugged Paddy Young of New York.

The 158-pound New Orleans fighter, in his No. 3 challenger, went to the sweat box twice a few hours before fight times to mail off a reluctant 2½ pounds. At that, he weighed in at 175½. Young, rated No. 5, weighed 171½.

Pastrano said after the fight: "I really felt weak from taking off the 2½ pounds. I don't know. Maybe I'll fight heavyweight from now on. I'll see."

MAY TURN PRO

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Professional tennis promoter Jack Kramer said Monday he is confident America's Tony Trabert and Australia's Ken Rosewall and Lewis Hoad will soon sign contracts to play professionally for him.

Kramer said that if the three sign up he and the trio will play as a foursome during a 16-month world tour, which might gross over $300,000.

Hoad and Rosewall have received a guarantee of about $45,000 each, Kramer said, and Trabert would receive approximately $30,000. All would operate on a percentage basis.

Shellettes Even Trenton Series

The Osterhout Shellettes of Belleville came up with a 4-3 victory over Trenton Cleaners over the weekend to win their two-of-five series for the women's Belleville and district softball championship at two games each. The fifth and deciding tilt will be played in Trenton but no date has been set.

Shellettes grabbed a 1-0 lead in the first stanza and upped it to 3-0 in the third. Trenton picked up one in the fourth and another in the seventh while Bellevilles added an insurance marker in the fifth frame.

Linda Wagg on the hill for the owners was touched for four hits while striking four and passing only one batter. Donna Drake was her mound opponent, allowing six safeties with three strike outs and five walks charged to her.

Lois Batchelor paced the Shellette batters with two singles while Helen Reeves, Linda Carmichael, Rita and Sandra Slade added one hit each.

Gifford led the Trenton lassies with the wood, pounding a triple and single while McMaster also tripled and Vieau had a one-bagger.

Line score:

Whether Dodgers win or lose the series, no one will forget the dramatic homers of centre-fielder Duke Snider, left. His two home runs in the fifth game gave him a total of nine in World Series play and he now ranks behind only Babe Ruth, who hit 15, and Lou Gehrig who hit 10, in World Series competition. Here he is bussed by catcher Roy Campanella and Gil Hodges, fine other Dodger sluggers. (Central Press Canadian).

In the Dressing Rooms

NEW YORK (AP)—"We're home and we're confident," boomed Casey Stengel Monday morning down the gauntlet to Brooklyn Dodgers for the seventh and deciding game of the world series.

"We'll pitch Tommy Byrne," the wrinkled Yankee pilot added over the din of a celebrant dressing room. "After all, he pitched the best game for us."

"Better than Whitey Ford?" somebody corrected.

"I didn't say that," Casey put in tartly. "I can't go with Ford tomorrow. I mean Byrne has pitched the best of anybody up to date."

Ford, finishing his first world series game in five starts, set the Dodgers down with four hits to knot the series at three games each.

"I thought he pitched beautiful ball," Casey said. "He had his curve working well and he was throwing in that fast ball at just the right time."

DECIDED TO WIN

"He didn't have any scurvy moments but I wasn't taking any chances. We decided to win this game if we had to throw every pitcher on our roster at them.

"That hit by Skowron in the first inning (Bill Skowron's three-run homer) was just what the doctor ordered. But we had no intention of losing that lead."

Stengel said he kept Bob Turley, Don Larsen and Tom Morgan throwing in the bullpen, just in case Ford should falter.

Stengel said he probably wouldn't make too many changes in his lineup with the Dodgers pitching Johnny Podres.

"I think our lefthanders can hit him as well as our righthanders," he added. "If I can, Hank Bauer again if he feels okay, probably Bob Cerv in centre and (Elston) Howard in left. I may have Bill Skowron at first base."

Ford was the centre of attraction in the Yankees' dressing room.

"This is the first game I've finished in a world series and I've started five," the Glen cove, N.Y., southpaw said. "I am naturally very thrilled about it.

"In just one year my wife, Joan, couldn't be here to see the game. She couldn't get a baby sitter."

Ford has three children.

"I enjoyed pitching to Duke Snider," he said. "It was a challenge."

He struck out the mighty Duke in the first inning before Snider, home run hero of the series, went out with an injured knee.

Skowron, whose rightfield home run wallop turned the game into a scoring finish affair, said he didn't know what kind of a pitch he hit.

Bauer, who started the game, said he was able to get set well on his injured thigh but that he felt something snap again.

"But I'll be okay," he said. "Don't worry. I'll be in there tomorrow."

Stengel was asked if he thought the Dodgers, now even and without their ace outfielder and key player home, looked as if they might be getting panicky.

"I know you'd like for me to say that," the Case commented with a wink. "But I don't think so. They're still strong and they'll be tough."

Snider, on the very verge of writing his name with baseball's greatest in world series annals, viewed Monday he would play today despite his injured knee—"and it feels pretty good."

The big, handsome Brooklyn Dodger popped a curtilege when he stepped in a hole running for Skowron's fly in the third.

"My knee popped as soon as I started," he said somberly. "I went on running,"—and caught the ball—"but it was a leg I hurt earlier in Chicago, and so I asked Walt Alston to take me out."

"In Chicago I was so stiff I could hardly walk the next day. But now I'll play even if it's stiff."

Snider has hit four home runs in this series, and now has a total of nine in series play—only one behind the great Lou Gehrig of the Yankees. Babe Ruth has 15 all told.

Manager Alston was as sober as quiet as his big centre-fielder. He confirmed what he said Sunday, namely, that he would start Johnny Podres on the mound today. Podres won the third game from the Yankees, 8-3.

DEFENDS ON DURE

Alston said his lineup would depend entirely on Snider's condition. When Snider went out, he shifted Junior Gilliome from second base to left field, moved Sandy Amoros over from left to centre field to take Snider's post, and sent Don Zimmer in at second base.

Alston, who was riding the crest Sunday with high hopes of winning the first world series for the Dodgers, sat back in his little office and answered questions in a low voice.

The evident blow of the day to Alston was the loss of his great centre fielder.

"I didn't know anything about Snider being hurt until he told me when he came in," Alston said.

"This was a tough game to lose—they're all tough to lose. I've got to wait to see how Snider is. That McDougald had a real good day."

He referred to the fielding performance of the Yankees third baseman.

Howard Homers Then Flops

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — The first time he ever came to bat in a world series, Elston Howard, only rookie in the New York Yankee lineup, clouted a home run.

Since then the Negro outfielder, who was the International League's most valuable player last season with Toronto, has been a bust. In the next 21 times at bat, he managed to collect only three hits but that isn't the worst of it.

In eight of those appearances he struck out. Three of the strikeouts came Monday in his first three times at bat. In his last time at bat, he came out to fly to left.

Despite his .182 batting average in the six games, manager Casey Stengel will keep him in the lineup in today's payoff game against Brooklyn.

TRYING TOO HARD

"He's going to play," Casey told reporters. "He's all right. He's just trying too hard. If only he'd stop trying to pull every ball and aim for the left field bleachers. He'd be all right from then on. Those pitchers are playing him for a sucker. They're throwing outside to him but he still keeps swinging from the heels."

Howard was a dejected figure as he stood idly before his locker despite the fact the Yankees won the "must" sixth game Monday 5-1 to tie the series at three victories apiece.

"I know I'm pressing," he confessed, "but I get so mad at myself for striking out. I can't help it, see. Eight strikeouts already. Imagine that. I never struck out so many times in so few games before."

HORTON WON'T PLAY

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs will be without star defenceman Tim Horton when they open their National Hockey League schedule in Montreal Thursday.

Leafs said Monday that Horton may be out for the first three weeks of the 70-game schedule to rest a leg he fractured late last season. Doctors said the bone has healed but the muscles are weak.

Horton's absence means Leafs will have only three fully-experienced rearguards in the lineup. They are Jim Thomson, Hugh Bolton and Jim Morrison.

Whitey Ready To Go Again If Necessary

NEW YORK (AP)—Rested or not Whitey Ford is available.

The Yankee lefthander, with two victories over Brooklyn to his credit, is ready to go again today in the deciding game of the world series.

"Of course, we're all pulling for Tommy Byrne to go all the way," the blond Long Islander said, "but I'll be in the bullpen if Casey needs me and I'll be geared to go."

Casey Stengel, Yankee manager said he would use Ford — "and every man on our bench, if need be"—should Byrne, the New York starter, show signs of weakening.

Ford, his curve ball whipping across the corners, set down the Dodgers on four hits 5-1 at Yankee Stadium Monday. He was credited with his first win in finish a series game. He had started four—including one in 1950 against the Phillies that he lost in relief—for the Dodgers —without going the full route.

"I've never wanted to get there against the Dodgers," Whitey said. "With all—that righthanding stuff—they're mighty rough on southpaws."

OHA Seeking Break With Western Body

KITCHENER (CP)—The Ontario Hockey Association is seeking to end its affiliation with the Western Ontario Athletics Association, in effect since Nov. 1, 1948.

Notice of dissolution of the agreement between the hockey associations has been given by the OHA, officials of both groups said Monday.

The OHA seeks a new agreement because in recent years some teams in the WOAA have refused to group in which to play, said Bill Hanley, amateur manager of the OHA.

Hugh Hawkins, president of the WOAA, said the OHA now wants to embrace all teams from centres of population of 1,000 or more.

Eskimos Igloo Sasky Riders Stamps Stick Lick on Lions

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Edmonton Eskimos are sure of at least a first-place tie at the end of the Western Interprovincial Football Union regular schedule.

Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy's Eskies made a first-place finish a certainty by beating Saskatchewan Roughriders 17-0 Monday night at Edmonton while Calgary Stampeders at home were keeping their playoff hopes alive by whipping British Columbia Lions 18-6.

The split-T Eskies would have to suffer a complete collapse to have the Roughriders nose out for second place, edge them out of a bye into the WIFU playoff finals.

With a record of 11 wins and one loss, Edmonton would have to lose all four remaining games in the 16-game regular schedule by lopsided scores and Saskatchewan would have to win its remaining five games by good margins.

It that happened and Riders had a better points-for-and-against average, they would get the bye.

Monday the last-place Stampeders thrilled a crowd of 12,000 fans at Calgary by convincingly clawing the Lions out of contention in third place with Winnipeg Edmonton and Winnipeg at Calgary.

Jack Hennemier's split-T Stamps were leading Lions 18-0 with less than a minute remaining. Then quarterback Arnie Galiffa threw a touchdown pass to halfback Primo Villaneuva and centre Ron Baker converted.

Quarterback Don Klosterman, who returned to action after being sidelined with injuries, was a standout for Calgary.

Klosterman, obtained by Stamps from Toronto Argos, threw touchdown passes to ends Bill McKenna and Tom Miner and halfback Peter Muir. Miner converted all three.

At Edmonton before 15,000 fans, quarterback Jackie Parker and fullback Normie Kwong counted touchdowns for Eskies, Tackle Bob (the Mound) Dean converted both and kicked a field goal. Ted Heydenfeldt punted for a pair of singles.

Point scorers for Saskatchewan were halback Ken Carpenter who got the lone Roughrider touchdown and end Joe (The Toe) Aguirre who converted that touchdown and kicked a field goal.

The WIFU teams return to action Saturday with British Columbia at 146-win over British Columbia, now tied in third place with Winnipeg at Calgary.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

"Sure it's the first world series game I ever pitched. But what gives you the idea I'm nervous?"

There has hardly been a world series in which a whole host of new records didn't go into the book. Here's a thumbnail collection of general records and oddities.

The longest game went 14 innings. Jack Coombs, pitching for Philadelphia Athletics over Brooklyn, 2-1. Last year marked only the second occasion the National League (New York Giants) took four straight. Boston Braves did it in 1914.

Longest nine-inning game by time went 3 hours, 19 minutes (1947, New York Yankees vs. Brooklyn). Shortest game by time 1 hour, 25 minutes. Chicago N.L. 2, Detroit A.L. 0 at Detroit, Oct. 14, 1908.

Smallest attendance, game, 6,210 at Detroit, Oct. 14-1908. Largest attendance, game, 86,288 at Cleveland, 1948. Largest share, winning player — $11,147 Giants vs. Cleveland, 1954. Largest share, losing player, $6,712.50 to Cleveland, 1954.

Smallest share, winning player — $1,108.45 — Boston, A.L. vs. Chicago, N.L. 1918. Smallest share, losing player — $382 — Philadelphia A.L. vs. New York N.L., 1905.

Oldest pitcher to start a World Series game — John P. Quinn, A's, 1929 — 44 years, 2 months. Oldest pitcher to finish a Series game — Quinn, 43 years, 3 months — 1930. Youngest pitcher to win complete World Series game — Leslie A. Bush, A's, 1913 — 20 years, 11 months.

Winning series after winning one game and losing three—Boston, A.L. vs. Pittsburgh, 1903; Pittsburgh, N.L. vs. Washington, 1925.

Winning series after losing first three games, never accomplished.

The New York Yanks played through a five-game Series, 1937 (Giants) without making an error. Fewest errors both clubs in a seven-game Series — 6.

Triple pitching feats: Old Hoss Radbourne for Providence N.L., 1884; Bill Dineen for Red Sox, 1903; Christy Mathewson for Giants, 1905; Babe Adams for Pittsburgh, 1909; Jack Coombs for Philadelphia Athletics, 1910; Smokey Joe Wood for Boston, 1912; Harry (The Cat) Breechen for St. Louis Cardinals, 1946.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was trying to untie a knott out of a peice of string, without actually caring whether it was in there or not, and pop was smoking and thinking, and ma said to him, William, the legs of my ironing board wobble.

I'm afraid that will happen to all our legs when we arrive at a certain age, pop said, and ma said, The important question is, do you think it's within your mechanical ability to tighten them?

I'm sure of it, my dear, and what's more I'll jump up this very moment and attend to it, pop said, and ma said, Well that's good news.

It's more than that, it will be an object lesson for Benny, pop said. It's entirely too inclined to put things off instead of setting resolutely to work and getting them behind him instead of pulls his leg them ferther in frunt, of him. He's doing it right now, fiddling with that peece of string instead of coming to grips with his homework. But I must stilly study about that ironing board. I'll get right to work and finish it, he said.

Then do it, ma said, and pop said, I will, because I know very well it'll tell myself I'll do it tomorrow, or manyanna, I'll have a sprontaneous feeling that I've already done it, and the result will be that I may never do it. There, I've proved it, I've procrastinated until now I feel perfectly satisfied. Do you know, Benny, I'm sure all this has been a good lesson to you. So you think that constructed string and pitch into your homework, he said.

Which I started to, feeling agrest it, and ma said, And what about my ironing board for land sakes?

Tomorrow, my dear, pop said, and ma said, Oh such a man. Seening him.

1 N-T	Double	2 ♠	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	3 ♠
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
5 ♣	Double	All Pass

The first four doubles by west were for takeout. They were for takeout because partner had not yet bid, the bid was not more than three in a suit, and the doubles were at first opportunity.

Each time north intervened with a bid, east was relieved of the obligation to respond to the double for takeout. When north passed the fourth takeout double, east was forced to bid something. His best choice of responses to a takeout double is any four cards or more in an unbid major suit. Having such, east bid three spades; the lowest bid, possible in spades at the time he replied.

Being forced to bid, east may not have a trick in his hand; a possibility at the west takeout doubler must take into consideration. Therefore, west must be prepared for any east reply.

The first three doubles by west were within range of the tricks he had. The fourth double was slightly extended with a trick short of rule requirements. However, a stretch by defender is excusable.

When he voluntarily raised to four spades, he expected too much of himself. He could have used a couple more good blockers.

Hollywood Mourns J. Dean, Strange, Brooding Genius

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sudden death has erased from the Hollywood scene a strange, brooding acting genius named James Dean.

His death at 24 in a highway crash followed within two months of the loss of two other young movie performers. Both Suzan Ball who died of cancer, and Robert Francis, killed in an air crash at 25, held acting promise.

Dean's promise had been fulfilled. His first big film, "East of Eden," provided a faster rise to stardom than even Marlon Brando had. Dean will probably be nominated for a posthumous Academy Award for his moody playing of the Steinbeck hero.

He may well be also nominated for his performance in "Giant." The shooting on that film was scheduled to end the day after he was killed. All of Dean's scenes had been completed.

UNPREDICTABLE LAD

Dean was as colorful a new figure as Hollywood had seen in recent years. His unpredictable behavior became the talk of the town. When a big luncheon was given for the press at the beginning of "Giant," he showed up late, dressed in blue jeans.

His star was strangely connected with Brando's. Some critics accused Dean of imitating the older actor in "East of Eden." Their styles were somewhat similar because both had been directed by Elia Kazan, who believes actors should act naturally.

In other ways, he seemed to follow the Brando legend. He often dressed sloppily in jeans, T-shirt and leather jacket; he rode a motorcycle and played bongo drums.

Conscious of the similarity, Brando told Dean when they met at a party: "You ought to see a psychiatrist."

Dean once told me he was convinced Brando liked him. Dean indicated, however, such was not the case.

"I don't particularly like the dwelling on the comparison of Marlon and me," Dean remarked. "But there's nothing particular I can do about it."

HOBBY BROUGHT DEATH

He added that his motorcycle riding was no imitation. But recently he became more interested in sports cars.

It was in his new Porsche sports car that Dean met death last Friday.

Hollywood gossips say there was only one love in Dean's life. That was Pier Angeli, the dark-eyed Italian beauty. Reports were that

AT THE CAPITOL — "The underworld of Berlin and London set the scene for Edgar Wallace's "A Prize of Gold" today and Wednesday, starring Richard Widmark, at the Capitol Theatre in color by Technicolor. Mai Zetterling, Nigel Patrick, James Robertson Justice and Donald Wolfit complete the supporting cast. The first chapter of "Hunt Down Against the Sunset" starts up and the bounds Kim Novak, with Guy Madison and Brian Keith.

AT THE BELLE

"The Adventures of Sadie"
Hilarious Desert Isle Comedy

Joan Rice and Terence Morgan, a desert island comedy released by Twentieth Century-Fox, in color is showing 7-day at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

Filmed on the Isle of Majorca, off the coast of Spain, in color, starring Joan Collins in the title role and Kenneth More, George Cole and Robertson Hare. A special guest star, Hermione Gingold, one of England's great comedienne, is also featured in the film which deals with one girl being marooned on a desert island with three men.

On the same program for contrast is the suspense feature chock film of the year—"Burnt Evidence", co-starring Jane Hylton, Hugh Sinclair and Donald Gray.

It's a double-header Laugh — Thrill show Today at the Belle Theatre, with the popular Belle-World News Feature. The last complete show Tonight starts at 8.30 p.m.

she had changed him and he even donned a tuxedo to escort her to premiere.

One Saturday evening they had their last date together. That afternoon she had accepted the proposal of marriage of singer Vic Damone. Friends said Dean was morose over her marriage. He returned to his uninhibited ways and played the field romantically.

PICTON
Helen Bradley Now Qualified Pilot at 16

PICTON — Helen Bradley, 16-year old Collegiate student, is now a qualified pilot from and after October 28, her 17th birthday, before she is able to obtain her license from the Department of Transport. Helen passed her flying tests with flying colors on Monday. As her father, Mel Bradley, is instructor of Prince Edward Flying Club, Miss Felicity Bennett, assistant instructor of Kingston Flying Club, conducted the tests. Helen's mark was 93.6%, the highest ever awarded by the local club and the second highest ever awarded by the Kingston club. A score of 85 is considered excellent.

Helen hopes to become an airline stewardess. When she receives her licence this month she will become Canada's youngest licensed pilot.

SEEKS U. S. CITIZENSHIP

NEW YORK (AP)—The 22-year-old brother of the Dalai Lama of Tibet arrived Monday night in quest of American citizenship. Despa Rabakar Tagster, himself a Buddhist leader, entered the United States after fleeing from Communist-occupied Tibet with a visa granted under the Refugee Relief Act. The church World Service acted as his sponsor.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, Oct. 5, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Fine Sun and Moon rays encourage personal and occupational interests, especially industry, trades, mechanics. Sensible caution urged in investments, expenditures, new projects.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Advancement indicated in useful activities, dealing with those in authority, for superiors, government officials. Conferences, highly favored. Travel also sponsored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — A progressive day indicated but don't be disappointed if you are not as full of new and clever ideas as usual. Good planning and management will be needed.

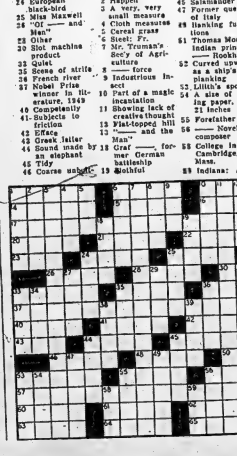
June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — A peak period with your Moon, the Sun and Uranus in auspicious aspects. The use of new and unusual ideas, methods and equipment, can bring fresh advantages. But shun dissension.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Stimulating, enlivening vibrations for familiar matters and new projects. Also favored: industry, trades, building, railroading and government. Employer and employee equally honored.

August 23 to September 22 — (Virgo) — No restrictive influences apparent but some very fine ones working for your achievement. Fresh gains, good prospects on the way. Don't drive yourself too hard mentally.

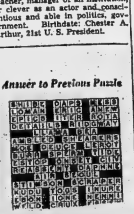
September 24 to October 23 — (Libra) — You industrious, conscientious folks can read much good from this day's pleasant, helpful influences. It can be your day if you manage as intelligently and smartly as you can. Have high hopes.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — A bright and prosperous outlook today for work, seeking new clients, new business, advancing your interests in every honorable way. Handle things in their proper order.



November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius) — If you have several matters to attend to, tackle everything in a calm and systematic manner. Weed out the unessentials promptly.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Be specific and careful about details, but do not be fussy or over-cautious. Let your naturally good business sense guide you, but also capitalize on the experience of others.



January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — This may be just the day for reviewing rather than going ahead and having to retrace or re-do later. But don't hesitate to move forward in anything well started and thoroughly understood.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Superstition, criticism, doubts and fears are all trouble-makers. See that they are eliminated from your thoughts. Steadiness stressed.

You born today have Saturn and Venus on your natal planets. There is great talent and a desire for learning in this sector, also solid practicality and artistry. Yet there also may be a tendency to an unsettled disposition. It is important that you develop consistency of effort and don't live beyond your income. You could be shrewd in business, and innately wise in judgment of people as well as projects upon which to work. You can become a splendid lawyer, teacher, manager of an institution, or clever as an actor and comedienne and able in politics, government. Birthdate: Chester A. Arthur, 21st U. S. President.

Policy Decisions Of United Nations Are Criticized

TORONTO (CP) — Marvin Gelber, national president of the United Nations Association in Canada, Monday criticized the Canadian government and the United Nations for recent policy decisions.

He said there has been "widespread disappointment" that Canada's contribution to the Colombo Plan was increased by only $1,000,000 this year and charged that France has been "deliberately embarrassed" by the UN in its decision to debate the Algerian question.

The Colombo plan, directed at helping the receiving country toward economic recovery, should have more substantial Canadian help, Mr. Gelbert said in an address to the southern Ontario conference of Rotary International here.

"The problem of underdeveloped countries is not a serious concern, and we must give high priority to the welfare of impoverished peoples."

The role of the UN, he said, should be conciliation and arbitration.

IMPORTANT SUPPORT

Mr. Gelbert said Rotary International in giving its whole-hearted support to the work of the UN, is making an important contribution toward settlement of international disputes.

Kenneth Partridge, Canadian director of Rotary International urged Rotarians to make public service a reality rather than a part-time dedication to community welfare.

"You are never off duty as a Rotarian," he said, and asked that the club's welfare work be stepped up.

The convention is the first held by the combined District 246, consisting of 40 clubs between Lake Ontario and Trenton, west of the district and convention host is Maurice Rector of Leaside.

Armored Units Renew Attacks On Two Areas

FEZ, Morocco (Reuters) — Armored units of the French Foreign Legion today continued their counter-offensive against the separatist areas of rebellion in Morocco.

Fighter planes and tanks of the legion renewed their attacks at dawn today on 2,000 fierce Marmoucha tribesmen concentrated on hills overlooking the small French post of Centenaire in the Middle Atlas mountains east of here. The tribesmen sacked the town of Immouzer Sunday, killing twelve men, women and children and setting the whole town ablaze.

About 100 persons were believed killed in the two attacks.

At Immouzer, the tribesmen worried the town with continual sniping throughout Sunday night and most of Monday. They retreated to the hills Monday upon the arrival of strong French reinforcements, but only after disembowelling 11 whites and mutilating the bodies of two babies, decimating the garrison of Moroccan soldiers surrounding the garrison's French commander and sergeant, and ransacking the armory.

Pearson Leaves Paris for Berlin

PARIS (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson left for Berlin at 8:40 a.m. Monday aboard an RCAF plane. He will spend the day in Berlin and leave Wednesday morning for the visit to Moscow.

Before departing on the third leg of his round-the-world trip, Pearson conferred with Mitchell W. Sharp, Canadian assistant deputy minister of trade and commerce, on the forthcoming trade talks with Russia.

Sharp flew here Monday and will accompany Pearson to Moscow as trade adviser. He will not take part in later stages of the minister's round-the-world trip.

In his stay here, Pearson has talked with some old acquaintances in the French foreign office and the French diplomatic corps. Parleys caused by the French decision on the Algerian vote in the United Nations probably was among the subjects raised, but only in an informal way.

The Canadian minister's statement Monday explaining the UN vote to take up the Algerian question was widely played in the French press.

Wingham Wins First Playoff From Madoc

Outscoring Madoc 8-1 Wingham gained a one game lead in the best of three series for the Ontario Juvenile "C" championship. They resume their battle this Saturday in Madoc.

Receiving strong pitching from Lancaster, Wingham kept Madoc off the score sheet until the fifth when the visitors scored an unearned run, Bateman scoring after getting a life on an error.

The home team chalked up one run in the second on Lancaster's double and Haughton's single. They sewed up the game in the third scoring three runs off three singles and two Madoc errors.

In the fifth they plated two more as they punched out three hits and scored on another error by Madoc miscue. They completed the scoring in the sixth with Scott and Murray making the circuit on their hits.

Campbell for the winners slammed out three hits while Bain collected two safeties. Lancaster helped his own cause with a double.

B. Tufts paced Madoc with two singles while R. Bateman, M. Johnston, C. Whiteman and W. Shaw had one safety.

Lancaster for Wingham allowed 5 hits while striking out 8 and walking 4 and pitching very good ball in the clutch leaving 10 runners stranded.

W. Shaw toiled all the way for the losers giving up 11 hits while issuing one strike out and walking none.

Juvenile Held After Breaking Into Station

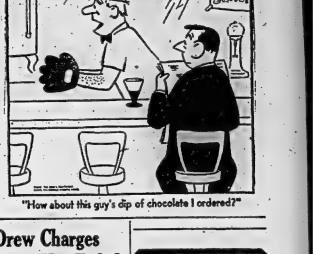
A 12-year-old juvenile was apprehended in Hatfield and Detective Sergeant Hewitson on the Dundas St. East, early today.

Provincial constables think noticed that the night lights at the service station were out and as he went to check the building found a movement inside. He called for assistance and with the arrival of Constables Foster and Richardson a further check disclosed the juvenile in the building. He was turned over to the juvenile and family court.

Entry to the building had been gained through breaking a back window.

Crushed to Death

OSHAWA (CP) — James Atherton, 67, of Toronto, was killed instantly when crushed by his automobile as it rolled and skidded 200 feet on Highway 401 near the Fairport beach road in Pickering township.



A passenger, William Bambridge, 21, also of Toronto, suffered shock and bruises and was taken to hospital.

Police said they believed excessive speed caused the crash.

Drew Charges Govt. Has Failed To Promote Sales

EDMONTON (CP)—Progressive Conservative leader George Drew said Monday the federal government has failed to promote strongly sales of Canadian wheat.

He told a press conference the government has set itself up as the only market for wheat, then fallen down in planning an aggressive selling campaign.

Canada could enter arrangements with the United Kingdom and the Commonwealth countries in which the dollar-sterling barrier could be overcome, Mr. Drew said. Canada could come closer to full convertibility than any other country since it deals so widely with both the United States and the sterling bloc.

"How to get rid of stored?" asked Mr. Drew. "Sell it. The question of price does not enter into the problem. The government just has not been vigorous in selling."

FOUND $43,800, GETS "THANK YOU" FROM LADY LOSER

Earl Valentine, 53, a Detroit truck driver who received only a "thanks" for returning $43,800, has reason to wonder if honesty is the best policy. Valentine was driving his truck when he spotted a cloth purse on the side of the road. He pulled his tractor-trailer to a stop and had just picked up the pocketbook when a car drew up. A woman got out and said "you have my purse." She thanked him and drove away.

SELL TTC HEAD OFFICE

4,800 Workers Will Formally Reject Offer

TORONTO (CP) — Meetings will be held in Toronto, Brantford and Woodstock this week by 4,800 employees of Massey-Harris-Ferguson Ltd, to "formally reject" a government conciliation board report that doesn't recommend a thing.

The three-man board made no recommendations in its report into a dispute involving the workers' demand for a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase. The report was released Monday.

The board said it was "frustrated" by the United Automobile Workers union (CIO-CCL) while inquiring into the dispute.

The board, headed by Judge J.C. Reynolds of Kingston, said "there can be no doubt that the company presented a well-reasoned case in support of its position, but in the absence of any reply from the union in respect to the company's proposals for a settlement, the usual conciliatory procedures were completely frustrated and the board is, therefore, unable to express any opinion as to the merits of union demands."

EXPECT REJECTION

Phil Kearns, UAW local president at the Toronto plant, said membership meetings will be held Wednesday in Brantford, Thursday in Toronto and Friday in Woodstock to vote on the report. It is expected to be formally rejected by the workers involved.

The union's partial boycott of the conciliation board followed the walkout of UAW Canadian chief director of industrial relations, told the board the union's stand was unfair to employees because it deprived them of the opportunity to have their case judged by an impartial body.

POINTS TO U.S.

Mr. Kearns said the union's determination to seek wage increases was strengthened by the fact that Mr. Scott signed a contract for the Massey-Harris plant in Detroit last Thursday which granted annual six-cent wage increases for three years, provided an extra two cents an hour for skilled workers, a fully-paid hospital plana and a guaranteed annual wage fund to be set up next year.

The conciliation board commented that Massey-Harris-Ferguson earnings in Canada were shown to have dropped substantially between 1950 and 1954. It reported, without comment, the company's position that wages in Canada must be related to the company's earnings in Canada.

Mr. Siren for the union, told the board that U.S. farm implement factories had recently reached settlements ranging from 23 to 34 cents an hour.

NELLY CAN'T GO TO JOIN "PAPA"

In the Buenos Aires apartment of Nelly Rivas, 18-year-old girl friend of deposed Argentinian president Peron, police found jewelry and cash valued at $46,000, gifts from the 50-year-old dictator. Before fleeing to Paraguay, Peron sent notes to Nelly asking her to join him, but the present Argentinian authorities doubt that Nelly will leave the country to be with her "little papa" as Peron called himself in letters to her.

George Burt from a conciliation board sitting in the General Motors dispute.

Paul Siren, UAW international representative, told the Massey-Harris board that the UAW felt settlement could be reached only after the board had reported to the minister of labor—and the union was then free to strike.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was walking along with Glasses Magee just walking along, and Glasses said G, something's up.

Which there was, being 2 kids fighting, and there was a little crowd around them including a big man with a cap on, and a little man with glasses stopped going past, saying, Goodness, this is shocking, I mean really, I'm shocked.

Yeah, I'm shocked too, the big man said, and the man with glasses said, You are nothing of the kind, you are delibrity encouraging them. How can a grown man stand idly by and allow such a disgraceful exhibition? he said.

Aw, they're evenly matched, let them fight it out, the big man said, and the man with glasses said, It's people like you that cause juvenile delinquency, aren't you ashamed of yourself?

No I aint, and how would you like a punch in the face yourself? the big man said. For 2 pins I'd muss you all up, he said, and the man with glasses said, Oh really? Well just try it, and you'll get some needles with your pins, you big bully, he said.

Which by that time the 2 kids had stopped fighting to see the excitement, one kid saying to the big man, Are you going to let that little guy talk to you like that? and the other kid saying to the man with glasses, Dont be afraid of that big stiff, mister, you can lick him easy.

Cleer out of here, both you kids, or I'll bock your heads together, the big man said, and the man with glasses said, You bad boys, I'll hand you over to an officer.

And they both made a grab at the 2 kids and the 2 kids ran away scared.

Being the end of the excitement and proving most people would rather see a fight than be in one.

QUESTION SUSPECT IN VANCOUVER ARSON CASE

21st Incendiary Blaze Since Aug. 1 Kills 4

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police and fire officers were to continue questioning a man today in connection with a three-building fire that took four lives here Tuesday.

The blaze, the city's worst in eight years, was the 21st suspected incendiary fire since Aug. 1.

"It's a very serious matter right now," said acting fire chief R. H. Pinkerton.

Worried businessmen and residents in the West End district where the fire broke out were reported favoring a "citizens' patrol" to try to cope with the high number of incendiary fires. Forty-seven have been reported this year.

SEEN NEAR SCENE

Police took a man, about 35, to headquarters less than three hours after the fire started. Officers said he had been seen at the fire scene and was picked up in a nearby coffee shop.

The man's name was not disclosed. He was held overnight at the city jail.

An apartment block nearing completion and two wooden rooming houses were razed by flames. Another dwelling was damaged.

Dead are Mrs. Elizabeth Kerr, about 90, and Mrs. Mary Anderson, a retired railroad employee, Albert Henry Bowyer. His 80-year-old wife, Mrs. Mary Eleanor Stranks, and Doreen Powell, 43, a drug store clerk.

Flames from the unoccupied apartment building set fire to the house before the victims could be warned by two police constables.

Chief Pinkerton said, "The fire couldn't get away that fast unless it was deliberately set."

Provincial Farm Legislation Validity Will Be Considered

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal-provincial conference today decided on an examination of the validity of provincial farm legislation, an informant at the closed meeting said.

He said a committee of provincial and federal representatives is to be set up to consult with the federal justice department.

The action was taken, he said, after Premier Frost of Ontario expressed some fears as to the legality of the legislation.

After disposing of this question, the delegation member reported, the conference turned to the problem of marketing western grain. A Saskatchewan delegation member said his province intends to press for cash payments to farmers against farm - stored grain, which has been piling up this year.

Manitoba also presented arguments seeking to join in this demand, though it was not known whether their ideas coincided on how the cash should be provided.

Premier Frost said the farm marketing problem is a "very pressing one." Many of the provinces had evidence marketing boards and there was a question of whether they had the power under existing legislation to levy fees and impose licences.

Unless some federal - provincial action was taken to tighten up legislation, the schemes might be "in varying degrees of jeopardy."

Air of Cautious Optimism Regarding President's Health

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

But there has been no let-up whatsoever in the physicians' around-the-clock vigilance, because the coronary thrombosis danger period after a heart attack won't be up until Saturday.

But the Eisenhower family and relations are beginning to relax a bit. Thursday would be the first few days-and of last Sunday night again when the President's wife, Mrs. Eisenhower has lifted noticeably.

The reason for that is found in the medical bulletins from the president's bedside such as this one issued Tuesday night:

"The president had another good day. His condition continues to be entirely free of any complications."

There are these latest signs of how the folks closest to the chief executive are perking up and relaxing slightly:

1. Mrr. Eisenhower took in a movie picture Tuesday night at the Fitzimons Army Hospital auditorium. It was her first real relaxation since she moved into a room across the hall from the president's bedroom after he was taken to the hospital Sept. 24.

2. The telephone in the guest room was installed a few days ago near Eisenhower's eighth floor suite with a view of the Rockies. The motion picture himself eventually. That probably was until the latter days of his hospitalization.

2. Mrs. Eisenhower's mother and relations are beginning to relax a bit. Thursday would be the first few days-and of last Sunday night again when the president's wife, Mrs. Eisenhower and the sisters' mother, Mrs. Jane Doud, left Denver.

3. The president, a doting grandfather, got a powerful, morale - boosting gift from Granddaughter Barbara Anne Eisenhower.

4. Eisenhower, in perhaps the best reflection of his continuing good humor, signed another half-dozen government documents, the largest number in anyone day since he was stricken.

GREEK PREMIER PAPAGOS DIES, CRISIS FEARED

National Hero's Death Threatens Coalition

By DIMITRI TRAVLOS
ATHENS (AP) — Greece faces the possibility of a serious political crisis following the death of Premier Alexander Papagos, the national hero.

Field Marshal Papagos, 71-year-old victor over the Italians in the Second World War and the Communists in 1949, died Tuesday night of heart exhaustion following a lung hemorrhage. He had been confined to his home since January with gastric troubles resulting from wartime imprisonment in a Nazi camp.

Members of the premier's Conservative Greek Rally party plan to meet after his funeral Friday in an effort to reweld party unity and settle on a successor.

The party, a coalition of various political groups, has come near to dissolution since the premier's illness upheld ilod many of his unifying influence. Only Tuesday Papagos had nominated Foreign Minister Stephan Stephapoulos to be provisional premier during his illness, but this automatically ceased with the premier's death.

President Eisenhower and the army general staff when Mussolini threw three legions into Greece Oct. 28, 1940. Dictator John Metaxas named him commander of all Greek forces, and his generals directed operated victories over the Italians and German panzer divisions in Yugoslavia and Bulgaria) avaded in the spring of 1941.

Eight years later Papagos took command of the three-year-old war against the Communist guerrillas in the northern mountains of Greece. Given dictatorial powers and large-scale United States aid, he won the war in six months.

Major Differences At Conference Still Unsolved

Provinces Want Higher Basis for Tax Rentals

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal and provincial government heads today got back to the major issue of joint taxation arrangements after roving through other topics at their fiscal conference.

And indications were the federal government would face renewed objections from provinces against entering into new tax rental agreements or alternatives on terms laid down by the central authority.

Provinces favoring renegotiated rental pacts have made it clear they want a higher basis of payment, and Tuesday it became known the federal alternative to tax rentals has met largely with a cool reception.

"The provinces feel the money they will receive isn't adequate," Prime Minister St. Laurent said to reporters Tuesday at the close of the second conference day and the first day of closed meetings.

He said no more.

The taxation question, central theme of the meeting, was one of three topics under discussion Thursday. The government chiefs discussed the federal alternative to tax rentals in the morning and then turned it over to a committee of officials.

Meanwhile, the general conference launched into a discussion of national health insurance and eventually referred the subject to a committee of health and finance ministers which is to hold its first meeting Thursday.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said after the meeting he does not know whether the committee will be able to report back to the general conference before it ends possibly late in the week.

The possibility appeared the conference may come to an end either Thursday or Friday without reaching any firm decision on new tax-sharing proposals. Provincial informants said that negotiations developing out of the federal proposals may take some time.

MAY RECESS

It appeared the conference might be recessed after the week with the decision to reconvene it possibly in a month's time.

Life a Failure Wails Jap Nude Stripped of Job

TOKYO (AP) — Another Tokyo burlesque house is going legit.

France-ze announced that next Monday it will abandon nudity—in Japan, strip tease is all right as long as no tease-ease "original light comedy."

It's the 13th burlesque house to fold since the end of the Korean War.

Nearly unclad beauties are displaying their physical assets where once there were more than 1,000.

One theatre used to parade 100 beautiful nudes on stage at one time. Today it has 20.

One young girl, jobless with France-za's closing, talked decidedly of suicide because "my whole life is a failure." She was all of 18.

"Quit crying," chided a 25-year-old veteran of the strip stage. "All we got to do is learn to wear clothes."

Faure, Adenauer Confer to Halt Rift Over Saar

LUXEMBOURG (AP)— French Premier Faure and West German Chancellor Adenauer met hurriedly here today in an attempt to prevent another rift in Western unity if the Saar rejects the "European" future planned for it.

The Saarlanders vote in a referendum Oct. 23 whether to accept the European statute intended to bring their rich coal and steel valley under control of the organization Western European Union. The majority of the valley's German-speaking people are expected to reject the statute.

The French plainly hoped Adenauer would subscribe to some joint declaration that might convince the Saarlanders they would be better off in a "Europeanized" territory under the WEU. French officials said the only alternative is maintenance of the present situation by which France dominates the Saar.

Woman Leaps Off High Bridge Near Detroit

DETROIT (CP) — A 55-year-old woman Tuesday became the first person to leap off the 150-foot high Ambassador bridge and live.

Police said Mrs. Margaret Coon of Detroit made the leap from the centre of the span which links Windsor and Detroit across the busy Detroit river. They said she was rescued from a mail boat.

Receiving hospital officials Tuesday night described her condition as critical. They said she was suffering from internal injuries.

A witness told police a car stopped beside the woman, apparently to offer her a ride, and she immediately jumped over the railing and leaped into the choppy water.

GM Strike Is Ruled Legal By Labor Relations Board

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's labor relations board has thrown out the application of several Motors of Canada which sought to have the strike started two weeks ago by its 17,000 employees declared illegal.

The announcement today said three of the five members of the board who ruled on the case were split in their views.

Chairman Jacob Finkelman and Dave Archer, a labor representative; found the union had complied with Ontario' labor laws before striking.

George F. Ferguson, representative of the management, dissented.

Throughout the legal battle, direct negotiations between GM and the auto union have carried on. Bargaining teams still have to clean up plant problems at Oshawa and Windsor before again tackling monetary issues affecting every striker.

DISAGREE ON WORDING

George Burt, Canadian director of the union, commented:

"The decision was the only one that could be made on the law. I hope the company now will abandon its approach through technicalities in seeking a way out of its problems and take a broad and sympathetic approach to the problems of the GM workers."

The company said to have the strike declared unlawful because of the wording in a five - year agreement with the union which expired June 11. The company said the union did give it an official 60 days' notice to "terminate" the contract. Instead it had merely asked to have the contract "amended."

REPORTS VARY

While chairman Finkelman and Mr. Archer agreed on the legality of the strike, they submitted written reports that varied in both respects.

Other board members, Russell Harvey and H. F. Irwin, did not vote in the final decision. Mr. Harvey said, however, that he concurred with Mr. Archer.

Chairman Finkelman found that the act superseded the terms of the agreement between the company the parties sought to set up a scheme for what might be called "secondary termination" of the agreement. This, he said, was in conflict with Ontario's labor legislation.

Mr. Ferguson contended the union tried to create a state of doubt as a means of avoiding the consequences of its own failure to take the proper steps plainly stipulated in the agreement" affecting termination of the contract.

Climaxing an eight-year campaign to win a place on train scheduler, the villagers stage a periodic strike by massing on the tracks and giving the engineer the option of stopping or mass slaughter. He stops, but on non-strike days it's here-she-comes, there-she-goes.

Four-Car Crash Sends 2 Persons To Hospital

OAKVILLE (CP) — Two persons were sent to hospital Tuesday night following a four-car highway collision.

Mrs. Gabriel Gauthier, 43, of Geneva, a passenger in a car driven by Mrs. Marla Spada, 45, of St. Catharines, received chest injuries. Mrs. Ferdinand Pardiac, 34, of Laverzne, Que., suffered head injuries when thrown from a car driven by her husband.

Police said Mrs. Pardiac car collided with a car driven by Fred Ferguson, 30, of Toronto, after pushing it into the rear of another driven by George L. Buffett, 32, of Scarborough. The Pardiac car then bounced into the car driven by Mrs. Spada.

Labor Strife Hits Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) Army troops today surrounded three packing houses here as labor-government strife seemed amid reports the once all-powerful Argentine General Confederation of Labor is splitting.

Labor leaders complained to the government that dissidents are seizing control of key units of the giant labor organization which helped boost Juan Peron to the presidency.

It was still too early to say whether three rifts spelled doom for the CGT's Peronista faction which, despite the dictator's overthrow, is still the most powerful labor command would strengthen the power of the military - backed junta headed by provisional president Eduardo Lonardi who dethroned Peron.

Move Reported Afoot in UN To Delay Debate on Algeria

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) Informed sources say a move is afoot in the United Nations to defer debate on France's Algerian dispute and other hot issues until tempers cool.

The informants said the political committee at its opening session today would get a proposal to start debate with the atoms-for-peace program and avoid scheduling other items for the time being.

Still shaken by France's walkout, most delegates are loath to run into a wrangle over Algeria that might prompt the French to quit the UN altogether.

Most delegates also are anxious to avoid any controversy that might upset the international atmosphere before the Big Four foreign ministers meet in Geneva Oct. 27.

Atomic energy is considered a relatively safe topic to discuss at this stage, with little danger of East-West clashes.

Moroccan Rebels Stab Hard At Hard-Pressed Frenchmen

By CARL HARTMAN

RABAT, French Morocco (AP)— Moroccan nationalists stabbed today at hard-pressed French forces in relentless guerrilla attacks for the fifth straight day in the rugged Rif mountains. The fighting echoed all the way to Paris, jeopardizing the future of Edgar Faure's coalition government.

Nationalist leader Mohammed Lyazidi warned that the resurgence of terrorism "is bound to get worse" if the French do not speed their plan for Moroccan reforms. There are indications that Faure's program may be delayed even longer or possibly scrapped.

Lyazidi said that "if the French had kept their promises, the (fighting) might not have happened." He referred to agreements hammered out by the French and nationalists calling for removal of pro-French Sultan Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa, creation of a Moroccan regency, formation of a new Moroccan government and gradual ing of authority to Moslems in the protectorate.

The only point fulfilled thus far has been the removal of the sultan to the international city of Tangier. Gen. Pierre Boyer de Latour, new French resident-general, said Tuesday night he was working for a "solution to the problem of the throne acceptable to all."

Boyer de Latour made no mention of a regency council, and Moroccan newspapers claim he does not intend to form one.

Reports from the area were still sketchy today, but the worst fighting appeared concentrated about 50 miles south of Fez and within a few miles of the Spanish Morocco, in the Rif range.

Two French military posts were reported still encircled by rebels. They are Taounate, 50 miles south of the Spanish protectorate line, and Bab Marzouka, 15 miles west. Bourard and five miles from the frontier.

Foreign legionnaires supported by planes are trying to reach the besieged garrisons. Rebel forces in the mountains and automatic weapons fire on the rescue force slowed the operation, semi-official French sources said.

At Taounate, another French outpost in the narrow corridor of French Morocco between Spanish Morocco and Algeria and only 25 miles south of an American radar station at Sadia on the Mediterranean coast, the French reported a relief column. They said they had split an attacking rebel band, forcing the guerrillas to retreat toward Spanish Morocco and the other toward Algeria.

About 200 Americans, including women and children, are at Sadia. This post and other radar stations function in connection with the new American air bases in Morocco. There are four United States heavy bomber bases and one naval air base. Thus far no Americans have been involved in the French-nationalist clashes, although some have had narrow escapes.

Body of Baby Taken by Thief

TORONTO (CP) — The body of a baby, stolen from a funeral director's home a week ago, has been recovered, police said today.

They said the body of the child, a small boy, and the thief apparently thought he had taken a newborn baby with him, was left in a department store.

The baby died in the Hospital for Sick Children. In these cases, police said, the body is taken away in a small bag.

The bag was taken from the funeral director's car while he was in a restaurant.

Czech Walker Arrives at Chatham, Now Will Seek 'Tennisthon' Record

CHATHAM (CP) — Once the crazed man of planning, Canadian rockathons . . . marathons . . . walkathons.

Now, it's a tennisthon.

The latest in the mania for unusual endurance tests began Thursday night when Robert Mendil said he plans to break the record for continuous table tennis playing.

Word of his latest stunt came less than 24 hours after the 24-year - old Czech stumbled and reeled into Chatham to set a walkathon record. He walked 540 miles non-stop from Montreal in 175 hours.

Mendil, a Toronto bookbinder, wants to eclipse the present table tennis marathon record set 15 years ago by two Indians. Vyas Ramahoo and Ramchand Sultana paddled the celluloid ball back and forth for 41 hours in Bombay in 1940.

Already the Ontario table tennis champion, Mendil also holds three other crowns. He is central Canadian, southern Ontario and Manitoba table tennis king.

Resting here after his record walk, Mendil has been pronounced fit but fatigued by doctors. A Chatham theatre has offered its facilities for the tenathon and he has accepted.

Four Accused Of Chicago Running Most Unusual 'Milk Route'

CHICAGO (AP) — Society girls of the Junior League are running one of the country's most unusual milk routes.

Junior leaguers of suburban Evanston cruise around in their automobiles, pick up "spare" breast milk from cerrials nursing mothers at their homes daily in liquid form and used for routine feeding at the premature nursery in the Evanston hospital, now covering 10 communities near Evanston — milk that is pasteurized and stored in frozen condition. This milk is banked until needed for emergency use, when it is thawed, sterilized and distributed.

Dr. Kimball said there are six other known "milk banks" in the United States "but the Evanston milk bank is the only one in America that is absolutely free." There is no charge to the donating mothers and no charge for giving it to babies.

Mothers who donate milk for the bank, "pump" it themselves in their homes, using an electrical breast pump furnished by the Junior League. The society girls, who offered to help collect milk for the bank, purchased 22 electric pumps at a cost of $120 each and they are now in use in busy operation. They also teach mothers to bottle the milk and refrigerate it.

On the "local" Evanston route the girls pick up daily in liquid form and used for routine feeding at the premature nursery in the Evanston hospital, now covering 10 communities near Evanston — milk that is pasteurized and stored in frozen condition. This milk is banked until needed for emergency use, when it is thawed, sterilized and distributed.

Woman Leaps Off High Bridge Near Detroit

DETROIT (CP) — A 55-year-old woman Tuesday became the first person to leap off the 150-foot high Ambassador bridge and live.

Police said Mrs. Margaret Coon of Detroit made the leap from the centre of the span which links Windsor and Detroit across the busy Detroit river. They said she was rescued from a mail boat.

Receiving hospital officials Tuesday night described her condition as critical. They said she was suffering from internal injuries.

A witness told police a car stopped beside the woman, apparently to offer her a ride, and she immediately jumped over the railing and leaped into the choppy water.

PREDICTS BAY WILL BECOME VAST SEWER

A writer in Saturday Night predicts the Bay of Quinte "will become a vast sewer in five years." Raw sewage and industrial waste from the Trent, Moira and Napanee Rivers, he claims, are turning the once pure waters of this finest of natural fishing grounds into a "stinking, dirty mess."

LACK OF COLD WEATHER KEEPING FALL DUCKS AWAY

Lack of cold weather is keeping black ducks and other fall species close to their haunts around the northern beaver marshes, a Lands and Forests official at Tweed said today. The situation is general all over the district. Teal are reported plentiful in all parts of the hunting district, while woodduck are on a par with those of last year.

A shorted battery in a car owned by J. Huffman, Gilbert street, caused fire and a run to the fire dress early this morning. Firemen said the short circuit blaze damaged the front seat of the auto before it was extinguished.

EXPECT 200 HEAD OF CATTLE AT SHOW

"Black and White" winners of Hastings County are eligible, with those of other Ontario counties to participate in the East Ontario Dairymen's Association's Holstein championships being held in Peterborough October 7. James R. Henderson, Frankford, has been given the judging assignment. Some 200 entries from the ten counties representing the area are expected to be on hand.

TORONTO ANGLERS HAD NO LUCK

Twenty-five anglers of the Toronto Rod and Gun Club visited Twelve O'Clock Point the other day, intent on hitting the finny beauties reported lurking in nearby waters. But nary a nibble did they get, although they used every conceivable kind of bait for two hours. Just before they left, a local gent flipped a line in the water and in a minute or so came up with a seven-pound pike.

Special Report Calls for Sweeping Changes in Party

LONDON (Reuters) — Sweeping changes in the structure of the Labor party are called for in a special report published today, which observers say will be the biggest election issue last May through bad organization.

The biting report, drawn up by a committee appointed by the party leadership, is likely to bring bitter recriminations at Labor's weeklong annual conference opening Monday.

In a blunt analysis containing 40 recommendations, the report says: "Even a limited improvement in organization could be won on the election, if only by a narrow margin."

The 30,000-word document gives Labor's organization its worst blasting in party history. It will be debated in a closed-door session by delegates of the 6,400,000 member movement.

The proposed Labor shakeup, at a cost of an extra $60,000 annually, includes the appointment of top party leaders as a permanent directorate supervising organization.

The report says that except in a few areas, the Labor party's voluntary workers were "fewer and less enthusiastic than at any previous time."

It blames this on apathy, party squabbles, disillusionment with the way nationalization of industry had been presented to the public and the "scare" that a Labor government would bring back food rationing in Britain.

The report expresses "deep concern" at evidence that Labor is "losing party" and that in the vast majority of areas it is "relatively failing to appeal to youth."

New Eight-Roomed Addition For St. Michael's Academy

Construction of a new eight-roomed addition to St. Michael's Academy will get underway this week with general contractors the Tatham Company Ltd. of Belleville starting preliminary excavation work.

The new two-storey addition headed up the building list for the month of September with the building permit calling for an expenditure of $112,000. Thirty-five building permits of all classes were issued by City Building Inspector Adam Stalker. Total value of permits issued was $292,000.

The new addition to St. Michael's Separate school will be a completely separate structure from the present building. A subway will connect the two buildings on completion. The school will be of concrete block construction faced with brick. Consideration is being given to heat the addition with boilers in the present school.

Permits for a new Canadian Tire Corporation store on Coleman street at Harriett, and a new Regent Oil service station at the corner of North Front and Harvey streets went to swell the month's building total. The Canadian Tire Corporation store will cost an eight-motor bay and the new service station $20,000.

Eleven new dwellings or repairs to dwellings permits for which amounted to over $500, were included in the month's building total.

Golden Wedding Anniversary Attended by Many Guests

Over 100 friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. William K. McCaw, Colborne Street, called at their home on Thursday afternoon and evening, on the occasion of their Golden Wedding anniversary.

The living and dining rooms were brightened with baskets and vases of golden blooms, most of which had been presented by the couple on this happy occasion, including a basket of yellow mums from St. John's Church, Wellington, and a table bouquet of yellow shasta and baby mums from Tweed A.F.&A.M. of which Mr. McCaw has been a member for 49 years. The corsage bouquet of yellow mums and tonnicre, worn by the couple were the gifts of Mrs. H. Countryman.

The golden wedding gifts covered a large land in the dining rooms, including a copper-covered tea pot from Tweed Fair Board. Mr. McCaw is a lover of horses, was a member of the Tweed Fair Board for many years. Mrs. S. Walter, their only daughter, Mr. Walter and two grandchildren, Jacqueline Quinn with a modern-type rocking chair.

Among the many notes of congratulation was a telegram from cousins in Plymouth, England, and one from Princess Frost, who also forwarded a gift edition entitled "Pioneers of Old Ontario." A letter of congratulation was also received from the wife and family and one from the Province of Ontario.

Mrs. Lydia Parsons, Queensboro, a sister of Mr. McCaw, who was a witness at the ceremony 50 years ago, was present at the reception. Guests came from out-of-town who called were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Lawrence of Miami, Fla. a nephew and niece; Mr. Fred Lawrence and Mrs. Thompson of Copenhagen, N.Y.; Mrs. John McCaw, Mrs. N. Wilbur, Mrs. John Houghton, Mrs. Harry Rollins, of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Warren, Waterloo; Mrs. Harold Francis and daughter, Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Francis, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Francis, Mrs. Eugene Gordon, all of Smiths Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Thompson of Tampa, Fla., and Mrs. C. Whytock, Madoc; Miss Ida McCaw, Queensboro; Miss Alice McCaw, Belleville, and Mrs. B. A. Holgate of Toronto.

Among the ladies who assisted in serving the guests were: Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Russell Rogers, Mrs. John Demarsh, Mrs. Robert McCulloch, Mrs. G. Freiday, Mrs. H. Varty, and Miss Laura Thompson. The latter's parents, who are now deceased, had been married on the same day as Mr. and Mrs. McCaw.

With a spirit of gratefulness to their Maker for such a long and happy wedded life, a special thanks service was given in the W.M.S. by Mr. and Mrs. McCaw on their anniversary day.

Both, in good health, are now looking forward to still many more years together.

Former Reeve Charges Books On Library Shelves Obscene

FLESHERTON, Ont. (CP)—John Cooke, a former reeve, charged today the public library here has obscene, profane words in two of the books on its shelves.

Mr. Cooke, owner of this village 30 miles south of Owen Sound in 1958-59, said the library records recommended one of them to his 17-year-old daughter.

Calling for a public meeting in the town hall Thursday night, Mr. Cooke, in a newspaper advertisement, promised "a complete, documented exposure of a shocking and revolting situation."

The ex - reeve's attack was prompted by the book, "The Living Earth," by Sheila MacKay Russell of Edmonton, which was recommended by librarian Mrs. Eliza-beth MacMillan to Nadine Cooke, 17. "RAPE" BOOKS

"Throughout the book, the reader finds strong references to sex," said Mr. Cooke. "The English is cheap and slangy, the kind you find only on the street corners and in the boore houses where man and woman go to drink."

Mr. Cooke said he withdrew three other books from the library and only approved one of them. He described the two "bad" books as "part of a deliberate, anti-Christian attempt to tear down the morals of our children."

The books grow conclusively that filth can be found on the library's shelves, he said.

Mrs. MacMillan denied any of the books are obscene. She said "the modern novels have some passages which certain people might or might not like, but they are just human books. . . ."

Safe Crackers Get Little Loot In 4 Break-Ins

Safe crackers Tuesday night attempted unsuccessfully attempt to smash open the safe at the Canadian Pittsburgh Industries Ltd. warehouse and store, 179 Church street where apparently they were scared away before they could get the strongbox open.

The break-in at the Church street warehouse was one of four reported to city police this morning. Police said the total value was reported taken as result of any of the break-ins.

Other premises to which night operators forced entry were Roper's Service Station on Cannifton Road, the office of Cliff Murphy's used car lot on Station street, and the Orange Hall on Church street, only a short distance from the Canadian Pittsburgh Industries Ltd.

Police said that the intruders had attacked the cash registers, which were left at the scene. The safe had been moved out from its position and was partially blocking the entrance to the building when employees reported for work today. An upstairs office at the same premises was looted with about $10 in stamps being stolen.

At Roper's Service Station a connecting door between the service department and the office was smashed. Nothing was reported missing from Roper's, the Orange Hall or office of Cliff Murphy's used car lot.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials edged forward in late morning trading on the Toronto stock exchange today, papers providing the strongest support.

Mines were largely mixed and western oils moderately ahead.

Of the six paper stocks traded, all showed fractional advances. There was elective support from utilities, foods, liquors, refining oils, textiles, manufactures and retail stores. Steels and financial institutions were lower. Most banks chalked up losses, including Toronto-Dominion, off 2¾ to 42¾.

Algoma, one of the few better steels, notched the top gain of $3 to 68. Weston's turned a $2 dip into a $1 advance at 123.

Quebec Lithium advanced $1 among mining issues. Eastern Smelting was up 25 to $7.50. Mayburn 19 to $1.84 on 75,000 shares and Preston East Dome 35 to $6.85.

Pacific Pete firmed ½ among western oils. General Pete A, Aurill, Petrol, Fargo and Triad improved narrowly.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade was slow with sales at a practical standstill today at the Ontario stockyards. The few high-choice steers and heifers sold steady. The bulk of good and choice steers were 25-50 cents a hundredweight lower for the week.

Common and medium were 50-1 a hundredweight and more lower for the week with few sales. Heifers grading below choice are unwanted with the few sales 1 and more lower for the week. Medium and good cows 1.50 a hundredweight lower for the week while canner and cutter cows sold fairly steady. Dry fed yearlings and bulls were also steady.

Prices: One load choice steers weighing 877 pounds 30.50; good steers 1900-1250 pounds 15-19; common 12-15; good heifers 17.50-18; medium 14-17; common 12-14; boner steers and heifers 8-12; choice fed yearlings 21.50-22; good fed yearlings 20.50-21.50; mediums 17-20; good cows 10-10.50; canner and cutter cows 7-9; good heavy bologna bulls 12-12.50; common and medium light bulls 7.

Replacement cattle: good stockers 18-18.50; mediums 16-17.50; commons 14-16.

Good and choice vealers 23-25; mediums 19-22; commons 8-15. Heavy fat calves slow and hard to sell.

Hogs: Grade A 24, two loads 24.50; sows 16 dressed; stags 13 dressed.

Lambs 18 for good handyweight ewes and wethers; bucks discounted 1 a hundredweight, heavy lambs 2. Common and medium lambs 13-16; some feeder lambs went to country at 16.50; good light sheep 7-8; common and heavy sheep 3.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was firm with offerings light for a good demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture:

Eggs, in fibre cases, graded: A large 60; A medium 51-52; A small 31; B 39; C 28. Wholesale to retail: A large 65; A medium 56-57; A small 36; B 44; C 33.

Butter solids: Ontario, first grade, tenderable 58; non-tenderable 57½; western 58½.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 1 1-32 per cent in Canada reported at noon EST, today. Tuesday's noon rate 99 cents. Pound sterling $2.78, unchanged.

More Rain Drenches Flooded Texas City

WICHITA FALLS, Tex. (AP)— More rain fell today to increase danger from flooding streams which have inundated 150 blocks of this north Texas city and forced more than 500 persons from their homes.

Rising flood waters over the town already are estimated as from a few inches to as much as six feet deep. Hundreds of homes and scores of businesses have been hit. Disease threatens.

Officials expected the Wichita river, fed by almost incessant, up-stream rains, to crest at more than 22 feet today.

Sabbatarian Body Censures Royal Family

LONDON (Reuters)—The Lord's Day Observance Society, a strict Sabbatarian body, has censured the Royal Family for joining in sports on Sundays.

In its quarterly magazine, Joy and Gladness, the society says: "It is with very deep sorrow that we have to record that His Royal Highness the Duke of Edinburgh has this summer frequently indulged in sport on the Lord's Day in spite of all the appeals which have been made to him."

It added that Sunday, July 17, the Queen, the Queen Mother, and the Duchess of Kent watched the duke playing polo at Windsor. "With such an example from the throne — and many have quoted the example to justify all manner of Sabbath desecration — is it any wonder that the nation treads the broad road of secularism?"

Sustains Shock

TORONTO (CP) — A young Oshawa construction worker suffered no serious injury from a 2,500-volt shock he received while working in suburban North York today.

Police said Cecil Knocker, 17, was sliding on concrete pole in the back of a truck when the end of the pole touched a live wire. The electric jolt threw the youth off the truck.

Eight Wounded In Strike Riot In Indiana

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP)—Eight persons were shot today in a battle involving an estimated 5,000 sympathy demonstrators outside the Perfect Circle Corporation foundry where the United Auto Workers (CIO) are on strike.

Police received an unconfirmed report that one person had been killed.

Blocks and bottles broke all windows in the guard house at the plant's main gate.

Boxing Champ Earned $126,000, Dies Penniless

MONTREAL (CP) — Leo (Kid) Rory, former Canadian featherweight boxing champion, died Tuesday in a dingy, windowless room in a St. Dominique St. house. He was 49.

Roy, whose real name was Leo Farndia, was believed to have earned close to $126,000 before retiring from the boxing ring in the early 1930s.

The chunky little battler was in possession of $2 when his body was found by the rooming house owner who came to collect the rent—50 cents per night.

His estate, besides the money and the clothes he wore, consisted of a worn pair of boxing shoes, a few curling photographs of better days and two pair of socks.

Roy started as a preliminary fighter, but before long his lethal left hook landed him among the ranking boxers of the day and in the "big time."

He won the Canadian featherweight title from Curley Wilson and the lightweight crown from Chris Newton.

Roy, who fought in a day when ring earnings were lightly taxed, was financially well off when he retired. But his friends said his lack of business sense and his fondness for gambling and the high life left him penniless.

U.S. Railroads Increase Wages Of Trainmen

CHICAGO (AP) — Major U.S. railroads and the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen today reached agreement on wage increases for an estimated 175,000 workers.

The carriers agreed to an increase of 10½ cents an hour, retroactive to Oct. 1, for the big majority of the workers. The number affected was estimated at 173,000.

The union is made up of train crews who work outside the locomotive — including brakemen, switchmen, conductors, dining car stewards and baggagemen.

Behind the new agreement wage rates ranged from $13.45 a day for passenger brakemen to $19.07 for yardmasters.

Dies at 108

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — London's oldest citizen — Mrs. Rose Leah Zimmerman, died Tuesday night. She would have been 108 on Oct. 29.

Mrs. Zimmerman was born in Byalystock, Russia, and came to Canada with her eldest daughter and her husband. They settled in London in 1906, and she has lived here since.

Runaway Boy Put in Shelter

HAMILTON (CP) — A 12-year-old runaway from Timmins, whose parents were too poor to come and get him, was placed in the children's shelter here today until some means could be found of getting him home.

Raymond Bois, who left his home in the northland last Sunday, was picked up by police this morning as he trudged along a city street. He hitchhiked the 500-odd miles here.

The boy said his French-Canadian father was blind and neither he nor his mother spoke English.

Police contacted the family but they said they couldn't afford to come for their son.

Sunnybrook TB Patients Being Moved

OTTAWA (CP) — Twenty - five tuberculosis patients at Sunnybrook Veterans Hospital, Toronto, are being moved to Ontario civilian sanatoria because they will receive better treatment there, a veterans affairs department official said today.

Veterans Minister Lapointe has received a brief from the 25 patients protesting the plan to move them to civilian sanatoria. They claim they will receive better treatment if they remain at Sunnybrook.

The official here said it is not departmental policy to provide sanatorium care for TB patients in veterans hospitals unless provincial sanatoria are full.

"It is sound medical judgment to treat TB patients in sanatoria," the official said. He added that surgical and diagnostic chest units will be maintained at Sunnybrook.

Church Will Try To Stop Liquor, Beer Commercials

TORONTO (CP) — A delegation from the United Church is ready to visit Buffalo shortly to seek controls on Canadian-sponsored beer and liquor advertisements on television broadcasts, it was learned here.

Rev. J. L. Wilson, former editor of the United Church Observer, said Tuesday night Canadian beer and liquor advertisements on American stations are "flagrant," and "have a tremendously powerful influence on the Canadian public."

He said the church's board of evangelism is prepared to go to Buffalo to discuss the matter with TV and radio interests.

A resolution asking that controls on liquor and beer advertising in Canada do not be extended beyond their present limits also will be sent to the CBC, he said.

Major Electrical Appliances Sales Drop 27 P.C.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— Sales of major electrical appliances in Canada dropped 27 per cent in 1954 from 1953, the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers' Association annual convention was told today.

W. C. Kennedy, chairman of the major appliance division of the association, said 267,614 units were sold in 1954, compared with 362,204 units the previous year.

Units imported from the United States accounted for 25 per cent of last year's market, he said, leaving Canadian manufacturers with "a significant production loss."

PHARMACY WEEK

A baby is born every eight seconds here in North America. Today, that baby has a life expectancy of more than 67 years. Fifty years ago, a baby's life expectancy would have been only 47 years; one hundred years ago it was but 39.

This great extension of our life span has resulted from many things — from better sanitation, housing, food. But most of all, it has come from better medical services, from new drugs — more specific drugs for particular diseases.

This week is National Pharmacy Week. Join your Pharmacist in celebrating your longer life, your better life — through pharmacy.

Belleville Community Chest

EVERYBODY BENEFITS FROM THEIR SERVICES

Children's Aid Society — Victorian Order of Nurses — St. John Ambulance
Boys Scouts Association — Navy League of Canada (Sea Cadets) — Young Men's Christian Assoc.

October 1st, 1955.

Dear Citizen:

On October 17th, 1955, your Belleville Community Chest campaign opens with an objective of $30,000.00. In order to meet this objective we are asking you to give, Give the United Way . . . to the Red Feather Campaign. Everybody benefits from the services of the above organizations. We cannot take them for granted, but must support them if they are to carry on.

What is the Community Chest? What does the Red Feather mean? Why should I support these things? Basically, a Community Chest is our City's solution to the problems of separate fund-raising on the part of necessary charity or service groups who operate to keep our community alive and healthy. It is a co-operative movement on the part of these local agencies to reduce the cost of fund-raising, and to make every dollar you contribute more powerful. It's a voluntary union to reduce the annoyance and inefficiency of a number of demands on your purse, scattered throughout the year. The money you give to the Red Feather canvasser is divided up by the local agencies to perform countless necessary services in our community. Your dollars are more efficient when you give once. It's a united appeal. Give the United Way — to the Red Feather Campaign.

Some Red Feather agencies conduct programs on guidance and training for youth, and are a bulwark against the pressing modern problem of juvenile delinquency. Still others provide for the sick, the homeless, the disturbed, the poverty-stricken, and those with human problems too great to bear alone. By uniting under the Community Chest, the welfare agencies are able to do their task more efficiently. When you give to the Red Feather Campaign, you are supporting at one time, a number of charities that keep our community healthy. It's a united appeal. Give the United Way — to the Red Feather Campaign.

When the Community Chest voluntary canvasser calls at your door — THINK. Think of what our City would be like if you and I don't give and give generously. For our town — for our neighbor — give with an open heart . . . Give the United Way!

Yours Very Sincerely,

Louis Marashas

Chairman of the United Appeal of the Belleville Community Chest

FRENCH ATTITUDE NOT JUSTIFIED

"Aw right; if you don't wanna play the way I want, I'll take my ball and go home."

That is about the same attitude which France has taken over the United Nations Assembly decision to discuss Algeria.

In this case, though, France had no ball to take home. Instead she quit playing but retained her position as one of the five vetoing empires. Withdrawing from the Assembly, she kept her place on the Security Council, where she is one of the five "big powers" with the right to veto action authorized by a majority vote.

Britain, the United States and Canada were among those nations which sided with France in objecting to the UN decision on the grounds that it was illegal. Lester Pearson, Canada's minister of external affairs, is quoted from Paris as declaring that the situation in Algeria is one that "falls so clearly within the domestic jurisdiction of France" and, as such, cannot under the UN charter be a matter for consideration by the UN.

That point was raised by the French delegation during the Assembly debate on the question. Krishna Menon of India replied that the assembly intended only to discuss, not to legislate, on the problem.

However we may view the arguments—and the Indian contention seems a little weak—the basic point to be decided remains unchanged.

Should a nation push up its delegates in a huff and ship them home every time it does not get its way in the UN?

Obviously, if a political parties attempted any such procedure, parliamentary government would be impossible. The United Nations is not a world government; the Assembly is not a world parliament. It is, however, generally admitted that it is desirable that it evolve in this direction. If this is to be achieved, the first essential is that nations which find themselves outvoted should bow with what grace they can muster to the wishes of the majority. This follows, after all, will be merely discussion, as Menon of India observed. To this extent, his observation was most pertinent. Action cannot follow. The UN has no machinery to enforce its decisions, and even if it did France possesses the power of veto and could prevent any move aimed at enforcement.

As the Pearson claim, supported by Mr. Pearson, that Algeria's troubled political situation is a domestic affair, that may be true. Most of the world, however, will find something ludicrous in the statement of Foreign Minister Pinay to base this claim on a technicality, the fact that by the French constitution Algeria is an integral part of France. Whatever the French constitution may say, geography denies that contention. Algeria is situated in Africa, not in Europe. Many of its inhabitants think as Arabs, not as Frenchmen. It is as absurd for Pinay to say that Algeria is part of France as it would be for the United States to claim that Hawaii is part of the United States—which it may be, technically, one day if it is granted statehood. In all such cases geography overrides politics and in all such contests the sensible man must side with geography.

The important thing, though, is for the nations of the world to display some willingness to accept rebuffs and rebukes from the United Nations. These rebuffs will not always be deserved, these rebukes will not always be justified. But every part of the world is prepared to boycott the UN every time the majority plans to discuss some problem which deeply concerns that particular nation, then the UN will be reduced to a glittering debating society limited to the discussion of problems in which nobody is really interested.

SCOUTS' OPPORTUNITY

The Metropolitan Toronto Roads Committee is planning to do something about hay fever.

It has recognized the plight of sufferers from this disease by instructing that a plan be drafted for a campaign to spray ragweed along the boulevards of main roads. The drive may be launched next year.

Hay fever sufferers in other parts of the province will ardently hope that local officials take similar action. Unfortunately, this is one field of activity where a concentrated population is an asset. The more people per mile of street or road, the more taxes collected per mile and the easier it is for such a campaign to succeed.

Rather obviously no campaign to eliminate ragweed would be completely successful in rural areas.

Even in the smaller urban communities such a drive would pose serious problems, unless a suggestion advanced by Mayor Burrell of Leaside is discovered to provide a solution. Mayor Burrell suggests the help of Boy Scouts enlisted. He would pay them half a cent for each ragweed plant destroyed.

If the sufferers of those areas responsible for weed control would not stand such a levy, maybe the Scouts would consider it their good deed for the day.

BOOK BANNED

We don't go for book banning but we sympathize with the sheriff of a Michigan jail who turned down a gift book for the library. It was "You Can Escape," an account of the author's 30 flights from penitentiaries. (Brantford Exposition.)

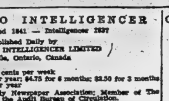
GET OUT THE TUXEDO



Once again the banquet season
And the start of many a ball,
With the fruit cups and the salads
And the singers with their ballads,
And the introductions later
Of the lesser and the greater.

Soon again the old commanding:
"Take a bow, and then stay down."
For applause we're not allowing

Until all have finished bowing."
Then the wires and letters pleasant
From the ones who are not present.

Then the sound of voices clearing
As the time to speak is nearing.
Next the speeches grave or witty;
Vole of thanks for the committee,
Then, "Good night. For next year sign up."
Last, the dreary check room lineup.

LAWN BOWLERS RECEIVE AWARDS. The members of the Belleville Lawn Bowlers' Association held their annual banquet and presentation of the year's trophies in the auditorium at the Y.M.C.A. Thursday evening with close to two hundred lawn bowlers and their intimate friends gathered around the festive board. The past season was one of the most successful and enjoyable seasons of play in the history of lawn bowling in this city and high praise was given George Watkin, the president, and the members of the executive for 1935. The chair was occupied by R. J. Wray, past president and one of this city's premier bowlers. Charles E. Solmes, Belleville's active executive bower, proposed the toast to the year's success and the toast was responded to by Mrs. Tanner and Newton Wilbur. Ted Mikhail supplied the music for the ladies to which Miss Anne Hunter gave a dancing reply. George Watkin, the genial and dynamic president of the club, made a fine address on the past and future activities of the club. Wally Walsh, secretary of the treasury - treasurer of the club, made the presentation and this won during the past season. Over one hundred and eighty bowlers competed in the various events distributed to winners of jitney matches, weekly tournaments and night clubs. The married couple's prize was won by Mr. and Mrs. George Watkin; second prize, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher; runners-up, Mr. and Mrs. McGerran and Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw. The concert cup, won by the married woman bowler after an elimination series, was awarded Mrs. John Shaw with Mrs. Charles. Hyde runner-up; Miss Hurley made the presentation of this fine silver trophy. The Rev. I. N. Nevins, pastor of the Tabernacle, gave a fine address on "true sportsmanship"; enjoyable vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Morley P. Duff, Mrs. Fred Hancock and Mrs. Ted Mikhail; community singing was led by Joseph Gilbert with Leo Riggs as piano accompanist.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE HIDDEN SECRET

Few of us ever realize the power we have over others. There is a hidden secret within us all that gives us this power, unknown to us, circumstances, specifically, or perhaps just through chance, this power is accidently brought to fruition. When this happens something is revealed to us, like the joy and happiness when we have made someone else happy.

I have been much interested in the Billy Graham meetings that have been so greatly publicized. We heard him on the radio and were convinced of his sincerity, but we thought of him as we have of many evangelists before him, that he had attracted the great crowds in Europe and recently the power over mammoth gatherings did we realize the tremendous influence he had over people. Now, we have discovered himself in the message that he delivered.

Perhaps that is the hidden secret, after all—discovering oneself, thus becoming a power for good over others. It is "that something" that makes one salesman effective above another. It is something to think God is trying, a way, for we never get genuine happiness until we begin to spread it and affect the lives of others in through our influence.

Through the power of prayer many discover the hidden power within them, and often it makes believers of them, for they become largely selfless. The late George Washington Carver attributed to prayer his remarkable discoveries. I have a little book in which it is stated, "He talketh with flowers" and he once told a friend of mine that he could pick out the sins in the lives of people, he talked, that were spiritually unhealthy.

Charles A. Lindbergh, in the introduction to a remarkable little book, "The Voyage to Lourdes," by Dr. Alexis Carrel, said this: "Carrel's greatest interest lay in man. He used man as a path to God. He had no confessional, no application of science to life of modern man." Few great scientists have believed in the power of prayer as did Dr. Carrel. His life was a discovery of the hidden secret.

Royal Commission

(By Geoffrey Parsons in Punch)

If you're pestered by critics and boobies
To take some precipitate, positive action
The proper procedure, to take my advice, is Appoint a Commission and stave off the crisis.
By shelving the matter you daunt opposition
And blunt its impatience by months of attrition,
Replying meanwhile, with a shrug and a smile,
"The matter's referred to a Royal Commission."

A Royal Commission is strictly impartial,
The pros and the cons it will expertly marshal
And one of its principal characteristics
Is getting bogged down in a sea of statistics
So should you, perhaps, for inaction be chided
You simply explain, again and again,
An answer to all men is aptly provided:
"The Royal Commission has not yet reported."

Let the terms of its reference lack proper precision
That's nothing: roughly may hold up decision,
And then, while they fumble with fact and with figure,
The conflict within the Commission grows bigger.

And so, when at last its report is provided,
If clamor for action has still not subsided,
You say with a pout "The matter's in doubt.
The Royal Commission is somewhat divided."

Thus, once a Commission its seat has taken,
All you have to do is sit on your hands
And remain
No longer in danger of coming a cropper.
For judging its findings is highly improper.
When the subject's been held for so long in suspension
That it ceases to call forth debate and discussion,
Announce without fuss "There's no point to discuss
The Royal Commission's retired on a pension."

If delay quite indefinite be your endeavour,
There's nothing to stop the thing sitting for ever.
Till its members, worn out by their wrangles and quiddities,
Die off, one by one, like the ten little niggers.
Then, furnished with cobwebs, a sight for compunction,
A few faded relics may labour with unction,
If somebody asked why, they'd sadly reply,
"The Royal Commission's forgotten its function."

Capital Gains Tax Harmful

(Montreal Gazette)

It is not a good thing to tax capital gains in Canada. This is a country in which investment needs encouragement. If there is risk in the investment, that encouragement should not be diminished.

There is now some reason to fear that the capital gains tax recommended upon capital gains. The change in the old not-enough law was passed by Parliament, but through the interpretation of them.

The Income War Tax Act has attempted to define what "income" is, but it has failed to do so, because the acts governing income have been written in haste to be interpreted, they have inevitably left very wide discretion for the interpreter.

Until recent years this discretion has been exercised to give a liberal interpretation of capital gains. If a person buys and sells, whether in real estate or in stocks, as a matter of trading, his profits were rarely regarded as capital gains—although he were definitely a real estate or stock market trader by primary occupation.

There is some reason to suspect, however, that this liberal interpretation is being steadily narrowed. The main tendency may not be to decide what is a taxpayer's main business, but to decide what his motives were in making certain transactions.

This has been the interpretation of the Income Tax Appeal Board in the case of the Montreal lawyer. This lawyer received a letter from the Department of Nat. Rev. Taxation. He suggested that substancial amounts had been added to his attorney's fees and were taxable. Those amounts represented his profits from stock market speculations and had failed to declare.

The lawyer took the case to appeal. It was his argument that he was not in the line of his occupation. These investments he had made were only incidental. The profits he had made were capital gains, not taxable income.

The Income Tax Appeal Board ruled otherwise. The lawyer, it held, had entered upon these stock transactions with the motive of making a profit. These transactions of his, it held, could be taken by itself, would not have been taxable. Taken together, they constituted a trade and therefore the profits were therefore income.

Such a case discloses the difficulty that must arise in trying to decide just how income is to become and just what constitutes capital gains. If the trading transactions are to be regarded as capital as capital gains, just at what point does a trader become many?

When so much is left to interpretation, there can be no clear or consistent standard of judgment. Now, for instance, is any person to know just how much money or how great profit, he may make within a year, without passing over the undefined line between capital gains and straight income?

Another difficulty arises. Anyone who keeps his capital active on the stock market is likely to find himself as well as profits. This was illustrated in the recent drop in the Dow-Jones index. But if profitable transactions are to be taxed, the conception of what is profitable as capital gains may become gradually more restricted. A point may be reached in which the real restriction will be too great for a country which should, in general, lean towards the liberal conception of capital gains. Capital gains might tend to keep capital static — an undesirable thing in a growing economy.

Would Process Quebec Iron

(Le Devoir Montreal)

In three years, Mr. Lapalme (the Liberal leader) said, the Hollinger North Shore Exploration Company will sell 10,000,000 tons of our iron ore. Supposing we take a price of ten dollars a ton, thereby receiving $100,000,000 per year, making a profit of $30,000,000; whereas the people of our province, the real owners of the ore, will have only the meagre pittance of $100,- 000 per year, or less, almost the whole of the capital invested in the undertaking will have been reimbursed in one year, but only in one year.

If the figures of Mr. Lapalme are not absolutely exact, Mr. Duplessis and his Union Nationale government should correct them with supporting evidence.

Mr. Lapalme again has asserted that Venezuela, the other country which has found American steel mills turned when iron ore began to be in short quantities at home (U.S.), possesses much more practical that Quebec. Venezuela has, each year, he said, $3,500,000 in various taxes on its iron ore, against $100,000 for Quebec.

Let Mr. Lapalme take the heart of the matter when he promises the establishment of a steel industry industry in the province if the electricity is given at low power. The creation of such an industry in our region might justify the most generous concessions in the matter of foreign capitalists.

If we want to take into account what the metallurgic industry means for keeping itself in order, we have only to visit the city of Hamilton. We would quickly note that the metallurgic industry is in houses which are not surpassed by many of our middle class districts in Montreal.

It is therefore more important than ever to educate the public discussion on the exploration of iron ore in Ungava. In raising the question, no doubt Mr. Lapalme has advanced the interests of his party but at the same time he is serving the interests of the province.

Classical Revival?

(Christian Science Monitor)

One of the most satisfying periods in American architectural history was the classic revival throughout the South as the Greek Revival. It was the era of the vast plantation, the unbounded reservation of elegance.

That age is gone, but hope for a different kind of Greek revival is now signaled in room south of Mason and Dixon's line. For the University of Maryland has just announced the restoration of courses in Greek and Latin, which it dropped 15 years ago.

May we hope that this revival will spread and bloom. Down the Mississippi Valley and Southwest returned to the classics, of which Greek and Latin are vital part, whenever the pace of living threatened to overwhelm reason, to strain, and bewilderment. In art, music, literature, the romantic, the modern, and the experimental would for a moment oust the classical, but the latter would always return with renewed strength to greet greater appreciation.

Now, in an age when the revival of classical studies in American schools wonderful as are latter-day inventions, they sometimes seem to create cultural vacuums which took them of their fullest blessing. But with a sound classical education beneath their feet, men are endued with that long and rich perspective so essential to a fuller understanding of their place, power, and potentiality in this hurried world.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

END OF THE MESSAGE

On the day the Battle of Waterloo was fought, the people of the city of London turned out into the streets awaiting news of the battle.

A signal system which spelled out a message had been devised to be placed on the roof of the public building. A silent, anxious crowd of many thousands had gathered before this building. At last, little by little, two words were spelled out—"Wellington defeated," but before the second word had been spelled out completely, a heavy fog descended upon the city and with it, of course, intolerable disappointment on the part of the population. At last after some hours, the fog lifted. Then the signal spelled out the rest of the message—"Wellington defeated the enemy."

Then the fog comes down upon our understanding and upon our faith before God's divine message is comprehended by us or before the events of life have fully developed their meaning. We conclude that the end of all hope has come, but we have reached the conclusion because we have not heard the message to the end.

God's last word to our souls is always a word of love, encouragement, and joy. For He will allow the circumstances of life to teach us the lessons God wants them to teach us, but He will not put for us a message not of defeat but of victory.

Mother, Pick Up That Baby

Many young babies cry too much because of hunger. Too many young mothers starve certainly too many hospital nurses obsessed by the fear of overfeeding, keep the baby half starved. A baby may be quite part of a feeding if it is excessive; but seldom does a baby cry because of overfeeding. This is not just my notion. I suspected it from a lecture to Harrowgate Mothers' Society by Professor Illingworth of the University of Sheffield.

Much crying is due to being too warm. Young babies' should be allowed to regulate themselves in nothing but diapers for an hour, more or less, every day, and in hot weather all day long. If you are in doubt whether the baby is too warm touch the feet of the feet; if the baby's feet are warm the baby is not too warm.

The discomfort of being wet or soiled makes any normal baby cry.

A common and commonly unrecognized cause of crying is loneliness. This crying soon stops if you pick up and cuddle the baby.

Some mothers are too dumb to understand why the baby cries. A baby when left in a carriage outside with nothing but a blank wall and eyes. Often enough, it stops crying if he can see mother, or father or the knees.

Anyway it can do no harm to pick up and cuddle the crying baby, even though crying is pain.

In the arms of mother or nurse the baby is need for love and security is fulfilled.

When Lalla Rookh was born we had the best doctor in town (by the name of Brady), and there were some complications. The complications grew out of a conflict of nurses. Lalla's mother had been a student nurse in hospital when I first langured her and decided she'd be an ideal mother for my children — and I never made a better proposal. Then we had a graduate nurse to take care of mother and baby. And 24 hours after the baby's arrival her mama's big sister, a graduate nurse blew in.

Right away — well, big sister accustomed to working "with" (rather than for) the leading physicians of her city, unethically brushed aside the nurse in charge and countermanded certain orders of the attending physician, a colleague youth by the name of Brady.

Things became pretty serious and I was about to blow my top when it occurred to me to call another into consultation. The doctor I called in was not a consultant, however. When he examined the patients, shrewdly turned up the situation, closeted himself with me in my office, begged my knee with his index finger and gave muddling advice in four words: "Brady, damn the women!" That was all I wanted to know. I told big sister in a few well chosen words (you know me, folks) where and when to go, and in a few hours everything was back to normal as we could expect, after such interference.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

For $35, some friends of mine bought up old second-hand freezer that must have been one of the very earliest models of this domestic device for keeping food in. It has given them nothing but trouble ever since, naturally enough. But they are a thrifty pair and it means more over getting a freezer for $35 than making an extra $100 in their annual income. And they have made and saved plenty.

It gives them a sense of accomplishment, and comforts their hearts to have the occasional sub and buy a whole lamb and have it butchered and dressed by the country butcher; and then fill their freezer with enough lamb to last long into winter, and the price of a lamb is away up. That, to them, is virtue. Probably it is.

They buy blueberries and put them away in containers ready with their local stores for bargains in this and that, and stash them away. If friends need stocks or provision, they manage to get a little more to put away until February. But mostly they are glad they got their freezer for $35, when everybody else is plunging around in hundreds of dollars for practically the same thing.

Practically. For the poor old unit is always going wrong. At first, when it acted up, they got the repair man, but after a time they bought it from. And they pestered the life out of me because I was the fellow had the impertinence to suggest they buy some new parts for it.

That settled him. So they studied the yellow pages and selected another likely looking repair man. He had a look at it, and when I'd again failed, they called him to complain that his previous repairs were not satisfactory. He was unaware they had got it for $35, he suggest buying a new unit, at a moderate charge, since his first repair had not lasted. But he too would suggest buying a new unit, and then, the yellow pages again.

Thus today they kept the old contraption going, at expense to everyone but themselves. They figure they have paid out about $30 in carefully haggled repairs, which still lets them have the freezer for $65, while all their friends are gnashing away with pockets of dollars on new machines.

"People," they told me, "are so extravagant with money."

They do not figure they are dishonest. They don't even suspect they are unscrupulous.

Community Centre Committee Given Vote of Confidence

TRENTON (Special) — The Trenton Community Centre committee with nearly half of the objective of $70,000 raised after eight months of operation received a vote of confidence from council at the first of the month meeting last night. Councillor Gerald Weaver proposed the vote and Councillor Claude Graham seconded it.

Two weeks ago Councillor Weaver had a different idea for financing the proposed artificial ice arena and recreation centre. He proposed that a by-law be placed before the ratepayers at the forthcoming civic election asking them to authorize the erection of an artificial ice arena, to be financed entirely out of public funds provided by the municipality and to be opened by the municipality. He suggested returning all donations already made under the present plan.

Public criticism of Mr. Weaver's plan stimulated interest in the meeting resulting in the largest turnout of citizens this year. Seating capacity in the board room was enlarged, yet intent spectators crowded into the doorway to the room to catch the highlights of the evening's discussions.

CHAIRMAN APPEARS

Appearing before council, Clifford Baker, chairman of the Community Centre committee, explained that it was the desire of the committee members to put the least amount of economic pressure on the taxpayers and therefore had decided to collect $70,000, while asking the town to provide the remaining $100,000 from a debenture issue. Mr. Baker seeking a vote of confidence for his committee, scored Mr. Weaver's method of presenting his plan. "Last year," he said, "the ratepayers of the town of Trenton expressed their willingness to contribute $100,000 toward the erection of a Community Centre in the town after $70,000 had been raised by public subscription." Subsequently, this council passed the necessary by-law establishing the Community Centre project on a municipal basis and setting out the names of a committee, which would be responsible for the campaigning for funds for this project.

CHAIRMAN GIVES VERSION

It is the contention of this committee — and I know that most of the members will agree — that any proposals or advice should be presented to the committee for consideration before being presented to any other organization. I am sure that this fact is realized, even by councillor Weaver, although he has chosen to ignore the committee. To prove my point I would like to state that two weeks ago tonight at 8 p.m., just three hours before the council meeting at which the proposal was presented, I met councillor Weaver in front of his place of business and explained to him that we were endeavoring to reach the half-way mark, or $35,000 before the erection of the thermometer in front of the Post Office, and I asked him for $500. Of course, the $500, was not forthcoming but instead he suggested that he was about to make a proposal to me and had intended to phone me that day but that he wanted to give the proposal a little more consideration and that he would be in touch with me in the near future and we would get together and discuss his proposal.

"That night, gentlemen, councillor Weaver presented his proposal to council in a prepared form. Now, gentlemen, the reaction of many people in the town of Trenton to councillor Weaver's proposal, and I must say the Community Centre Committee feels the same way, is that he is out to "sabotage" the Community Centre project by presenting it to the ratepayers in such a manner that he is sure it will be defeated and the project squelched.

"I am appearing before you gentlemen, to defend the progress of the Community Centre Committee and make known the plans which we have for the future. Within a few days there will be an audited report of the financial position of the project in the local papers. This report will indicate that we have at the present time raised approximately $38,000 of the $70,000 which is the responsibility of the committee.

CLAIMS PROGRESS MADE

"For comparative purposes, I would like to draw your attention to the fact that in 1944 the City of Peterborough started to canvass for a community centre and in 1955, eleven years later, the contract was let for the community centre. Or coming a little closer home, it took I've to seven years from the time the first subscription was made to the Trenton Memorial Hospital before the contract could be let for that building. So, gentlemen, we think that our progress to date is quite comparative to the progress of most ventures of this nature."

"Our future plans are for a re-organization of the committee which we will present to you for approval. Also to organize a campaign committee, which will extend beyond the committee established by council and will include representation of practically all organizations in Trenton."

The committee is reasonably sure that by this time next year we will have raised the necessary $70,000. As for a location for type of structure, or any other matters pertaining to the community centre, there is nothing final.

"In conclusion, gentlemen, in order to erase the damage which has been done by Councillor Weaver's proposal and so that the people may know that the project is still in the hands of the committee, I would ask you tonight to move a vote of confidence in the committee so that we may get back to work and accomplish what we have set out to do.

In moving the vote of confidence Councillor Weaver maintained he was interested in seeing the successful conclusion of the project. "I wouldn't have made the proposal if I were not interested," he said.

WILL DEED STREETS

Council resolved to deed all streets in an industrial acreage to unofficial industrial commissioners Senator W. A. Fraser and Kenneth J. Couch seeking to locate two factories on the site adjacent to Central Bridge. A stipulation in the resolution calls for a 40-foot roadway to be put across the acreage from the Central Bridge property to Sidney St., the location to be at the discretion of Senator Fraser and Mr. Couch.

Councillor J. MacDonald expressed belief that the town had gone ahead and unnecessarily paid $2,700 for 32 acres of land adjoining Mount Pelion. It was revealed to council that Senator W. A. Fraser and O. G. "Buster" Aiyea had been negotiating two months to buy the property from the C.N.R. and deed it to the Parks Board free of charge.

The town paid $700 higher for the property than the Senator Fraser and Mr. Alyea bid. Councillors Gerald Weaver and Claude Graham comprised the two-man committee from council that recommended the town purchase the land. Mayor Hamilton and five members of council contended they did not know the Senator and Mr. Alyea were seeking to buy the property and the decision was made to pay the higher price rather than have the valuable land fall into anybody else's hands.

HUBBLE — FOULDS

A pretty, autumn wedding was solemnized in the Chapel of Deer Park United Church, Toronto, on Saturday, September 17, at 2.00 p.m. when Margaret Marie Foulds, of Toronto, daughter of the late Doctor and Mrs. Gordon S. Foulds, became the bride of Harley How-ard Hubble, also of Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett K. Hubble. The Reverend Doctor G. Stanley Russell, officiated.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. William C. Gall, the bride chose a gown of antique ivory taffeta featuring a slim bodice folded into miniature tucks at the neckline, and sheath-like sleeves, pointed over the wrists. The bouffant skirt of unpressed pleats swept into a butterfly bustle at the back. A small halo of orange blossoms held her heirloom veil of Cornish Meros lace and she carried a cascade of white gardenias and stephanotis.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Isabel Foulds, as maid of honor, gowned in waltz-length mint green ironespun taffeta with smooth-fitting bodice in princess style with portrait neckline outlined in tucks, having small, capset sleeves, and full, bouffant skirt with matching hip tucks. A small bandeau of mint green leaves encircled her hair, and she carried pink carnations and red roses.

Mr. William McKay of Toronto, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Donald Hubble, of Kingston, and Mr. John Peters, of Toronto, were ushers.

Receiving were the bride's aunt, Miss Marie Gall, who was attired in blue crepe with black accessories, and the bridegroom's mother, who wore amethyst brocade with pink accessories.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a dark grey suit with pink accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Hubble will reside in Toronto.

Soroptimist Club Elects New Officers

The Soroptimist International of Belleville, met in full force at the opening dinner of the season held recently in Lamont's Town Room.

The new president, Mrs. Tillie Mazer, conducted the program following the dinner when members and guests were entertained by Harriett Stevens, of CJBQ. Her versatility and humor were appreciated as she unfolded in a charming manner the highlights of a radio commentator's vocation, relating many amusing and interesting experiences she had had in her career.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Gladys MacDonald, and at the conclusion of her address, Mrs. Frances Bennett expressed the gratitude and appreciation of the club to the speaker with the hope that she would visit them again soon.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Officers elected for the ensuing term of Soroptimist International of Belleville, are as follows:

Past president, Mrs. Laura McLaughlin; president, Mrs. Tillie Mazer; first vice-president, Miss Helen Symons; second vice-president, Mrs. Muriel Yorke; recording secretary, Miss Dorothy Matthews; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Frances Bennett; treasurer, Miss Margaret Fairbairn.

12 Children Make Decisions For Christ

Last Friday evening concluded a week of most interesting children's meetings at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, Coleman and Moira Streets, under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Portway, of Toronto, noted children's workers.

The meetings, which took place each evening from 7-8, had an approximate total attendance of 725 children, representing every church in the city, and a nightly average of 135.

Bible stories in color, shown from a projector; illuminated flannelegraphs illustrating Bible truths, with gospel choruses, comprised the evening, as well as a serial story, entitled "Found Out," which told of a little boy and his friend who ate the forbidden watermelon, saying that a tramp had stolen it, but in the spring, the seeds, which they had buried, came up and told the truth.

One of the highlights of the series was when Mr. Portway, who had been born in China, wore his Chinese native costume and told to the interested boys and girls the story of China, her people and their need for the Gospel.

On the closing night, which was "Parents' Night," five little girls bearing lighted candles, and a sixth, holding a Bible, presented a pantomime, entitled, "So Let Your Light Shine."

Awards, of Scripture texts, well chosen verses were presented to those children who had attended four nights out of five.

Twelve decisions for Christ were made from the seeds so faithfully sown.

B.C.I.V.S. Home and School Association Holds Meeting

The Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School Home and School Association held its opening meeting for the 1955-56 season with a good attendance. There were 175 parents and teachers present but, as principal Orr pointed out, this is far from representative of the 1035 students presently enrolled in the school. The goal for this season should be for greater participation of the parents with an attendance of less than 1000 members of the B.C.I.V.S. Home and School.

COUNCIL OBJECTIVES

Mr. George Stacey of the B. C. I. V. S. Students Council, gave the parents an outline of the activities, aims and status of the Council.

The objectives are:—

To give the students control and experience in the handling of extra-curricular activities, social and athletic affairs;

To give training in the procedures of business meetings and the duties of the Council's officers;

Training in responsibilities of citizenship;

Kindle and foster spirit of loyalty to the school;

To encourage enthusiasm, interest and participation in school activities, and;

To coordinate and publicize the activities of the various school organizations.

How does the Students' Council fit in with the School organization?

There is the Senate, consisting of principal and staff;

There is the executive-consisting of nine members, president V. P. (General) V. P. (Vocational), secretary (recording), secretary (correspondence), treasurer (elected from the upper school), and three staff advisers.

The general organization is the Operating Council and it is made up of form representatives from each form in the School (37), and a Club representative from each club recognized by the Council (15).

The assembly is the final part of the Council and it consists of the student body. It is most important, for without their cooperation, interest, membership etc., the Council could not function.

The membership to the Council is $1. per year which entitles the student to reduced admissions to sports, dances and social events, Accident insurance and flower fund.

MANY PROJECTS

The Council is also responsible for many projects such as Insurance mentioned earlier at $275 per year, grant to the school magazine, grants to the athletic societies, flowers for the auditorium, athletic field, organ for assembly and War Memorial. The Council has also investments, the interest on which goes to scholarships each year.

Mr. A. G. Dyndale, of the Canada Cement Company, gave the parents a talk on "What Industry Expects of the Student".

"When a student applies for a position in industry the first thing he is asked to do is fill out an application. This document is most important; it is explanatory in nature in determine the applicant's character, appraise his ability, establish the degree of training and scholastic background. If the student applicant has worked for other employers (it also) provides ready references in his attitude and application to the busy world of industry.

"Some applicants come ill prepared to industry because they have not given serious thought to what they are best suited for, often the factor given the most consideration is money. This develops unhappy discontented workers. Job interest is of prime importance if a student is to succeed. Often the job that has the greatest interest has the poorest pay, but if a boy or girl is to succeed he must make the decision early in his school career and work out the problems associated with the decision. The parents too, must take an interest in the graduate's problem. Often when an applicant is questioned it is apparent to the employer that parental guidance has been lacking or ineffective.

"Investigate the type of work and the type of employee the industry in question requires. If the firm is predominantly skilled trade there is a better chance for the technician. If on the other hand, it is clerical by nature, a commercial or general student would be more desirable. When shaping a future the student should seek the advice of the guidance director, examine the potential field, and adjust the training program accordingly.

EXECUTIVE MATERIAL

"Good executive material is hard to find among the untrained. The High School graduates with well rounded background of athletic and social activities are most likely to succeed provided they have given their careers a serious consideration ahead of time.

"A student who fails to complete his or her scholastic term invariably finds it difficult to fit into industry. Remember school work is not lost easier than industry. So if a pupil cannot adjust to scholastic instruction, rarely does he excel or succeed in industrial instruction.

"In closing the points most watched for in an applicant to industry are: cooperation, tolerance, responsibility, and the will to learn."

The speaker was thanked by Mr. R. Freeman.

A sing-song was conducted by Rev. L. K. Daniel.

Man Accepted As He Proposes For Second Time

KNARESBOROUGH York England (CP) — Lily Jepson has been engaged twice — once at 20 and again at 63.

It was the same man both times, and Miss Jepson is going through with her wedding this time. The groom is Richard Harland, who left Lily behind in 1913 when he went to Calgary. But she changed her mind about following him.

Last month, Harland came back to visit relatives in a nearby town. The wife he subsequently married in Canada has been dead for two years. He decided to call on Miss Jepson because "I never forgot her."

"At first I didn't recognize him," she recalls. "But I accepted him at his second proposal."

The couple are to wed Oct. 15 and will live at Knaresborough.

Tunic Suit

BY ALICE ALDEN

The triumphant tunic is everywhere from overblouses to gala ballroom numbers. It does particularly well in a suit, as witness Frechtel's creation, the fabric a brown, black and beige mixture tweed. The long jacket is double breasted, buttoned to accentuate the beautifully cut flare. Sleeves are easy, the skirt has a kick-pleat in back. A suit with which to grace the urbane urban autumnal scene, a suit that requires careful accessorizing to do it justice.

Pie–Fancy and Festive For Thanksgiving Dinner

By Mary Moore

If somebody man is my cousin-by-marriage Max.

We all know the common sense of what I am going to quote from him: "I never leave the table feeling full—haven't for five years—ever since I had that (heart) attack."

Let us not wait for an "attack" before we start that sensible exercise of rising away from the table before we are so full we can't stagger off. Let's start before you as your goal that same little waistline you had when you were married—for your 25th Wedding Anniversary.

I have to say all that as an alibi for the rich desserts I am about to suggest that you get ready in advance for Thanksgiving dinner.

Tomorrow you will see here a menu for Thanksgiving Dinner which includes the traditional pumpkin.

But there are individualistic cooks who are always ranging round for something different and you and I are sisters under the skin.

This pie may be made 24 hours in advance and that is a great advantage when you have a big dinner to prepare and company coming.

NESSELRODE PIE

This is a pie version of the well-known rich old-fashioned Nesselrode Pudding. Perfect for the likes of me will be about 1 inch wide at the top edge.

You will need one 9-inch baked pie shell. One tablespoon plain gelatine, 1-4 cup cold milk, 1 cup scalded milk, 3 egg yolks, 1-3 cup finely cut raisins, 1-4 cup blanched almonds which have been slivered and toasted to a little butter, 1 cup maraschoons, broken in small pieces, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon maraschino cherry juice, 4 maraschino cherries, cut into 8th, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 egg whites, 1-2 cup sugar. Cool the baked pastry shell. Soak the gelatine in the cold milk, then stir it into the scalded milk until dissolved. Beat egg yolks slightly. Add gelatine mixture to egg yolks and cook over very low heat (or boiling water) until mixture thickens just enough to coat your spoon nicely. Add the raisins, almonds, macaroons, lemon rind, maraschino cherry juice and cherries chopped, and the salt. Cool and chill until it begins to set. Beat egg whites until stiff, add sugar and continue beating until it will peak. Fold into gelatine mixture gently. Pour into baked pastry shell. Chill until firm or overnight. This amount will serve eight generously or ten adequately.

The wholesale fruit man assures me there will be peaches (or apricots) in storage to look after peach sales for the Thanksgiving week-end, so I was encouraged to give you this recipe for

PEACHES 'N CREAM PIE

Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry. Arrange in it attractively 4 cups sliced peaches. Mix together 1 cup sugar, 4 tablespoons flour and 1-8 teaspoon salt. Stir into them 1 cup cream and 4 drops vanilla or 1-4 teaspoon almond flavoring. Pour evenly over peaches. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for fifty minutes. These amounts will serve six or seven. I'm tempted to say what would be lovely with this, but I'll restrain myself.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

PERHAPS YOU CAN PERSUADE YOUR FRIEND TO STOP SMOKING

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I am a girl 14 years old, and just recently met a boy at a drive-in show. My mother, my brother, who is a preacher, and my girl friend were there, too. My girl friend and I were not sitting with my mother and brother, but we were still where they could see us.

A boy both my girl friend and I knew well came up to us and had another boy with him. This other boy and I liked each other right off, and he has been calling me every day since then.

The trouble is that my brother saw him smoking and told my mother, and now she won't let him come over or let me go on dates with him. She doesn't even like us to talk on the phone.

I've pleaded with her to just meet him and see for herself what he's like, but she won't. Could you suggest any way to make her meet him and see that the boys who smoke aren't bad? — M.R.

Dear M.R.:

Since this boy is only 16 years old, of course he should not be smoking anyway. It doesn't show very good sense on his part, "Rod not surprising that I made an unfortunate impression on your brother.

I suggest that you tell him you feel yourself that smoking is a poor habit for teenagers and that, even disregarding its effect on a growing boy's health, you agree with your brother and mother that it doesn't look very well. Say that you think your mother might be willing for you to have dates with him if he'd stop smoking.

If he really wants to see you enough, he'll be willing to do this. If he doesn't want to give it up, then he prefers smoking to seeing you, and that should be that.

But if he says he will stop, you can then pass the news on to your mother and brother, and perhaps she won't be willing, under those circumstances, to allow you to be friends with him. It might help even more if he would be frank enough to ask to speak to your mother on the phone, write her a note, or even come to the house, and tell her himself that he has heard she objects to his smoking, that he can understand her feeling and that he is giving it up. If she sees he is a manly, well-meaning boy, who respects older people enough to do this, she may change entirely toward him.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

FALL FASHIONS ACCENT FIGURE DEFECTS

The vogue for sheath dresses presents a real challenge to the woman with figure problems.

With the current vogue for sheath dresses, slim-fitting suits and the long torso line generally, it's time for every woman to take a figure inventory. And the shape of things to come depends on just how honest each woman's inventory is. Bulges and rolls, adiposity camouflaged under swirling skirts for so long, can no longer be wished away when one tries on her first sheath.

Diet, of course, is of first consideration in your fall remodeling project. There are innumerable proved diets which, if faithfully followed, will whittle off both pounds and inches. But, whichever one you follow, be sure that it is a well-balanced one, low in calories but high in vitamins and energy-making proteins.

Exercises, too, must be an important part of your beauty regimen. If you can s-t-r-e-t-c-h, you can exercise. In fact, stretches are about the best way of taking inches off the waistline—one of the focal points of your new sheath figure. A one, two, three of stretching, as follows, should show results within a week or two — providing, of course, you do it every day.

1. Stand, with back to wall, feet together, heels four inches from wall, arms slightly bent. Stretch arms straight above head with elbows back on wall. Push and stretch your hands up.

2. Take original position. Keep hips still. Slowly start stretching so far up on the wall with your right hand that your head to the left while leaning on wall. Push as hard as you can with right hand, making sure your right elbow is back on wall-thumb to wall. Repeat 20 times to each side.

3. Take original position—arms above your head as before. This time try to push your waistline at the back into the wall. Keep elbows behind ears, thumbs to wall. Bend slowly forward, from waist as far as you can go. Then, slowly, pushing hard at the waistline, push vertebrae back up on wall — vertebra by vertebra—until you are in original position.

After two weeks of these exercises, combined with proper dieting, you should be able to go shopping for the slimmest sheath in town.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

GRACIOUS FOR HOUSE-HOLDERS TO GIVE HOUSEWARMING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are moving into our new house soon, and I was planning to have a housewarming. I happened to mention my plan to a friend and she said, "You don't give a housewarming yourself. Someone else makes the arrangements and they come to visit the house unexpected-ly." I don't like to know which way is correct. — M.R.

The customary way is for the first and busiest get-together home to give the Housewarming. This is really the way of grace and of gracious hospitality — for the new householders to decide when their new home are ready to welcome their friends. They choose the day and date, the hours, the invitations, the refreshments they are to serve, and they make all plans for their party.

However, in some communities, occasionally, a group of friends decide that they will give a "surprise" housewarming . . . arrange-ing with some friends of the hosts of the new home to invite them to dinner, and then, in their absence, the group descends on the house and arranges for the "surprise" procedure when the hosts return. If your friend may have heard of this procedure, may have participated, evidently thinks this is the only procedure. But my suggestion is that you wisely proceed with your own idea . . . to give your own housewarming.

THE NOTE THAT MUST BE WRITTEN

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Your good advice, please, Mrs. Beeckman. I received an invitation to a tea. Since it had no R.S.V.P. or other request for an answer, I did not answer it. I did plan to go to the tea, and then to thank my hostess for her kind invitation. At the last minute I saw I couldn't attend (fleas returned to office late, and began dictating). I haven't gotten in touch with the hostess to explain, and now my dear mother is pestering me to at least write a note of explanation and my thanks for the invitation. Is this necessary, or, at this late date, would it look rather 'forced'? I don't want to lose the friendship of the hostess, a woman to whom I'm deeply devoted, greatly admire.—Anne

"Mother knows best" . . . and her advice is shiningly right! Take up your favorite pen, and, no matter how long you've postponed your gesture - of - explanation, write a bright little note explaining that you had fully intended to come to the tea and were looking forward to seeing her . . . that at the last minute your work prevented your coming . . . thank her most enthusiastically for her kind invitation . . . and say "I'm looking forward to seeing you soon, and will telephone to see when we may have a date." Figure it out . . . as it stands now, you've completely ignored the invitation, and so she must conclude that you didn't want the invitation, and don't wish to receive any others. A pleasant little note from you will, I'm sure keep that valued friendship on the right track.

Women Advise Govt. Heads At Conference

By BERNARD DUFRESNE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—The Fathers of Confederation probably would do a double-take if they suddenly appeared at one of the closed meetings of the federal-provincial conference.

In 1867 they made history without women at discussions of relations between the federal and provincial governments.

Now, five women sit with the politicians and high-ranking civil servants, observing, taking notes, and passing information to their spokesmen.

"You tend to get the feeling you're sitting in on the making of history," said June Shaley, striking young adviser to Premier Campbell of Manitoba.

"It's interesting to find that history is part of everyday affairs," commented Mrs. Anne Rivkin, an adviser on federal-provincial fiscal problems to Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan.

ATTENDED OTHERS

Two others who are secretaries to provincial premiers—Mrs. Philomene Gregory, secretary of Premier Frost of Ontario and Eleanor McKinnon, secretary of Mr. Douglas—are old conference hands.

They have attended all the conferences since 1945 and say they have enjoyed every one of them.

The fifth woman who has a place among advisers drawn from the municipal level is Ottawa's Mayor Charlotte Whitton.

They are unabashedly tight-lipped about the proceedings at the conference.

Miss Shaley, research assistant in the Manitoba treasury department, said in an interview she finds nothing routine about her government job.

"The variety of the work is what makes it interesting," the young woman who graduated in economics and business administration from the University of Manitoba four years ago.

Mrs. Rivkin, one of three women on the Saskatchewan economic advisory and planning board, said she had been preparing for the conference ever since the premiers of all 10 provinces and Prime Minister St. Laurent met here last April to plan it.

Early to Wed Not Always Wise

LONDON — The maiden who takes her time about marrying is usually happier than the one who enters matrimony early in life. This is a conclusion drawn by sociologists from a study of 604 young women, single and married. Psychological tests indicate that the single girls "had better emotional adjustment, greater self-reliance and a greater sense of personal freedom."

The tests also show that those who are in no hurry to marry are less likely to be anti-social. Although most authorities on marriage agree that a woman should not marry until she is emotionally mature, one sociologist points out that their advice is not always followed because it is the immature and emotionally insecure young woman for whom marriage has the strongest appeal (ISPS)

Comfort, ease of driving and safety have been combined in a new idea of car construction called safety-planned design and offered for the first time in the 1956 Monarch.

Built in eight models in three series—the Richelieu, Lucerne and Custom—the new Monarch cars have been placed on display this week.

The 1956 Monarch has been newly styled, both inside and out, from the graceful grille to the massive rear lights and rear-deck ornamentation. Smart, matching vinyls, nylons and cloth materials in contemporary designs are used on door panels, quarter panels and seats.

The striking new instrument panel blends with all the other fine interior appointments and is designed for the utmost safety and convenience, with all gauges grouped just below the driver's normal line of vision and all controls within easy reach.

Safety-planned design is a result of years of research with safety experts. Highlight of this new concept of car construction is the impact-absorbing steering wheel, which has a deeply recessed hub—actually six inches below the outer rim of the steering wheel. The wheel rim is specially designed to absorb impact; the spokes are made to bend without breaking and the driver is protected from contact with the hub.

New safety-hold door locks, standard equipment on all Monarchs, have a new steel plate covering the roller which prevents doors from springing open under moderate impact.

Optional safety features offered this year for the first time are safety seat belts which hold driver and passengers securely in their seats and a padded instrument panel cover, which not only provides greater protection from head injury in case of accident, but also gives an appearance of added luxury to the instrument panel.

Monarch's automatic transmission has been refined to keep pace with the performance of the new deep-black V-8 engine. Improved transmission gives smoother and swifter acceleration.

Dual exhausts, which improve performance and economy and cut down power-loss, are standard equipment on all Richelieu and Lucerne models and are optional at extra cost on Custom models.

A full line of power accessories is offered as optional equipment to provide luxurious driving ease, including power steering, power brakes, four-way power seat and power window lifts. Power lubrication (Multi-Luber) is also optional on all 1956 Monarchs. By touching a button on the instrument panel all front suspension and steering points are lubricated, automatically.

RITA DINES WITH ALY

PARIS (Reuters) — Rita Hayworth dined with her ex-husband, Prince Aly Khan, for the second straight night Tuesday night after a mad dash out of her luxury hotel and into his sleek sports car. Princess Royal Visits Hospital, Talks Eskimo

By SHIRLEY MORRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — The Princess Royal, who has spoken fluent French during her visit here, Tuesday tried a new language—Eskimo.

She was introduced to a 5-year-old Eskimo patient from the Northwest Territories during her tour of the Montreal General Hospital after she declared the building officially open.

Mrs. Peingoot, 19, who speaks no English, grinned from ear to ear when the princess asked her, "Atata?" which means "Does it hurt"?

The royal visitor also was shown a one-hour old baby through the window of the nursery. As the princess smiled, the baby yawned.

WILL BEAR HER NAME

She was introduced to the infant's mother, Mrs. Louis Charbonneau, 22, of Montreal. The mother said later she would name the baby her first, Mary after the princess.

The princess, who stopped at the bedside of about a dozen patients, promised Victor Bell, 81, of Montreal that she would pray for his recovery. He is awaiting an operation for a stomach tumor.

At a ceremony in the nurse' residence, she was presented with a golden key to the hospital as she declared it officially open.

For her round of activities, the princess wore a matching coat and dress of pale turquoise. Her gloves and fitted hat were the same shade.

From the hospital, the princess stopped at the armories of the 11th Signal Regiment of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals of which she is colonel-in-chief.

The princess drew back a Union Jack to unveil a plaque in memory of the officers and men who were killed in battle.

Before she was introduced to the guests, she was presented with a bouquet of flowers by seven-year-old Mary Katherine Wark. The youngster, daughter of S. Sgt. Gordon Wark of Montreal, dropped a curtsey then turned to walk away.

The princess caught her arm and asked, "Won't you shake hands?"

The youngster thought for a moment before complying. They spoke for a moment but later the little girl refused to tell even her parents what they talked about.

CANADIAN PLAYERS START TOUR

William Hutt of Ottawa and Frances Hyland of Shannavon, Sask. appear in costume for the presentation of "Macbeth," by The Canadian Players opening an extensive tour of Canada and the United States at Simcoe, Ont. The group, which has a cast of 13 chosen largely from Stratford Shakespearean Festival players, will play one-night stands, alternating platform-style presentations of "Macbeth" and "Saint Joan."

Will Not Charge Man Who Climbed Big Ben Tower

LONDON (CP)—Police officials today said it is unlikely that any charge will be laid against Lewis Bradford, 42-year-old Canadian ex-lumberjack who Sunday scaled scaffolding to the top of Big Ben.

"I don't think we'll follow it up," said an officer. "He's had his punishment worth."

Bradford, who was born in Fort William, clambered up thin steel repair scaffolding around the 329-foot clock tower at the Houses of Parliament Sunday morning. He was brought down by a squad of agile London policemen and taken to hospital.

British newspapers reported that Bradford made the dangerous climb to gain publicity for "the housing problem."

Bradford, who lives with his English wife in a small flat in a converted mansion near Winchester, Hants., settled in Britain after serving here with the Canadian Army during the Second World War. He has been employed occasionally as a movie stunt man under the name of Slim Dexter.

Steel Deliveries Continue to Lag

NEW YORK (AP)—Steel deliveries continue to lag, order backlogs are building up and the surge in demand has reached a point where American producers can do little except improvise and hope for the best, says Iron Age, the national trade weekly.

The big problem is lack of ingot capacity, says the magazine, reporting as follows:

Producers are allocating raw steel to rolling mills on the basis of product demand, but there isn't enough to go around. Consumers are under allocation, too.

Emergency shipments are becoming a commonplace.

The railroads' freight-car-building program is now shaping up as one of the highlights of the post-war period.

Other big users of plates—farm implement makers, tank fabricators, line-pipe producers and building contractors—have tough going in the next several months. Order carryovers into 1956 will be substantial and delivery promises will fall behind still further.

U.S. Aircraft Carrier Says Tampico Deaths Will Mount

MEXICO CITY (AP)—A United States Navy relief mission painted a black picture of ravaged Tampico today, predicting a mounting death toll and even more serious floods in the wake of hurricane Janet.

"The situation is going to get a lot worse before it gets better," said an officer who flew to Mexico City from the stricken Gulf coast oil port of 110,000 population.

Rescue operations are centred on the aircraft carrier Salpan, anchored off Tampico with 14 helicopters, 12 doctors and a large store of food, clothing, and medicine aboard.

Navy reports said hundreds are in "urgent" need of rescue. They told of refugees in trees, on rooftops, on dikes and atop improvised rafts.

Despite earlier reports that the Panuco river's crest had passed Tampico and the worst was believed over, the navy said "blinding thunderstorms" in the interior are sending the rushing waters still higher. September and October normally are the wettest of the year in eastern Mexico.

Chemical Plant To Be Built

CLEVELAND (AP)—The B. F. Goodrich Chemical Co. Tuesday announced its Canadian affiliate will build a $3,500,000 chemical plant near Niagara Falls, Ont., for the production of plastic materials.

President J. R. Hoover said construction will start early next year, and the plant will be finished in early 1957.

The plant will be operated by B.F. Goodrich Canada Ltd., which bought the site between Welland and Niagara Falls last year.

WARNS AGAINST BUILDING

TORONTO (CP) — J. R. H. Morgan, Toronto's superintendent of secondary schools, Tuesday warned the metropolitan school board not to build too many technical schools.

Russian Experts On Construction Visiting States

BOSTON (AP) — Ten visiting Russian construction experts arrived Tuesday night to begin a two-day inspection tour of Boston housing and building projects. The tour opens a month-long visit to 13 American cities.

The Russians, who had to duck anti-Communist demonstrators, are led by I. K. Kozulla, minister of city and urban construction of the U.S.S.R.

There was nothing violent about the Boston demonstrations. The visiting delegation missed a demonstration at the airport when they were spirited into a chartered bus for a 200-yard ride to a press conference, held in the office of the airport management board.

There they found time to joke about the modern American supermarket kitchen. Shown novel kitchen gadgets like a built-in radio, a movable telephone and a vanity complete with mirror and toiletries Kozulla roared with delight.

"Does the wife sleep here, too?" he asked.

Premier Bennett Ready to Submit New Proposal

OTTAWA (CP) — British Columbia's Premier Bennett said today he will submit a new formula provincial tax-sharing proposal before the conference of premiers.

"The one put forward by the federal government is not satisfactory," he said in an interview.

He was referring to Prime Minister St. Laurent's offer to scrap the tax rental pacts and allow the provinces to return to the direct tax field under a complex formula involving federal equalization payments to the less wealthy provinces—including Quebec.

Under that formula B. C.'s revenue from the direct tax fields of corporation and personal income and inheritance duties—as well as equalization payments would total about $7,000,000 less than the $47,000,000 it now gets under the tax rental pact.

MUST COMPROMISE

Mr. Bennett said that under his new proposal, B. C.'s revenue instead of falling by $7,000,000 would rise by about $8,000,000 a year. Six low-earning provinces would get federal "compensation" payments while the other four wealthier provinces would get their revenue solely by "realistic rates."

The Social Credit premier said he is sure the federal government will yield ground on its direct tax plan. There would have to be some would never think of "give-and-take" compromise, he said. But B. C. of the conference."

Sale of Bibles Brisk in Toronto

TORONTO (CP) — Evangelist Billy Graham and Tuesday night Toronto bookstores have sold more Bibles in the last few days than during the first nine months of the year.

In his address to 12,500 persons attending a Graham crusade rally at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds, the evangelist urged his audience to get a Bible with big print and read it. He advocated the King James version and a modern edition as well.

After 216 members of the audience came forward to "make decisions for Christ," Graham said the full impact of the decision is not felt in the lives of those who come forward from three to five years.

He compared their "spiritual rebirth" to their physical birth. "They are as babies, needing tender, loving care. They have to grow. Some of them will stumble and fall."

He appealed to friends and relatives of those who came forward to help them.

"Love them and help them grow," he said.

PICTON

Fire Destroys Home, Contents On Glenora Road

PICTON — Nearly all of the life savings of Barry Callaghan were lost yesterday when fire destroyed his home on the Glenora road, three miles east of Picton. Residing alone, Mr. Callaghan kept his money in a purse in the home and he had invested his money in various items such as an electric stove, refrigerator, power tools, mimeo machine and many other articles. All were destroyed.

Mr. Callaghan was at home when he saw fire near a chimney. He attempted to extinguish it without success. By the time neighbors and the army fire truck arrived the building was a mass of flames. Their efforts, aided by the fact that there was no wind, prevented the fire from spreading to a nearby woods. There was no insurance on house or contents.

THREAT TERMED JOKE

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Group Capt. Peter Townsend, linked romantically with Princess Margaret, has been assigned an armed bodyguard by Belgian military authorities because he has received "a threat against his life," a high Belgian security officer said Tuesday. The official said the threat is believed to be only "a bad joke." But it resulted in "the necessary steps" being taken.

Speaking Clock Has Answered Many Calls

LONDON (CP) — Tim is 10 years old and during his lifetime he has answered more than 515,-250,000 telephone calls.

For Tim is a speaking clock.

This is how he works. Telephone subscribers in almost any part of the United Kingdom simply dial Tim on their phones and Tim answers with a woman's voice to say: "At the third stroke it will be . . ."

The voice belongs to Mrs. Jean Bailey of Dundee, Scotland, who made the records at a post office employee in July, 1936. The same records are still in use and there's little chance they'll wear out since they are encased in glass and operated not by a needle, but by a photo-electric cell.

Although Tim has been around for 19 years, some Britons still do not realize he's a mechanical device. Some reply, "Thank you" when they have heard the time, said a post office official, and one woman rang up the main exchange in London to complain that "the girl" was rude. "She never spoke a civil word. All she did was keep repeating the time."

There are actually two clocks, one in London and the other in Liverpool, and together they serve most of Britain and northern Ireland. They can handle 800 calls at the same moment and Londoners alone call Tim about 700,000 times a week.

Came to Rescue But Finds Self In Hoose Gow

KITCHENER (CP) — Joseph Johnston, 26, of Stratford, came to the rescue of a friend in court Tuesday but landed in jail himself.

He testified on behalf of Harry Piper, 56, also of Stratford, that he, and not Piper, was the driver of a truck involved in a accident Sept. 17.

Piper was facing charges of driving while intoxicated and careless driving. Both were dismissed.

Johnston testified that he had driven the truck and walked away right after the accident with an other passenger.

He said he was drunk at the time.

Johnston was immediately placed in custody after he stepped down from the witness stand. He is charged with driving while intoxicated and failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

1,000 Workers Will Vote On Company Offer

BRANTFOR (CP) — Some 1,000 Massey-Harris-Ferguson employees will vote tonight on acceptance of a conciliation board report which made no recommendations in negotiations for a new working agreement at company plants in Brantford, Toronto and Woodstock.

Glyn Williams, president of the Brantford local of the United Automobile Workers Union (CIO-CCL), said today he believes the union members will reject the report. The next move, he added, would be to authorize a strike vote.

However, another meeting will be held with management repre-D sentatives in Toronto Friday, at the union's request.

The union has asked for a 10-cents-an-hour wage increase.

Employees at the Toronto plant will vote Thursday. One meeting will be held for the day shift and another for the night shift. Woodstock workers will vote on the board's report Friday.

Two Teen-Agers Killed in Crash

KITCHENER (CP)—Two Guelph teen-agers were killed and two seriously hurt early today when their car rammed the cement abutment of the British railway overpass Tuesday night in a dense fog.

Killed were Miss Joan Mathias, 17, and Gerald W. Duffield, 17.

Police said Duffield was dead on arrival at hospital and Miss Mathias died shortly after.

Injured were Miss Carol Doerks, 17, and Vernon Marrell.

Both are in hospital in "serious condition."

Miss Doherty sustained a broken left hip, possible fractured pelvis, severely lacerated knee and shock.

Mr. Marrell suffered a fractured right ankle, compound fracture of right thumb, severely lacerated forehead, undetermined eye injuries, concussion and shock.

There were no witnesses.

Woman Shot In Sympathy March of Workers

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP) — An unidentified woman demonstrator was shot today during a sympathy march of workers at the big foundry of Perfect Circle Corporation where the United Auto Workers (CIO) are on strike.

City police sent out a radio appeal for all available Indiana state police as strikers shouted they were going inside the plant to bring out non-strikers.

Police said the marching line of "thousands" of demonstrators stretched for 10 to 12 blocks. The demonstrators came from as far away as neighboring Kentucky and from Tennessee to march outside the plant which employs only 260 workers.

Noranda Grants First 44-Hour Week for Miners

NORANDA, Que. (CP) — An agreement reached Tuesday between Noranda Mines Ltd. and United Steelworkers of America (CIO-CCL), provides the first 44-hour week in northern Ontario and Quebec mining camps.

Noranda's 1,900 miners and refinery workers approved a one-year contract cutting the work week from 48 hours without loss of pay and providing an additional 3½-per-cent wage increase.

The 44-hour week will be implemented by working one week of six days and the next week five days, averaging out to 44 hours.

Union officials estimated the shorter week and the percentage wage increase will boost hourly rates at Noranda anywhere from 14 to 23 cents. The minimum wage for surface labor before the contract was $1.13 an hour.

BASEBALL WRITER DIES

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Stan Baumgartner, veteran baseball writer for the Philadelphia Inquirer, died Tuesday.

The 61-year-old former major league pitcher had been covering League games for The Inquirer since 1930. He pitched for the Phillies in 1916 and 1917, returning again in 1921 and 1922.

He said only about 10 per cent of the total technical school enrollment carries on into grade 12.

Took Advice Of Publishers Says Duchess

LONON (AP) — The uchess of Windsor today said she "mistaked" the employment of the American writer assisting with her memoirs on the unanimous advice of her publishers.

In an earlier statement the American-born duchess said author Cleveland Amory had "given all the assistance the duchess felt was of value and his employment has therefore been terminated."

Rumors of the rift between Amory and the former Wallis Warfield Simpson have been current in society and literary circles for weeks. The writer said on arrival in New York Tuesday that he quit two weeks ago after disagreement on how the book should be written.

"You can't make the uchess of Windsor into a Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," Amory told reporters.

The duchess is in Paris. Her statements were issued through the duke's secretary here. She said she would continue the writing, without Amory.

SEEK AMATEUR COE

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Police are looking for a self-appointed traffic officer, aged about 12. He apparently has a book of parking tickets. John Arens reported seeing a boy put a parking ticket on his car. The ticket is a legitimate one, but the boy still has to learn how to make them out, police said.

'Henry V' Will Be Presented At Festival

STRATFORD — Before leaving for England on a two-month visit, Michael Langham, artistic director of the Stratford Festival in Ontario, announced that "Henry V" will be one of the Shakespearean productions scheduled for the south annual Festival season in Stratford next summer.

The British director who directed "Julius Ceasar" in last season's repertoire at Stratford, Ontario, announced that a Canadian group of French-speaking actors from Quebec will be featured in the "Henry V" production which he will direct next summer. He did not commit himself as to who would play the title role.

Mr. Langham will be returning to Canada early in December and expects to be able at that time to announce the other productions scheduled for the 1956 Festival season as well as the names of the principal members of the Festival company.

SUN POWERS PHONE

AMERICUS, Ga. (AP)—The sun furnished a rural telephone line with power for the first time Tuesday. George Mathews, a farmer, placed the first call on electricity supplied by a solar battery put into use here by Southern Bell Telephone Company. The call was the first in a test to determine the efficiency of the battery which converts the sun's energy into electricity and stores it.

PICTON

Priory of Canada Tenders Mayor Vote of Thanks

PICTON —Issued by the Priory of Canada of the St. John Ambulance Brigade of Canada, the "Priory Vote of Thanks," a framed message of appreciation, was presented to Mayor H. J. McFarland at town council Monday night. The scroll is signed by Governor General Vincent Massey as Prior and C. A. Gray as Chancellor. This "Vote of Thanks" was the result of a recommendation arising from the Picton division of the Brigade.

Dr. Gerald Allison, St. John commissioner for Canada in World War II, told of the work of the Order and made the presentation. Mrs. Nesbitt, McKibbon, local superintendent, presented Mrs. McFarland with flowers.

Deadliest Ship-Killer of B.C. Coast May Finally Be Doomed

VANCOUVER (CP) — Ripple Rock, the deadliest ship-killer of the British Columbia coast, may finally meet its own destruction — in 1957.

While engineers and public works officials at Ottawa ponder a joint $2,560,631 tender by three Vancouver firms to wipe out the shipping menace 100 miles up-coast, a geologist here feels confident that a National Research Council proposal will spell the doom of the rock.

Geologist Dr. Victor Dolmage, after years of intensive study of Ripple Rock, has recommended the method which involves the single explosion of 750 tons of nitrone placed in channels drilled through the twin cones of the rock.

It is estimated the drilling will take two years and the scheme poses a hazardous and costly operation. But it may mean the end of the rock which has defied demolition experts for 25 years.

Ripple Rock lies nine feet below the water at low tide at the entrance of Seymour narrows through which more than 10,000 vessels, large and small, pass each year with fish, general cargo and passengers.

Lurking in the maelstrom of tidal currents, about mid-stream of the 2,400-foot channel, the twin peaks have been responsible for the loss of more than 100 lives in the last century. More than 100 small coastal vessels and at least 33 large ships have been wrecked or severely damaged.

During the change of tide when up to a 17-foot fall or rise of water in six hours surges through the narrows, the current races over the rock at 17 knots. Ships are forced to wait at either end of the narrows for "slack water" but some have entered too soon or too late, to be sucked under by giant whirlpools or dashed helplessly against the rocky shores.

But the "inside passage" is chosen by all who travel the coast, for to detour around Vancouver Island would mean an added distance of some 400 miles.

During the last 25 years, experts have proposed to remove the vicious "zippler" by drilling and blasting from a scow to dropping of an atom bomb. To date, more than $500,000 has been spent by the federal government in attempts to blast out the rock. The only dent made was to federal coffers.

This time, however, officials are serious as their estimates of more than $2,500,000 for the project shows. Dr. Dolmage, a seagoing geologist and veteran of the Pacific coast, explained that the key factor of the present plan will be the simultaneous explosion of the nitrone, loaded into a series of shafts cross-cutting the peaks, each about 100 feet in diameter. To reach the rocks, a 1,600-foot underwater tunnel will have to be drilled from nearby Maud Island.

30-DAY WEATHER FORECAST: EARMUFFS AND UMBRELLAS

Some of that summer heat of the past fortnight would be welcome during the next 30 days over most of Canada. Warmest areas, relatively speaking, will be narrow strips on both coasts and the east and west coasts. In between will be cold and wet. (Central Press Canadian).

Judge Awards $4.25 to Man Bothered by Foul Baseballs

SUDBURY (CP)—A tale of six years of foul balls and broken windows was told in court Tuesday as Andy Stevenson won a claim of $4.25 against the Nickel Belt Senior Baseball League.

Judge Albert St. Aubin let both parties know what he thought of taking up the court's time over such a trivial sum. But he also ruled that Stevenson was entitled to his full claim of $14.75—the club had already given him $10.50.

The foul in dispute cleared the backstop in a game at Queen's athletic field last July 1, Dominion Day, and crashed through the bedroom window of Stevenson's apartment.

In addition to the broken window, Stevenson asked compensation for a torn blind, two broken ornaments, labor costs for cleaning the room and a taxi fare.

There also was a chipped antique jug which had belonged to Stevenson's great grandmother. He did not list it because he said he was unable to have its value properly assessed.

The claim totalled $14.75.

The league called the claim outrageous and sent Stevenson $10.50. It disputed the taxi charges of $1 and said Stevenson kept the baseball, valued at $3.25.

It turned out that Stevenson had returned the baseball to Cec Chabot as commissionaire in charge of the field.

Some of the claims which had not been contested by the baseball club originally were challenged in court by Dick Waide, league secretary-treasurer.

Waide suggested that the two broken ornaments, worth $5, were damaged in a previous foul ball crash and were being claimed for a second time. He also suggested that Stevenson did not need to use a taxi to take his broken window to be repaired. And he challenged Stevenson's $5 claim for cleaning up the debris.

When Waide made a further suggestion that the whole business was "an act of God," Judge St. Aubin replied: "Let's not bring Him into it."

Stevenson told the court his wife had trouble with her back and was unable to do heavy work.

"I do the house work," he said. "When I came home from work I had quite a mess to clean up. In fact, I'm still picking bits of broken glass out of the rug. I don't like to work for nothing."

Stevenson said he also had the trouble of removing the window frame and taking it to be repaired.

"It was a mighty hot day so I took a taxi."

He added that Waide had been unco-operative about the whole thing.

When the ball came through the window my wife asked Mr. Waide to come inside and see the damage for himself. He refused to come in. When he saw the broken ornaments, he said they shouldn't be on the window sill."

Judge St. Aubin summed up: "I see nothing in this claim that can be disputed. Should a man have to suffer all that and not claim something for it? Why should he walk to a taxi? Did you expect him to walk in the rain and get his clothes ruined?" In addition, he also has a chipped antique which can't be assessed, I don't think that a claim for

Union and Five Companies Urge Government to Protect Canadian Coastal Shipping

MONTREAL (CP)—A union and five companies supplying equipment to shipyards today asked for government measures to protect Canadian coastal shipping and the shipbuilding industry.

The requests were contained in separate briefs presented to the royal commission on coasting trade by the Canadian Maritime Transport Workers' Association, Crane Ltd., A. E. Watts Ltd., Canadian Ingot and Foundry Company Ltd., Darling Brothers Ltd., and Peacock Brothers Ltd.

The only dissenting brief heard in the commission's second day of sittings here came from Guy Tombs Ltd., steamship and travel agents, who recommended that the government resist "any urge to indulge in unnecessary barriers and consequent reprisals."

The briefs were released to the press before delivery.

BE BUILT HERE

Darling Brothers, a Montreal firm manufacturing marine components, recommended that the Canada Shipping Act be changed to oblige all new ships coming into Canadian registry be built in this country.

Canadian Car and Foundry Company, Ltd., also urged that Canadian coastal trade be reserved for ships registered and built in Canada.

The brief from Peacock Brothers, Ltd., said that if ships of British registry are permitted to carry goods from one Canadian port to another when the St. Lawrence seaway is completed "it would mean that Canadian ships would have little chance of competing in this coastal and Great Lakes trade."

The A. E. Watts, Ltd., brief agreed.

The Canadian Maritime Transport Workers' Association, bargaining agency for unlicensed personnel on many companies in the coastal trade, said it "opposed that coasting trade be made by foreign ships including British navigating under a flag other than Canadian."

Guy Tombs, Ltd., argued that "if the seaway, unlike some previous transport efforts, is blossomed at the right moment and with the development of world trade as its object, its usefulness should not be restricted or hampered beforehand by tinkering with our present laws because it is claimed someone might be hurt and one can think of places and people which may be seriously disturbed during a period of adjustment."

Oshawa, Windsor Problems Stall Strike Solution

TORONTO (CP) — Only two hurdles remain to be cleared before General Motors corporation of Canada and the United Automobile Workers' Union (CIO-CCL) reopen talks on the main issues in the strike of 37,000 workers.

The biggest one is the preliminary negotiations covering the 10,000 workers at GM's Oshawa plant. Secondary talks at the Windsor plant are also still under way, but a union official said they are very close to settlement.

When these matters are resolved, top level negotiators will move in to consider the UAW's demands for a 15-cent hourly wage increase, company-paid health and medical insurance and other benefits.

The two groups, as well as representatives of the skilled trades, are scheduled to meet today to continue their talks on such items as seniority, establishment of a union shop and setting up of an apprenticeship program.

PREPARE CHEQUES

The talks at the other strike-bound plants in the GM chain—Fisher, St. Catharines and Oshawa—have been completed.

Meanwhile, office workers in Oshawa were to be allowed to pass picket lines today to prepare pay cheques for the 3,000 Oshawa workers, the union said. The pay, due Sept. 30, was not made up because company officials said they refused to ask office personnel to cross picket lines.

Identity of Mystery Woman At Probe May Be Disclosed

By GRAHAM McMULLEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The identity of mystery woman Helen Elizabeth Douglas, prominent witness in the Tupper royal commission hearings, may be disclosed publicly by a subpoena served on her husband.

Miss Douglas, permitted to give evidence two weeks ago under her maiden name, testified to a five-year association with police chief Walter Mulligan which included out-of-town trips and secret appointments.

Tuesday, John G. (Jay) Gould, counsel for chief Mulligan, accused with senior officers of the 750-man force of graft and corruption, requested commissioner R.H. Tupper to serve Miss Douglas' husband with a subpoena.

Mr. Gould said he wished to examine Miss Douglas' husband on the evidence given by his wife. Miss Douglas said she was not married during her 1944-49 association with the chief.

She may be cross-examined today, the 30th day of the hearing. If Mr. Gould is prepared to do so, the lawyer took over chief Mulligan's defence only after 3,000 pages of testimony had entered the record.

T. G. Norris, former counsel for chief Mulligan, split after hurling charges of blackmail against Ray Munro, reporter for Toronto tabloid Flash, which followed each of the hearings.

W. W. Lefaux, counsel for Miss Douglas, surprised spectators at the hearing Tuesday with the point-blank denial of a widely circulated report that Miss Douglas appeared at the commission wearing a disguise.

Mr. Lefaux's wife had given an interview to a reporter saying the witness wore a yellow wig, dark-rimmed glasses and heavy makeup to keep her identity from the public.

Gordon Wismer, attorney-general in the CCF coalition cabinet from 1946 to 1952, took the stand to defend chief Mulligan and to deny that any permanent "arrangement" existed between them.

"It is emotionally impossible" for the attorney-general to interfere with the Vancouver police force," he said.

Coffin Loses His Final Bid For Supreme Court Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — Wilbert Coffin's final bid to take an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada failed Tuesday. The convicted murderer's only remaining resort to escape being hanged Oct. 21 is to seek a new trial through a petition to Justice Minister Garson or obtain cabinet commutation of his death sentence.

Eight members of the court rejected a plea by Arthur Maloney of Toronto, counsel for the 43-year-old Gaspe prospector, against a recent decision of Mr. Justice Douglas Abbott.

Mr. Justice Abbott on Sept. 2 denied an application for leave to appeal to the Supreme Court against Coffin's conviction for the murder bf one of three American bear hunter's in Quebec's Gaspe peninsula.

Mr. Maloney asked the court to overrule the decision and grant leave in appeal, but the court said it has no jurisdiction to hear an appeal against Mr. Justice Abbott's decision.

Coffin was convicted of the murder of Richard Lindsey, 17, one of three Helidaysburg, Pa., hunters whose bear-gnawed remains were found in the Gaspe peninsula two years ago. The others were Lindsey's father, Duane Lindsey, 47, and a companion, Frederick Clasr, 17. -

MAY SHOW A PROFIT AFTER GAMBLING SPREE WITH STOLEN MONEY

While Canadian police were searching for Neil Ellsworth Dickson, 18-year-old bank clerk who disappeared simultaneously with the disappearance of $33,500 from a Stratford, Ont. bank, he was paying the rounds of gambling establishments in Cuba and the U.S. picked up by police in Caliente, Nev., on a minor traffic violation charge, Dickson told of winning at the gambling tables of Las Vegas and Reno, Nev., and it is thought his profit may be as high as $15,000 for a single night. He will be returned for trial in Stratford on charges of embezzlement.

Varsity Questions Eligibility Of Gus Braccia

TORONTO (CP) — J. P. Loosemore, financial secretary of the University of Toronto Athletic Association, today questioned the eligibility of Gus Braccia, import quarterback now playing with Queen's University Gaels.

Loosemore, also secretary of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, said Varsity officials aren't satisfied that Braccia should be allowed to play senior football this season.

CIAU rules say a student transferring from one recognized university to another shall be forced to sit out a year unless he is entering a higher course.

Braccia, who successfully completed a four-year physical education course at Temple University in Philadelphia, enrolled in a first year arts course this fall at Queen's.

Varsity officials said Braccia did not enter a higher course at Queen's than he was in at Temple, and therefore should be ineligible this year.

ITALIAN MAYOR ATTENDS MASS

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — The mayor of Florence attended a mass in Santa Croce catholic church Tuesday and shook hands with Elia Cardinal Della Costa, archbishop of Florence. The mass was held for delegates attending an international conference of mayors of capital cities. Usually Soviet delegations to conferences in Italy stay away from religious services or meetings with the Pope or cardinals.

Means Taken To End Life All Failures

NORRKOPING, Sweden (AP)—Goeran Hartzell, a 25-year-old truck driver, decided to end it all.

He separated from his wife last June pending a divorce. Last month he found his wife was living with a foreigner.

That's when he decided to end it all.

Police chief Gunnar Duner said Tuesday Hartzell:

1. Attempted to crash a stolen plane into his wife's house. He missed, and hit a power line.

2. Jumped out of a third-floor window.

3. Crashed his car into a cliff while driving at 45 miles an hour.

4. Jumped into a river. Rescuers pulled him out.

5. Tried to jump out of a hospital window where he was taken after police arrested him.

Police said Hartzman will be charged with "endangering public safety."

Four Are Killed As Runaway Truck Hits Train

WEST NEWTON, Pa. (AP) — A runaway truck roared half a mile down a steep hill into a moving freight train Tuesday, derailing nine cars and demolishing two buildings to rubble. The driver and four other persons died in the splintering wreckage.

Claude Brandt, 31, of Warrendton, O.C., sounded his air horn to warn motorists that he could not stop. His truck, which one eyewitness told police was going at least 70 miles an hour," hit the second car of a 100-car train of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad freight train. Eight other cars piled up some of them falling on the big lumber truck, which was crushed.

Three of the cars contained explosives — two cars of dynamite and another of railroad signal fuses — but they didn't explode.

SMASHED STORES

Some of the cars smashed into a frail store on one side of the tracks, reducing it into a hardware store on the other side.

The dead included Jacob Casale, 50, owner of the fruit store; Sheryl Ross, 6, daughter of a restaurant proprietor; Sheryl's grandmother, Mrs. Dora Whiteman, about 70; and Mrs. Martha C. McConnell, 70.

Two persons were injured, one seriously. She is Mrs. William Ross, mother of Sheryl, who suffered a broken back and fractured pelvis.

The train engineer, William McManus, said he saw the speeding truck "but there was nothing I could do."

Floral Wreaths Floated Down On Atlantic Ocean

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Eleven floral wreaths floated down from a U.S. Navy hurricane hunting plane onto the Atlantic Ocean Tuesday in tribute to nine crew members and two Canadian newspaper men who disappeared on a weather warning mission into hurricane Janet eight days ago.

Alfred Ord Tate, Toronto Star writer, was represented at the service by his uncle and aunt, Rev. and Mrs. David F. Leitch of Daytona Beach. Douglas Cronk, Star photographer, was represented by Jack Gale, Star reporter.

As the wreaths floated down, navy chaplain M. A. Carpenter intoned:

"Cherishing memories that are forever sacred; sustained by a faith that is stronger than death; and comforted by the hope of a life that shall endure, we entrust to God our friends."

Protestant and Roman Catholic memorial services were held earlier in the chapel at Jacksonville naval air station.

DIED OF SPANKIN G

DETROIT (AP) — An all-woman jury Tuesday night convicted Mrs. Rosemary Jacques, wife of a Detroit policeman, of manslaughter in the fatal spanking of her six-year-old daughter Joyce Ann. Mrs. Jacques' husband, John F. Scallen set Oct. 15 for sentencing. A manslaughter conviction carries a penalty of up to 15 years imprisonment.

Crocodile Captured

BELVIDERE, N.J. (AP) — A seven-foot fugitive crocodile was caught alongside the Delaware river Tuesday in a most unorthodox manner.

The crocodile, a Cuban species, was released from a wooden crate by a recent flood. Tuesday it was spotted by Patrolmen Charles Castino, 25, and Paul Conrad, 45, picked up a rope and snared the creature.

They returned it to the zoo owner.

SEEK OIL RIGHTS

WASHINGTON (AP)—American oil firms are showing a "tremendous amount of interest" in oil exploration rights in Guatemala, a Guatemala government oil consultant says. Norman Meyers, a member of the law firm which helped prepare Guatemala's oil code, said "half a dozen" American firms already have representatives on the spot in Guatemala.

Ford to Revive Continental Car

DETROIT (AP) —The Ford Motor Company's revived Continental luxury car, out of production since 1948, will be introduced in dealer showrooms Oct. 21.

Many of the distinguishing characteristics of the original Lincoln Continental are retained in the newest version. Among them are the long hood, compact passenger compartment and short rear deck.

The car is described as designed for the "prestige market." Its price was not immediately disclosed but it has been widely reported as in the $10,000 area.

Jailers Err So Prisoners Drink Evidence

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A batch of criminal cases were postponed Monday because prisoners brought to the courthouse for trial had inadvertently been put in a cell with a quantity of liquor being held as evidence from a raid.

By the time a lawyer came to question one of the prisoners, much of the evidence from the liquor raid had disappeared.

Some of the prisoners were intoxicated and others were "visibly affected," said district attorney R. B. Start.

Little Benny's Notebook

I was walking to school with Puds Simkins talking and argewing about diffrent subjects as tall people being longer in the legs and necks than anywheres elts, and what we thought we would be when we got old enough to be something, and I said, I cant quite make up my mind whether I'd rather be a waiter or a bank president.

G, that's funny, I cant decide between a waiter and a grate artist that paints rich people's pictures for their ancesters to hang up forever, Puds said. Whatever the charge, they'll have to pay me, he said. Oh yeah? Not if they dont happen to realize how grate you are. When you start to charge them 5000 dollers they're libel to go somewheres and paint scenery, I said.

Heck, that's right, and a waiter dont even get fired if he brings you chicin instead of roast beef and tells you it's your own fault for not speeking plainer, Puds said. And I bet it aint so wonderful being a bank president, either. Suppose you accidently stick somebody elle's money in your pockit, and then get accused of doing it on perpose? If you were a waiter you could stick the whole drumstick of a lerkey in your pockit off of somebody's finished plate, and it would just be your own bizness, he said.

Yeah, I didn't think of that, I guess I'll be a waiter, I said, and Puds said, Me too.

And we made it up to start our own resterant and be our own waiters and pay ourselfs the exter money.

Being something to look fallwards to.

Thanks to the streamlined ways and means of modern mothers — frills and fussy baby fashions have taken a back seat. The clothing needs of today's happy baby are few — with comfort the cue. A few reminders:

- Baby's clothes should be large enough for easy dressing, lots of wiggle room.
- Forget frills (except for special occasions.) Shirt and diaper a wee one. Use non-ironing overalls for the creeper.
- Keep clothes down to a reasonable minimum. Healthy babies need less covering than adults.
- Don't hamper baby with socks and shoes too soon. Socks slip off. Shoes do no good 'til he's creeping.

Canada and U.S. Differ on Plans To Harness River

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada and the United States are far apart in their plans to harness the Columbia river's valuable hydro-electric power potential.

Their opposing views on the rights each has to use the international river's waters were drawn at Tuesday's opening of the International Joint Commission's weeklong semi-annual meeting here.

The chairman of the commission's U.S. section, Len Jordan, said a Canadia plan to divert the Columbia into the Fraser river at one point in British Columbia and the Kootenay into the Columbia at another for power development purposes would bring "very great injury" to U.S. interests downstream in the states of Washington and Oregon.

A 1909 treaty between the two countries provided that the upstream country, which in the Columbia's case is Canada, has the right to divert the river unless injury is suffered by the downstream country—the U.S.—by the diversion.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, chairman of the commission's Canadian section, said his position is that there would be no injury to the U.S. under the terms of the 1909 treaty.

The U.S. could take its objections to Canada's Exchequer Court, which the treaty empowers to rule on what constitutes an injury.

Insured Motorists Get Protection From Companies

NEW YORK (AP)—Starting today, most of New York state's insured motorists will get at no extra cost protection against injuries to themselves and their families caused by uninsured motorists.

About 130 insurance companies are extending the added liability protection for the first time in the United States. They represent the great majority of insurance companies doing business in the state.

The new form of insurance protection was made possible, it was said, by the fact that more than 96 per cent of all accidents reported to the state motor vehicle bureau have involved insured motorists.

The action by the insurance companies was viewed as their answer to yearly demands for compulsory auto insurance, which they have bitterly opposed.

Canada Faces Rough Road To Sell Manufactured Goods

By FORBES RHUDE - Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — A good future as a seller of raw materials but a difficult path in the sale of manufactured goods was seen today for Canada in a discussion of trade problems at the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Views expressed ranged from sombre to restrained optimism in a discussion led by a four-man panel.

R. M. Fowler of Montreal, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said anyone who tries to argue for freer international trade is going to have an increasingly tough time in the next few years.

In spite of this, the only wise and defensible and beneficial policy for Canada to pursue was to continue to press for freer trade on a multilateral basis.

If anything, Mr. Fowler said, the Canadian emphasis on primary production based on natural resources will become greater rather than less. At the same time, Canada had fostered secondary industries and many thousands of Canadians were dependent on them. Accordingly, Canada's economic policy should not be governed exclusively by the interests of her primary natural resource industries.

Hugh Crombie of Montreal, vice-president of Dominion Engineering Works Ltd., said it was unlikely that the Canadian standard of living could ever equal that of the U.S. Nor could Canada afford to pay the same wages. It was not logical or reasonable that labor policy in Canada should be dictated by American labor leaders.

The United Kingdom, like the United States, did not want from Canada those things produced in sufficient quantity at home, Mr. Crombie said. So long as the powers-that-be consider Canada primarily a nation for producing raw materials and semi - processed goods Canadians would continue to emigrate to the U.S. and the national economy would suffer.

Dr. Clarence L. Barber of the department of economics, University of Manitoba, said there would be temptation for Canadian manufacturers to appeal for additional protection, but to protect some industries would be a mistake.

Dr. Barber suggested that if Canadian manufacturers were to devote more effort to development of markets in the U.S. and to providing government tariff negotiators with information on the products where reductions in the American tariff would be most beneficial it might pay big dividends for Canadian industrial development.

Dr. C. M. Isbister, director of the international trade relations branch, department of trade and commerce, said many people were inclined to express impatience at the extent to which primary products continued to predominate in Canada's exports.

"We should not forget," he added, "that the strength of our trading position, based at present upon these products, is regarded with envy by other countries. The exports which we are in the best position to supply are in fact the goods which are in greatest demand throughout the world."

REMARRIES SAME DAY

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Sir Alexander Hood, former British governor of Bermuda, and Mrs. Helen W. Wilkinson were married here Tuesday. Both had ended long marriages in the Reno divorce courts. Hood ended a marriage of 36 years earlier in the day when he charged Lady Evelyn Dulcia Hood of London with extreme cruelty.

Children Tried To Prevent Murder, Suicide

DETROIT (CP)—Police said two teen-age children Monday night tried in vain to prevent their father shooting their mother to death, then killing himself.

They said Homer C. Dishman, 41, drove from Miami, Fla., and waited for an hour at the family's home here for his estranged wife Arville, 35. They said the shooting took place during an argument after she returned from work.

The two children, Bill, 14, and Barbara Ann, 12, rushed screaming to a neighbor's home. They told officers they tried to restrain their father when he pulled a gun, but were pushed aside.

Lester Pearson Reaches Moscow

MOSCOW (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson of Canada arrived in the Soviet capital today for a visit to Russia.

Pearson, first foreign minister from a Western hemisphere country to visit here since the Cold War began, flew in from Berlin. He arrived in the German city Tuesday following visits at London and Paris on the start of a world junket.

Pearson, who was accompanied by his wife and Canadian government officials, is visiting the Soviet Union on his way to the Colombo plan conference in Singapore. He will fly out again next week via Basra, Iraq.

He was greeted by Foreign Minister Molotov when he landed at Moscow's Vnukovo airport in a Royal Canadian Air Force four-engined transport.

USEFUL TALKS

Pearson scheduled a courtesy call at the foreign ministry 90 minutes after his arrival.

During this visit Pearson may meet the Soviet prime minister, Marshal Nikolai Bulganin and Communist party leader Nikita Khrushchev, who are at present reported to be on vacation.

Diplomatic circles believe these talks — in which the Canadian statesman would probably discuss disarmament, NATO and German reunification — might provide the West with a useful indication of Soviet thinking in advance of the foreign minister conference in Geneva Oct. 27.

Pearson will also discuss Soviet-Canadian trade and cultural relations while in Moscow. He is due to visit Leningrad as well as possibly other Soviet cities on his way to Basra.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Collier, Glen Miller, spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Dave Lamb.

Part of Front Street was barricaded off last week while employees of the H. J. McFarland Construction Co. were busy preparing the roadbed for a special resurface job. The permanent job will be done when the stretch along Highway No. 33 from Frankford to Trenton is being resurfaced. Motorists were asked to detour along the back streets.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Conley entertained Mr. and Mrs. George Twiddy, Oshawa, on Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. W. J. Walker, of Hamilton, were recent guests of the Rev. W. H. V. Walker and Mrs. Walker.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tucker entertained Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Caskey, Frankford, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Warren spent Wednesday in Toronto and attended a special car show at the C.N.E. grounds.

Among those who attended the Rotary District Conference in Peterborough were: Mr. and Mrs. George Noble, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Duffin, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bird, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Dalrymple, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Francis, and others.

Miss Dorothy Jones, Cornwall, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jones.

Miss Betty McGee with Miss Dorothy Runnalls as co-hostess, entertained several friends to a miscellaneous shower in honor of Mrs. W. E. Bissell (nee Diana Villetorte.)

At the regular lodge meeting of Laurel Rebekah, No. 211, the charter was draped in memory of Sister Aleta Booth, a Grand Lodge officer, and Sister Cora Waller, charter member of Laurel Lodge, Stirling. Noble Grand Sister Mabel Barlow and her assistants were in charge of the anniversary ceremony with Sister Verna Woodbeck rendering "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

Mr. Harold Ashley, Biggar, Sask. is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Tummon.

Mrs. L. Rodgers recently entertained Mr. and Mrs. Ross Brown, David and Philip, Bracebridge, Que., and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rodgers and Brenda, Belleville.

SHOWER

A miscellaneous shower was held in honor of Miss Isabelle Fox, a bride of Saturday, at the home of Mrs. Hugh Morton. The joint hostesses were: Miss Eleanor Brown, Miss Rosa Sory and Mrs. Grant Potter. During the evening Mrs. Robert Patterson conducted a contest. The bride-elect received several lovely gifts after which refreshments were served.

Another high Informant expressed doubt that any clear-cut decisions on health insurance will be taken now, though there was a possibility of some kind of broad agreement on general principles.

Ontario has laid before the conference detailed proposals for the initial stages of a health insurance plan involving heavy federal financial aid. British Columbia and Saskatchewan also have expressed eagerness for a plan.

Mr. St. Laurent has indicated a cautious federal approach, though expressing willingness to join with provinces in a scheme under a set of conditions. He said Monday the first steps in any such plan should be diagnostic services and hospital care.

NATURAL RESOURCES

After discussing health insurance for about an hour yesterday, the conference switched to an agenda item under the heading of "public investment and development of natural resources."

No decisions were reached, and one conference source said the session consisted mainly of provinces outlining projects which they want federal participation.

Mr. St. Laurent already has indicated the federal government does not intend to go in for a general program of sharing in provincial and local works and proposes to confine itself to projects with a national aspect.

A later agenda item—the scope and timing of future conferences—is expected to find prairie premiers ganging up later this week in a demand for action to ease the West's grain marketing problem.

All three prairie governments are expected to unite in this, probably calling for a separate and early federal-provincial conference on the topic.

UNEMPLOYMENT TALKS?

But indications today were that another question earlier expected to come up for discussion at the main conference — unemployment relief—could be disposed of otherwise.

Informants said details of federal participation in the cost of caring for jobless probably can be ironed out by ministers and officials outside the scope of the conference, though not all provinces were expected to accept a federal offer to help in this field.

The central government has offered to pay 50 per cent of the cost of caring for jobless not receiving unemployment relief when the unemployment in any one province rises above .45 per cent of its population. Some provinces feel this is not enough, though others already have signed a tentative agreement.

On the issue of general tax arrangements, one report was that Premier Frost of Ontario was dissatisfied with the federal government's alternative to tax rentals on the ground it would boost Quebec's intake by $40,000,000 while giving Ontario an increase of only $8,000,000 a year.

But Mr. Frost told reporters that "we are never critical of anything except what money we get ourselves, and we stand to get very little increase."

'No Bandage' Treatment Now Used for Burns

CHICAGO (AP)—A relatively new "no-bandage" treatment of severe burns in children — described as potentially important in any atomic warfare — allows up to 75 per cent reduction in hospital time for such cases, the American Academy of Pediatrics was told Saturday.

Dr. Kenneth J. Ward of Hartford, Conn., and Boston City Hospital said children having burns involving from 35 to 70 per cent of the body's surface can be released from the hospital in three to four months compared with "a year plus" under the conventional method of applying compression bandages.

Free of restraining bandages—nerves burn cases are usually kept wrapped like mummies under the conventional method—patients are encouraged to get out of bed much more quickly under the newer method, Welch told reporters.

This not only allows "a thousand and one" psychological improvement, but aids the patient's general physical condition. The only bandaging is in connection with skin-grafting treatments, yy'rh . . . .

Stanley Nelson Civil Service Body Chairman

OTTAWA (CP)—A career civil servant, who passed his first competitive civil service examination in 1931, has been named chairman of the civil service commission.

Prime Minister St. Laurent Tuesday announced the appointment of Stanley G. Nelson, 60, of Ottawa, a civil service commissioner for 10 years. He succeeds Charles H. Bland who retired early in September on his 69th birthday after 20 years as chairman.

The commission makes civil service appointments and promotions, sets examinations and recruits personnel for the federal public service. It is also responsible for setting pay rates for various classes of federal employees and recommending working hours.

The federal government now employs about 140,000 persons.

Mr. Nelson has been a civil servant for 24 years — all of them with the commission.

A native of Lorne, Ont., he received his primary and secondary school education at Kemptville, Ont., and is a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston.

David Milne, Who Died in' 53, Considered One of Canada's Most Important Artists

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The scattered paintings and engravings created by a former Ontario country school teacher have been reunited through a growing appreciation of their quality, and are going on a cross-country tour.

Critics and others lately have begun to speak of David Milne's watercolors, oils and dry-points as the work of one of Canada's most important artists. But in his lifetime—he died two years ago—this was not always so.

Today Milne's oil paintings, mostly landscapes and city scenes, sell around $500 to $600, his watercolors $300 to $400. The dry-points—delicate engravings on zinc plate printed on paper—are also worth more than they were in 1935.

HAD LONG STRUGGLE

That year, when bachelor Milne was living and working in a small cabin he built himself near Georgian Bay, Donald Buchanan of the National Gallery's design section sold a set of the dry-points for 35 cash.

That followed the pattern of Milne's life. He was willing to accept a lifetime of poverty if necessary to retain his artistic integrity and freedom. Belatedly now, it has been recognized in the first retrospective showing of his works.

They were assembled through the co-operation of the National Gallery, the Art Gallery of Toronto, the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts and a number of private collectors including Douglas Duncan of Toronto—one of the first to notice Milne's talent—and Governor-General Massey.

The show consists of 73 watercolors, 54 oils and 29 dry-points, an exhibition of Milne's art that eventually will visit several Canadian cities. From Ottawa, where the exhibition opened at the National Gallery Sept. 22, the paintings and dry-points went to Toronto Oct. 2. They shift to Montreal next Feb. 2. Other cities scheduled to see the collection are Quebec, Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver.

Milne was born in January, 1882, near the village of Paisley in Ontario's Bruce county, a district to which he returned in later life. For a time around the beginning of the century he taught in a small country school there. Then his restless ambition sent him wandering.

He went first to study at the Art Students' League in New York. Within about six months he ran out of money, but it was during his New York stay that he first brushed elbows with fame.

The young Canadian had five canvases in the controversial armory show which in 1913 introduced—in the words of National Gallery director Alan Jarvis—"post-impressionist art with bombshell effect in North America." They were the bright-color boys, the experimenters with form and line and composition. They took new liberties with realism and literalism.

Milne went to paint in Boston Corners, a village in the lower Berkshire mountains of New England, shortly after the armory show. But in 1917 he enlisted in the Canadian Army. Overseas, he became a First World War artist, seeking to capture in watercolors Canada's part in the conflict.

Veterans of those years of fighting will recognize the names of some of his paintings, "The Twins' Crater, Vimy Ridge," "Passchendaele" and "The Cathedral Arras."

Following the war Milne went back to Boston Corners, but in 1923 returned to Canada for a two-year stay and during this time sold six watercolors in the National Gallery. His paintings turned up in exhibitions here and there, but most of them had the same fate as the group he submitted to the Art Association of Montreal in 1924—not a single sale.

It was not until he had returned to Canada for good, living in the cabin he built himself at six-mile lake, off the Severn river near Georgian Bay, that Milne's fortunes showed signs of change. His first one-man show in Toronto in 1934 stimulated appreciation as well as purchases.

He showed his work annually for the next four years at Toronto's Belgrave Gallery and from 1938 to 1953 at the Picture Loan Society in Toronto. His following was still growing when he died the day after Christmas, 1953.

World Series Reduces Crime In Manhattan

NEW YORK (AP) — Police court officials are giving wholehearted approval to the world series. The games seem to be keeping Manhattan hoodlums out of mischief.

Said assistant district attorney John A. McAvinue:

"Normally we have 30 to 40 new cases a day. Today we have only 20. The only reason I can think of is that the world series has the ne'er-do-wells nailed to radios and television sets."

Royal 22nd Regiment Ready For Tour of Duty in Germany

By GERARD RICHARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP)—The 1st battalion of the Royal 22nd Regiment embarks this week for Europe as part of the 2nd Canadian Infantry Brigade, replacing the 1st brigade whose men are ending their two year stint at Soest, Germany.

This is the fourth time in its 45 years' existence that the colorful Van Doos, predominantly French-speaking paratroop regiment, have left Canada for foreign soil.

Founded in 1914, the regiment served in France during the First World War, was disbanded and then reformed in 1920. During the Second World War its colors flew over the battlefields of Italy and France. The regiment then saw one-man show in Toronto in 1934 stimulated appreciation as well as purchases.

service in Korea. The 2nd battalion has already been in Germany under NATO assignment as part of the 1st brigade.

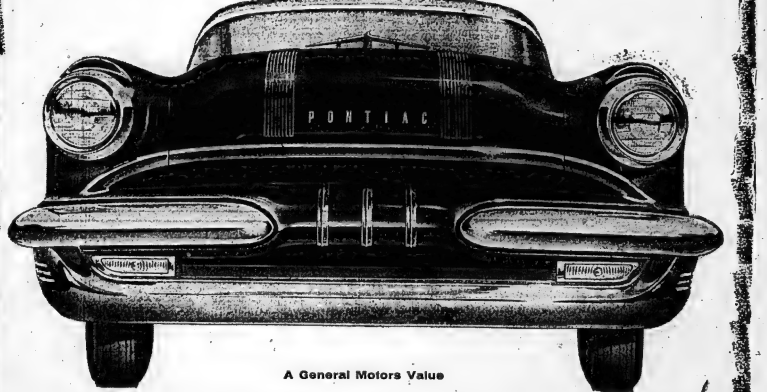
The 700 officers and men of the 1st battalion will be followed some weeks later by their dependents.

To allow the soldiers a chance to see the sights in Europe, the army has arranged a total of six weeks' leave a year, and many of the men already have their sightseeing tours mapped out.

Regimental Sergeant-Major Jean Couture of Trois-Rivieres, Que., sporting a mustache in classical army style, has promised himself a trip to Spain for a bull-fight.

Privates Rene Lariviere of Val d'Or, A. Hebert of Lorettville and Jacques Auger, of Montreal, all 19, are looking forward to a visit to Paris.

Others, like Corporal A. Mayer of Montreal, have more serious objectives.



"First of all I'll go to Rome, to see the works of Michaelangelo, Leonardo da Vinci and the other great sculptors and painters," said Mayer.

With the exception of a small minority, one of them Pte. Fedor Ovdijev, a former Russian army soldier, the men are leaving Canada with a light-hearted spirit of adventure.

Ovdijev, a 29-year-old immigrant to Canada, said he recalled life in Europe.

"I will not be too glad to return over there," he said in halting French, "but I will be really happy to get back here in 1957."

A General Motors Value

After all, it really isn't considered good form to toot one's horn too loudly...HOWEVER...since the early months of this year, an unparalleled situation has existed and we can't contain ourselves any longer.

Pontiac—we've got to say it—is now up in the TOP 2 in automotive sales in Canada...second only to another General Motors product!

This isn't just a claim... it's a fact. Against the toughest competition, Pontiac has plain outsold every other manufacturer's cars.

It's a hats-off tribute to Canadian motorists, too, for their instant recognition of Pontiac's sterling worth. No doubt about it, they buy shrewdly and well where value counts.

Well, there it is! Pity, we had to be the ones to tell the story but that's the automotive industry for you.

Anyway... now everybody knows what more Canadians than ever before have found out this year... dollar for dollar you just can't beat Pontiac!

It's more than a trend... it's a torrent to

THERE'S NO DOUBT — HEE ZOUT!

Here is the front end of one of the record 18 double plays of the 1955 World Series. It came in the fifth inning of the fifth game when Yogi Noren bounced to Gilliam, whom threw to Pee Wee Reese forced Elston Howard at second. Reese is shown relaying to Hodges to erase Noren at first. Calling the play is umpire Honochick. (Central Press Canadian).

In the Dressing Rooms

By TED SMITS

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers cut loose Tuesday in their dressing room after winning the world series as no other baseball club has done in recent years.

There was shouting and backpounding, cheering and smiles, hand shaking and embracing. It was spontaneous, genuine, and totally unabashed.

Five heroes were singled out: Johnny Podres, the superb pitcher; Sandy Amoros, whose catch of Yogi Berra's high pop to left-field corner saved the day when he turned it into a double play; Gil Hodges, who drove in the two all-important Dodger runs; manager Walt Alston, who did what no other Brooklyn manager could do in winning baseball's biggest prize; and Duke Snider, the slugging centre field star.

"That Podres — that Amoros," catcher Roy Campanella shouted. "He never shook me off on anything I called for all day except the last pitch of the game. I wanted a fast ball. He wanted a change-up."

Campanella roared with laughter.

HOWARD GROUNDED OUT

A change-up it was, and Elston Howard grounded out to Reese.

Commissioner Ford Frick, president Will Harridge of the American League and president Warren Giles of the National League, were all on hand to offer their congratulations to the Alston and the whole Dodger team.

"It was a wonderful game," said Frick. "It was the finest that has ever been played in a world series. A real thriller."

That's putting it mildly.

"This is it," yelled Walter O'Malley, president of the Dodgers. "Boy am I happy. Where's that champ?

"I'm happy," said Jackie Robinson, who had to sit out the entire game with a foot injury, "but above all I'm happy for all the Brooklyn fans who waited so long."

LEFT HIM IN

Alston was asked if he had any fears for Podres.

"I had Clem Labine all ready in the eighth, but when he got Berra out I decided to leave Johnny in there."

Snider charitably took the complete blame for Berra's two-base hit that fell between him and Gilliam.

"All my fault, all my fault," repeated the Duke. "I heard someone yell 'grab it' and I did. But I missed it. All my fault."

Reese said he couldn't believe it. "When Yogi was standing out there in the ninth inning, I said to myself 'This can't be true. Something's got to happen to make us lose.' But it didn't and when it was all over I had all I could do to keep from crying."

Reese first played the Yanks in the world series in 1941 and has been on five losing teams until now.

Don Newcombe and Snider occured beer in each other's hair and then, for the benefit of photographers, put them on, beer and all.

Headlines!

NEW YORK (CP) — New York's tabloids, casting aside all bipartisan restraint, have joined in salute to Brooklyn's first world championship in baseball history.

"This Is Next Year!" is the triumphant banner of the Daily Mirror.

"Dodgers Dood It," The Daily Mirror echoes, thoughtfully adding a back-page streamer for the benefit of the subway reader across the aisle:

"D-O-D-G-E-R-S"

TIME OUT

OSSINING, N.Y. (AP)—The 1,706 inmates of Sing Sing prison got the afternoon off from their shop work Tuesday to listen to the final games of the world series. Prison schools also were closed.

In the Dressing Rooms

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Casey Stengel, thwarted in his bid for a sixth world championship, blasted broadly Tuesday that he'll be back to try again next year as manager of New York Yankees.

"I don't know about next year," the crease-faced manager of the Yankees said in the solemn New York dressing room after Brooklyn's 2-0 decisive world series victory.

"But I got a contract. I got it in black and white and unless they fire me, why—"

The Yankees accepted their world series defeat — their 8th since St. Louis Cardinals stunned them in the 1942 series—in much the same fashion as they accepted their 16 world series triumphs in the 39 appearances preceding this one—like professionals.

There were no tears. Bitter disappointment perhaps, but no gripes or alibis.

PRAISE OPPONENTS

They had nothing but praise for the dashing Dodger team which fought back from two opening game defeats to wrest the series crown from the Yankee grasp.

"That was a great catch and play by their left fielder (Sandy Amoros) in the seventh inning when we were moving," Casey said. "That play was the play that won the game for them."

Gil McDougald, doubled off first by the three from left field, said he felt Amoros had no chance for the ball and he took off running with the potential tally that might, under different circumstances have tied the game.

"I don't see how Amoros caught the ball," said Berra. "If he misses, we have two runs and I'm on third with none out. It was that close."

SNIDER DID IT

Stengel said that the thing that beat the Yanks was that centre fielder or theirs (Duke Snider) who hit 3 home runs.

"We had them going until we let that fellow hit those home runs," Stengel said.

"They got some awfully good pitching, too. We didn't do anything with their relievers. You know we didn't get a run in the last 17 innings."

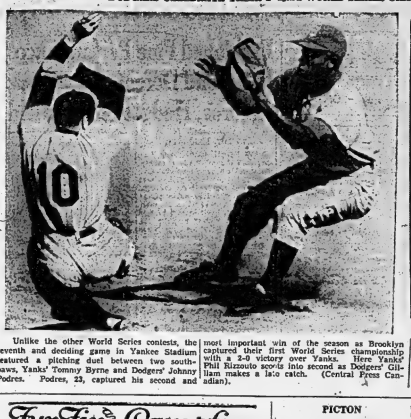
Phil Rizzuto, 37, said he had no plans for retirement.

"I want to play next year if the club wants me," he said. "It's up to them. If I can't play with the Yankees I'd like to play with someone else."

Comparing the present Brooklyn club with others beaten by the Yankees in the recent past, Phil said:

"It's virtually the same club. But I don't think any Brooklyn club has come up with the pitching that this one did in the series. That was the big difference."

Missing Child Found



GANANOQUE (CP) — Police said 13-year-old Jacqueline Landry was found here Monday night after a 200-mile hitchhiking trip from her home at Bronte, near Hamilton.

Police said the child, missing since earlier in the day, was carrying her school books when found.

HITS RECLAIMED AREA

TORONTO (CP) — Fire roared over a half-square mile of a future park in suburban Long Branch Tuesday night and its dense rat population is believed to have been destroyed among debris and garbage. The area, on the banks of the Etobicoke river, was cleared of buildings following hurricane Hazel last fall. Pranksters are believed to have set the blaze.

DODGERS CELEBRATE THEIR F IRST WORLD SERIES CHAMPIONSHIP

Unlike the other World Series contests, the seventh and deciding game in Yankee Stadium featured a pitching duel between two southpaws, Yanks' Tommy Byrne and Dodgers' Johnny Podres. Podres, 23, captured his second and most important win of the season as Brooklyn captured their first World Series championship with a 2-0 victory over Yanks. Here Yanks' Phil Rizzuto scoots into second as Dodgers' Gilliam makes a late catch. (Central Press Canadian).

Despite an injured left knee, Brooklyn's home run hero, Duke Snider, above, took his place in the line-up and shared with his teammates in the dramatic seventh game victory. (Central Press Canadian).

NEW YORK (AP) — Brooklyn Dodgers' seven-game world series victory over New York Yankees established 18 records. Eleven others were tied.

For the Dodgers, Gil Hodges shattered a mark for first basemen by starting three double plays and both clubs broke the twin-killings record with 12. In the hitting department Duke Snider hit four homers to boost his series total to nine, the highest total compiled by a National League player.

Phil Rizzuto set a record previously held by his former Yankee teammate Joe DiMaggio as he appeared in his 52nd series game.

Yankee Fan Couldn't Take It

SARANAC LAKE, N.Y. (AP) — Forrest Morgan, a tavern owner, just couldn't take New York Yankees' loss of the world series.

He leaped fully clothed Tuesday into the near-freezing waters of the Saranac river in this Adirondack mountain resort village—and swam out shivering.

It wasn't a bet. Morgan admitted he was a "violent Yankee fan" who just couldn't take it.

Johnny Podres' Iron-Nerved Pitching Marks Dodgers Thrilling Victory

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

DIS WUE IT!

"Dis wun our way."

The triumphant cry of the Flatbush faithful echoed and re-echoed up and down Brooklyn's storied thoroughfares yesterday after their fractured "Bums" had blanked the hated Yankees and brought home the first world championship for the Borough of Churches.

Even the tintinabulation of the bells seem to echo, "Well Done 'Bums'."

The Dodgers deserved the victory, every danged inch of it regardless of what dyed-in-the-wool Yankee fans will claim. Hanging on by their bootstraps after two disastrous defeats in the opening games, the Flatbush Fusiliers roared back with three straight victories in the confines of their own beloved Ebbets Field, came back to the Yankee Stadium where the Bronx Bombers bumbled them 5-1 to square the series, then went on to win in dramatic clarity the seventh and most important tilt of them all.

It was the iron-nerved pitching of youthful Johnny Podres, Dodger southpaw, and the clutch hitting of Gil Hodges that paved the way for the Dodger's championship victory. There was drama and heartache and heartbreak in the classic. For six innings Podres and Tommy Byrne, Yankee hurler, who defeated the Dodgers in the second game, battled in a thrilling hurling duel. Then Byrne was replaced by Grim in the sixth after yielding a run, but the Dodgers came back to send home the winner.

It was a thrilling game in a surging red-hot series. Probably the most dramatic of the many heart-throbbing events was the Dodgers' rally to take the series after absorbing two initial losses and a three-all equalizer.

And the "dope" held good. The fourth inning, when the club that made a runaway race in league play went on to win world honors; that most of the games would be won during or before the fifth inning, and many more such happenings.

It was a tough pill for the Ole Sliver Fox to swallow. Ole Case wanted to win his sixth series in seven years but as manager has control over hurlers and pitching. Yankee strategist tried everything in the book to halt the Dodgers but triumphant march but managerial minds and cunning cannot control the mind and muscles of rampaging home run hitters.

It was a great series between two great teams and the greater of them won the laurels.

And we are not detracting from the great Yankee machine. It was without its great hitting star, Mickey Mantle, with the exception of one game—but even the great Mickey may not have swung the pendulum. The Yankees came through with flawless performances but they were matched and eventually beaten by the grim determination of the Dodgers to finally make good their aged boast "Dis is Our Year." It was.

It was a tough series, too. It was tough on the nerves, the cardiacs, the boys in the backroom, the bookies, the bartenders and the waiters, it all depending on which horse you teased the family hay. And it was tough on Fever—until yesterday afternoon. The one-man band of the Dodgers finally had his moment of triumph and there probably was some red faces around town when the Ole Peave finished his blasts of victory.

The world-stood still at times in the bistros of Brooklyn, while their heroic "Bums" were battling the hated Yankee enemy in the stadium across the river. Pulses pounded, schuppers downed beverages of foam; tension mounted in the supercharged atmosphere as the stirring drama unfolded.

Then it was over. Nuff sed!

WITH THE TPT's -

The Duncan twins are not likely to wear a Belleville uniform this season, it was learned at a meeting of the TPT executive last night. It appears the duo wants considerably more salaries plus hand-picked jobs. Hub Macoy's status with the club is still indefinite. Hub at present is working as a guard in Kingston Penitentiary. He is undecided.

Three executive members will leave on a tour of pro and other hockey camps with full authority to secure an outstanding goalie and one or two defencemen. The executive was in favor of placing an exhibition game or a twin bill with the Clinton Comets, possibly on October 22 and 23.

Don't forget those season tickets are on sale at Bill Cook's tobacco store.

"If I didn't charge a few practical things first, my husband would spend his world series moopy on shotguns and things!"

JACKIE'S ENGAGED

TORONTO (CP)—Jackie Macdonald, 22 - year - old Canadian woman shot put star, announced her engagement Tuesday to Bill Eckersley, 22, of Petersburg, Ont.

Miss Macdonald said she and Eckersley, a University of Toronto, arts graduate who plans to study law, have been engaged for "several weeks." They have not yet set a wedding date.

Jackie said the date will depend on how she makes out in the Olympic trials next spring. She hopes to make the Canadian team for the games in Melbourne next November. The blonde Toronto schoolteacher placed second in the shot put at the Pan American Games last year.

Fashioned Fine Performance In Second Defeat of Yankees; Amoros, Hodges Shine Afield

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Their long cherished dream finally a reality, the world champion Brooklyn Dodgers loomed today as the team which will represent the National League in the 1956 world series.

Walter Alston, first of 20 managers dating back to 1890 to lead the Brooklyn club to a world title, modestly predicted his team would be even stronger next year than the ones which whipped the New York Yankees in the series, 4 games to 3.

"Improved pitching will make us stronger next year," the tall, taciturn ex-schoolteacher from Darrtown, Ohio, said during a quiet moment in the Dodgers' riotous victory celebration following their momentous 2-0 triumph in the seventh and final game.

"Johnny Podres should develop into one of the game's greatest pitchers," Alston said. "He has all the stuff to make a great one and he may come into his own next year. Then would entire victories should give him the necessary confidence. Then we have Karl Spooner, Billy Loes, Clem Labine sent and Sandy Koufax. All are young, strong and have shown tremendous promise. And remember, we still have our reliables such as Don Newcombe, Carl Erskine, Billy Loes, Clem Labine and others."

OTHER STANDOUTS

Alston did not mention such standout sticksmen as Duke Snider, Roy Campanella, Pee Wee Reese, Carl Furillo. All undoubtedly will be at the old stand next year including the aging, but still brilliant Pewwee Reese and Jackie Robinson. Jackie Gilliam, Don Zimmer, Don Hoak and Don Zimmer, representing the younger element, all figure prominently in the Dodgers' future plans.

There's no denying that all figured prominently in the great Dodger comeback. Overshadowed by the pulse-pounding triumph at Yankee Stadium, Alston had had the 62,465 nail-biting spectators exhausted at the finish. Even the staunchest American League diehards could not begrudge Brooklyn's finest hour. For what started the 23-year-old Podres pitch a superb game to become the first Brooklyn hurler to win two games in a world series.

They saw the Dodgers make maximum use of their five hits and marveled at the Dodgers' brilliant defence that five times turned the Yankees back when it appeared they were about to break through.

At the finish, when Reese, the stonewall infielder, threw out Elston Howard, the big park rocked with human emotion as the entire Dodger team raced out on the field to embrace the gritty young southpaw.

EXTRAORDINARY DISPLAY

In an extraordinary scene never witnessed before, the huge crowd stood up and cheered the new champs, who were deliriously climbing over each others shoulders while the proud Yankees were filing slowly into the losing dressing room, a unique experience for them. Only Yankee coaches Bill Dickey and Frankie Crosetti, manager Casey Stengel and shortstop Phil Rizzuto had ever experienced a loss before.

In one blazing, thrill-packed afternoon, all the years of frustration and defeats were wiped out. After four decades of trying, a Dodger team finally succeeded in winning a world title, and to sweeten the victory, it was achieved against their arch tormentors, the Yankees who had humiliated them in five straight previous fall meetings.

Numerous records were set in this full dress struggle but the one that Brooklyn players will remember most is the three scoreless innings in winning four of their last five games after dropping the first two. This like no contender had ever happened in a seven-game world series before. Another record that brought joy to the victors was the total net receipts of $2,207,315.34, making it the richest world series ever.

NEED PODRES

To accomplish the tremendous comeback victory, the Dodgers had to get superb pitching from Podres, their young lefthander, and they had to beat Tommy Byrne, the veteran swingman who had given them the most trouble, along with Whitey Ford, another lefthander. The Dodgers didn't exactly overpower Byrne but did manage to get runs from the box in the sixth inning with the help of an error and scored both runs off him when Sandy Amoros hit a double.

In the fourth, Campanella crashed a double left and scored on a two-out single by Gil Hodges to put the Dodgers ahead.

The insurance run came in the sixth. A costly error by Yankee first baseman Bill Skowron paved the way for the unearned tally. It forced the withdrawal of Byrne although in all he had given up only three hits.

Reese led off with a single. Snider sacrificed, but was safe at first

JOHNNY PODRES
... Hero of Flatbush

when Skowron took Byrne's throw wide of the bag and dropped the ball as he made a swipe at the Duke. After Campanella had moved the runners along with another sacrifice bunt, Stengel allowed Byrne to give Furillo an intentional pass before taking him out. Bob Grim took over on the mound and served a long sacrifice fly to Hodges who thus drove in both Dodger runs.

HELD TO THE END

Fortified with this additional tally, Podres blazed through a succession of Yankee batters to retire all of Dodgers fought with the tenacity of inspired men to hold the advantage to the end.

It was a frustrating, fruitless afternoon for the Yankees and Stengel who, in six world series as a manager, went down to defeat for the first time. In every inning but the first and ninth the Yankees had threats going but could not break the inviable chains Podres was looping around them.

Skowron doubled with two out in the second but Podres got Bob Cerv to ground out. Yankees staged a two-out threat in the third with a single by Mantle following a walk to Phil Rizzuto. Gil McDougald, the next batter, contributed a 3-2 roller down to third. The ball hit Rizzuto for the third out when the Yankees, with no alternative, sought to slide into third.

In the fourth, Berra got a fluke double when Snider and Gilliam allowed his fly ball to drop between them untouched. The Yankees failed to take advantage of the break, however, when Podres, pitching pluckily, retired the next three batters.

GAMES KEY PLAY

The play of the game came in the sixth. The Yankees had runners on first and second with nobody out when Berra came up again. Martin had opened with a walk and had gone to second on McDougald's surprise bunt single.

This was a situation on which the Yankees, past and present, had capitalized for the last three decades. But here again the situation produced nothing although in a trifle it the Dodgers had to come up with the most eye-popping double play of the series.

With a one ball count, Berra lashed at an outside fast ball and sent it soaring into the left field corner. It looked like a hit but, possibly a ground rule one-bounce double into the stands. Amoros, who had replaced Furillo in left at the start of the inning when Junior Gilliam moved in to centre, was perfect for over in left centre for the lefthanded hitting Berra.

Flashing in full of speed, the little Latin American outfielder caught up with the ball and caught it with an outstretched glove, about a foot or two from the stands. The crowd buzzed with amazement but Amoros was not through. The little Cuban whirled, regained his feet, who threw to Hodges and McDougald who had scampered back—was doubled up at first. After that, Hank Bauer grounded out and nearly everybody in the park knew in sense that the Dodgers would not be denied their greatest hour of glory.

Warren Godfrey, 24, of Toronto has joined the Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League in an off-season trade with Boston Bruins. General manager Jack Adams and coach Jimmy Skinner predict a great season for the 24-year-old 190-pound defenceman. He was three years with Boston. Previously he played with Tacoma Rockets of the Western League. (CP Photo) 1955.

I'm sure he'll be happy with us this time."

Godfrey has few worries along that line. "Moving up to Detroit was something I looked forward to," the 190-pound rearguard said. "Making the jump to the defending Stanley Cup champions is better yourself and that's what everyone wants to do."

In his three years at Boston, Godfrey earned the reputation for being a puck carrier in his own right. Sugar Jim Henry, who played in goal behind Godfrey over that stretch, says "the kid is a lot of hockey player."

"He carries the puck nicely and he doesn't mind using his weight to good advantage."

Godfrey was discovered by Rangers' general manager Muzz Patrick in 1951 while he was with Tacoma Rockets of the Western League. However, when Muzz sought him he discovered that brother Lynn had arrived first and Godfrey moved up to the Bruins at the start of the 1952 season.

During the summer months Godfrey limits himself to playing baseball and operating his automotive parts business in Toronto.

WILL BE BACK

MONTREAL (CP) — Enid Hal Patterson, Alcoa star who missed the rest of the season with an injury suffered last Saturday in Toronto, will be back in action with Montreal Alouettes Monday, the team announced Thursday night.

Further x-rays showed Patterson did not suffer a chipped vertebra as thought earlier.

'Jawn' Thinks Godfrey In For Fine Season

By LARRY GUERRIERO
Canadian Press Correspondent

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich (CP)—If the words of Jack Adams Jimmy Skinner and Sugar Jim Henry mean anything, Toronto born Warren Godfrey is in for a big year in his first season as a Detroit Red Wing.

Godfrey, recently acquired from Boston Bruins in a multi-player trade, ranks high in the books of Adams, Detroit general manager who says he is one of the finest defencemen in the National Hockey League," Adams said in an interview.

"He has fitted nicely into the Red Wing style of play working alongside Red Kelly, and he should improve considerably. The young star has always been an outstanding hockey player."

COULD BE ALL-STAR

Coach Jimmy Skinner goes even higher in his praise for the 24-year-old defenceman. "Godfrey could be an all-star defenceman this year. He definitely was one of the top performers the Bruins had last season and there is no reason why he shouldn't be equally effective with our club.

"He's big and rugged and he skates and carries the puck well. All he needs is to be happy, and

National Hockey League Breaks Barrier On 70-Game Season Thursday

Champion Detroit Red Wings Cross Feathers With Hawks; Canadiens Will Host Leafs

MONTREAL (CP)—The National Hockey League swings open the gate on another 70-game season Thursday night and a few of the players probably could lose [illegible] if they start shooting at the wrong net.

Toronto Maple Leafs will be the visitors at Montreal while Chicago Black Hawks go against the champion Red Wings in Detroit. The man with the program concession in Detroit should do a landslide business.

It's all a part of general manager Jack Adams' policy of never standing still with a winner. This summer he outdid all previous efforts by dealing off eight of his Stanley Cup winning mates, including Vezina Trophy goalie Terry Sawchuk. Then he contented the situation further by swapping and farming out some of the players he got in return.

AFTER 5TH STRAIGHT

The trades apparently did nothing to weaken the Red Wings, who will be going after their eighth straight championship. Last Sunday they polished off the NHL All Stars 3-1 in an exhibition game.

In the lineup for Detroit in that one were defenceman Bucky Hollingworth and forward Jerry Toppazzini, last year with Chicago, and Warren Hunter, Real Chevrefils, Ed Sandford and Norm Corcoran, formerly of Boston. Corcoran since has been sent down.

Add three impressive rookies—goalie Glenn Hall and forwards Norm Ullman and John Bucyk—and stir with established stars like Red Kelly, Gordie Howe and Ted Lindsay and coach Jimmy Skinner hopes to have another championship.

Co-favored with the Wings are the Montreal Canadiens, edged out by a point in the last game of the season last year as coach Dick Blake says he hopes to get 15 more goals than last season out of his big three—Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion, last year's scoring champion, veteran Maurice Richard and Jean Beliveau. The trio accounted for a third of the league's big question marks. Most observers figure they will have to come up with an outstanding rookie prospect from among Billy Hayrie, Paul Knox, Dick Duff and Ekri Lafleur if they are to repeat last year's three-place finish.

The Black Hawks, with Dick Irvin, former coach of Montreal and Toronto, at the helm, are expected to be a lot stronger than last year, when they finished last. They have been strengthened by the addition of defencemen Benny Woit and forwards Tony Leswick, Glen Skov and Johnny Wilson from Detroit and Ivan Irwin, rookie Hector Lalonde, up from Galt of the Ontario Junior Hockey Association.

FIGURES—MONTREAL FIRST

Irvin hasn't any hope of taking first place, however. He figures Montreal will do that — by 10 games.

Boston Bruins, who open their season here Saturday, solved a goaltending problem with the acquisition of Sawchuk from Detroit. They also picked up Marcel Bonin, Vic Stasiuk and Lorne Davis from the Red Wings.

New York has a new coach in Fiery Phil Watson but most observers figure he will take all the fire and a few more good players to get the Rangers into the playoffs. They open up Friday against the Black Hawks in Chicago.

Yankees Didn't Scare Johnny, Victory Lifts Alston Mystery

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Hero of the 1955 world series by brash, 25-year-old miner's son who holds Yankee baseball power and prestige in a diadem bordering on contempt.

"I think I can whip 'em seven times out of eight," Johnny Podres said Tuesday after he had pitched the Brooklyn Dodgers to a seven-game 2-0 victory which brought Flatbush its first world championship.

It was Podres who stopped Casey Stengel's haughty New Yorkers in the third game, 8-3, after the Yankees had won the first two. It was Podres who climaxed the series Tuesday with a crafty eight-hitter, cowing the big Yankee bats in the clutch.

"I never once doubted I could take it," the young lefthander from Witherbee, N.Y., said. "Sure, I was in a tight spot once in a while, but all I had to do was bear down."

EIGHT LEFT ON

The Yankees left eight men on base as Podres whistled his fast ones past the ears of powerhouses Yogi Berra, Hank Bauer and Mickey Mantle, the latter in a pinch-hit role, and teased them with curves and change-ups.

With two men on base in the eighth and only one out, Podres made Berra fly out to short right field and Bauer swung for a third strike on a bad pitch—high and outside.

If the odds were long that the Dodgers could come back after dropping the first two games and take the series—a feat no team ever accomplished in a seven-game set—they were even longer that the main part of the job could be turned in by the hard-luck southpaw who finished the season with a lack-lustre 9-10 mark.

Plagued by a chronic back ailment for years, he hadn't completed a pitching assignment from June 16 until the end of the campaign. He started 13 games in that span, was knocked to the showers twice in all.

FATHER IS PROUD

Proudest man in Yankee Stadium after the clinching game was not young Podres but a feathery mine of iron ore from a small upstate village five miles from Lake Placid.

"I've always dreamed something like this would happen," said Joseph Podres, who Johnny's hunky uncle beaming at his side. "I always wanted Johnny to be a champ — and he is."

Johnny looked over at his dad and smiled. "You were a little nervous out there, though, weren't you, pop?"

Young Podres said just before the game he saw his father sitting in the stands and gave him an "everything's okay" sign.

The father said he started Johnny pitching when the lad was five years old.

At 18 he struck out 228 men in 200 innings for Hazard, Ky., in the Class D Mountain State League. He was with Montreal in 1952 and has been with the Dodgers since 1953.

He seemed completely awed by all the attention suddenly lavished upon him.

"You're a hero now," a teammate yelled at him. "You're the talk of the country. They'll be after you for television appearances, and speeches."

"Okay, for a thousand bucks a throw," Podres said, displaying a familiar mercenary touch.

Agents swarmed around Johnny's locker, trying to get his signature on contracts for TV appearances and endorsements.

"Not now, fellows," Podres said. "I'm dead tired and too confused to think. There's nothing I'd like more now than to go to sleep and then tomorrow go fishing."

Series Mania World Wide

LONDON (Reuters)—Bewildered Europeans on Tuesday night contemplated the spectacle of an apparent epidemic of insanity among the Americans in their midst.

Three unconcerned-looking Germans were hauled off the street into the Brooklyn Dodger fan and had free drinks thrust first of them.

The BBC's widely heard nine o'clock news broadcast took cognisance of the world series outcome and The Daily Mail tried to detail the situation. Its London readers by explaining that the Dodgers have "all the glamor and appeal of Chelsea," the brilliant and erratic first division soccer club.

ROCKER, BEDAM!

A note of heresy was introduced by a United States Air Force spokesman at the Burtonwood air base: "We're too far away from the series to get excited. The men are very keen on soccer."

But Rouge et Noir restaurants announced the results on their public address systems, to cheers and groans from American customers who toasted the victors and vanquished in red wine.

An Italian waiter, who confessed that he doesn't know Rizzuto from Campanella, expressed his approval of the manle.

"I like the guys who cry much," he said. "The supporters of the winners wish to celebrate and the supporters of the losers to drown their sorrow."

Knox to Play With Dutchies

KITCHENER (CP)—Paul Knox was one of more than 20 players who turned up for the first practice Tuesday night of Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League.

Knox, who played with Toronto St. Michael's in the OHA Junior A League two years ago and with University of Toronto Blues last season, was at the training camp last month of Toronto Maple Leafs National Hockey League team.

The 145-lightweight played Tuesday night on a line with former Boston Bruins centre Ed Harrison and leftwinger Jim Logan during the 90-minute workout.

Amoros' Stab Was Key Catch

NEW YORK (AP) — The key catch of the 1955 world series was made in the sixth inning when Sandy Amoros, fleet Brooklyn outfielder, raced into the far left corner of Yankee Stadium to catch Yogi Berra's tricky high fly—and then doubled Gil McDougald at first, with Peewee Reese relaying the ball.

Two men were on and nobody out when the sensational catch and double play were made.

Amoros, a Cuban who talks little English, was asked afterwards if he thought he could catch the ball.

"I guess," he said. "I just run like ball."

Their Night to Howl

Fanatical Flatbush Flared After 'Bums' Thrilling Win

BROOKLYN, N.Y. (CP)—Nobody went home for supper. Nobody talked of sleep. Respectable housewives threw their arms around the nearest male. Men pounded strangers on the back.

It started a second after every television screen in Brooklyn saw first baseman Gil Hodges glove the ball for the final out, crowning the Dodgers as baseball's world champions for the first time in history. And it kept going far into the night.

A judge in Kings county court interrupted proceedings to offer his congratulations to manager Walter Alston and his men. Factory whistles and automobile horns blared a long, happy salute. Church bells clanged and ticker-tape flew from office windows.

DRINKS ON THE HOUSE

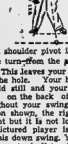
Barkeep John Manol locked his cash register for half an hour and served drinks on the house.

"This is something Brooklyn will remember for years," he yelled, omitting to explain whether he is Manhattan there didn't seem to be a New York Yankee fan in drinks.

In Manhattan there didn't seem to be a New York Yankee fan in sight.

There was more ticker-tape mixed with fragments of telephone books and other papers. If the cops had been enforcing the $25 fine against littering the city streets have quit collecting taxes for the next five years.

A HERO ASTRAY



But the day belonged to Brooklyn. Andy Mangano's restaurant, which doesn't serve beer, put a keg of it on the sidewalk, together with a juke box, and invited passersby to help themselves.

One exultant fan came to grief. He car bedecked with signs saying "We win." Chuck Vandewater blew his horn happily as he drove home from work. Another car honked behind him and he kept honking back.

Finally the second car drew abreast and a cop emerged to hand Vandewater a ticket for unnecessarily disturbing the peace.

"I must keep it on the Yankees," said Vandewater.

Sam Snead's Golf School

Full shoulder pivot is a ninety degree turn from the address position. This leaves your back "facing" the hole. Your head must be held still and your eyes kept fixed on the back of the ball throughout your swing. In the position shown, the right leg is straight but it is not locked. Now our pictured player is ready to start his down swing. You do this with a sort of all-together movement. Start reversing the hip pivot slowly and simultaneously pulling your hands down from the top and you start your shoulder pivot. The left shoulder starts back and around and travels at twice the speed of the hip pivot. This is because it must reverse twice as far in order that the shoulders and the hips return to the address position at the moment of impact. That isn't nearly as complicated as it sounds. Read it again and you'll understand that action perfectly. In fact you'll automatically swing this way if you don't press—if you don't struggle to swing harder than you can swing with rhythm.

Podres Pride Of Home Town

WITHERBEE, N.Y. (AP) — This tiny Adirondack lumber and iron center went wild with joy when the home-town pride, Johnny Podres, pitched Brooklyn Dodgers to their first world series victory.

Johnny's mother, Mrs. Joseph Podres, wept with happiness as she watched via television the hero of Flatbush blank New York Yankees 2-0.

A big community celebration has been arranged for Saturday night in the adjoining hamlet of Mineville. Johnny was a star athlete at Mineville High.

There'll be a dinner and speeches and all the folks will show how proud they are of Johnny Podres, the mound master who twice defeated the Yankees in the series.

Naomi Baker, Podres' girl friend, who lives in neighboring Port Henry, also hugged the television set Tuesday. And she'll be on hand when Mineville and Witherbee whoop it up Saturday night.

Gives Scholarship To Dodger Son

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A wins company said Tuesday it will award a scholarship to the son of a Brooklyn Dodger baseball player.

The scholarship will pay for attendance at a preparatory school, university or college, A. G. Sampson, company president, said. The players will draw lots and the oldest son of the draw winner will receive the scholarship.

Negro Performers Prominently Featured on 2 TV Programs

By CHARLES MERCER

"NEW YORK (AP) — In no matter-docs television display greater nobility than on the subject of the Negro. So it's news that two Negro performers were prominently featured on two programs within an hour on NBC-TV the other evening.

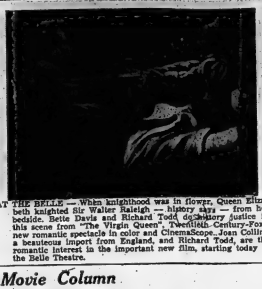
Television's timidity on the subject of the Negro is not a commentary on Americans; it's simply a commentary on television. In no other field can 20 letters from 20 cranks raise such a turmoil.

So it was a pleasure last Sunday night to see the Colgate Variety Hour devote half of its program to the singing of the great Negro folk balladeer, Harry Belafonte. It was an equal pleasure to see on the succeeding "Television Playhouse" an excellent drama in which a fine Negro actor, Sidney Poitier, played the lead.

"The drama, entitled "A Man Is Ten Feet Tall," concerned men on the waterfront. It did not concern a "Negro problem." Its author, Robert Alan Aurthur, said, "It was about a couple of guys. One of them happened to be a Negro." That was the great significance of the play as a TV vehicle. It let a man who happened to be a Negro lived with as much dignity and courage as many men who happen to be white constantly live with dignity and courage in innumerable TV dramas.

In discussing the role of the Negro in TV with Harry Belafonte at lunch the other day, he told me:

"Television has recognized the Negro much faster than the theatre, radio and the movies did. The chief reason, I think is because TV has come to the fore in times when racial prejudice is decreasing.



Travelling frequently and extensively in the south gathering original material for his ballads, Belafonte believes there's a changing attitude toward the Negro there. He's proudest of reviews of his appearances which have been published in southern papers.

It would be fine if some southern governor would grant his wish to make tape-recordings of songs sung in prison chain gangs.

COLLEGE STUDENTS REVIVE PANTY RAIDS

Reviving the "panty raids" in U. S. colleges of a year ago, two agile students climb to the second storey of a girls' dormitory at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, during a raid in which about 1,000 collegians took part. Coeds waved scanties out of the windows to egg the boys on. The raid began after a pep rally on the eve of a football game. (Central Press Canadian).

AT THE BELLE — When knighthood was in flowpr, Queen Elizabeth knighted Sir Walter Raleigh — History says from her bedside. Bette Davis and Richard Todd as history justice in this scene from "The Virgin Queen", Twentieth Century-Fox's new romantic spectacle in color and CinemaScope. Joan Collins, a beauteous import from England, and Richard Todd, are the romantic interest in the important new film, starting today at the Belle Theatre.

Tall Midget Is Kept Busy Doubling for Child Actors

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Quiet-spoken moon-faced Henry Stone describes himself as "one of the tallest midgets you ever saw." He's also one of the busiest.

Henry, is four feet, nine inches, which isn't short for a midget, but he's just the right height to act as stand-in and stunt double for child actors in their early teens, and that's what he has been doing for 28 years.

He also plays jockeys, bellhops and messengers in movies, but his steadiest work comes in standing in for kids. State laws put strict limits on the time children can spend before the cameras.

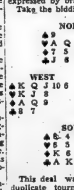
Henry, who is a vigorous 57, has seen them come and go. He can name at least 83 lads for whom he has stood in. Among the first was Jackie Cooper.

BIG GIRLS' STUNTS

"I stood in for Mickey Rooney in all the Andy Hardy pictures," Henry recalled. "Mickey was always full of life—a very nice boy."

Henry's list includes every one from Bobby Breen, Freddie Bartholomew, Jackie Coogan and Dickie Moore to Alfalfa Switzer, Spanky Mcfarland, Bobby Driscoll and Roddy McDowall. He has been a "kneel-in" for younger actors like Lee Aaker (Rin Tin Tin), And he has done stunts for such girls as Jane Withers and Edith Fellows.

"In 'San Francisco,' " he remembered, "I played a girl who jumped 38 feet into a fireman's net. After I landed, one of the firemen looked up through the smoke and asked, 'Has he jumped yet?' "



GETS BETTER PAY

For his daily standing-in he draws $19.43, compared to $17.85 for normal-sized stand-ins. When he does regular acting roles he draws a minimum of $25.26, against $17.85 for non-midgets. The differential is due to the midgets' small but potent lobbying power.

He has earned a comfortable living, sometimes an excellent one. "I've got my own home in Los Angeles, and the best cook in the world," he said. "That's my mother, who is 80. I never married. I could have—but was the leading lady in the Singer troupe. But I was young then and I wanted to travel with the circus."

AT THE CAPITOL — Esther Williams is towed on water-skis 75 feet into the air by a helicopter, then dives into the middle of a horseshoe formed by 12 others as a thrill highlight of her newest M-G-M "Technicolor" production, "Jupiter's Darling", showing Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program a comedy short with Red Skelton in "Half A Hero".

This deal was played in a duplicate tournament with the final results verified at different tables. Rule bidding stops south at a contract of three clubs and the other side at three spades.

At one table, south was willing to stop at three clubs or let the opponents play it in three spades. But when west stretched it to four spades, a different picture presented itself.

If four spades went unmade, it would pay to sacrifice at a bid of five clubs. If four spades will not make, going to five clubs is a foolish venture. What would be your decision?

It happened that four spades can be defeated with the loss of two clubs and two hearts. With the best defence, south will also ruff a third heart and thus defeat four spades by two tricks.

The number of raises in north told south their pair had a count of nine tricks. Careful or lucky play may produce a tenth trick. So, a bid of five clubs will no doubt be defeated.

South did not have the advantage of looking at all the hands. After due consideration he feared that four spades might make. So, he went to five clubs for a sacrifice and was doubled.

At some of the tables where south tried to sacrifice with five clubs, the contract was made with ease. But at this particular table I speak of and at several others, five clubs was easily defeated.

No doubt you can see how it was done and how it was not done. Some of the players are still trying to place the blame. In many bridge arguments, both sides are often wrong.

THE YEAR'S TRULY BIG AND IMPORTANT PICTURE!

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, October 6, 1955

March 21 to April 20.—(Aries) Every planet but Mars favorably situated. A good day in which to strive for attainment; for happiness, too. Just stay in good humor, don't fret, and do keep reasonably occupied.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Cheerful, simulating rays to bring you aid and comfort. Just the same, be watchful lest your interests suffer through carelessness or overconfidence. Try new projects if you thoroughly understand them. Go forward.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Down-to-earth matters get a big boost now. A time in which to really achieve, get ahead. Don't permit haste or recklessness to defeat your purposes, however. Avoid contention.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—Your Moon plus other friendly aspects give you the "Go" sign this helpful day. Of course, you must do your best if you would attain the goals possible.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—A lively, sprightly day for those in like mood. Don't get into unpleasant discussions; you can help prevent them.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 23 (Virgo)—Note Cancer today. Your indications are similar. Do not become aggravated with those who do not see things as you see with you.

Sept. 24 to Oct. 23 (Libra)—Substantially a better day than you may think upon arising this a.m. Chat with others in a friendly manner, give the other person the benefit of the doubt and watch your stock rise.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — You can do just so much physically and mentally, then there should be some diversion and complete rest from routine, work, the humdrum. Don't drive yourself to exhaustion.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—New and fresh interests are stimulating, but don't give up or neglect old ties that have proven true and worthwhile.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Keep up, whatever is productive, but don't hesitate to make improvements, useful changes, also journeys where they could truly help you or your interests. Watch your diet.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — There are various ways in which you can make helpful changes and still not deviate too far from the normal routine. Have faith and a forward-looking attitude.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Music, reading, associating with children and agreeable people are tonics for those who are tired or low in spirit. How you spend free hours is an important factor in achieving success.

You born today have many talents, and few faults, but the faults you have can be annoying to yourself and to others if you don't curb them. You can work as an all-round capable teammate, or be a just, able superior. You like wholesome things, know how to talk to children and those who feel discouraged. You are, if true to your better self, an excellent home-provider, will work hard on home or office chores. Keep disposition even; enjoy pleasures in sane doses. Birthdate of: Jerome Kern, famed singer.

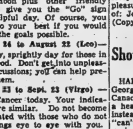
Should Give Thanks

HALIFAX (CP) — Right Rev. George Dorey said Monday night Canadians should be thankful for a healthy industry and commerce instead of complaining that they "can't sell our apples or our grain."



Otherwise, the moderator of the United Church told a service club luncheon, "I often wonder if we are not tempting Providence. . . ."

Sub-contractors and material suppliers may secure plans at the following listed exchanges: 101 Bay Street, Toronto; Kingston Builders Exchange, Old Cataraqui Building, Ontario; C.M.H.C. Branch Office, Box 248, 179 Rideau Street, Ottawa, Ontario; C.M.H.C. Loans Office, Box 68, 249½ Queen Street, Fredericton, N.B., and this office.

Each tender must be accompanied by a security deposit in the form of a bid bond or documents. Such deposit shall indemnify the owner against loss in the event of withdrawal of the successful tenderer subsequent to the acceptance of the bid.

ALL CHEQUES ARE TO BE MADE PAYABLE TO CENTRAL MORTGAGE AND HOUSING CORPORATION.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

END LONG STRIKE

NANTES, France (AP) — Some 14,000 Nantes metal workers who had been either on strike or locked out for 49 days have returned to work after getting a 15-per-cent wage boost, eight per cent less than what they were asking. The long walkout twice was marked with violent clashes between police and the strikers. One worker was killed and 96 others injured.

Flying Training School Must Pay Tax on Surplus

OTTAWA (CP)—The St. Catharines, Ont., Flying Training School, formerly in the Second World War to train RCAF pilots, must pay income tax on its surplus for the first three years of its operation, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled Tuesday.

The court ruled, however, that no tax can be levied on surpluses from operations after March 31, 1943, since all earnings after then were, in effect, assigned to the crown in trust.

Tuesday's decision partly overruled the decision of Mr. Justice J. T. Thorson of the Exchequer Court who had decided that none of the school's surplus was taxable.

The judgment did not state how much taxable profits were made before March 31, 1943. At the end of the war the school had a surplus of $93,000 from its training of RCAF pilots.

INCORPORATED BY CLUB

The school was incorporated by the St. Catharines Flying Club headed by A. M. Seymour, former president of the Canadian Flying Clubs association. Capital of more than $35,000 was donated by district industries and the charter prohibited distribution of any profits during the war. The intention was that any money should revert to the flying club after the war.

In first contract to train RCAF pilots expired March 31, 1942. The second contract, running for two years, provided that any money might be set aside. It should be held in a reserve account until after the war when it would be paid to a flying club named by the administer or else revert to the crown.

Following the war the government negotiated with all similar flying establishments to surrender All but the St. Catharines school agreed to give up all surplus money above $5,000 a year in returns for certain crown equipment. The St. Catharines club refused to follow suit in the belief that it was a non-profit organization not liable to tax and that its sponsoring club was entitled to the money.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was thinking serious to herself, saying to pop, William, that I have a certain friend and she has a certain friend who is not really a friend at all, because she keeps spreading baseless slanders about my friend, but what I ought to tell her? she said.

No, pop said, and ma said, But why, exactly?

It's not your bizness, pop said, and ma said. But William, then sooner or later somebody ets will tell her, and she'll never speek to me again if she finds I kept my mouth closed like a hippocritical person. So dont you think I ought to say something? she said.

No, pop said, and ma said, Why not?

It's no concern of yours, pop said, and ma said. But if you saw a frend of yours sinking into quicksands. I'm sure you'd pull him out,

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles

Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was reported in case after case where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of cases and conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed unguent-filled Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

even if he didn't know he was sinking.

Keep out of it, pop said, and ma said, Why, William?

It has nothing to do with you, pop said, and ma said, Anyway, William, the sequel to the story is, I've already told her, and if you tell me it is a single reason I was wrong, I'll never forgive you.

Then I'll tell you 2 reasons why you were right, pop said. Ferst, you've already gone and done it, and 2nd, even if you hadn't, no power on erth could of prevented you from doing it later, for by simple unanserable logic, you were right, he said, and ma said, Well I'm glad to hear you say so, even if you did have to admit that if took all my powers of logic to convince you.

Being the happy end for me.

Calgary Teacher Is Beloved By Tribesmen for His Interest In Indian Assoc. of Alberta

CALGARY (CP) — Among the Stoney Indians of the Morley reservation he is known as "White Cloud."

To the Sarcees whose reservation is adjacent to the City of Calgary he's known as "Sittina Eagle."

To residents of Calgary he's John Laurie, B.A., teacher on the staff of the Crescent Heights high school.

He's also secretary, without pay, of the Indian Association of Alberta and in this capacity has long been prodding the officials of the federal department of Indian affairs.

MANY ACHIEVEMENTS

John Laurie was born on an Ontario farm 54 years ago. He is a graduate of the University of Toronto where he was an honor student. He came to Calgary in 1919 and joined the staff of the old Western Canada College as English and Latin master.

Now, although broken in health and forced to give up teaching for the time being, he can look back on a long list of achievements.

The first job he tackled was a study of the Indian Act. The Indians were suspicious at first and wanted to know more about the white man who had come suddenly into their midst, ready to battle the Canadian government's for a better deal for the Plains Indians.

But Mr. Laurie had first-class credentials with the support of the late Chief Enos Hunter of the Stonys, Johnny Calliboe of Michel's Band, Jim Gladstone of the Bloods and Reuben Bull and Dave Crowchild of the Sarcees.

ENERGETIC ADVOCATE

He wrote articles, addressed public meetings and studied the Indian Act until he knew every paragraph by heart. He accompanied a delegation to Ottawa in 1947 to discuss possible revision of the act. On three other occasions he went at his own expense.

Early in 1948 he was warned by doctors to ease up. At that time the Indian Act was in the process of being revised and he could not afford to stop. Then one night on the Sarcee reserve he dropped unconscious at the feet of chief David Crowchild.

The ailment was diagnosed as a coronary occlusion, and for a while Laurie hovered between life and death in hospital. Indian friends, Johnny Calliboo and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Crowchild conducted a 36-day vigil at the hospital.

The Indians couldn't believe that everything was being done for Mr. Laurie and sent out a call for Walking Buffalo, great medicine man of the Stoneys, who came to the hospital.

TRIBAL INVASION

Accompanied by a representative group from the tribes, the majestic medicine man strode down the hospital corridor. An orderly on duty outside Laurie's door retreated when he saw the Indians advancing.

For nearly 10 minutes the Indians prayed in their own way for his life. Hospital officials and nurses attracted by the low chant swarmed around the corridors but the bodyguard refused them admittance. Later the Indians left as silently as they had come.

Laurie soon was sufficiently recovered to be discharged from hospital. He went to the Sarcee reserve where Chief Crowchild's family nursed him to health.

His accomplishments have ranged from greater reserves autonomy to pensions, education grants, better medical attention for Indians, and all aspects of life enjoyed by whites.

Recently he again entered hospital for further cardiac treatment. He carried a bulky briefcase. Even from sickbed, the work of trying to obtain a better deal for Alberta Indians would continue.

RESTORE THEATRE

VIENNA (Reuters)—The historic Vienna Burg Theatre, restored in all its 19th-century splendor, will reopen here next week with what is technically the most modern stage in Europe. The Burg, former centre of Vienna theatrical life, was destroyed by fire in 1945. It has been rebuilt at a cost of $4,-800,000.

JUMPS INTO FALLS

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Miss Lucille Kusch, 34, of the nearby town of Tonawanda, jumped from the Goat Island bridge Tuesday night and was carried to her death over the American side of Niagara Falls. Joseph Fabiano of Niagara Falls said he rushed onto the bridge but arrived seconds too late to prevent Miss Kusch from climbing the rail and jumping over the side. She hit the water 300 yards upstream from the cataract.

Pipes Musical Instrument Says Toronto Local

TORONTO (CP)—A comedienne who skips out on stage, raps out a discordant notes on the piano and then takes a musical ball practical doesn't have to join the Toronto Musicians Union.

But, ruled union executive officer Walter Murdoch Tuesday, a performer who tosts out 15 seconds of a "three blind mice" on a trumpet, a woman who strums a ukelele for 1½ minutes and a man who plays the bagpipes must.

The "musicians" are members of an English troupe on a six-week tour of Canada, sponsored by the Variety Club.

DELAYED MATINEE

Controversy over their Musicians Union membership has created a furor among musicians. It delayed the troupe's Saturday matinee at the Royal Alexandra theatre here for 10 minutes when Toronto musicians in the pit orchestra weren't sure whether they could play with the non-union musicians. It ended Tuesday when fines the troupe paid their $50 musicians union fee.

The union ruled that the fourth, a comedienne Betty Jumel, didn't have to join.

"In her case the piano is just a prop," said Mr. Murdoch. "She doesn't have to join us to fall off a piano."

Alec Finlay, a member of the troupe, said his bagpipes collapsed from shock" when the union ruled the pipes are a musical instrument.

Pinay In Group Demanding Faure Resign As Premier

Republicans Dissatisfied As Faure Fires Gaullists

PARIS (AP)—Four Independent Republican ministers excluding Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay—this afternoon went to see Premier Edgar Faure with the intention of getting Faure to resign or submit their own resignations.

Earlier in the day four ministers upon the Social Republican party had submitted their resignations—at Faure's request.

In the face of the first defections from the government, Faure went ahead with plans for a debate in the National Assembly on Moroccan problems. The debate was scheduled to open tonight.

The independents then started their action following a meeting of party leaders.

The independents were reported to have two demands to make to Faure. The first was that the premier should ask for a postponement of the debate. If he refused to do this, the ministers were going to suggest that Faure resign.

FAURE MAY FALL

If this was refused, then the ministers were going to submit their own resignations.

In the group with Pinay were Roger Duchet, minister of reconstruction; Paul Antier, minister of the merchant marine, and Camille Laurelle, minister of agriculture.

Faure announced that he had enough strength to face the debate without the Gaullists he resigned. It was an extremely doubtful, however, whether he could weather another storm going to congress.

A fifth minister from the Gaullist Social Republican party, Public Works Minister Edmond Cornigliou-Molliner, remained in the cabinet. Gen. Pierre Koenig, the defence minister, also the Gaullists' leader, kicked out.

Faure announced his intention to stay on as head of the government after a cabinet meeting with President Rene Coty. He announced after the brief session with the premier that the French North African policy would begin tonight.

It is expected that the debate will go on non-stop until Faure either wins a vote of confidence or is thrown out.

His chances of surviving as head of the government appear relatively thin, since withdrawal of the Gaullist votes from the original support in the assembly would leave him without a majority.

Besides Koenig, the ministers ousted from the cabinet were Rene Mayer, Triboulet, veterans affairs minister; Pinay's foreign affairs minister with special powers delegated by the premier; and Maurice Bayrou, secretary of state in the ministry for overseas territories.

TICKLISH SITUATION

The cabinet meeting this morning had to sort out the ticklish problem of what to do about replacing Morocco's Sultan Ben Moulay Arafa, who was eased out of office by the government in Rabat, Before leaving, however, the sultan delegated his powers to the regent.

The question now is whether the government can go ahead with Faure for a three-man regency council, or whether the sultan has blocked such a move by his delegation of powers. The De Gaullist ministers who left the cabinet today claimed there was no possibility of setting up the three-man council of the throne. Faure, on the other hand was reported to have told a French official that the council would not stand in the way of such a move.

RABAT, Morocco (AP)—White flags began flying today over small villages along the Spanish-Moroccan frontier to indicate that some of the tribesmen in the zone of the current Moroccan uprising are ready to call it quits.

French officers on the spot, however, were not sure that this all trouble has ended. Fighting still was in progress today at Tizi Ouzli, in eastern French Morocco near the frontier of French and Spanish Morocco. Legionnaires and regular French troops, one group moving up to open a road earlier blocked by rebel Berber tribesmen from the Riff country.

But while the military situation seemed to be getting slightly better in Morocco, evidently the political situation worsened, both in Morocco and in France.

In Paris a group from Premier Faure's cabinet was ousted today, threatening the life of the government and the implementation of its new Moroccan policy.

In Rabat, a group of colonialists known as the "French Presence" was reported to have put pressure from Resident-General Pierre Soulet to get him to oust the pro-rebel Berber tribesmen from the Riff country.

In Rabat, a group of colonialists known as the "French Presence" was reported to have put pressure from Resident-General Pierre Soulet to get him to oust the pro-rebel Berber tribesmen from the Riff country.

STILL A MENACE

The French colonials — and many members of the National Assembly in Paris — have been calling for Faure's ouster because he yielded to Moroccan nationalist demands for the deposing of Sultan Mohammed Ben Moulay Arafa.

The French forces in Morocco are still menaced by the rebels who hold positions in the mountains. French authorities fear that the new fighting might spread to heretofore peaceful areas, have moved refugees, mostly women and children, into Taza, a city of 29,000, 15 miles south of the border of French and Spanish Morocco.

The rebels, wearing a kind of battledress under their long white gowns, swarmed in mass attacks upon border posts Saturday night. They were beaten off. Taking their dead and wounded with them, they retreated to the mountains, where they continued to fire on anybody attempting to use the nearby highway.

Simultaneous attacks at Immouzer-des-Marmoucha and Berkine, southeast of Fez, suggested to French authorities that a "master mind" outside Morocco was seeking to unite the Riff tribes with the warlike Berbers.

WARNING TO SPAIN

Refugees also said the rebel columns came from Spanish Morocco and carried Spanish and Moroccan flags side by side.

The French apparently are determined to crush the strategic northern triangle at all cost. Reinforcements from the French interior area Wednesday to take personal charge.

In Paris, Rene Massigli, permanent head of the French foreign office, was reported to have had a "firm language" in a talk with the Spanish ambassador in which he asked that the rebels be prevented from using Spanish Morocco as a base.

CANADA TO SPEND $500,000 ON A-POWER AID

Will Speed Economic Electrical Power

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)—Canada will pour an additional $450,000 to $500,000 into atomic energy research to speed the day of economic electrical power from the atom.

Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. announced Wednesday that Canadair Ltd. of Montreal, Canadian manufacturer of the Sabre jet, has been awarded a contract to prepare a design and cost estimate for a small, low-cost "swimming pool" experimental atomic energy reactor. Its price is expected to be between $250,000 and $300,000, and it will be used to solve some of the problems still blocking construction of atomic power stations which will produce electricity economically.

Canadian Westinghouse Co. Ltd., Hamilton, also has been awarded a contract by the crown company for the design, development and fabrication of test equipment for the reactor for about $40,000. Nuclear now nearing completion here.

The cost of the experiment is expected to be about $200,000.

LOW POWER

The crown company said the new "swimming pool" reactor will have a low power and a low flux, but is designed in such a way components given off by uranium fuel rods.

The reactor will be the fourth built at Chalk River. The others are NRX, code name: the initial $11,000,000 NRX reactor which went back into operation Sept. 22 after being shut down seven weeks, and the low-power ZEEP, first nuclear experimental pile reactor built during the Second World War, and the NRU Chalk River unit, in an interview the "swimming pool" reactor in no way comparable to the NRX and NRU reactors which are highly-complex experimental and high-speed units to build.

The power of the reactor was not yet known but it would be only a fraction of NRX which produces 40,000 kilowatts and NRU expected to develop 200,000. Zeep has a power of only 10 watts.

The "swimming pool" reactor is a shielded primary of a group of uranium fuel elements suspended in an open pool or tank of water. Control is by means of the action of the pile, slows down the nuclear reaction and by remote control of the action and shields workers from radiation.

Big Airliner With 61 Aboard Hours Overdue

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—A United Airlines DC-6 with 61 persons aboard has been missing for the past three minutes, the airline announced today.

Fred Brown, assistant to the president of UAL, said the plane, coach flight 409, left Denver at 6:33 a. m. MST and has not been reported since.

The Wyoming director of aeronautics said a search air force base said search planes are in the air, looking in the area of the Big Horn Range mountains in southern Wyoming.

The plane was enroute to San Francisco and was scheduled to stop at Salt Lake City, Utah where it now is overdue.

Two Risk Lives to Search for Four Duck Hunters Overdue, All Are Safe

ERIEAU (CP) — Four duckhunters, six hours overdue after a storm blew up on Rondeau bay Wednesday night, were reported safe today by two fishermen who risked their lives to search the marshes.

The hunters — Jack Boyce and Fred Dulong of Charing Cross, Howard Hutchinson of Kingsville and Harry Wagner of Leamington —stayed overnight in an isolated hunting lodge on the bay's far shore where they had taken shelter.

Gerry Apfeld and Hartley Vidler got out shortly after midnight in a 16-foot outboard motor boat to search for them. Half an hour earlier, boatmen and provincial police decided the water and weather were too dangerous for a search.

The four men left home Wednesday afternoon and were expected back before supper. Their failure to return led the party they made the search trip despite the weather and the anxiety of the hunters' wives.

"We wouldn't ask any woman to wait all night wondering if her husband was dead or alive," Apfeld said. "I know what it's like to be stranded on the water myself, after all."

Friend Says Chief Told Her He Had $38,000 'Nest Egg'

Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER (CP)—The continuing royal commission investigation into Vancouver's police force is off again—like that after five days.

The inquiry, under Commissioner R. H. Tupper, sat Wednesday for the 30th time in the three months since its inception. It has been marked by repeated adjournments, reconvening only last Tuesday after not sitting for 10 days.

The adjournment was granted at the request of John G. (Jay) Gould, counsel for police chief Walter Mulligan, who said it would be the last he would need on the grounds that he came late into the case.

The 30th sitting was marked by two developments:

Helen Elizabeth Douglas, self-admitted five-year companion of chief Mulligan, said he told her in 1949 he had a $38,000 nest egg paid him by gamblers.

Magistrate Oscar Orr, a police commissioner, read a letter he wrote the chief last May in which he said he was worried over "an increase in crime and a decrease in detection."

Miss Douglas, a married woman permitted by the commission to use maiden name, touched off a dis-pute between Mr. Gould and Mr. Tupper. The lawyer contended Mr. Tupper did not have the right of cross-examination of witnesses. Mr. Tupper ruled against him.

It was questioning by Commissioner Tupper which brought the testimony concerning the $38,000 from Miss Douglas.

She said the chief told her when they broke up in 1949 he had "a large amount" of money put away.

"How much?" the commissioner asked.

"Twenty-eight thousand dollars," she said.

"Is the bank?" asked Mr. Tupper. "How did he have it?"

"In cash."

Earlier, she told the commission that the chief had paid $2,200 for a farm in the Fraser valley area where they could retire when he left the force.

Sh said it was paid for with money "over and above" his salary.

"... It came from gamblers. He told me so."

She said the chief gave her a typewriter, in addition to other gifts, and that he "persuaded" her to help him write his speeches to churches, service clubs and other groups.

Hearn Wants Private Firms To Get Into Atomic Field

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Richard Hearn, chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, says the federal government should release more information about its atomic energy research.

And he said he intends trying to do something about it in his position as a director of the crown-owned Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. in Ottawa. He was speaking at a Toronto Electric Club luncheon on Wednesday, and said he hoped he would be released by Canada to industry.

He said if Canadian industry is shackled and discouraged by the federal government from developing our nuclear program. Chalk River this pile of atomic energy's research revolution has got to go further with industry. We can't afford to miss the boat."

He said that with the development of the St. Lawrence Seaway Ontario will be at the end of important markets.

"Why can't we in Ontario get some of this uranium? We have to have abundance — uranium and cheap power. How will solve our power problems?"

Dr. Hearn criticized the government for what he said was its failure to acquaint the people with the atomic energy age in language they can understand.

He said this has led to damaging sensationalism. The press had been guilty of feeding the public on a diet of frightening atomic publicity which was both unrealistic and unreliable.

Argentina's Labor Bosses Resign, Elections Planned

By BRUCE HENDERSON

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The way was cleared today for smashing of Peronista rule of Argentina's giant General Confederation of Labor (CGT).

The CGT bosses, who run the 5,000,000-strong labor organization as the powerful right arm of ousted and exiled dictator Juan D. Peron, resigned Wednesday night, and the provisional government announced new elections will be held in every union within four months. The elections will be supervised by the army, navy and air force.

(Meanwhile, Reuters news agency reported from Asuncion, Paraguay, that Peron was in hot water with the government there after he was reported to have given an interview. This was confirmed a flagrant breach of parole daily.

Eisenhower's Staff Hopeful That Crisis Has Been Passed

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower's recovery from his heart attack progressed to the point today where his staff began to talk hopefully of the future.

The private opinion — which no one will put into words for quotation — is that the crisis has passed, and that the president soon will be taking a former hold on administration policy.

A complete physical examination is scheduled for this weekend when heart specialists will fly here from White of Boston returns to Denver. He will join the staff of presidential physician Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder in a thorough going checkup on their patient at Fitzsimons army hospital.

While will fly here Saturday with Sherman Adams, assistant to the president now in charge of the day to day operations of the government. Adams flew back to Washington Wednesday for meetings of the National Security Council and the cabinet.

The president, who will be 65 on Oct. 14, is doing so well that Adams no longer hesitates to prepare him documents requiring signature. Eisenhower signed four such papers Wednesday and initialled two others.

But even Adams, who enjoys Eisenhower's confidence more than any other man in official position, limited his discussions to non-controversial matters with which the president was familiar before his heart attack struck Sept. 24.

It was the third day in a row, and the fourth time since his illness, that the physicians allowed the president to do such paper work.

The cheerful patient got his big mail pouch the day out of a gift package from his grandchildren, the three children of Eisenhower's son, John. The package included:

Two packs of playing cards — from Barbara Anne, 6½.

A 25-cent Texas border story, "Pancho Villa" — and still more bubble gum — from David, now 7½.

With their gifts the children sent greetings, get-well cards and even some personal drawings.

If all shows up well at the weekend examination, Dr. White, the doctor at the president's return to active control of government will be increased.

THREE CHILDREN DIE IN BLAZING PICKERING HOME

Fire Is Started By Defective Wiring

PICKERING, Ont. (CP)—Three children died in the burning bedroom of their home near here Wednesday night despite efforts of their mother and an older brother to save them.

Killed were Eric, 9, Ronald, 7, and Frances, 10 months, children of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gulliver. They were overcome by smoke from a fire started by defective wiring in a corner of the bedroom ceiling.

Francine died on the floor where she fell after her brother, Joseph, 11, tripped as he tried to carry her to safety. Eric perished in his upper bunk because he was "frozen with fear" and couldn't get down. Ronald died at the foot of the bedroom, window through which he tried to escape.

The fire broke out just before midnight during a heavy rain which fell around this village 15 miles east of Toronto.

7 WERE SLEEPING

Mrs. Gilliver and her six children were in bed in the three-bedroom house. Annabella, 13, Ernest, 3, and Joseph in one bedroom with her and the other three children were in their bedroom.

Mr. Gulliver was in the Rouge Valley Inn, where he works as caretaker. The inn has a private fire department and he arrived home about 12:30 a.m. He was called to the home after the fire broke out and had been extinguished by firemen when he tried to enter the smoke-filled house.

Joseph said he went to bed about 11:15 p.m. after a few minutes later heard Ernest get out of bed and go into the kitchen.

Then he heard him scream: "Mummy, there's a fire in the bedroom!"

RAN INTO BEDROOM

"Mummy was sick in bed and I didn't know what to do," Joseph said. "I ran into the bedroom and saw the flames.

"Mummy called to me to get the baby as she ran into the bedroom. The flames were so terrible we had to crawl on our hands and knees to get to the end.

"I grabbed Eric, but I couldn't get him out of the upper bunk. He was frozen with fear."

"I got Francine out of the lower bunk but dropped and lost her and couldn't find her.

WENT TO NEIGHBORS

"Annabelle got out the front door and ran next door to the neighbors who called the firemen.

"I carried Ernest with me. Mummy crawled out with us."

Joseph said the children carried a pail of water and threw them on the beds but it didn't do much good.

The Gullivers' dog had to be carried out by a fireman as it stood entering—the burning room.

Mrs. H. McKee, a neighbor, said: "Annabelle is a real hard-luck family." She said Mr. and Mrs. Gulliver have two daughters, Mrs. McKee said, "Annabelle and Francine."

None Of Major Conference Issues Has Been Solved

Parley Moves Into Fourth And Possibly Final Day

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal and provincial negotiators have not yet reached a solution to any of their three puzzles at their fiscal conference.

As the conference today went into its fourth and possibly final day, ministers of the central and provincial governments had not made a firm joint decision on any point at issue.

Some of these—including the big one of federal-provincial fiscal arrangements—they were still discussing. Others had been shifted to committees. Still others were shut down for handling outside the scope of the conference.

It was learned today that the federal government was not accepting proposals from provinces that they should have a larger cut from federal revenues under a readjustment or complete revision of the existing tax rental agreements.

ST. LAURENT STAND

Prime Minister St. Laurent said late Wednesday, after a session in which he was unwearied in talking to the provinces, that the federal government will not increase federal taxes to provide increases for provincial defrands.

He was responding on the line that the same tax rates will apply as now," he said to newspaper men.

Later, Premier Frost of Ontario said that tax proposals from the provinces are unrealistic in the light of economic facts.

Mr. Frost described the discussions as "very forcible." That was evident as they got to be carried through glass doors into the closed session in the Commons chambers where both the prime minister and the Ontario premier were using arm gymnastics in putting their points across.

PREMIER QUIET

Mr. Frost said the main trend of the discussions has been "the unsatisfactory relationship of federal proposals to what is needed."

The federal proposals consist of an idea of the central government that the existing tax rental agreements, expiring in 1957, should be replaced by a system under which provinces get a share of the personal tax fields they have leased to the central administration.

The provinces except Quebec have vacated these fields to Ottawa under a lease arrangement.

Under the federal formula, the provinces would levy one of all of provinces could levy one of all personal income, corporation income and succession duty, at specified rates. Ottawa would collect the taxes for the provinces. Ottawa also would provide "equalization" payments to the less wealthy provinces.

TIME AHEAD

After Wednesday's bargaining, Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan said: "Time is a stone" a stone advocate of the rental agreements, and as far as he is concerned they are dead.

The only choice the provinces have, he said, is to sign an agreement with Ottawa to maintain uniform rates and to share the tax collections of provincial tolls or have the provinces collect their own taxes.

"The only bargaining open is whether we get 10 per cent or 20," he said. "We still hope the federal government will allow an increase in provincial rates."

Meanwhile another of the key ministers at the conference, Premier Duplessis of Quebec, said late Wednesday at a meeting of the Association of British Travel Agents, said "the purpose of our conference will be to effect an interchange of holidaymakers between this country and Russia."

Soviet to Seek British Tourists

LONDON (Reuters) — Soviet officials will visit Britain next week to discuss plans for opening up travel, it was announced Wednesday.

James Marchant, chairman of the Association of British Travel Agents, said "the purpose of our conference will be to effect an interchange of holidaymakers between this country and Russia."

Engine's Momentum Carries it Across Broken Trestle, 13 Cars Derailed

OKATHAU, N. Z. (Reuters)—Engineer Ivan Summers was highballing a freight into New Zealand town when he spotted what looked like a kink in the line up ahead.

Seconds later his 85-ton locomotive thundered onto a trestle over a gully 50 feet deep. It began falling in under him. The bridgework crumbled under his wheels for an agonizing second that seemed like an hour.

Then he was on firm ground again. The momentum of the freight had carried the engine a little more than a loop of track hanging in the air.

Summers brought the train to a stop with his locomotive and himself safe and the rest of the crew in the rear caboose safe on firm ground at the other end of the trestle. Thirteen empty cattle cars from the centre of the freight lay smashed at the bottom of the gully.

Pearson Talks With Molotov For Two Hours

MOSCOW (CP) — The foreign ministers of Canada and the Soviet Union met this morning as L. B. Pearson began the second day of his visit to the Russian capital.

The Canadian external affairs minister planned to spend about two hours conferring with V. M. Molotov, his Russian opposite number. Sitting in on the Canadian side were two Russian-speaking members of the external affairs department, George Ignatieff and John Holmes, who succeeded to attend were Ray Crepault of Pearson's department and Michael Sharpe of the trade and commerce department at Ottawa.

Mr. Pearson spokesman said after the two-hour session that the two ministers discussed international developments with particular reference to the Big Four conference to opn at Geneva Oct. 27 with the foreign ministers of the United States, Russia, Britain and France attending.

All-Woman Jury Finds Wife Of Policeman Guilty

DETROIT (CP)—An all-woman jury has found the 31-year-old wife of a city policeman guilty of manslaughter in the paddle-beating of her six-year-old foster son.

Mrs. Robert Szabo, a court ward boarded with Mrs. Rosemary Ann Kuzma, May 13 of a beating rhage after being beaten with a paddle at the family's home.

The jurors found Mrs. Szabo, who has two children of her own, testified she gave the spanking because the small boy "wet his pants." She was remanded Tuesday to Oct. 15 for sentence.

an additional $40,000,000 a year under the federal government's alternative to last rental agreements.

All indications were that it would take another federal-provincial conference to resolve the fiscal issue. Some provinces have already that this third financial conference expiring in 1957 should be held late this year.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, asked about the provinces' attitude said they have not found the federal formula itself distasteful but the amount of money involved difficult.

"We always," he said, "get back to the fundamental principle—it's not the formula but the amount of money involved."

Highways Minister To Address Lodges

Hon. James N. Allan, Ontario Minister of Highways, and M.P.P. for Haldimand-Norfolk riding, will be the speaker tonight at a regular meeting of The Belleville Lodge, No. 122, when it is visited by Eureka Lodge No. 283. Hon. Mr. Allan is Past District Deputy Grand Master of Niagara district, and is also a member of the Masonic Grand Lodge Board of General Purposes.

Junior Work Is Emphasized At Madoc Fair

Emphasis was on junior work at Madoc Fair Wednesday as spectator classes arranged for 4-H members saw top winners in the district calf clubs compete for county honors.

Members of the Madoc Calf Club held their achievement day, top calves and top showmen competed against each other. And as a special feature the top junior events the 4-H clubbers had their own parading, Hereford dairy calves from the various clubs were on exhibition. Also exhibited were the top pair of shoats in the Hastings County 4-H Swine Club.

Garden displays and other projects were on view in a special booth, while in a second booth, also featuring junior work members of the Belleville and Farmers ette whetted the thirst of visitors with the sale of ice cream.

The building used for the Junior Farmer feature was one used formerly for the poultry exhibit which this year was displayed out of doors. From the number of visitors viewing the junior exhibits the move by the fair board was apparently a popular one.

Douglas Burnside with a score of 964 topped the Madoc 4-H Calf Club on the year's work and also had the top 1 calf in the show. He finished second in showmanship for his club.

Calf club members finished as follows: Doug Burnside, 964; Grant Ketcheson, 931; Raeburn Robinson 940; Shirley Franks 896; Allan Franks, 894; Jim Broadworth, 893; Melvin Blackburn, 892; Ann Lou Hagerman, 876; Wayne Robinson, 875; Allan Cassie, 868; Eldon Thompson, 849, and Bill Curtis, 842.

Grant Ketcheson was top club showman with other top members being Doug Burnside, Raeburn Robinson, Glen Broadworth, Melvin Blackburn and Allen Curtis.

With Doug Burnside showing the top calf, Raeburn Robinson was in second place. Other placing were Allan Franks, Glen Broadworth, Grant Ketcheson and Allen Cassie.

Jack Vermilyes of the Belleville 4-H Calf Club proved himself the top showman in county competition and wins the E. C. Wonnacott trophy. Compeling for top showmanship honors were the top two showmen in each county calf club. Jack and Bill Vermilyes of the Belleville club; Douglas Farrell and Harold Reid, Tweed; H. Danford and Doug Delair Shirling and Grant Ketcheson and Doug Burnside of the Madoc club.

The Belleville group of Bill Vermilyes, Ivan Phillips and Allen Hamilton with J. Vermilyes as alternate took honors in the interclub show. They along with other inter-club competitors, Raymond Ross, Ralph Dellor, Harold Heath and Julia Savage of Stirling; Doug Burnside, Rae Robinson, Allen Franks and Glen Broadworth of Madoc, and David Geen, Elson Martin and Bill Hall of Tweed will show their calves at the Ottawa Winter Fair.

100th Anniversary Of Stone Church Is Celebrated

The 100th anniversary of the founding of Stone Church, 4th line of Sidney, was celebrated at special services Sunday, Oct. 2nd.

Rev. W. A. Wagar, of Belleville, preaching at the afternoon fellowship, surveyed 100 years of worship.

Mrs. Clarence Holmes, a former member of the church, gave a brief history of the church at morning and evening services. The children's choir also accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Whitfield. Mrs. Russell was soloist.

Stone Church was founded by Wesleyan Methodists. Plans for the church began to materialize many years before the church was opened in June of 1855.

The congregation which founded Stone Church had been meeting in a frame school house on the Purdy Farm for seven years before John Fretz, who lived on the farm now owned by John Evans and Arthur Whitfield, offered land for the church.

The first trustee board, elected in 1853, was composed of Joseph Merritt, president; James Johnson, vice president; Jacob Hagerman, secretary; John Purdy, treasurer, and Barnabas Lane, John Vermilyea, Calvin Merritt, Thomas Hagerman, Delila Vermilyea and Margaret Merritt, advisors.

The Fretz church, named after John Fretz, who had donated the site, was opened in June 1855 with Rev. John Lever as minister.

During the first decade of the church's existence it was on a large circuit. Members of the congregation, who lived at a considerable distance from the church, had to gather in homes of neighbors on the Saturday night preceding Quarterly Services.

Services began on Sunday at 10.30 a.m. and ended at 1.30 p.m. following a love-feast, fellowship service in the class.

The minister was paid quarterly with potatoes, vegetables, a little meat and $10 in cash. A written receipt was required for the cash while the remainder was bags served as receipt for potatoes.

SUNDAY SCHOOL 75 YEARS

The "Ent Ladies' Aid Society was organized under the auspices of Mrs. Calvin Merritt and about 75 years ago the Sunday School was organized with Barnabas Lane as superintendent and Mrs. Calvin Merritt as assistant.

The first Woman's Missionary Society was united with Wallbridge with Mrs. Levi Massey as president. In 1901 it severed connection with Wallbridge and organized as the Women's Auxiliary under the presidency of Mrs. Williams.

In 1903 Rev. E. O. Tonkin was guest preacher at 50th anniversary services while Rev. F. Cooke conducted 60th anniversary services in 1915.

First indications to the original church were carried out in 1893 when $1,400 was spent replacing pews. The organ originally in the choir loft at the rear of the church, was later placed in front of the pulpit.

In 1915 an oil painting of "Christ Bringing the Sheep Home" by Hoffman was purchased for $300. From 1927 to 1930, in preparation for the anniversary services, the church carried out a program of repair and decoration including the installation of electric lights at a cost of $500 and the construction of a dining hall costing $1,000.

Rev. E. B. Sexsmith was minister of the Stone Church in 1930 when 75th anniversary services included dedication of the new dining hall. Participating in the service at that time were Rev. W. E. Storey, Rev. Ray Sheldon, Rev. W. Sharpe, Rev. S. C. Reddick, B.A., B.D., Rev. E. B. Cooke, Rev. F. O. Tonkin, Rev. C. W. Hall, Rev. John L. Snell, Rev. A. S. Doggett, Rev. W. R. Merrick and Rev. J. R. Butler.

Mrs. Edwin Ketcheson and Mrs. S. W. Lloyd were co-convenors of two who contacted former members of the congregation concerning 75th anniversary celebrations.

600 Guardsmen Patrol Town After Eight Shot

NEW CASTLE, Ind. (AP) — Six hundred national guard militia men mounted guard on this strife-torn city today after a wild gun battle at the stockbound Perfect Circle Corp. foundry.

The guard was sent in after Mayor Paul Ratcliffe approach proclaimed a state of limited emergency in this eastern Indiana city of 18,000. The guardsmen are heavily armed and equipped with tanks.

Eight persons were shot and wounded Wednesday as 5,000 union sympathizers converged from throughout Indiana to back up a CIO United Auto Workers strike against the foundry, which has a normal work force of only 250.

Obituaries

MRS. LAURA BELLE COOK (Trenton)

The funeral of Mrs. Laura Belle Cook, 81 Princess St., Trenton, was held Tuesday, Oct. 4th, from the Weaver Funeral Home, Trenton. Rev. Canon A. S. McConnell conducted the service.

Bearers were Ernest Bowler, S. Tood, Ivan Jensen, Morley Moy, Benford Pick and James Bunting.

Interment took place in St. George's cemetery.

The deceased was born in Hillier township, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Terry, and lived in Trenton after retirement of her life. She died in Kingston General Hospital on Saturday, Oct. 1st, after having been in poor health for the past six years. She was 74.

She was a member of St. George's church, Trenton.

She is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Malcolm (Velma) Wallbridge, R.R. 1, Amelisburg; one son, Carman Cook, Trenton; a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Pickett, Los Angeles; two brothers, Ray Terry, of Redberryville, and Ralph Terry, of Consecon.

JAMES MARX SKIDMORE (Stockdale)

After a short illness, James Marx Skidmore, formerly a C.N.R. employee, of Stockdale, Ont., passed away, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Ralph Hall, Port Hope, Ont. on Wednesday afternoon.

He was born in Stratford, 69 years ago, the son of the late John Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Skidmore and lived in that community most of his life. For thirteen years he was a resident of this city, while employed with the C.N.R. and was well known and highly respected in this community.

He was a member of the Anglican Church and is survived by his wife, the former Jean Redner, one sister, Mrs. George Richards of Paterson, New Jersey, and one brother Skidmore, Reginald Skidmore of Robert Skidmore, Port Hope.

Resting at the Heinbuch Funeral Home, Stratford, Ont. The funeral announcement appears elsewhere in this edition.

EDMUND McQUAID

The funeral of Edmund McQuaid, of Toronto, formerly of 97 Bridge St., Belleville, was held Thursday, Oct. 6th, from the Funeral Home corner of George F. O'Brien to Holy Rosary church. Rev. M. Simson sang the Requiem Mass.

Bearers were James, Edward, Bernard and Stanley McQuaid, brothers of the deceased, and Hubert Marcale and Kenneth Nolan, brothers-in-law.

Interment took place in St. James' cemetery.

Break-Ins, Thefts From Mailboxes Keep Police Busy

City police are scratching their heads in an effort to get to the bottom of a series of break-ins and theft of mailboxes from rural areas of the city.

Again Wednesday night two more mailboxes were reported, one of which netted the night operators something like $80 in cash.

Also last night there was a report of an attempt to break into a repair shop at Bridge and Front Streets was ripped from its post. Yesterday morning a mailbox was found at the Queen's Avenue corner and another was reported ripped from its post at the corner of Catherine and Yeomans Street.

Police reported that the office of Carnegie Packers at 191 East Moira Street was entered during the night with cash stolen from a cash box. The only break-in was at St. Michael's Church where the rear office door was found broken. The door leads to the furnace room and nothing was taken.

Earlier in the night two men had been arrested in the same door after they were discovered attempting to break it in.

The mailbox at the corner of Church and Front Streets was ripped from its post and two youths believed responsible barely missed being caught. C. Radway, William Street, local mail carrier, chased one of the youths but he managed to make good his escape.

Drew Advocates Cash Advances For Stored Grain

SASKATOON (CP) — George Drew, national Progressive Conservative party leader, says his party believes there is no more urgent necessity in Canada today than that cash advances be made to farmers for farm-stored grain.

He made the statement Wednesday in an interview here during a two-day stopover in the course of his Canada-wide speaking tour.

The cash advances should come from the federal government, not low-interest loans made available through the banks.

Rumor of Injury Proves Unfounded

A rumor Wednesday night that Roy Doherty, employee of Stephenson's Construction Company, had seriously mangled his hand while at work in the local plant was found to be unfounded. Company officials stated Mr. Doherty had jammed his hand while assisting to load a railway car. X-rays taken at the Belleville General Hospital showed no bones were broken and Mr. Doherty is back at his job today.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Stock market prices showed a light decline in late morning trading on the Toronto exchange today.

Steels, refining oils, manufactures, motors, financial institutions and miscellaneous stocks were lower. Foods, utilities and papers were mostly mixed.

Biggest change was Chrysler's loss of $2.50. Weston's was off 2. Algoma Steel, Bank of Nova Scotia, Minnesota and Ontario Paper, Oglivie and Canadian Cottons eased a point. Dominion Glass moved up 1½.

A few lower-priced mines scored advances but most senior issued declined, headed by Noranda, off 1¼. Eastern Smelting dipped 35 to $7.05. Harrison was a top winner, up 14 to 92.

Uranium were quiet, but Bronco lost 75 to 89.75.

Bailey - Selburn topped upward western oils, gaining almost 21 at 10¾. Jasper firmed 20 at 42. Triad Home Oil and Prairie Oil and Gas were 20—25 cents poorer.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) — Trade was slow on a plain quality offering at the Ontario stockyards today. Sales were confined mostly to common, medium and near-good heifers. A few common and medium mixed lots were sold.

Receipts cattle 11; calves 29; hogs 228; sheep and lambs 37; carryover from Wednesday 3,900 cattle.

Prices: common and medium steers 12-18; common and medium heifers 12-16.50; boner steers and heifers 8-12; good cows 10-10.50; canner and cutter cows 8.

Replacement cattle: some mixed common and medium stockers 14-18.50.

Top veal calves 23 a hundredweight; mediums 14-20; commons 8-14; grass calves sold for slaughter 10-13. Few calves slow and hard to sell.

Hog prices: Grade A 24, two loads 24.50; sows 16 dressed; stags 13 dressed.

Lambs 34 for good handyweight ewes and wethers; bucks discounted 1 a hundredweight, heavy lambs 2. Common and medium lambs 13-17; feeder, sold back to country 14-16.50; cull lambs 6.50-7-8; common and heavy sheep 3.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and bulter prices were unchanged today.

The egg market was firm with offerings light for a good demand.

Quotations, provided by the Dominion department of agriculture: Eggs in fibre cases, graded: A large 42-43; A medium 38-40; small 34; B 30; C 28. Wholesale to retail: A large 66-67; A medium 62; A small 58-60.

Butter, solids, Ontario, first grade, creamery 58; non-creamery 57½; western 58½ (nominal).

St. Denis Stars As St. Mikes Whip O.S.D. 28-0

Leo St. Denis, star fullback for Father Michael of St. Michael's Juniors, scored four touchdowns on Wednesday afternoon to lead his team to a 28-0 victory over OSD in a COSSA junior rugby game.

Bobby Ross was at the quarterback position for the winning St. Michael's team and was responsible for the fifth major of the game. The OSD defence was unable to halt the speedy St. Denis as he romped through for each after yard to pick up his four TD's. John Trudeau accounted for St. Mike's other three points, kicking a trio of converts.

This was the second win for St. Michael's over the OSD squad, having defeated them earlier in an exhibition tilt.

OSD will visit Fred Bradley's BCIVS Juniors on Wednesday for their next game while St. Mike's will clash with the Brighton team in Brighton, also on Wednesday afternoon.

6 Shipping Firms Ask Protection In Coastal Trade

MONTREAL (CP)—The Clarke Steamship Company and five allied shipping firms today joined the chorus for greater protection against low-priced foreign shipping.

In a joint brief presented to the royal commission on coasting trade the companies asked that "steps be taken immediately" to bar British ships from the Canadian coastal trade.

The five firms endorsing the Clarke Steamship brief were: La Cie de Transport du Bas St. Laurent Inc., Terra Nova Steamship Co., Ltd., La Traverse Riviere du Loup-St. Simeon, Ltd., Gulf Ports Steamship Co. Ltd., and Magdalen Islands Transportation Company Ltd.

The other two briefs—by Saguenay Terminals Ltd., and the Aluminium Company of Canada, Ltd.—argued against any further restrictions.

Madoc Fall Fair Observes Half Century of Service

It was the half century mark for the Madoc Agricultural Society organized back in 1905, when the first fair was held on rented grounds, with exhibits shown in tents rented for the occasion.

From that modest beginning Madoc Fair has come a long way, today the grounds are among the best in its class in Ontario and the event is much looked forward to by many Hastings county residents but by fair-going people throughout the Central Ontario area.

Yesterday 11 past presidents of the fair were on hand to observe the anniversary with W. Tummon of Foxboro, president of the Fair 1912-14, being present to congratulate this year's fair board on its success and to recall events of the past. Past presidents were introduced to fair-goers by fair president Francis Tobin.

HAVE THE BEST

There was no claim by fair directors that this year's show was the best in the 50 years of the fair, but judging from the packed grounds, the quality of exhibits and the cattle and horse show and top notch racing, Madoc Fair 1955 lived up to another of its boasts records. School exhibits took up a large part of the agricultural building line.

And added to this was the big midway with its numerous rides and concessions and as a special attraction, a big platform program featuring the Madoc Municipal Band and novelty events, ranging all the way from the ladies' nail driving contest to the ever-popular log sawing match which attracts entries from as far as the northern part of the county 50 miles away.

Late in the afternoon exhibits in the agricultural hall are cleared away and in the evening the dancers will make the parquet possible. New buildings were added as soon as possible and, with fair attendance increasing with the fair's popularity, the society was out of debt in 1953. At the annual meeting of that year the mortgage was burned leaving the society free of debt.

BLACK AND WHITE DAY

One of the main features of the present-day Madoc Fair is the county Black and White Day which sees county Holstein breeders show their prize stock. Yesterday was no exception as eleven county breeders turned out for the show.

Among the Holstein breeders present were: Percy Broadworth, Earl Burnside, Jack Burnside, Max Burnside, Howard Finch and Son, Philo Harris, David L. Hollinger, A. L. Hollinger and Son, Everett B. and Ivan Phillips, A. and F. Vermilyea and Sons, and Herbert Watt.

A. Sexsmith and Son showed the grand champion senior female with J. Burnside showing the reserve champion. Champion senior bull was shown by J. Burnside with Mr. Sexsmith showing the reserve champion. Junior champion female was from the Vermilyea herd and the reserve champion was shown by E. Burnside.

Jersey cattle were shown by W. Kerr of Campbellford and L. Jarvell of Corbyville. Elmer Wood of Crookston was alone with his Ayrshires. Herefords were shown by Edmund Brayne of Elzivir and John Page of Norwood. Dual purpose Shorthorns were shown by Roy Fry and Sons of Bonarlaw and H. Danford of Springbrook. Fred Holmes of Queensboro showed Polled Angus.

Sheep and swine exhibits filled all available pens, while there was also a fine poultry show, moved out of doors this year to provide accommodation for a special junior farmer feature in the former poultry building. The junior show consisting of entries from the various 4-H calf clubs and other junior projects was a popular new feature of the fair.

GOOD HORSE SHOW

The horse show ranked among the best held at Madoc Fair with heavy entries in both the light and heavy horse classes.

A big feature for horse lovers was the dressing match which saw five big teams entered. In the growing dusk the big roan and gray teams of Rob Ivey of R.R. 8 Picton, out-pulled the other four entries on the sanding packed stonebeat. Second place went to Jack Wilkins of Derry Bay.

Tommy Mason of Buckhorn, appeared in the dual role of master of ceremonies and pianist for the platform show. Featured for the show were: The Ripleys, an accomplished acrobatic team; Dorothy Merrill, accordionist, and Ernie Bruce, clown comedian.

In the novelty events Mrs. Dave Howard of Belleville, again demonstrated her nail driving ability as she copped first place honors in the ladies' nail driving contest. In second place was Mrs. Charles Ray of Bancroft.

Coming from the longest distance was Sgmn. Robert Jones, of Calgary, with Mr. and Mrs. Children of Chicago, coming in for second money and P. J. Fitzgerald, of Blind River, Ont., for third place.

FRECKLE-FACES' TIE

It was a four-way tie for the boy with the most freckles. The judges were unable to decide the winner, so Howard Anstein, Earl Hayten, Brian Hayten and Rob Kellar all came in for awards.

Gayl Kleinhuber of Wellesley; Don Caldwell of Trenton, and Anne Stevens of Madoc, were the winners in the step-dancing contest for children under 12. For the adults, Bud Seares of Belleville, came in for first money with Joe Perry of Clayton; Ronnie Lessard of Tweed, and Joe Wickens of Thomasburg, doing other winners. Chapie Woods, Ameliston, provided the music for the dancing.

Morris Freeman of Maynooth, and Bill Salsaus of Bird's Creek, won the log sawing contest. Other winners were: Jack and Doug Francis of Madoc; Clayton Varty and Stan Moorway of Bancroft, and Don and Gordon Thompson of Steenburg.

Butler Warns He Will Act To Check Inflation

BOURNEMOUTH, England (CP) The chancellor of the exchequer gave further warning today that he intended to take severe new steps to stem inflation in Britain.

"I shall take whatever action I think right — whatever criticism may be levelled against me," R. A. Butler told 4,000 members of the Conservative party at the opening of the party's annual conference. Saying he proposes to assume the "credit squeeze" by which he has made it more difficult to borrow money, Butler added:

"We have must be that it will be through service and sacrifice that we shall find salvation. We must have more discipline so that we send more of the fruits of expansion abroad in exports."

The conference's first resolution called for a "bolder and more imaginative" government policy of strengthening economic ties within the Commonwealth.

Boy Is Killed In 4-Car Crash At Scarborough

TORONTO (CP) — Four cars, a bus and a transport truck piled up on a main thoroughfare in suburban Scarborough during a rainstorm Wednesday night. One child was killed and four persons were sent to hospital, one in critical condition.

Killed was Robert Munro, 8, of Toronto, a passenger in his father's car. The father, Alexander Munro, was released from hospital after treatment of minor injuries.

In hospital in poor condition was Mrs. Mary Pace, 46, of Oshawa, who suffered severe head cuts. Her son, Louis, 13, died in the car, was also taken to hospital. The third member of the Oshawa family, Bernard Pace, father of the driver, was treated for leg and chest injuries.

Russian Journalists Hosts to Colleagues

MOSCOW (AP)—A delegation of Soviet journalists who leave Saturday for a visit to the United States entertained Western correspondents Wednesday at a lavish luncheon.

Boris Polevoi, writer for Pravda, made a vodka toast proclaiming "Death to this cold War."

After Polevoi drowned the Cold War in vodka he startled the Westerners by saying: "When we come back we would like to see you here or on your homes. We will tell you frankly and honestly our impressions. We are not for frank and objective reporting."

The Russians never before made a blanket invitation to Westerners —especially Americans — to visit their homes.

Former Assessor Awarded $330 In Damage Suit

TRENTON (Special) — Judge W. F. Lane of Picton, has awarded Charles Rogerson, former town assessor here, $330 damages from the town of Trenton.

Rogerson sued the town, seeking a total of $2,700 damages for alleged unlawful dismissal, breach of contract and being prevented from obtaining suitable employment after his dismissal. The case was heard before Judge Lane in Belleville in May, with Shewart Willoughby of Kingston, appearing for the plaintiff and Kenneth Ross of Belleville, for the defendant corporation. Judge Lane reserved judgment.

In awarding the plaintiff $330 damages, with costs against the town, Judge Lane held that Rogerson should have been dismissed by by-law, rather than by resolution. Rogerson was paid up to April 6, 1953, a month and six days elapsed between the time the town council passed a motion dismissing him and the time a by-law for his dismissal was given three readings. The by-law, on the basis of this interval that Judge Lane determined the amount of damages to be paid by the town.

Flood-Battered Tampico Death Toll Set at 326

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The death toll in flood-battered Tampico mounted today to 326, by unofficial estimates, as residents Panuco river went still higher.

Relief from up-river communities of a sharp drop but not some hope of relief for the stricken Gulf of Mexico port within 48 hours. But there are still fears that the inland rains of the last week will continue, sending the river's headwaters climbing again before Tampico gets a respite.

Hasty Pees Reunion Loons As Biggest Yet

Present indications point to the eleventh annual reunion of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment being held here Oct. 15 and 16 as one of the most enjoyable regimental association's history, Major Angus Duffy said today.

Two of the outstanding features of the reunion will be the visit of Lord and Lady Alexander from Britain, and the release of the regimental history.

Simple yet impressive ceremonies will mark the history presentation to the regiment. These will take place in the auditorium of the collegiate institute on Sunday, Oct. 16 following the memorial service which will be held in the building instead of at the Station Street Cenotaph.

The publishers of the book will be present. A representative will formally present a copy to the author, Mr. Farley Mowat who, in turn will present it to the regiment through the medium of Lord Tweedsmuir who commanded the Hasty Pees in Sicily and Italy.

The memorial service will be conducted by Hon. Capt. the Rev. A. S. McConnell, regimental padre. This will take place at 12.45 p.m.

The regimental dinner will follow. This is being held in the auditorium of the Belleville, Trenton Air Force Veterans building, Front St. where Lord Tweedsmuir will be the guest speaker.

Among the special guests at the ceremony will be Colonel and Mrs. R. S. McLaughlin, of Oshawa, Colonel W. S. Murdoch, commander of the Eastern Area Command and other military dignitaries.

STEVENSON OR HARRIMAN?

Where does Eisenhower's heart attack leave the Democrats?

According to reports the president's heart seizure produced "chaos and confusion" among top executives in the Republican national organization. The GOP top brass were thrown into this chaotic and confused state because, to a man, they had counselled President Ike to seek a second term and on Eisenhower's personal popularity to score victory in the presidential race. No serious challenger to Eisenhower appeared among the Republicans during the nearly three years in office which preceded his heart seizure in Denver.

It is true that heart specialists have said that Eisenhower's health could be good enough to permit his seeking a second term in 1956. It is extremely unlikely, however, that Ike will run again. Even before his heart attack he was a reluctant candidate constantly telling colleagues that a man is indispensable. Mamie and his son are strongly opposed to his running again. Even Ike's best friends and the most opportunistic politicians in his own party can hardly be expected to prevail upon him to run again when even the rigors of the campaign could be a death sentence.

In the meantime, therefore, will be running a candidate without the handicap of campaigning against Eisenhower's personal appeal.

The most prominently-mentioned Democrat at the moment is Adlai Stevenson, defeated Democratic nominee in 1952. Mr. Stevenson, keeping himself in the public eye since 1952 with round-the-world tours and public utterances of significant importance to international issues, seems better equipped this time for an entirely different reason. He has decided to run.

A reluctant candidate in 1952, drafted seemingly against his will, Stevenson campaigned with the aloofness of one who seemed to think himself above the crass expediencies of capturing votes and public approval. Experience, if nothing else, should change his approach this time.

However, Averill Harriman, governor of New York State, is another gubernatorial candidate with avowed intention of supporting Stevenson. Harriman's backing of Stevenson was pronounced before Eisenhower's attack. Nothing could be more helpful than to stand aside while one's chief opponent tries to overcome the record of his previous defeat and Ike's vote-getting potential. With Eisenhower no longer a likely starter and the Democratic candidates' chances much improved, Harriman may be expected to make a concerted try for the nomination.

Not only does he control the largest single block of voting delegates (96); he also has the prestige of being governor of the most populous state—a position that has been a natural steppingstone to the White House on many occasions. An alliance with a vice-presidential nominee with a large voting strength such as might be expected from Pennsylvania, Ohio, California, Michigan, or the South, could give Harriman almost 50 per cent of the delegate strength needed for nomination.

Harriman also is in the happy (?) position—depending upon how one looks at Tammany Hall—of having a first rate political machine in Harmen Sp. He not only roots for him in public, but actually lining up delegate strength. Harriman also has the advantage of not having had to make himself known to the public proclamation of his stands on many domestic issues, as Stevenson had to do during the 1952 campaign. Southern leaders are reportedly not as opposed to Harriman as they are to Stevenson. The split among Democrats in the fall of 1952 when Allan Shivers, Democratic governor of Texas, supported Eisenhower and led to the cracking of the "solid South" can not reasonably be expected if Eisenhower does not run.

Estes Kefauver's popularity among the rank and file, attested to by his primary victories in many states in 1948 and in 1952, is a "grass roots" popularity that withers away rapidly in the stern infighting of delegate lobbying when the real work of choosing a candidate is done.

The Democrats could, therefore, be forced to choose between Stevenson and Harriman if both men decide on an all-out battle for the nomination. The possibility of a "dark horse" candidacy slipping between the two most prominent contenders is just a possibility.

HE IS NOT FROM HASTINGS

Lewis Bradfield on Sunday climbed to the top of the scaffolding around famous Big Ben, the clock on the tower of the Houses of Parliament, and says his climb was not really dangerous. "In Canada, where I was born, I often climbed trees 300 feet high when I was tree-felling."

Bradfield was born at Fort William but must have done his tree-climbing elsewhere. Three hundred feet is a long way up. The maximum height for California's famous redwoods is given by the Encyclopedia Americana as 350 feet, with "occasional giants" exceeding this. Ontario has no trees to match these redwoods or the trees of Bradfield's memory. A possibility seems to be that he went from Fort William to B.C., where the firs touch the sky. At any rate, he did not work as a lumberjack in Hastings County. We lack the tall timber to substantiate his story. Of course, he may be lying. But if he is, obviously he is not from Hastings. Someplace else in Ontario? Well, maybe. But what's wrong with B.C., where trees and tales are both tall?

THE OLD GRUMBLER

The doctor heard my woes and said:
"The pangs of which you now complain
A rugged road you had to tread
And live for many years to
"At forty had you passed away,
You'd not have lost your appetite.
You'd not have come to me to
You were not sleeping well at night.
"Yes, I can comfort you with pills
And maybe soothe your aching back,
But bear in mind your present ills
Only the lucky old attack.
"With old age failing strength appears,
But grateful you should be,
and glad,
To pay a little pain for years
And all the birthdays you have had."

Three Lands To Study Sea

(St. Paul Pioneer Press)

No doubt the growth of the world's population within the last decade has had something to do with the plan of the United States, Canada and Japan to begin the most extensive oceanographic survey in its history.

The north Pacific will be studied to obtain information that will help nations in their fisheries problems. It will also aid in the current scientific knowledge about Pacific storms, the chemical composition of sea water and the effect of the weather on the moods of the sea. Twenty research vessels will participate.

The theory that food for millions more people can be obtained from the sea is actively supported in many quarters. There is talk of increasing the production of sea vegetation, raising it on land, using microscopic ocean life for food, and treating salt water to make it potable.

Almost Time To Be Scared

(Financial Times, Montreal)

The president of one of the small loans companies in the U. S. recently asked why the consumer has never been in better shape. His yardstick—the fact that also his company's business was up 43 per cent from a year ago. Is this part of the "New Era" stuff? According to this new index of the financial health of the customer class, if people are 43 per cent better off because they have 43 per cent more debts, would they be 100 per cent better off with 200 per cent more debts? I'm afraid that this reminds you that it is almost time to become scared again.

That's Democracy

(Brandon Sun)

Another one of four inalienable rights is the freedom to sit quietly in the back yard and listen to the neighbor's lawn mower hanging fenders in the pursuit of happiness.

Heartening Protest

(Vancouver Sun)

One of the most appealing matters Ottawa has taken up in years is the government's protest to Washington over a U. S. ruling that will bomb the whooping-crane out of existence.

For if a government cannot fulfill its purpose of safeguarding the happiness of its weakest minority, it certainly cannot fulfill its greatest purpose—saving whooping-cranes for its largest mass, its people. Put in another way—governments that can see sense in finding for the apparently useless things of life are more likely to do something about important things. We are sincere about this—there's hope for redemption in Ottawa if they can see the point of view of the 22 adult and three whooping-cranes still existing on this continent

It is rather silly, in a country with millions of useless acres like the U. S., that the air force should pick on the whooping cranes' winter sanctuary in Arkansas for a bombing range. The state department will do Canada a favor if that bombing range is moved elsewhere so that the birds, which migrate between the two countries, can be preserved.

Life isn't so simple and nuclear energy and home laundries and tanks. There is still faintly discernible a spiritual side, a part in which things like birds and books and people become part. There are still men and women who believe that the spiritual and intellectual side of life is more important than the material and militarized side. There is still a possibility, despite the terrific weight of materialistic pressures, that the spiritual urge may draw us upward out of the confusion and unhappiness which afflict so much of the world.

The whooping crane, surviving relic of a more reflective age, has a habit of standing with its head held to the air, whooping gloriously, with a cry that can be heard two miles away. For the unaided able. It might be better if men were as clamorous and as constant . . .

Policing Railroads

(Stratford Beacon-Herald) .

Chicago police, a 24 special agents of the Illinois Central Railroad are winding up an investigation of the latest series of stone-throwing incidents by juveniles, in which train passengers have suffered injuries.

A dozen boys, eight to 12 years old, were detained by police and taken bricks, rocks, bottles, air guns, sling-shots and stones from the tracks, for attacks on south suburban trains. For of the gang are to appear in the juvenile court.

This is no old story to the railroad police, a combined force of 9,000 men whose job it is to safeguard 225,000 miles of track in the United 400,000 miles of track in the United States and Canada.

Juveniles are responsible for more than 70 per cent, of the destructive acts against railroads and their passengers, according to H. B. Denbow, assistant to the executive Section of the Association of American Railroads.

In "The Railroad Police," a new book in the police science series edited by Raymond B. Fosdick and of the State College of Washington, Denbow devotes an entire section to the juvenile problem.

Railroad police, as in the latest Chicago incident, have an extensive record in cooperative efforts with local police in tracking down offenders. They have long realized that punishment has no appeal to the problem can have a more telling effect than prevention.

In the Chicago area the railroad police conduct a continuing program of education in cooperation with school authorities. Denhurst cities Chicago & North Western Railway's "Railroad Safety Police" program for juveniles as a model example.

He concludes his discussion by asserting that every responsible parent ought to know—if not being is more surely apt to have as children those who run the long run as parental influence."

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A STONE IN THE ROAD.

A well-known legend of medieval origin tells the story of a king who decided to teach his subjects a lesson. In the middle of his most frequented road, he placed a large stone that seriously impeded the traffic. Day after day, as he expected, travelers came by, cursed the stone, and went around it. All complained about the stone, but none moved it. Finally the king summo ed his people to the palace, and in their presence lifted the stone himself. Underneath was a bag of gold marked "For the one who moves the stone."

Every day has gone by when we are likely to receive a bag of gold ter life for all.

Is Not Ed Sullivan

(Brantford Expositor)

Ed Sullivan of television fame is an amiable gentleman with a personality able to project itself across the wires and voice to the satisfaction of millions of his fans.

He did not score a hit, however, in a recent and ill-advised attempt to prevent another Ed Sullivan from using his own name.

As The Associated Press reports from New York, Ed Sullivan, TV distinctive who patronizes a legal suit aimed at Ed Sullivan of Buffalo, a radio personality and television sets. The object of the action was to restrain the Buffalo Sullivan from using the name and title "Ed Sullivan" over his store front.

Wisely, as we consider, Supreme Court Justice Walter A. Lynch threw the case out. "There are Ed Sullivans without 'number,' he said, "long before plaintiff was born."

Of course there were. If Ed Sullivan, the TV tycoon, wants to get around this difficulty, he might adopt a more unusual moniker.

Some unkind critic may say, "Who does he think he is?" Well, obviously and quite properly (and with full justification) Sullivan says he thinks he's Ed Sullivan. In that he is correct. But he should not, from his eminent heights, overlook the fact that there are lots of Ed Sullivans in the world quite a few of them are named Ed.

Could Rearm In Few Days

(Montreal Gazette)

It would be a mistake to believe that a system of international arms inspection would mean that the world would be safe from the threat of another war. All that such inspection would do, even if it were true and effective, is that there would be warning that an attack was being made so that we could prepare to meet such an attack before it had gone on for many days.

An atomic world has changed the whole procedure in making armaments. In other times it might be possible, for example, for nations to agree that they would have only so many battleships and if any nation violated such an agreement, and started a new battleship, it might be two or three many months, almost years, before the new dreadnaughts could take to the seas.

But it does not take long to make an atomic bomb. Indeed, the one respondent of the Christian Science Monitor at the United Nations says that it could be done in a matter of days. A few days' making of bombs "hardware" (casing,etc.) near to power reactors. These reactors, which are by-product of fissionable material as a normal by-product of their operation, and near stockpile could be rebuilt in a matter of days. And it does not take long to put the explosives on trial into a ready-made casing.

The inspectors now stationed in Russia would have to be able to give very quick reports of any change in the use of their reactors.

So long as there are atomic reactors there will be a danger of atomic war. And atomic reactors cannot be banned, unless the world is ready to attempt the impossible: to banish atomic power itself.

Car Value Up 400 Per Cent

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

One of the interesting points about the Fair is a heavy display of a collection of antique automobiles at Queen's Park. Just a big, slender Orient motor car in the group had been worth $500 when Mr. Bailey got it. He later turned down an offer of $2,500 for it. Here and there in the group in the heart of every automobile dealer who has used cars on his hands has a possibility that if he waited long enough, one of them might well appreciate 400 per cent in value.

It Might Interfere With My Bowling

Recently I wrote you regarding the remarkable sun tan lotion which I guarantee . . . notwithstanding your assertion that it is absurd to imagine anything that will let a person tan will at the same time prevent sunburn, I can prove . . . (No address).

I am a medical student at . . . and I have been taught that a salt-free diet is often helpful in the control of hypertension, and your article you said that the effect of excessive salt consumption upon blood pressure, in scientifically controlled tests, is insignificant. I would appreciate it if you would cite the source of the "scientifically controlled" tests . . . (Prosperity signed).

"It has been reported that if iodine or iodide is used beyond a certain point it may produce undesirable or dangerous effects . . . "I would like to know your opinion . . . (Worried).

I'm sorry I haven't the reference the medical student asks for, and what's all this about? Maybe he or professor says salt-free diet or salt-poor diet is beneficial to a person with high blood pressure, the professor's opinion is as good as any other doctor's opinion, even as good as mine, so why fash ourselves about it?

Incidentally, the medical student may be interested to know, advising patients to avoid or restrict their intake of foods containing much cholesterol is, in my opinion, without scientific foundation — but it makes an impression on the patient. Thanks and Woe when the trick specialists or "clinic" rackets instead of consulting a physician who practises under his own name.

For the person or firm that sent four pages of sales talk about a sun tan lotion I repeat that in my opinion anything that prevents sunburn prevents tanning. Sunburn and tan are both due to ultraviolet rays in sunshine or skyshine or in the light from a fluorescute lamp, so any covering or application that protects against burning must also retard or prevent tanning. But don't let the sun tan lotion I repeat — when you set out to peddle your magic lotion keep in mind the fact that fifty million credulous customers are always ready for the newest cosmetic that promises to make them beautiful or glamorous over night.

TODAY'S TALK

TIMELESS VALUES

All about us are endless values that we can make our own by merely taking thought, and giving appreciation, whether that appreciation is expressed or silently absorbed. These values are timeless, so that they belong to us all, from birth to old age.

We look out on Nature, which seems with values, and while all that appreciate them, we can deliciously absorb and make them a part of our existence. It is true that these values are appraised by some standard in life, for an understanding of them gives a vision, courage, and spiritual outlook.

The values have been a part of human history since the first settlement. Without them the soul is left bankrupt, and all incentive dies. But these values are not limited to values, but only the spiritual ones live forever, and inspire all from age to age. A friend called to see me one day. I had not seen him for years. He looked sad and discouraged. However, we were all as angry as the man who had been sidetracked. He was worn out and old as one, anyway, he bailed out and went forward to join the argument. He looked and acted like a prophet, wrathy. He was just a plain, homely citizen, and his car was about worn out.

The offender was a big, well-dressed man. He was defending an offensive age of about thirty, when they are self-important. His car was a gleaming thing, filled with trinkets.

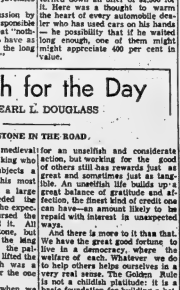
"Behold," demanded the homely little man, "was your idea, plunging ahead like that? My time is money."

The stranger executively around at the rest of us, and I doubt if he will ever meet an unfriendlier collection of eyes.

Since the damage was slight, not required the presence of the police, he tried to exchange names and numbers with his victim. But the rest of us decided that if his time was money, we should cost him something. So we all went and found possible damage to our cars, and telephoned the cops, and as held the valuable man up for a good half hour.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK



On one of the main traffic streets of New York I was caught in a block of those slow-downs occasioned by three or four trucks and delivery that were trying to get out of a normal and proper rate of speed for such vehicles on crowded streets. Behind them we piled up a line of maybe twelve or fifteen cars, and nobody could get out of them and get on our more nimble way.

But for three or four blocks, no opportunity presented itself for the line to break up. Instead of the line-up, to jump past the slow-pokes, and restore the normal traffic in the crowded street.

In that block of delay of impatience and watchfulness, we were all biding our time when I, who must have been the last of the whole place in line, heard, to my astonishment, a siren behind me. And I glimpsed a shiny, aggressive sedan trying to cut ahead, though it was perfectly obvious he couldn't make it against the traffic.

Sure enough, he tried to cut in on the car ahead of me, without any warning. And he and the car ahead got into a beautiful scraping match, a silence while I and everybody behind me braked as best we could. We gave each other a few slight bumps but nothing more serious.

Validity of Some Provincial Farm Marketing Laws Doubted

OTTAWA (CP) — Doubts about the validity of some provincial farm marketing legislation were expressed Wednesday before the federal-provincial conference.

The federal government, informally said, told the provinces to review any dubious legislation to the courts and come back to Ottawa later for any necessary new laws after that.

The conference sent the question to a federal-provincial committee, but this group met for only about 1½ hours and did not get far. It is not expected to report back to the general conference.

The conference, meanwhile, had a discussion on the sharp issue of the marketing of western grain, now piling up on farms, but no firm decisions were reached.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said the question is to be taken up at a meeting to be held shortly among members of the federal cabinet, the agriculture ministers of the prairie provinces and representatives of western grain growers.

Delegates members said the three prairie governments at Wednesday's session urged that the federal government adopt some form of cash payments to grain growers who are holding wheat on farms and cannot dispose of it because of clogged elevators.

It was suggested that the payments be made in a variety of ways against the grain on the farm, either directly from the federal government, through the Canadian wheat board which buys all grain, or through the chartered banks by way of guaranteed loans.

During the sitting, Mr. St. Laurent said, Trade Minister Howe explained to the delegates what is being done about marketing the carryover of the last crop and the near-record crop now coming to harvest and threatening to pile up on farms.

One member of the Liberal Manitoba cabinet, after hearing Mr. Howe said:

"He didn't tell us anything we didn't know before."

On the general question of farm marketing legislation, Ontario's Premier Frost said to reporters that matters he raised before the conference today involve the validity and the workability of this type of law.

"It's a question of making it (the provincial act) work," he said.

"The line between federal and provincial jurisdiction is complicated and devious, so that it is impossible to draw up workable marketing legislation."

Mr. Frost, in talking to reporters, would not go into any more detail, but it was reported his fears arise from an anxiety on the part of some marketing boards that they cannot legally levy assessments against producers for the purpose of establishing financial reserves against bad years.

A federal source said it appears Mr. Frost is looking for federal action to patch up provincial legislation.

Canadian Consumers Told High Tariff Causes Tension

MONTREAL (CP)—Mrs. H. E. Vautelet, president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, has warned Canadian producers against seeking immediate reliefs such as tariff protections without first looking to the future.

Addressing the association's 20th annual meeting, Mrs. Vautelet said Wednesday night that high tariffs can lead to international tension because "protection for someone means protection against something or someone."

"Tariff protections will usually protect tomorrow only if they are continually raised to meet ever-rising international competition," she said. "And this road leads to war or a paralysis of peace, since international brotherhood needs to be settled out in more than words."

VARIOUS REPORTS HEARD

The annual meeting, which concludes today, opened Wednesday with delegates from nine Canadian provinces—Newfoundland excluded—hearing reports covering such topics as toys and textiles, laundering and labelling.

Up to the opening session, the association was strictly a woman's organization concerning itself with quality in Canadian goods and services. Later, the association conceded that men "are a wonderful help" and agreed to allow them to join.

Delegates voted to amend the constitution to admit "any person in Canada." The decision will be submitted to provincial executives for ratification.

ESSENTIAL MARKETS

Turning to the Canadian dairy industry, Mrs. Vautelet said: "The short-term view of a government policy of price support for an important dairy product, butter—is today antagonizing the markets that are even more essential to dairying than protection, and is providing the best margarine promotion scheme of the year."

Today's buyer is faced with tremendous responsibilities, she said.

"As we reduce our dairy purchases we can drive dairy herds from our farms and kill the future fertility of our farmlands. But as we promote substitutes we promote new foods for a future that may soon need all the new foods the earth can find. . . ."

O'HARA'S NAME CLEARED

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Maureen O'Hara and her former husband, television producer William H. Price, have settled a child custody dispute with an agreement in which Price withdrew his charges against her of improper conduct. In the agreement Price said his charge that Miss O'Hara had been improper in conduct with Enrique Parra, wealthy Mexico City lawyer, was "not supported by evidence and untrue."

Horsepower and HORSE COLLARS

An English sports car that has set 100 world records for its class uses aluminum in its bodywork and in parts of the chassis. . . . And a French company is making lightweight aluminum collars for draught horses.

Just goes to show that in this age of aluminum it isn't just the newest marvels that make use of aluminum but some of man's oldest inventions, too. Which is one of the reasons why we have already started work on expanding the ingot capacity of our new development at Kitimat from its present 91,500 tons a year to 231,500 tons.

Oldest Woman Pilot in U.S. Earns Licence

TETERBORO, N.J. (AP)—The oldest woman pilot in the United States, a 65-year-old great-grandmother, Wednesday earned her multi-engine licence.

Mrs. Zaddie R. Bunker of Palm Springs, Calif., was certified by Civil Aeronautics Administration examiner William K. Parrish after she took him aloft for an hour and 45 minutes in a two-engined Cessna 70.

The sprightly little grey-haired woman, who received her first flying licence when she was 55, said she now plans to study for a commercial licence, the most difficult one.

"Why did I learn to fly at the age of 55?" she said. "Because it's fun."

WANTS POLYGAMY

LONDON (Reuters)—Shopkeeper Ted Underhill told a merchants conference Wednesday that the staff position for the small businessman in London is so acute that the only way to keep girls is to marry them. "That's why I'm all in favor of this new impetus given to the policy of polygamy by some eastern gentlemen," he said.

Weddings

TURNEY — ROBLIN

PICTON — Ferns, palms, white and yellow chrysanthemums decorated Milford United Church for the marriage of Ellen Elizabeth Marie Roblin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Thompson Roblin, RR 3 Picton and Glen Arnold Turney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Claude Turney, Bowmanville. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. Robert Sherwin, B.D., of Cherry Valley assisted by Rev. George Wright of Milford. Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. G. Wright. The soloist was Mrs. Laverne Wright of Picton who sang "I'll Walk Beside You", prior to the ceremony, and "At Dawning", during the signing of the register.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was a lovely picture in a full length gown of chantilly lace over nylon tulle and satin which buttoned down the back and had long lily-pointed sleeves. The sweetheart neckline was enhanced with sequins. The bodice was moulded while the lace skirt had large scalloped diamonds of nylon tulle over satin. Her fingertip veil of French illusion bordered with lily-of-the-valley was caught to a pleated tulle bonnet trimmed with sequins and pearls. She carried red roses with tiny white mums.

They were gowned alike in very full ice blue waltz-length dresses of nylon tulle, featuring pleated round necklines, cap sleeves, pleated gathers at the hipline and buttoned down the back. They wore bands of matching blue feathers and carried yellow shasta 'mums.

Richard Ward, Claremont, was groomsman. Ushers were Charles Cochrane and Hugh Roblin.

The reception followed in the church hall where pink and white streamers suspended from a white wedding bell were used in decoration. A three-tiered wedding cake was topped by a miniature bride and groom with lighted tapers on either side. Servers were Miss Wilma Miller and Miss Patsy Minaker assisted by members of the Women's Association. The bride's mother was in French blue lace and crepe with navy accessories and corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother chose rosewood crepe and lace, navy accessories and corsage of white baby 'mums.

The bride gave her husband an electric shaver; her attendants, rhinestone necklaces; the soloist and organist, cups and saucers. The groom gave his bride a pair matching set of pearls and earrings, and to his attendants, ties and initialled clips.

For travelling to Quebec and the Adirondack Mountains, the bride donned a steel blue dress, pastel rose coat with push-up sleeves, matching hat and accessories and corsage of pink roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Turney will reside in Bowmanville.

Guests were present from Ottawa, Kingston, Campbellford, Colborne, Peterborough, Oshawa, Balsam, Agincourt, Toronto, Bowmanville and Hamilton.

Club Activities

HARMONY CLUB

MARSH HILL — March Hill Harmony Club met for the September meeting on Friday night in the Marsh Hill school, with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Finkle as host and hostess. Mr. Berson Mills, president, opened the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Slater, program convenors used the hymn "I Love to Tell the Story," followed by the story of the hymn. The Scripture lesson, John 3: 5-24 was read, followed by prayer.

Mrs. Slater told the story, "Who Made the Prophet Able to Cure People?" to the children and Mr. Slater read the story of Billy Graham's life.

After the benediction Mr. and Mrs. Fred Campbell, recreation convenors, conducted a game.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour spent.

MARSH HILL M.B.

MARSH HILL — March Hill Mission Band met Monday night with 13 members and three mothers present. Mrs. Leslie Finkle presided over the program and opened the meeting.

A reading, "A Prayer for All My Brothers," by Raymond Finkle; a reading "How I Talk," by Linda Finkle; piano solo, "The Swallow," by Marilyn Finkle; a reading, "How to be Happy," by Elizabeth Finkle. All the children repeated the verse of "Jesus Wants Me for a Sunbeam." Scripture reading by Elaine Linton.

Mrs. Finkle gave the chapter, "Off to the Mole," from the study book. The meeting closed with prayer, "God Sees the Sparrow Fall."

Women's Activities

MOIRA W.A.

MOIRA — Mrs. Blake Ketcheson was hostess to the Moira W.A. for the September meeting, with a large number of women in attendance.

The vice-president, Mrs. Ross Ketcheson, presided. Psalm 84 was read by Mrs. Wesley Farrel. Thank-you letters were also read, and "Happy Birthday" sung to Mrs. Poste in tribute to her natal day.

Program consisted of: a solo by Mrs. David Mumby, with guitar accompaniment; a piano selection by Mrs. Poste; and readings by Mrs. McIlroy, "The Power of Prayer," and "Billie Graham Crusade" by Mrs. Milton Vanderwater.

Refreshments, served by the hostess and her assistants, concluded the meeting.

Popular Stripes

By TRACY ADRIAN

This season is seeing some snappy new versions of the ever popular shirt for wear with separate skirts or with a suit. Though some of the blouses are adaptations from the masculine, they are never severe and are always plainly intended for the female figure. This one is a perfect example of how smart and feminine is the latest crop of shirts. It is made of cotton in vertical stripes of gray and white and has a unique tucked front, and tucked cuffs. The clever little collar has a matching bow tie.

Women's Institute

SPRINGBROOK W.I.

Springbrook Women's Institute held its September meeting at the home of Mrs. J. A. McKeown on Thursday.

Mrs. Gerald Burkitt and Mrs. Lindsay Cassidy were appointed delegates to the area convention. An invitation was received to attend Wellman's W.I. 50th anniversary on October 19th.

Plans were made for the annual Hallowe'en party to be held in the Orange hall, Springbrook, on October 31.

Mrs. Cyril McKeown, convener of Canadian Industries, was in charge of the program. Mrs. Clarence McKeown gave an excellent talk on the motto, "Industry is Our Country's Life Blood." An interesting demonstration and recipe for uncooked cake were given by Mrs. Harold Stiles. Mrs. L. Cassidy read an article on "Friendship."

The topic, "Knowledge of Textiles," was prepared and read by Mrs. Cyril McKeown, who dealt with the new fibre of fashion "Terylene," which is made at Millhaven. Mrs. McKeown also conducted a contest.

Refreshments were served.

W.I. Convention To Be Held At Collegiate

The combined districts of Hastings, Prince Edward and Northumberland Women's Institutes are holding their 28th annual convention in Belleville Collegiate on October 13th and 14th. Registration begins 9.30 a.m.

The sessions will feature excellent reports, addresses and discussions, with Mrs. G. MacPhatter, the provincial president, as principal speaker.

On October 13th at 6 p.m. a banquet will be held in Tabernacle United Church with also the evening program held there.

Tickets for banquet will be sold at Collegiate from 9.30 a.m. to 2.30 p.m. on October 13th.

Those desiring billets for overnight please contact Mrs. Erle Denyes, 236 Church St., or Mrs. M. B. Weese, 62 Dunbar St.

This convention is known as "The Friendly Convention," with the theme for 1955, "As a Woman Thinketh, So is She."

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

SECRETS OF CHARM

Beauty without charm is valueless. A woman may have a divine figure, the sort of face which makes every man stop to take a second look, and she may wear her clothes like the mannequins in Fifth Avenue windows, but if she doesn't give out with that certain "something" which draws everyone toward her, the sastre she does have might just as well be called liabilities. For there's nothing quite as disillusioning as "cold" beauty. Granted, such a woman attracts immediate attention. Everyone wants to meet her on sight. But, after the first meeting, what? Usually nothing, my friend.

On the other hand, there's the girl whose figure would never make the Miss America lists, whose facial features are far from perfect and whose clothes, while smart, are not eye-riveting. Yet, at a party, she's always surrounded by both men and women, always the center of attraction. Why? Because she has that warmth of personality which is irresistible to her. In other words, she has charm. And charm, unlike mere beauty, is something which every woman can acquire.

Its main ingredient is lack of self-consciousness. The woman who is constantly wondering whether her hair is alright, whether her make-up is perfect or whether her dress is "doing things" for her cannot possibly be charming since she's concentrating on herself instead of the other fellow.

Have you ever thought how much of your charm is lost when you scatter your attention while listening to others, and that the constant attention may actually give you the reputation of a scatterbrain? Or worse—that of a person barely condescending to lend an ear to a friend's account of the happenings in his or her life?

If you can concentrate on the person with whom you are at the moment engaged, to the full extent of your capacity, you cannot fail to charm. Forget yourself. Think only of the person who, perhaps lonelier than you, is seeking warmth and companionship. And be sincere about it. People see quickly through an "act." Be truly interested in everyone and everything. You'll not only charm but you may b surprised at how much you will learn.

Have a friendly smile for everyone—the waiter who takes your order in a restaurant, the salesperson who waits on you, the boy who delivers your groceries. Don't save your smiles for just those whom you're trying to impress. They probably won't even notice them. And "be yourself" at all times. Don't try to play one role for this man, another for that. Even if you're a real actress at heart, this won't get you anywhere. The phoniness, you can be sure, will be detected and, what's more, one of these days you may falter in your lines. And then what? You like people for what they are, don't you Well, let people like you for what you are—a sincere, warm-hearted, genuinely interested (and interesting) companion—in other words, a charming woman.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

EIGHT GUIDEPOSTS TO A HAPPY MARRIAGE

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

After reading your columns, something has got to be telling that Lady Luck has surely cast her lot with me, for I am a very happy wife with a wonderful husband. But then I get to thinking, and I know it isn't luck at all, but effort.

I just thought you might enjoy hearing how a happy marriage got that way.

1. People marry to be happy. Decide what you want from your marriage and inform the man you're going to marry. Then listen to his ideas. Straighten out any differences before the wedding. This simple rule will avoid many an argument.

2. The one you expect to marry has some faults. Be sensible enough to realize this, and decide whether living with him or her is going to be worth putting up with these faults. If your husband does n't bang up his clothes, or your wife doesn't always have supper on time, just breathe deeply and thank heaven that you have a husband or wife. Remember, you can't change them.

3. Practice the Golden Rule. Little things are what make a marriage a big thing. If you want to be happy, then make your husband happy. To say things like: "You sure look good in that color," or "I've missed you today," help him to know you think he's very wonderful and important. A man likes to think he's important to his wife as indeed he is.

4. You're partners, not competitors. You're a team. You won't always agree, but try to understand. It may make a difference.

5. Don't try to deceive each other. This can lead to trouble in the future. Be honest with each other.

6. Consult each other on matters of importance. Don't say "May I?" or "I've decided that we—." Or "Would you mind, my dear, what do you think about . . ." Don't ask permission. Do consult and discuss.

7. Give your partner an overdose of sincere love, devotion and understanding. Most men thrive on attention. Remember, he's your man, and it's up to you alone to keep him that.

8. When you can't decide whether this or that is right or wrong toward your husband, put yourself in his place. The solution will show in a matter of seconds.

Lots of people (most of them unhappily married) tell me I'm too young to know about marriage; that I haven't been married long enough yet. But more than anything else in the world I want my marriage to work. This, I think, is most important of all.

Maybe it's true that a 19-year-old girl who has been married only 14 months to a 22-year-old boy doesn't know. But you can bet anybody would sure have a hard time convincing me otherwise. Mrs. R. M.

Dear Mrs. C.M.:

What could I possibly say in answer to this fine letter of yours except that your analysis of what makes a happy marriage is absolutely right; that it is most unusual to mature for 19 years old, and that I am grateful to you for sharing it with us all?

I am sure it will be of very real value and help to other young readers of this column who are on the threshold of marriage, as well as to many whose marriages may have wandered off in the wrong direction and could be set right by following the nine eight "guideposts" you have set up.

I CAN SEND YOU SOME SUGGESTIONS THAT SHOULD HELP

Dear Beatrice Fairfax:

I'm tall and fairly good-looking, but I just don't seem to get along very well with boys.

I like to have good times, and to do have a boy friend now and then, and I get along fine in school. But as a rule, I just don't seem to click with the boys.

Please give me some badly needed advice.—D.

Dear D.:

How would you like to have a copy of my suggestions on how to be popular?

They're too long to print here, but if you'll send me a stamped, self-addressed envelope so that I can reach you directly, I'll be very glad to forward them to you.

I think you'll find them helpful.

Canadians Have Abundant Reasons to Give Thanks

By Mary Moore

With such an abundant harvest there's doubt in this house whether we want a roast turkey for Thanksgiving dinner or duck or roast pork. Personally I hope we decide on one or two of Barb's Muscovy ducks. The flavor is equally good if not better than turkey, and I don't have leftovers to cope with.

But whether it is turkey or duck or a really good roast of fresh pork the accompaniments and the company in particular are the ingredients that make it a genuine occasion for Thanksgiving.

The choice is yours, praise be. The food and the friends are at hand and yours for the asking.

ROASTING TIMES AND TEMPERATURES FOR TURKEY DUCK AND PORK

If you are roasting turkey or duck the temperature is a steady 325 deg. Fahr. throughout. Turkey: 3 to 4 hours for a dressed-for-roasting 4 to 8-lb. bird; 4 to 4 1-2 hours for an 8 to 12-lb. bird; 4 1-2 to 5 hours for a 12 to 16-lb. bird; 5 to 7 hours for larger birds. Duck—(allow 1 lb. raw dressed-for-roasting weight per person): roast at 325 deg. Fahr., uncovered, no water, no basting, allowing 30 minutes per lb.

PORK—If you are roasting fresh pork it must be well done and temperature is 350 deg. Fahr. throughout, no cover, no water. A whole loin weighing 10 to 12 lbs. requires 13 to 20 minutes per lb., a partial loin 35 to 40 minutes per lb.; is boned and rolled 4 to 6-lb. shoulder 40 to 45 minutes per lb.

Let us suppose that your menu will include one of the above roasts and plan the suitable things to go with any one of them.

Run your eye through this menu and see if it gets your nod of approval.

Grapefruit Cocktail or Chilled Tomato Juice (with lemon)
Roast Turkey or Duck or Fresh Pork Loin or Shoulder
Spiced Cranberry (or crappple) Jelly
Glazed Sweet Potatoes
Creamed Cauliflower
Pumpkin Pie with Whipped Cream and Oulsize Pecans
Coffee

STUFFING

Try adding sliced mushrooms or celery or both to the turkey stuffing this year, sautéing them in butter before adding them to the crumbs and seasonings. If you are stuffing a duck add a little apple and grated orange rind.

SPICED CRANBERRY JELLY

Same method may be used for crabapples.

Four cups washed and picked over cranberries, 2 cups sugar, 2 3-inch sticks cinnamon, 1 teaspoon whole cloves, 1 1-2 cups water. Cover cranberries with water and add spices tied loosely in cheesecloth bag. Cook until berries are tender and burst. Strain and rub through sieve. Add 3 cups sugar to juice and pulpres and bring to boil and boil five minutes stirring. Turn into large mold or individual molds to chill and set.

For the Glazed Sweet Potatoes pour a syrup of 1-3 cup each butter and brown sugar and 1-4 cup hot water over 4 medium-sized sliced cooked sweet potatoes in baking dish and bake 1 hour at 350 deg.

For Waldorf Salad mix together equal amounts of chopped inner celery hearts and pared or quartered dessert apples and add 1-4 the amount of choice walnut quarters. Moisten with mayonnaise at once to prevent apples browning.

PUMPKIN PIE FILLING:

1 1-2 cups strained or canned pumpkin, 1-2 teaspoon each salt and ground ginger, 2 teaspoons (or less) cinnamon, 1-3 teaspoon nutmeg 3-3 cup brown sugar 1 1-2 cups milk 2 eggs. Beat eggs and combine with all remaining ingredients. Pour into very large pastry-lined deep pie plate with her high fluted edge. Bake at 450 deg. for ten minutes then reduce heat to 350 deg. for 30 minutes. When cool spread with whipped cream or pass whipped cream and pouring honey at table, or if whipped cream is on pie garnish it with a tight border of large whole pecans.

Part of my thanks on Thanksgiving Day will be to you for reading this far.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

BEST MAN YEARNS TO WEAR UNIFORM!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter's wedding is to take place early next month. Her prospective bridegroom has asked my son to be his best man. My son has suggested he wear his uniform. I'm omitting the name of the branch of the service I mean. Is permission of course . . . to add color to the wedding, as he would be the only one in any kind of uniform. But I am wondering if this would be correct.—Reader

It is the bridegroom who makes the decisions about the attire of each one of his attendants. And since it is obviously not a "must" that your son wear his uniform I am quite sure that the bridegroom will want uniformity-of-attire for his attendants. Your son should consult with the bridegroom before he takes it upon himself to do anything not approved by the bridegroom. It's not the responsibility to "add color to the wedding"!

IMPORTANT FEATURES FOR GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are soon to celebrate our Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary, and I would be most appreciative of any suggestions you will give me on entertaining on this occasion so that it will not be stiff and formal. It will have to be on a Sunday afternoon. We have a large family and there will finally forward to an especially happy occasion. As there are so few friends left of our age group, and as even some of these live at a far distance from here, the group of guests will be mostly younger than we are. We will rent the Community Hall in this small place where we live, and all the service will be hired help. No liquor will be served. We have a few fine singers in our community, but I would like to have something a little more for general mingling. We'll be not stilted. Does there always have to be a wedding anniversary cake? . . . Golden Wedding Inquirer.

I'm so sorry you asked that last question, or at least asked it in just that way. "Does there always have to be a wedding anniversary cake?" For I think that your planning to have a handsome and decorative Wedding Anniversary Cake and charmingly planning the cutting-the-cake ceremony would give a perfect "get-together" feature to your party. Since you have those fine singers available, I suggest you ask some of them, or all of them, to plan to foregather at a definite signal, and joyously lead the guests in singing "The Bride Cuts the Cake" as you and your bridegroom" (his right hand over your right hand) cut the first slice of The Cake and share it with each other. Then the bright sing other of your and your husband's favorite songs as you (or someone you assign—your daughter, perhaps, or some other relative or intimate friend) cut the rest of the cake to your guests' plates and have it served to the guests. A memorable high-point of the occasion! With the cake you should, I suggest, serve glasses of fruit punch or other non-alcoholic beverage, for the guests to drink to the toasts, "Here's to the Bride and Groom . . . every golden wish on their Golden Wedding Day!"

Dramatize the golden color in the decorations . . . in the table setting, gold-color cloth, perhaps gold-color paper napkins printed with the two names or initials, the proud year-dates, 1905-1955, and the date of the celebration . . . in your dress or accessories, perhaps a corsage . . . in the corsage (of Talisman roses or rosebuds, if this appeals to you) of your bridegroom sends you to wear on this wonderful occasion . . . in The Cake decoration, maybe in place cards or favors.

LADIES!

If you want to choose clothes with keen discretion,
We've the answer if you want selection,
If it's anything in a sporty duet,
We've skirts and sweater and the prices are rightly set.
If it's something in a lovely tailored dress you have in mind,
Come up and see us because you'll admit they're the smartest you will find.
Now if you were thinking of something rather dressy,
Our styles are lovely and you'll say that "our prices . . . don't make it messy".
If you're a bride to be you just can't go anywhere else for that bridal dress,
Because up here our prices are low and the gown will look the best.
So you say that there's a semi-formal dance right around the bend,
Well you'll notice that semi-formals from "Winnie's . . . will surely be the trend.
"Yes", we know that you're looking for a winter coat, but please don't make a fuss,
You'll find that our coats are reasonably priced, and they're smart so come up and see us.
Now if you come up and see something you like, and haven't enough cash on hand,
Use our "easy lay-away plan" it's the most practical idea in the land.

Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter IODE Holds Banquet

STIRLING — The Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter of the I.O.D.E. sponsored a banquet Thursday evening at the community hall. 125 attended.

Members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge, No. 211, catered for the turkey dinner under the leadership of Noble Grand Mrs. Morley Barlow. The lodge is using its proceeds for the "Regalia Fund."

GUEST SPEAKER

The Regent, Mrs. Carl Potter, presided and the guest speaker was Miss Jeanne Knapman, of Hamilton, provincial president, who brought an address of interest.

All the chapters in the district were invited and this included Marmora, two chapters from Belleville, Campbellford, and the hostess group in the village.

The four clergy and their wives were present: the Rev. and Mrs. A. Packman, the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker, the Rev. and Mrs. H. C. Secker, and the Rev. and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher.

During the evening the clergymen dedicated a new flag for the local I.O.D.E.

Mrs. Bruce Glendenning was the soloist for the evening.

Rawdon

Y. P. U.

RAWDON — Rawdon circuit Young People's Union convened for the initial meeting of the fall term at Mount Pleasant church hall on Thursday evening.

Miss Betty McConnell officiated at the piano and Ralph Johnson conducted the devotional with Miss Jean Reid in charge of the Scripture lesson. The Rev. W. G. Fletcher spoke briefly.

Mr. Craig Watson led the singsong, Miss Ruth Linn delighted with a solo, Miss Joyce Reid read a couple of selections. All enjoyed recreation followed by refreshments which included honey-dipped doughnuts.

Carmel congregation held a successful chicken dinner in Jubilee Hall on Wednesday evening with three full sittings required to cater to the guests from various points.

Rawdon male quartet delighted with several selections. Vocal solos were given by Mrs. N. Welsh, Moira, and Mr. Bill Reynolds, of Stirling; Miss Carol Welsh, Moira, contributed a couple of readings; Miss Betty McConnell furnished piano music; Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Broadworth sang with guitar accompaniment.

Mrs. Gerald Clancy and Mrs. Arthur Pyear rendered a piano duet; Miss Lulabelle Mathews and Mr. Arnott Mathews sang a duet with Mrs. Will Mathews as accompanist; Mr. Jack Bush gave a trombone solo and Don Armstrong a cornet solo; Miss Linda Sine contributed an accordion selection.

CENTENARY

Mrs. B. Lehman Addresses WMS On Nigeria

CENTENARY — The members of Centenary Women's Mission Society held their autumn thank - offering meeting last Thursday. Several W.M.S. societies from surrounding churches, numbering about 150 ladies, attended. The church was beautiful with flowers from the neighboring gardens.

Mrs. S. Hart and Mrs. Roy Thrasher welcomed the guests.

Quiet music was played by Mrs. Edgar Ray.

Mrs. Harold Hancock, president, opened the meeting.

Mrs. Lincoln Elliott, Tweed, brought greetings from the Presbyterial.

Mrs. W. May and Miss Ethel Horton, of Tabernacle W.M.S., were in charge of the devotional period. The theme was "Help Us To Do Thy Will."

Mrs. Perry Hamilton, accompanied by Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton, Aikens, rendered the solo, "What Jesus Meant to Me."

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. Fred Aikens introduced the guest speaker, Mrs. Blythe Lehman, a former Centenarian who is now a missionary in Nigeria, Africa.

Mrs. Lehman addressed the gathering, saying that she received her call to God's work at the age of 14. She asked, "Do you ever stop to think how much of our time is taken up with things that do not count?" adding that, not very long ago, she addressed a similar body of women at Dico, Nigeria, where African delegates from several centres took part in the service. Some of these women were from former head-hunting tribes, who are now Christians. They are training the Africans to teach their own people.

"The women are very proud of their activities in kindness, i.e. fetching water or fire wood to a neighbor who is ill. These burdens are carried sometimes great distances on the shoulders. When men and women eat together it signifies that they are Christian.

These Africans now support themselves and send their children to the mission schools.

"In Nigeria there are two types of school, the government schools are Mohammedan and the mission schools.

"In the mission schools children are taught farming and trades, the standard of education is coming up, there are secondary schools and seminaries in which they are taught to teach their own people.

"There are more hospitals now, but still there is a lack of doctors and nurses. In the Sudan interior there are segregation villages every seven miles to help people with leprosy."

Mrs. Lehman answered many questions concerning the work. Much progress has been made since the war. There is electricity in Jos and Kuno and department stores are coming into the larger centres. There is a slogan "Africa for Africans." The practical needs are Bibles in native language.

Mrs. W. Shortt thanked the ladies who so capably took part in the afternoon's program.

The Rev. A. E. McCallum pronounced the benediction.

The Centenary ladies served tea.

Mrs. Fred Wilson voiced the appreciation of the visiting societies.

Queensboro

QUEENSBORO — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Holmes and Claire were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Holmes, Trenton.

Mayor Whitton Presents Keys To Premiers

OTTAWA (CP)—Leaders of Canada's federal and provincial governments took time out Wednesday night from their fiscal conference to accept golden keys to Canada's capital from Mayor Charlotte Whitton.

But despite the varied delights of a smorgasbord supper their thoughts did not stray far from the problem of trying to find some tax agreement.

Some premiers, apparently referring to lack of success in getting a bigger tax share from the federal government, told Mayor Whitton the keys were the first thing they had got from Ottawa.

Premier Campbell of Manitoba said wistfully he hoped his key would fit the federal mint.

DIPS INTO HISTORY

Mayor Whitton, herself a member of Ontario's conference delegation as an adviser, dipped into history as she presented Premier Duplessis' key. She recalled how explorer Nicholas Gatineau reached the site of Ottawa by going up Quebec's St. Maurice river and down the Gatineau river to its mouth here.

That trip, the mayor said, "shows the indirect route one must take to approach the bastions of power in Ottawa."

Mr. Duplessis, replying, told how the St. Maurice river flows into the St. Lawrence with neither overflowing the other. That showed, said the champion of Quebec autonomy, how two powers could remain distinct and yet maintain good relations.

Prime Minister St. Laurent, accepting his key, said he is a part-time resident of the capital who also maintains a home in the province of "my good friend Mr. Duplessis." The key was symbolic of the fact that Canada's capital is the home of all Canadians.

Three Members Of IRA Given Life Terms

READING, England (AP)—Three members of the underground Irish Republican Army were sentenced to life imprisonment Wednesday night for raiding a British army barracks and stealing large quantities of arms and ammunition.

After remaining silent through their two-day trial in a heavily guarded court room, the eldest of the three, Joseph Doyle, 30, said after sentence was pronounced:

"We are soldiers of the IRA. Those arms and ammunition were to be used against the British army of occupation in Ireland.

"We have no regrets: Our only regret is that it (the raid) was not a success."

Secret Aviation Plant Opened For Inspection

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP)—Howard Hughes, the unpredictable movie - maker and industrialist, Wednesday threw open his long secret aviation plant to the press and unveiled an electronic automatic marksman which guides rocket-armed interceptors toward attacking bombers with deadly accuracy.

An announcement from Hughes and the air force said the electronic "brain" has been installed on every American and Canadian plane now guarding this continent and they greatly improve chances of shooting down attacking planes.

The system guides interceptors toward bomber targets, fires rockets at the exact right moment, and works in any kind of weather, day or night. It gives defenders the advantage in air attack, plant spokesmen said.

In Ottawa an RCAF spokesman said Canada's nine squadrons of CF-100 jets are equipped with the automatic marksman manufactured by Hughes. But they said for security reasons they could not provide any further details of the equipment's operations.

Merger With Trades, Labor Congress Will Be Main Topic At Annual CCL Convention

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Congress of Labor will complete plans for the historic merger with the Trades and Labor Congress at its annual convention in Toronto next week.

Amalgamation of the two bodies into a 1,200,000-member organization is regarded as certain of ratification by the CCL, though some delegates are expected to object to certain details of the move.

The 600,000-member TLC's convention already has approved the merger, which will create the largest central labor organization in Canadian history. The CCL, long a rival of the TLC, will add 400,000 members to the labor wedding.

For the CCL—born out of a merger of all-Canadian and CIO-affiliated unions in 1940—the convention starting Monday at Toronto will be the 15th and last, barring unexpected complications.

200 DELEGATES

It also will be about the largest the congress. More than 900 delegates are expected to be on hand when 76-year-old president A. R. Mosher—one of the CCL founders and its only president—opens the convention.

Mosher is due to become an honorary president of the merged organization, to be known as the Canadian Labor Congress, along with former TLC president Percy Bengough. First head of the CLC, through an understanding among top officers of both congresses, will be president Claude Jodoin of the TLC.

While the CCL organization across the country is regarded generally as enthusiastic about the principle of the merger, it is reported there is some dissent on points such as these:

1. The decision of the leaders to have CLC vice-presidents chosen regionally, as the TLC does now, instead of following the CCL practice of electing vice-presidents at large for all Canada.

2. The proposed setup on per capita payments for members to the new congress.

3. Arrangements for representation at conventions.

4. The plan of holding CLC national conventions once every two years instead of having annual conventions as the TLC and CCL now do.

But informants say any differences on these points won't hold up the merger, which is tied in with the AFL-CIO amalgamation in the United States and which has been scheduled for consummation at a joint founding convention of the TLC and CCL in Toronto next April.

New Members May Be Admitted To United Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—Health Minister Paul Martin of Canada said Wednesday prospects appear bright for agreement on admitting new members to the UN.

Martin was commenting on reports that Secretary of State Dulles hinted at a press conference that the United States would oppose a package deal and that each membership application should be decided on its merits.

Canadian officials, who have been playing a leading role in negotiations toward membership agreement, realize that the U.S. is opposed to admitting some of the 17 applicants included in the proposed deal. Five of the applications being considered are from Communist countries and 12 from non-Communists.

But the Canadians take hope from Dulles' speech in the General Assembly two weeks ago in which he opposed use of the veto in deciding membership applications.

Minister Says Highways Must Be Made Safe

TORONTO (CP)—Highways Minister Allan said Wednesday night his department is going to make Ontario highways safe "even if we have to do it the hard way."

He said at a dinner meeting of the Toronto-York division of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association that the licences of 21,000 Ontario drivers were suspended last year. Also, 99,935 Ontario drivers were involved in 52,500 accidents resulting in 1,045 fatalities.

"That was one of our better years," Mr. Allan said.

"This year, with a record of 1,600,000 persons expected to take out drivers' licences, things look even worse. On Ontario highways alone, 315 persons were killed during the first eight months of this year as compared with 225 for the same period last year."

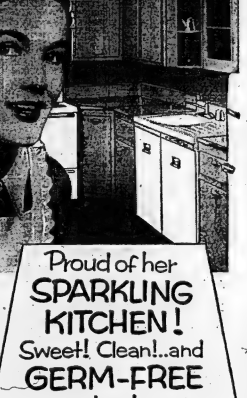
He said the financial loss from highway accidents in Canada last year was $100,000,000.

WAS LINK WITH PAST

QUEBEC (CP) — Napoleon Leclerc, veteran of the 1885 Riel Rebellion, died in Veterans' Hospital here Tuesday. He was 90. Mr. Leclerc was a member of the Canadian honor guard which went to London for the celebration of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee in 1897. He was decorated by the Queen on that occasion. He was also a veteran of the Boer War and the First World War.

Anti-Diabetes Drugs Can Be Taken by Mouth

BAD HOMBURG, Germany (AP) Two new anti-diabetes drugs to be administered by mouth were announced to a German medical congress Wednesday.



Prof. Ferdinand Bertram; chief internal physician at the Hamburg-Barmbek Hospital, reported a drug called BZ55 was successful in most of 100 tests he supervised. This is a sulfonamide compound found by Mannheim chemists who noticed it caused a rapid decrease in the sugar content of the blood.

Bertram said the treatment offered "good chances of success" for patients above 45 if the diabetes is not older than five to 10 years and if they were not treated with insulin longer than one to two years.

Bertram said chances are "small" for younger diabetics and older patients long afflicted with diabetes.

Two Berlin specialists, writing in the weekly journal of the German Medical Society, said BZ55 is suited to replace insulin partly or completely.

Prof. H. Stoetter reported a second drug, D860, also showed good results in checking excessive sugar accumulation.

Development of Canada's Natural Resources Discussed At Winnipeg Chamber Meet

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

WINNIPEG (CP)—A chemical engineer, a labor leader and an economist today gave their prescriptions for the development of Canada's natural resources to the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The chemical engineer, J. R. Donald, president of J. T. Donald and Co. Ltd., of Montreal, consulting chemists, said:

"I believe we should put the proposition to the United States that, if they wish to import raw materials from us they should, in all fairness, reduce the tariffs on the products which can be manufactured from them.

"With the increased demands upon our natural resources and primary products forecast by the United States, we should be in a favorable trading position.

"Such an arrangement should not work any great hardship on United States industry in view of their anticipated expansion of markets."

LABOR VIEW

The labor leader, Gordon W. Cushing, general secretary-treasurer of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, said:

"Teamwork for Progress' (the theme of the chamber's meeting) should be extended and become the basic principle underlying our resource development in the future, for management and labor can be a team and as such can get more done more efficiently and more advantageously for the whole country and the whole people than in any other way."

The economist, Dr. J. R. Petrie, director of economic research, Jones Heward and Company, Montreal investment firm, said:

"There is a fairly widespread idea that Canada is going heavily to book to the United States for the development of this country. I think there is no need to worry. We are doing all right and we are becoming progressively more self-sufficient in terms of supply of capital. . . . I hope for much greater interest on the part of Canadian investors in the ownership of Canadian companies. . . .

"I believe more of our natural resources should be processed at home and think that the trend will be in the direction of increased manufacturing of our raw materials in this country. . . ."

IN PANEL DISCUSSION

The three were speakers in a panel discussion devoted to the problems of resource development. The comments were contained in texts released to the press in advance of delivery.

At the Chamber's annual dinner Wednesday night, James Muir, president of the Royal Bank of Canada, said Canadians should consider not merely what kind of decisions are appropriate to 15,000,000 people today but what kind are appropriate to 30,000,000 of the not-so-distant future.

He added that "narrow policies, apparently in the interest of certain groups, serve not only to reduce our national welfare in the present but to stifle the forces of growth that determine the level of our national welfare in the future."

Canadians must gamble a bit on what the rate of expansion of their home market may be and, to a degree, this rate of expansion would itself become a measure of "our faith" in Canada's future.

"Our policy, both domestic and international, should anticipate growth. In a sense, we have to act like a great nation before we become one."

Board Refuses Building Permit For Apartment

TORONTO (CP)—Board of control Wednesday refused to approve a building permit to promoters of an 11-storey apartment building on stilts to be built in north-central Toronto.

A delegation of residents from the area, led by Senator Salter Hayden, who called the building "a telephone pole with bedrooms," said the building did not conform with the architecture of other buildings in the area.

One resident called it an "open-air garage," referring to the proposed ground-floor parking planned for underneath the building. The building was planned for the residential area near Avenue road and St. Clair avenue.

Senator Hayden said: "We are not trying to prevent apartments going into the area, but this one is not in harmony with the rest. This is the most horrible presentation of a building possible."

Samuel J. Kelner, a member of the metropolitan planning board, spoke in favor of granting the permit.

"I don't see how a private group of citizens can set themselves up as judges of aesthetics. They are not qualified to say this design does not please them. It's going a bit too far."

Natural Energy Of Human Voice Being Tapped

FT. MONMOUTH, N.J. (AP)—The natural energy of the human voice is being tapped to run a radio now.

The U.S. Army Signal Corps laboratories here announced Wednesday it has a tiny radio transmitter, small enough to fit inside a telephone mouthpiece, that operates by the sound waves of speech alone. No batteries or other power is needed.

When perfected, the army notes, this tiny gadget could be used to replace the more cumbersome walkie-talkies. Businessmen might use it to call their offices while walking down the street. The reporter can give his newspaper a quick story from the scene. Farmers can call in from the fields. The instrument also could be handy for emergency use in lifeboats, rafts and planes.

NEW EXPERIENCE FOR STENGEL, ALSTON

It was a new experience for Casey Stengel, left, manager of the New York Yankees, to congratulate an opposing manager for winning the world series baseball championship. But Casey did it with good grace, shaking hands with Dodger manager Walt Alston, and taking the blame for his team's defeat on himself. Casey promised he would be around for another year in which his Yankees would win the world series. (Central Press Canadian).

Secondary Talks In GM Strike Again Resumed

TORONTO (CP) — Secondary talks in the strike of General Motors of Canada employees resume today following labor relations board dismissal of a company application to have the strike declared illegal.

The strike of 17,000 members of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) is in its 18th day. Workers at plants at Oshawa, Toronto, St. Catharines, London and Windsor walked out Sept. 19.

Point of issue was whether the GM-UAW five-year contract was still in force. Ontario labor law prohibits strikes or lockouts before a contract has lapsed. It also prohibits contracts of less than one-year duration.

Board chairman Jacob Finkelman of Toronto said that because of "doubts" and "circumstances" in the case, the board used its discretionary powers to dismiss the application without making a finding on the fine legal points in dispute.

COMPANY ISSUES STATEMENT

A statement issued by the company said "the labor relations board appears to take the position that without committing itself on either of these points it is justified in refusing to grant a declaration that the strike is unlawful."

The union said the decision is important to every union in the province because "it turned back organized management's attempt to strangle labor's already much encumbered right to strike in Ontario."

Meanwhile at the GM Oshawa plant nearly 8,000 strikers were told, they will start to receive unemployment insurance benefits today.

Those receiving benefits will be workers who were on layoff when the strike began. The approximately 1,000 employees who were on the payroll when the strike hit are not eligible.

Workers on the layoff will get insurance cheques up to the time the unemployment insurance commission estimates they would have normally been called back to work had there been no walkout.

Negotiations on issues at the Oshawa and Windsor plants continued today in an attempt to settle differences on a local level to prepare the way for resumption of major contract talks.

Ghost Writer Says Duchess Wanted Story to Be Soap Opera

NEW YORK (CP) — Author Cleveland Amory said today he quit ghost writing the memoirs of the Duchess of Windsor because she wanted to make her life story a "soap opera."

After working five months in Paris on the 60-year-old duchess' autobiography, he said he had nothing but a headache" and was glad to give it up.

Amory, 38 - year - old author of "The Proper Bostonians" and "The Last Resorts," said he told the duchess he didn't mind omitting facts, "but I insisted I wouldn't distort them."

LAWYER DISAGREES

Henry G. Walter Jr., counsel for the duchess here, didn't go along with Amory's statement. He said that Sept. 23 he gave the author written notice of the termination of his contract at the request of the publishers of the duchess.

"The publishers advised that the quality of Mr. Amory's work was not satisfactory to them," Walter said.

Amory said that the duchess wanted particularly to hush the "go-getting quality of her child-hood," "soap operize" the translation from her second husband, Ernest A. Simpson, to the ex-king, and add-trite sentiment to several other passages.

Marysville

MARYSVILLE — Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doyle, Jr., of Oshawa, were recent visitors of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doyle, Sr., and Martin Doyle, and family.

The community was shocked Saturday when Mr. Joseph Haight was accidentally killed. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

Mr. Joseph McCambridge, Sr; Mr. and Mrs. James McCambridge, Dorothy and Ambrose attended the wedding of their niece, Miss Caroline O'Connor, or St. Catharine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest O'Connor who were formerly of this parish.

The C. W. L. sponsored their first euchre party in the parish hall Sunday evening. There was a large attendance. Those winning the prizes were: ladies—Miss Betty McWilliams; Leo McAlpine; Mrs. Fred Farrell. Men: Dick Kennedy; Charlie Brennan, and Joe McCambridge. These parties will continue every Sunday and Wednesday evening, throughout the season.

'True Briton' Cadi Calls Forgiving Soul

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (Reuters) — A man who offered to take back his unfaithful wife was told by a court Tuesday: "You are a true Briton."

Roland Higginson made the offer even though his blonde, 43-year-old wife, May, had conspired with the man she ran away with to steal Higginson's weekly pay.

The wife and the "other man" —11 years her junior — were each fined £10 after confessing by-passed as Higginson's son in an attempt to collect the pay packet at the factory.

The magistrate declared to the husband: "You are a very good sort, my lad. I would like to shake you by the hand. You are a true Briton."

Jailed for 10 Days

DETROIT (CP)—Luther C. Tetnall, 22, of Detroit, Wednesday went to jail for 10 days for throwing a paper bag out of his car window.

Police said Tatnall, arrested in a drive against litterbugs, threw the bag into woods at the city's Belle Isle amusement park. He was sent to jail because he was unable to pay a $30 fine originally assessed against him.

Detroit, Canadiens Picked Two Top Teams In National Hockey League

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

REACHING OUT

The Ontario Hockey Association is stretching its arms down this way and may gather more Eastern Ontario territory under its aegis.

Plans at present under discussion call for an extensive intermediate "C" grouping which would embrace most of the setting centres in this neck of the woods.

The entire arrangement may hinge on whether the Trent Valley Hockey League will function this year, and reports have it that there is a possibility the oldest hockey loop in Ontario may fold for a season, at least.

The plans under discussion, OHA vice-president Lorne Cook, Kingston, told this department in answer to a telephoned quiz program, would call for a two-section grouping with divisions in the north and southern sections of the district.

The northern section would embrace clubs of the North Hastings Hockey League, Bancroft, Tamworth, Madoc-Tweed Combines, etc., while the southern division would take in Picton, Wellington, Trenton, Napanee, Marmora, Frankford — in fact all clubs of the TVL.

Point Anne, Mr. Cook said, in view of its strength of last season when it not only won the Trent Valley title, but galloped off with the OHA intermediate "C" crown would likely be grouped with an intermediate "A" body such as the Lakeshore League.

However, stories from Ox Point persist in stating that the Canada Cement Company plant will not sponsor hockey this year. That is merely street talk and should not be taken as definite.

Vice-president Cook has been or will be in touch with representatives of the clubs mentioned to get their reaction to the OHA proposal for the new set-up.

In view of the fact the new Napanee Community Centre will be functioning this year, it is more than probable that the eastern town will seek entry. It is risked the good townsfolk and those in the surrounding district have not only subscribed $112,000 to the cost of the centre but have donated some $8,000 to the $35,000 cost of a new artificial ice plant. More power to their elbows.

Arthur Duncan, president of the Trent Valley Hockey League, interviewed via telephone today, said while nothing definite has been done it is doubtful if the league will function this year. Said Art: "Senior hockey and television have ruined crowds in the smaller centres."

If the Trent Valley league does operate, Mr. Duncan said, it would be on the basis of two complete sections, each a league in itself. The northern section, he said, would operate on a strictly home brew basis since the fiasco of a year ago. The teams were "cheesed" off after last year's operations, he added, due to the fact they had to play imported-pacific teams in the southern division. The southern section could operate as it wished.

Mr. Duncan said: "Frankly I doubt if there is any action taken. If it is true that Point Anne will not enter and I know definitely there will be no Trenton RCAF entry this year, I believe a year's layoff will not hurt anybody."

Mr. Duncan thought the OHA idea of an intermediate two-section group was an excellent one. The clubs involved would have to abide by OHA rules and regulations and there would be no bickering and wrangling among club officials and managers. District conveners would, no doubt, be appointed by the OHA, while the whole would come under the supervision of Mr. Cook. OHA inspector rules would apply and this would prevent the former TVL habit of loading squads with as many imports as the law allowed.

The northern section clubs will likely welcome the suggestion as it was no secret, as Mr. Duncan pointed out, that they were "cheesed off" with the southern division's idea of packed teams.

* * *

The OHA announced recently that it would like to have all centres of 1,000 and over population come under its jurisdiction. The above, apparently, is in keeping with this new policy.

SOFTBALL

Three softball championships go on the line over the Thanksgiving week-end. Here in Belleville at the CNRAA Recreation Park, Saturday, Bob Temple's Bobcats meet the Toronto Canada Packers in the second game of the best-of-three OASA intermediate "AA" championships while the Point Anne's trek to Toronto to take on the Waterloo Seagrams in the second tilt of the OASA intermediate industrial finals. Both Belleville teams can cop their respective titles with a win.

In minor softball Lee Culhane's Booth's TV peewee softballers face a tough task when they meet Toronto Willowdales in the North York Kinsmen Park in the first game of the championship series. The Toronto kids are said to be undefeated in 14 playdown starts. The kids play back here on Thanksgiving Day, a doubleheader if necessary, the first game starting at 2 p.m.

Temple's Bobcats defeated the Packers 8-1 in the first tilt and are out to wrap up the series in two straight. However, the Packers will have something to say in a do-or-die battle and it should be a thriller. In the event of a Toronto victory, the third game will be played here immediately following the opening clash. First game starts 2 p.m.

TED'S UNDECIDED

BANGOR, Me. (AP)—Ted Williams says he hasn't decided yet whether he'll be playing baseball again next season.

During a brief stopover Tuesday —on a flight from a New Brunswick fishing trip—the Boston Red Sox outfielder said:

"You know, it's funny. At the end of every season it's the same thing. You swear this will be your last one, but, heck, when spring rolls around you get itchy again. Honestly, I just haven't decided yet."

TO DEFEND TITLE

BOSTON (AP)—Carmen Basilio will make the first defence of his welterweight boxing championship against Boston's Tony DeMarco in a 10-round bout Nov. 30 at the Boston Gardee, it was learned Wednesday night.

The bout will be televised nationally, with New England blacked out.

Basilio won the title from DeMarco on a 12th round TKO in a terrific slugfest last June 10 at Syracuse, N.Y.

Experts Crawl Out on Limb But Hedge at Top Spot Name; 'Pay Yer Money, Take Choice'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Big-time hockey starts another 70-game grind tonight. And it's the same old crowd who can stop Detroit Red Wings and Montreal Canadiens!

By the time next spring rolls around, the experts figure it will be Detroit and Montreal sitting atop the National Hockey League. Take your pick which one will be in first place.

The revamped, but apparently as-strong-as-ever Red Wings start things off at home against Chicago Black Hawks while at Montreal, Toronto Maple Leafs give their "guts, goals and glamour" theory the test.

New York Rangers open their season on the road Friday night in Chicago and Boston Bruins start their season in Montreal Saturday night.

Since last season no less than 15 players exchanged sweaters and at least another 20 rookies have entered the league.

DETROIT MOST DRASTIC

Detroit underwent the most drastic changes as general manager Jack Adams thought it was about time his champions took on a new look. As a result, only nine of last season's players are back.

But if last Sunday's all-star game gave any indication the Wings are no weaker than they were last spring when they captured their seventh straight Nhl. title and the Stanley Cup for the second year in a row. Detroit beat the All-Stars 3-1.

Caught in Adams' trade winds was goaltender Terry Sawchuk, current holder of the Vezina Trophy. But, as is usually the case with Red Wings, another star is coming up. He is Glenn Hall, called up from Edmonton Flyers of the Western Hockey League.

The Detroit boldovers are forwards Gordie Howe, Ted Lindsay, Earl Reibel, Alex Delvecchio, Bill Dineen and Marty Pavelich and defencemen Red Kelly, Bob Goldham and Marcel Pronovost.

HAWKS GOT FOUR

Chicago Black Hawks were recipients of four former Red Wings —forwards Tod Sloan and Glen Skov and John Wilson and defenceman Benny Woit—and a new coach: Jimmy Ward, ex-Canadien and went to the Hawks. He figures he has a contender this year.

Canadiens have made a few changes since last season. Toe Blake is the new coach.

Tonight, and possibly for the rest of this season at least, Canadiens' fans are going to have two Richards to cheer for. Henri Richard, 19-year-old brother of the fabulous Rocket, will join the Habs for a three-game trial. If he centre ice shows enough promise he probably will be asked to sign a professional contract.

SOME NEWCOMERS

Kennedy's spot has been filled by Billy Harris, a rookie up from Toronto Marlboros of the Ontario Hockey Association. Left winger Dick Duff is another newcomer to the squad. He looks good, too.

With Sawchuk in the nets, Boston is considered stronger than last year. General manager Lynn Patrick looks to the goaltending to mean a difference of at least 10 victories this season. Sawchuk displaced John Henderson and Sugar Jim Henry, who shared the goalkeeping in 1954-55.

At New York, rookie coach Phil Watson is counting on the play of left winger Wally Hergesheimer and a rookie from the WHL, Bronco Horvath. Hergy sat out most of last season with a fractured leg. Horvath, whom Rangers bought from Detroit along with Dave Creighton, led the WHL in scoring last season.

GAME POSTPONED

HAMILTON (CP)—A Junior Big Four football game between Hamilton and Brantford was postponed Wednesday night because of rain.

Larks Release Blackie Kincaid

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes Wednesday night released Blackie Kincaid, a Coloured boy, B.C., halfback who formerly played with Los Angeles Rams and Washington Redskins.

Kincaid, acquired early in the season after being cut by Hamilton, played four games with the Als. His departure probably will make way for either Jim Brandt, formerly of Pittsburgh Steelers, or Jim Williams, recently cut by New York Giants. Both are working out with the team.

Pro Resigns

MONTREAL (CP)—Kenneth C. Murray, professional at the Royal Montreal Golf Club for 22 years, tendered his resignation at a club dinner Wednesday night. A past president of the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association, Mr. Murray served the club for 33 years.

STUKUS UNWORRIED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Coach Annis Stukus of the B.C. Lions is apparently unconcerned over reports he will be out of a job at the end of the current Western Interprovincial Football Union season.

"It's an occupational hazard," he said in an interview Wednesday. "It happens to a coach every time he drops a couple."

But while he dismissed the rumors, he said he felt the team's performance this year — they've won four and lost seven—entitles him to another year as coach. Last year Lions won only one game.

"I want to be the coach of this club for one more year. I figure five years would be time to show the fans and those others (his critics) that I can produce a contending club."

Club president Don Mackenzie took much the same attitude.

"The usual crop of rumors which always follow a couple of losses," he said. "The coaching situation will be reviewed at the end of the season."

Bars the Press From Argonauts' Dressing Room

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Argonauts' dressing room Wednesday was declared out of bounds to newspaper reporters.

Harry Sonshine, manager of the Big Four Football Union team, said "We're going to keep the press out of the dressing room."

Sonshine said some players have been upset by the presence of sports writers in the room. The players, Harry said, requested a move to remedy the situation.

In closing the door, Sonshine said he realized the club might lose some newspaper space. He added:

"There's been a lot written about that we'd rather have done without."

He didn't elaborate.

LIONS WIN

TORONTO (CP)—Parkdale Lions defeated the Toronto Beach Marines 17-0 in a junior Big Four Football Union game Wednesday night.

Dodgers Break Camp for Home But Melody Lingers On; Yankees Pack Bags for Tour

By ORLO ROBERTSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The situation in Brooklyn one again is normal but it'll be many a day before the last word is uttered on how the Brooklyn Dodgers won their first world baseball championship.

The shouting and tumult that followed the Dodgers' final game, triumph over the proud New York Yankees had ebbed today but it didn't take much prompting to send a Flatbush fan off on the clutch pitching of Johnny Podres, the great catch of Sandy Amoros in the seventh game, the slugging of Duke Snider or the spirited play of Pee Wee Reese and Jackie Robinson.

Meantime, the Brooklyn players scattered to all sections of the country to await their world series checks. The Yankees packed their bags for an exhibition tour of the Far East starting Saturday.

The final figures on the payoff to the players were expected today. But it was estimated each of the 27 full Dodger shares would be worth about $9,684 and each of the 36 losing Yankee shares $5,726.

The money came out of the players' pool from the first four games, amounting to $554,353.36. Thirty per cent of the pool goes to players on the team finishing second, third and fourth in each league. Of the remaining 70 per cent, the Dodgers get 60 per cent and the Yankees 40.

RECORD RECEIPTS

The seven-day series attracted 362,310 fans and record net receipts of $1,213,151.36. The players receive an estimated $23,000 as their share of the $100,000 receipts from the pre-season exhibition game while $1,125,000 from the actual broadcasting and televising of the games goes into the majors' central fund to help support the players' pension fund.

For some of the Dodgers there will be very little letup from baseball. Don Newcombe, the team's 26-game winner who failed in the first game, will join the Giants' Willie Mays in heading an exhibition tour of the Pacific Coast area.

Amoros, for whom a big welcome is waiting in Cuba, will play in the winter league, which opens Friday. Don Zimmer, Dixie Howell and relief pitcher Ed Roebuck also are signed up for winter play.

WILL BE BACK

Although manager Walt Alston has not signed a contract for next year, president Walter J. O'Malley of the Dodgers has said the 45-year old ex-school teacher will be back. O'Malley saw in the Dodger triumph a fresh impetus to the plans for building a new Brooklyn stadium in the Atlantic and Flatbush sections.

"Right now the matter is pretty much out of our hands," he said. "But I don't see how anyone could want to see the Dodgers leave Brooklyn. Certainly we don't want to go anywhere else and I am now more confident than ever that something will turn up which will enable us to build a new home befitting the world champions."

O'Malley previously said the Dodgers must have a new home by 1957 and expressed the opinion they might have to move out of Brooklyn unless a suitable site could be found.

NASHUA FAVORED

NEW YORK (AP)—Nashua is an odds-on favorite today against three rivals in the Lawrence Realization at Belmont Park. The $25,000-added Lawrence is a mile and five-eighth test for three-year-olds, and will be the longest distance Nashua has been asked to travel in his spectacular career.

Cards' Official Quits After Lane Given Job

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Frank Lane, the trading wizard of baseball, presumably will be named new general manager of St. Louis Cardinals today, given authority to rebuild the club.

Willie Lane was conferring Wednesday with August A. Busch, Jr., owner and president of the club, Bill Weisenhaan, Jr., quit after nine years as vice-president, saying: "I believe a ball club cannot be successfully run by two people, both of whom are confident they are qualified to do the job."

The 39-year-old Lane, who electrified Chicago White Sox from the second division to pennant contention with more than 200 trades in seven years, told reporters after the conference with Busch, that "nothing definite has been set on the dotted line."

But it is understood a contract was drafted and will be presented at a meeting of the Cardinal board of directors this afternoon.

'Scott Frost' Goes After Triple Crown

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Scott Frost, perhaps the top three-year-old trotter of all time, went after full status to that title and became racing's first triple crown today in the Kentucky Futurity.

Winner of the $67,000 Hambletonian and the new $70,000 Yonkers Futurity, the stalwart son of Hoot Mon faced a field of seven other Kno three year olds in the $62,702 Futurity over Lexington's famed "Red Mile."

Scott Frost, winner of 16 to 19 heats and a record $121,673 this season for owner Sol Camp, drew the No. 6 post position for the 63rd renewal of the Futurity. First heat post time was 2 p.m. EST, with additional heats at hour intervals until the required two wins.

Driver Joe O'Brien, the New Glasgow, N.S., veteran who shoots for victories rather than records, figured to break the Futurity record of 1:58¼ set by Protector in 1931 only if Scott Frost is pushed.

Dodgers Get 8-Foot Telegram

VANCOUVER (CP)—Eight feet of telegram, a belated world series congratulatory message, is on its way to Brooklyn.

The telegram, promoted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, carries the message and the signatures of more than 140 citizens to Walter O'Malley, president of Brooklyn Dodgers.

JETS BUY KUZAVA

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Columbus Jets of the International League announced Wednesday the purchase of pitcher Bob Kuzava, 1952 New York Yankee world series hero, from Philadelphia Phillies.

"NEXT YEAR" WE'LL HAVE ANOTHER W INNER CLAIM JUBILANT DODGERS

The hero of Dodgers' first successful march to the world baseball championship, pitcher Johnny Podres, centre, is congratulated by two other teammates who were instrumental in dashing Yankee hopes. Duke Snider, left, who hit four homers, was picked by Casey Stengel, Yankee manager, as the man who hurt the Yankees most. Clem Labine, right, was a relief pitching hero. Jubilant Dodger manager, Walt Alston, predicted his boys would dominate the World Series picture for the next few years. He cited pitchers like young Podres, who hurled two winning games, including the final 2-0 thriller, as looming large in his future plans.

Yankee manager, Casey Stengel, tastes the bitterness of a World Series defeat for the first time in his career with Yanks. Stengel blamed himself for failing to lead his boys to their sixth world championship in seven years.

PRIMPING FOR "MANE" EVENT

Shipboard, current high money winner in steeplechasing, seems to be starting off with a "bang," as he gets a new hairdo from his French-born jockey, Albert Foot, at Belmont Park, New York, where both are preparing for the $50,000 Temple Gwathmey Handicap, world's richest 'chase October 21. Shipboard won the Broad Hallow Handicap last week as the first of three major 'chases leading up to the Temple Gwathmey. King Commander, which won the feature last year, may be ousted as the favorite by Shipboard. (Central Press Canadian).

Chanez Verdicts Glen Flanagan In Flop Bout

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP)—Boxing fans stayed away by the thousands from Wednesday night's bout between Eddie Chavez and Glen Flanagan.

The $15 who paid their way into the Richmond Auditorium sat through a dull 10-rounder in which Chavez, of San Jose, was given an unanimous decision over Flanagan of St. Paul, Minn.

"Everybody hit somebody," pleaded the fans who paid $2,469 gross. "It won't hurt much."

Flanagan, who weighed 139½ to Chavez's 138, was the bicycle most of the time with the exception of the early rounds.

Flanagan was substituting for Cisco Andrade of Compton, Calif., stricken with a throat infection. Flanagan, an insurance salesman in St. Paul, took the bout on 24-hour notice. The two contestants, despite the slim paid attendance, reportedly pocketed $4,000 each as the result of the TV guarantee.

Smythe Opens New Escalators For Gardens

TORONTO (CP)—Conn Smythe, president of Maple Leaf Gardens, Wednesday officially opened the first escalators to be installed in a North American sports arena.

The four escalators, two on each of the east and west sides of the Gardens, cost $180,000. Team captain Sid Smith of the National Hockey League Leafs and goaltender Harry Lumley cut the official ribbon which set the moving staircases in operation.

The escalators will carry patrons from the ground floor to the second storey, which leads to the blue-seat section. Those in the green seats on the third floor or green on the next storey will be able to take the escalators to the blue section and then go by stairs.

Following the opening, the public was invited to tour the Gardens and meet Leaf players and six former Toronto captains.

Hap Day, former captain, coach and now general manager of Leafs, greeted the public along with Bob Davidson, Syl Apps, Red Horner, Charlie Conacher and Ted Kennedy, all former captains. Smith is the seventh captain.

ONTARIO DRIVER LEADS

VERNON, N.Y. (AP)—Bud Gilmour of Ridgeway, Ont., was the leading driver at Vernon Downs harness racing track in the 1955 season, it was announced Wednesday. In 281 starts, the 22-year-old sulky star won 51 races, was second 45 times and third 35 times. His mounts earned $43,100.

He Wanted Puck Playing; Got Bagpipes

MONTREAL (CP) — Pity the plight of Pierre Mailhot, a rachot hockey fan.

With Montreal Canadiens opening the National Hockey League season here tonight and playing at home again Saturday, Mailhot decided to follow his beloved team on to Boston for a Sunday game. With his sister and four others, a motoring party was made up.

Mailhot telegraphed to Boston for money for the tickets. But he addressed the telegram to the Boston Arena instead of the Boston Garden.

Back came the tickets by mail. Mailhot's sister was in tears. There was a great to-do.

The tickets, $18 worth, were for a Scottish band performance in the arena.

"I've phoned the garden, I was told they will hold tickets. I hope everything turns out all right," moaned Mailhot. "I'm sending a money order to the Garden: I hope I get my other $18 back; that's a lot of money for band music."

TORONTO (CP) — Casimir Witucki, former lineman with Washington Redskins of the National Football League arrived here Wednesday night to discuss contract terms with Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four Union.

Witucki is a 257-pound two-way guard or tackle. He was released from the Redskins earlier this week after being with the club for the last four seasons.

TURK'S BLOOD TOPS

LONDON (AP)—Turk's Blood became a 10-to-1 betting favorite for the Cambridgeshire Stakes at a call-over by Britain's top bookmakers Wednesday night.

"But Definiteleh"

British Soccer Form Book Wacky 1954 Top Clubs Flounder in Cellar

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Last year's form book hasn't been much use in the English Football League's first division this season—so far, at least.

With one-fifth of the program completed, evidence is plentiful that some teams play a lot better some years than they do others with the same men.

Take Blackpool, rolling along in front of the 22-team pack in contrast to finishing 19th last year and working hard to get that high.

Chelsea, the London defending league champion club, is where Blackpool used to be.

Charlton Athletic, the unfashionable London team from the wrong side of the Thames, is in second place while Arsenal and Tottenham Hotspur are keeping Chelsea company.

CARDIFF CONSISTENT

West Bromwich Albion in third place is another different team, so far. Only Cardiff City is displaying any consistency by sticking in 20th place, close to its favorite position all last year.

There is plenty of time for late runners to come with a rush, but league encounters to date indicate that teams staying with the same lineup can't necessarily count on a fading from one year to the next.

"It's just the way football goes" said Stanley Matthews, Blackpool's sprightly youngster of 40 who is having a good season at outside right. "If you get the breaks you're a winning team."

Centre forward Roy Bentley of luckless Chelsea agrees. Bentley, who with Matthews has been a consistent England player, has just one goal in 10 matches so far this year.

Yet he scored 22 in leading the pensioners to their first league triumph last year, and 21 the previous season. Last summer, he scored all England's goals against France, Spain and Portugal.

"Perhaps we're trying too hard" Roy told a reporter.

GETS RECORD PRICE

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—A sister to Hambletonian winner Scott Frost sold for $35,000, a world's record for a yearling harness racing filly, Wednesday night at the Tattersalls sales.

Sol Camp, owner of Scott Frost, bought the trotting filly Rosalind, by Hoot Mon-Nora, from the consignment of Frost Hill Farms, Edinburgh, Ind.

No Contender For Rockys' Title

MILWAUKEE (CP) — The National Boxing Association doesn't bother to list a logical contender for Rocky Marciano's heavyweight crown in its quarterly ratings released today.

"Marciano has punched his way out of good opponents," said Fred Saddy, chairman of the NBA rating committee.

Bob Baker, Nino Valdes and Tommy Jackson are listed as outstanding boxers and Saddy suggested they engage in an elimination tournament, the winner to meet Marciano.

Earl Walls of Toronto, the Canadian heavyweight champion, is given honorable mention Hoop with seven other heavyweights.

GENTLE TOUCH CAN WIN PLOWING MATCH

Contestants in the plowing matches being held in Oxford county, north of Woodstock, Ont., are Louise Brown, 15, and Doris Jackson, 16. There are prizes for girls as well as boys, and the boys find it to clinch even when they vie on equal terms with their feminine opponents. (Central Press Canadian).

Albert Defeats BCI Gridders By 12-5 Score

BY BOB VAUGHAN

Albert College edged B.C.I. 12 to 5 at Albert Colleg on Wednesday afternoon in the first game scheduled under the new lights.

The hard-fought game saw immediate action as quarterback Bill Gault, after receiving the kick-off, handed off to Pat Smith for 15 yards. Then Glen Maracle swept around left end for a 30 yard gain, which put Bill Gault in position to complete to Stan Franklin on a touchdown pass play.

Albert received Pete Lum's kick-off, and on two fine pass plays from kick formation by Rupert, to Toiter and Gow, quickly tied the score.

Late in the quarter Brewer pointed into the B.C.I. end zone but Bill Gault ran it out, only to be trapped in the end zone for a safety touch, a play later, B.C.I. again took over but McQuaig intercepted a Gault pass and later completed a pass by Rupert to the B.C.I. 3 yard line. Baker then completed the scoring, driving over the line for Albert's second touchdown.

B.C.I. made a desperate attempt to knot the score, Gault firing fine passes to Hagerman and Franklin, taking them to the Albert 7 yard line, where they lost their downs.

Brewer for Albert College went to the showers for misconduct as the half ended Albert 12, B.C.I. 5.

The second half was a see-saw affair with Glen Maracle continually driving through the Albert line, while captain Bruce Bedell and co-captain Don Dalrymple were outstanding in their defensive role.

The line-ups:

BCIVS: Seniors — Hagerman, Bedell, Grandams, Maracle, Meldrum, Dalrymple, Franklin, Gault, Smith, Bowdish, Maracle, Luna. Alternates: Durno, Bishop, Wallbridge, Burtt, Erwin, Beeby, Dixon, Walter, Evans, Coach: Mr. Ewald.

Golf Experience Big Factor In American Success

LONDON (AP)—Dai Rees, 42-year-old captain of Britain's Ryder Cup team, Wednesday pin-pointed the reason for American golfing successes — tournament experience.

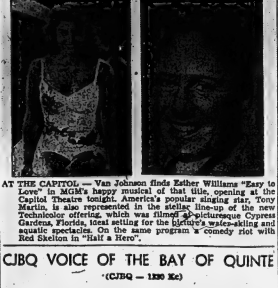
"The Americans play between 40 and 50 tournaments a year," he told a BBC television audience. "We play only about 14 or 15, thus they become shot makers, able in improvise.

"They reach concert pitch and can save a stroke or so. We play in a tournament one week and then return to our club the next week, listening to the troubles of Mrs. so and so and her husband."

Sport in Brief

NEW YORKERS WIN

OWEN SOUND (CP)—The Tuscarora Lacrosse Club of Lewiston, N.Y., won the Ontario Lacrosse Association intermediate A championship here Wednesday night when they defeated Owen Sound Indians 9-8 in overtime.



Tuscarora won the final round, four games to one.

Gary Smith scored the winning goal at 7:15 in the overtime, breaking an 8-8 deadlock that existed at the end of regulation time.

IT PAYS $20,000

CHICAGO (AP)—Once again, pro golf's touring players are seeking a tournament bureau manager, a man who will have "ultimate authority" and operate something like the baseball commissioner.

Applications for the proposed position which would pay $20,000 yearly, plus an "adequate" expense account, will be accepted by the tournament committee of the Professional Golfers' Association of America at Chicago.

Commercials on TV Showing Of World Series Not Liked

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — The late world series has caused me to stop shaving. "No, I'm not letting my beard grow because I lost a bet. Rather, my beard is a soundless, fuzzy protest against the commercials that marred the presentation of this national institution on television.

Now that I've stopped wanting to look sharp or feel sharp or be sharp and have given up using either the light or the medium or the heavy razor, I'm free to view baseball coverage next season in the daily paper. The beautiful, steady flow of a news story has never looked so good to me as on these recent days following a world series game. Nowhere in any news story has any concentration been jarred by a paragraph to the effect that Pee Wee Reese or Hank Bauer shaves with a razor.

It sounded to me as though Casey Stengel has ordered his Yankees to shave only with a you know what. Casey is a gentleman I have long admired from a distance; he strikes me as a guy who can inspire other guys to do the impossible. But I'm a sad judge of human character if Stengel's ever told his guys what to shave with.

If you like good situation comedy—with a little slapstick thrown in—the return of "I Love Lucy" to CBS-TV for a new season will be welcome.

There is a relaxed quality about the new Lucy show which has been missing from other comedy shows lately. This may be due in part to the fact that the Lucy show is on film and therefore appears without some of the pressures present in any live show.

AT THE BELLE — Richard Todd and Joan Collins, a beauteous import from England, are the romantic interest in the important Twentieth Century-Fox CinemaScope production, "The Virgin Queen", co-starring Bette Davis, in color Deluxe now attracting large audiences to the Belle Theatre. Three choice Technicolor treats precede the feature attraction.

South had deliberately gone to five clubs as a sacrifice when opponents reached four spades they could not have made. He fully expected to go down a couple of tricks and did.

At some tables in this duplicate match, south made the game bid of five clubs. He did so when west started with an opening lead of his spade king and was permitted to keep the trick.

A second spade lead from west was ruffed in dummy and a trump entered south. A heart finesse was successfully taken with dummy's queen. Heart ace was cashed and a dummy heart was ruffed high.

Now south entered dummy with a trump to the jack and on the final two hearts were stuffed the south diamonds. Declarer gave up a diamond trick to west, then could ruff the third south spade in dummy and the diamonds in his own hand.

Thus, all the opponents got were the first spade trick and a diamond trick. As the five club bid was doubled, the score south and north a very desirable score in comparative play.

But all the expert players in five clubs were not so fortunate. Against those who went defeated, east was on his toes with the very first spade lead and overtook the king lead with the ace.

His immediate return was the jack of diamonds and there was no play the declarer could make to save himself. West and east got the three diamond tricks. With the first spade they got four tricks.

Down two doubled is not so bad if opponents could have made a game. But it was later learned that four spades would be defeated. This is what caused all the commotion.

Indian Leader Warns Redskin Lore and Legend May Be Lost

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Redskin lore and legend may be almost lost in a generation, warns an Indian leader, who places much of the blame on TV and radio.

The viewer-with-alarm is Gilbert Connor, who has the blood of Nez Perce chiefs in his veins. Born to a Presbyterian minister and his Indian wife, he is the grandson of Chief Olokut, brother of the great warrior Chief Joseph.

Connor was enlisted to help him Indians for a Jeff Chandler western, "Pillars in the Sky." He also is portraying a Christianized Indian leader in the film and is working here on his first visit to Hollywood.

He is an authority on legends of the northwest Indians. The trouble is, he complained, that the younger generation of Redskins has little interest in perpetuating the old stories.

FREEZE TV-RADIO

"We've had radio on the reservation for 25 years and now we've got television," Connor explained. "Whenever the young folks have free time, they watch TV or listen to the radio. They don't take the time to listen to the old stories."

Hollywood has helped sustain some of the Indian lore, he observed. He said that the movies have become more sympathetic toward the Indians in recent years.

"The young Indians see Indian movies and they feel proud of themselves for five minutes," he said. "Then they forget. The fact that they were part of one of the earth's great civilizations means nothing to them.

"Soon there will be none of us left who know the old culture."

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, October 7, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — "Your" planet Mars in very auspicious aspect now — indicates vigor, renewed interest in activities and strength of will — all of which must be directed carefully! Make this day count.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — A hectic pace can impede progress. It also jeopardizes health. No worrying!

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — The planet Mercury, important in your zodiacal sector, is beneficially aspected today. Be ready but not over-eager; keep busy but do not strain; be pleasant and tolerant, and not too impulsive.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Life is full of obstacles — and so much the better if one is to enjoy the fruits of well-earned success, happiness. Strive with the future in mind.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — While vibrations are somewhat negative in your sector today, you will have numerous opportunities to gain ground through continuance of past good effort and by making improvements. Try.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Do not be impetuous or hasty now. Enthusiasm can lead one astray if not controlled.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Better methods and an improved system can help you make headway now. If anyone can find them, Libra can — so do.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Note Aries and Virgo. Your indications similar. You may not make rapid progress today but what you do make should be solid.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Industry, trades, professional careers, art, music and charitable activities share many fine vibrations. But you will have to be alert, accurate, and not strained.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Don't force matters or become disgruntled, even if you feel justified. Look at things from the other fellow's viewpoint — especially if he is not feeling up to par.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — A few of the ways in which you can advance your interests under today's somewhat tricky influences; careful calculation, steady but not hasty effort, and accuracy.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Keep in touch with outside interests; don't get into ruts which impede advancement. Shun questionable schemes and those who promote them. It is better to lose graciously than win unfairly.

You born today are a roundly capable individual, with the talent and personality needed in a position of trust. In a position where you must follow others' orders, you will also do a splendid job. You need things carefully before beginning, analyze more than many do, and thus often reach surer decisions. Though by nature refined, proud and artistic, you may be wont to overindulge pleasures, overspend. A dispassionate reasoner, you would make an excellent judge. Birthdate of: Jas. Whitcomb Riley, noted poet.

5 TIMES A WEEK

KAMLOOPS, B.C. (CP) — The oldest newspaper in the interior of British Columbia, the Kamloops Sentinel, Monday became the first in Canada to publish five times a week. The Sentinel, established in 1890, had published three times a week since 1946. Ronald White is publisher.

Canada Wants Consideration Of Guided Missiles

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP)—The dread possibility of mass annihilation by guided missiles or bombardment prompted Canada Wednesday to ask the UN permanent sub-committee for further consideration of the question of guided missiles.

Health Minister Martin of Canada was requested to have a closed meeting of the sub-committee that guided missiles should be considered along with other disarmament matters.

Both the United States and Russia have been reported working to develop a projectile with an atomic warhead, capable of carrying its destructive force from one continent to another in a matter of hours.

The intercontinental missiles had never entered officially into the sub - committee discussions, he noted Wednesday. This was one reason why the sub-committee should continue to work "with a sense of urgency" following the Big Four foreign ministers conference which opens in Geneva Oct. 27.

PAINTED GISH PORTRAIT

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Russian-born portrait painter Nicolai Fechin, 74, died Wednesday. Survivors included paintings of actress Lillian Gish, author Willa Cather and Gen. Ira C. Eaker.

Lands, Forests Ranger Dies At Whitney

WHITNEY, Ont. (CP)—George Heintzman, 64, one of Algonquin Park's best-known woodsmen and a department of lands and forests ranger for 33 years, died Wednesday night.

Mr. Heintzman lived and worked from his cabin at the foot of Lake Opeongo since he entered the park service. He covered his 35-mile patrol by canoe in summer and by snowshoe in winter. Later he expanded his work by using aircraft and dog teams for patrol.

He acted as confidant, advisor and exchanger of tall tales with hundreds of campers each year.

Mr. Heintzman was born at Arnprior, Ont.

At various times he guided four Ontario premiers on tours of his district — Tom Kennedy, Harry Nixon, Gordon Conant and George Drew. He also provided conducted tours for Lord Portal, British chief of the air staff during the last war, and other important visitors.

Surviving are his widow, four daughters and a son.

Had Backache; Rheumatic Pain; Praises Syntona

Also Helped Stomach Says This Woman. Nervousness Gone, Sleeps Better.

Mrs. Grace Jolley, 757 Queen's Avenue, London, Ontario, said in a recent report:

"For a long time I have suffered with backache and arthritic pains in my arms, fingers, legs and back. It seemed that the more I worried about it the worse I got. Especially my hands and fingers would become severely sore and numb. My nerves were all on edge and I was unable to sleep. I felt run down, blue, found that I ate, gave me great distress with gas, heartburn and sour acid stomach.

Gave Best Relief

"Since I've been using Syntona I've had the best relief of anything that I have taken. This medicine has greatly relieved my backache and pains in my joints. It is wonderful for my nerves. In addition, Syntona has relieved the gas, heartburn and souring of food and nervousness are calmed down so that I am getting more sound, restful sleep at night."

Syntona has helped many thousands of men and women suffering from gastric disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels and associated nervousness and rheumatic or neuritic pains.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville by Dolan & Dolan Druggist.

Japanese Family Finally Rebels Against Expense

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—One Japanese family finally rebelled.

The newspaper Asahi carries this story of a Nagoya wedding ceremony:

"When the guests arrived they found a reception desk set up at the entrance. The groom himself came out and said, looking rather embarrassed:

"'I am sorry but a fee of 150 yen (41 cents) will be charged.'

"What the money was paid each guest received in return a lunch box, a paper napkin and a small bottle of beer and was led upstairs."

Macmillan Says West Is Willing To Move Troops

BOURNEMOUTH, England (Reuters) — Foreign Secretary Macmillan today said the West is ready to re-dispose its forces in Europe to back legal guarantees of security to Russia after Germany is rearmed.

He told the Conservative party's annual convention that these would differ proposals will be presented in greater detail to the Russians at the Big four foreign ministers' meeting in Geneva Oct. 27.

Macmillan said that to make progress in Geneva the Western ministers must try to understand the attitude of Russia, which had suffered "terrible injuries" at Germans hands during the war.

"I am sure we can formulate plans which the world will feel—and I hope the Russian government will feel—will give full protection to Russia against any renewed threat which might come from a reunited Germany, whether such a Germany chooses to join NATO or to remain neutral.

DEEDS BACK WORDS

"We are prepared to add to a legal pact actual military dispositions and arrangements for mutual protection and defence to serve the same purpose—that is, to underwrite the words of a pact by deeds of military understanding."

Macmillan's statement was the first official reference to the military proposals in the draft plan drawn up in Washington among Macmillan, State Secretary Dulles and France's Foreign Minister Pinay in New York last week.

Diplomatic sources said the West would propose that after Germany has been reunited the forces of the East and West should be "thinned out" in a large area in both Germany and Poland.

Macmillan also dealt with the Middle East and problems of the strategic defence of the area, where the predominantly Greek-descended population has been demanding union with Greece.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Warm air from the Mississippi valley will give southern Ontario another mild day today, but cooler air from the prairies will cover southern forecast regions by Saturday morning. Showers and an occasional thunderstorm will herald the approach of the cooler air, and a few scattered showers are forecast for Saturday afternoon. Little change in temperature is forecast in northern Ontario.

U.S. EXPECTED TO SEEK SECOND ATOMIC PARLEY

Geneva Meet Success, So Want It Repeated

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States was expected to press today for another international atomic conference as the United Nations political committee turned to peaceful use of atomic energy.

Senator John Pastore (Dem., R.I.) was slated to take the floor for the U.S. this afternoon. A spokesman said he probably would express that the U.S. feels the international conference held in Geneva last August was a success and that a similar parley should be held within the next three years. American delegates also said Washington intends to co-sponsor a resolution calling for such a conference and predicted it would get warm support from the 60-member political committee.

Pastore also was expected to back the proposed international agency to supervise the program for using the atom for peace.

Under a draft stated prepared by the major atomic powers, the agency will be supervised by a 12-country board of governors. As the name implies, it would promote the atomic know-how and materials of the U.S., Russia, Britain, Canada and France, with Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Portugal and South Africa would hold five seats on the first board because they are heavy producers of uranium ore. Six other members would be elected and seven governments possessing nor yet processing atomic materials.

The political committee is expected to turn to the related topic of atomic radiation when it completes its present debate. After the Geneva parley, scientists worked up their Geneva parley — probably in November — the committee will take up disarmament as the major item on its agenda.

The UN disarmament subcommittee, preparing a report for the political committee, is nearing the end of its six-week series of private talks devoted largely to President Eisenhower's "open sky" inspection plan, which Canada was reported to have approved officially Thursday.

Eisenhower proposed at the July summit conference that the U.S. and Russia exchange military inventories and allow aerial inspection teams. Information seeping out of the meetings indicates some of the members are interested in a more comprehensive disarmament program.

TEACHERS TO VISIT

Federal-Provincial Parley Ends With Issues Unsettled

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — A four-day federal-provincial conference of premiers has ended inconclusively, leaving each party as championing methods and the launching of a national health insurance scheme up in the air.

Premiers are returning home to carry on their fight for a bigger share of the federal tax pot through the mails. There were indications the central administration may yield a little ground, but it would be a hard battle for the provinces and a final solution not much in their likings.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Thursday as the premiers discussed that he may call another conference later this year—the third of 1955—if the leaders cannot settle their differences by correspondence.

He indicated his government will gather all the premiers' thoughts and work out a proposal for a firm proposal for replacing federal-provincial tax rental pacts with a resumption of provincial taxes on personnel and corporation income. But the federal proposal would get federal aid or equalization payments.

Though Mr. St. Laurent did not spell it out in so many words, it appeared likely that the firm proposal is hammered out, the government will go it alone in the provinces on a "take-it-or-leave-it" basis.

While the big, vital issue was the splitting up of tax revenue—and the powers that go with that involved—some of the premiers also discussed ways and means of setting a health insurance scheme. Here again there was no conclusion reached.

The subject was tossed to a committee. It will be discussed later at a meeting of health ministers. But the chances of such a scheme are office too bright. The costs would be heavy and some provinces as well as the federal administration questioned whether they can carry that load.

There was little more headway on other fronts:

The conference agreed to establish a permanent body of federal-provincial deputy finance ministers to provide a continuous economic link among the 11 governments. Each member would report back to his government. The committee would also ponder tax-sharing recommendations as it body.

J. Sic. D. Lesage and Premier Frost got together for private talks and agreed to join in building the expensive northern Ontario leg of the all-Canadian gas pipeline if other parts of the $2,300-mile project can be financed by private enterprise.

The premiers agreed to have federal-provincial ministers meet later this year to consider ways of speeding up work on the trans-Canada highway and study other provincial proposals for public works.

The federal offer to pay half the costs of unemployment relief in provinces, where the jobless amount to more than 6% of the population was dismissed. Mr. St. Laurent said some provinces have not initialled a draft agreement but he declined to name them.

As the conference ended, the premiers issued a communique in which Mr. St. Laurent was empowered to call another conference after consulting with the provincial leaders.

The communique said Mr. St. Laurent did not put forward any definite tax proposals but elaborated on the suggestions for bringing the provinces back into the direct tax field as a replacement for the rental pacts which expire in March, 1957."

The Dominion province would be free to decide whether or not it wished to enter into a tax rental agreement with the federal government covering the use of these three tax fields—corporation and personal income and succession duties—for a further number of years," the communique said.

"The federal government made it clear that under any plan the province would be worse off financially in the first few years than it would be in the final year of the present tax-rental agreements."

Premier Frost and Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan said they would study the plan and give suggestion—to allow the provinces to withdraw from the tax fields and give low-earning provinces equalization payments to bring their revenues up to the wealthier ones on a per capita basis.

The big argument that most provinces made was the formula all did not provide them with sufficient money. They wanted more money and Mr. St. Laurent indicated he may have to face "realities." There was just so much money in the kitty.

However, other federal officials said the door has not been closed on the controversial 57% formula. There may be some yielding of liberal ground but it probably would not be as much as some provinces would like.

Princess Royal Commences Visit to RCCS at Kingston

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

KINGSTON (CP)—The Princess Royal, colonel-chief of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, today arrived at the Royal Military College for a 2½-day visit.

Not only did the signals school here turn out in full force, but some 600 members of 16 militia units in Ontario and the province across Canada were on hand as well.

The 600 were brought here by army trucks, by train and in some cases by chartered buses.

The visit of the 58-year-old widowed daughter of Queen Elizabeth will be almost entirely military, starting with inspection of a guard of honor formed by members of the station.

The princess is known to be keen on military tradition. "When she inspects a unit, it is not only the property inspected," said a non-commissioned officer who has been training for the ceremony. During the Second World War, the princess visited and inspected almost every unit of the Canadian Signals Corps overseas.

After a 21-minute call at city hall, the Princess Royal was to watch Fort Henry guard carry out drill as it was done in 1867.

For one hour only she will be treated to the original salute the Napoleonic Fifes and Drums of the fort put through entirely. Today's regulations stipulate the playing of only the bars of the anthem for the royal salute.

The princess is to have lunch with Dr. W. A. Mackintosh, principal of Queen's University, and his wife. Mackintosh is chief civil college and Vimy Barracks, home of the Royal Canadian School of Signals.

This evening, she is to attend a dinner and reception at the signal school officers mess.

Saturday she will visit Royal Military College and later take the salute at a full-dress ceremonial parade of the signals school. There will be a ball in the officers' mess in the evening, a march-past Sunday before church service and luncheon at the signals school before departure for Ottawa.

Unemployment Act Changes Annoy Labor

TORONTO (CP) — Leaders of 63,000 Toronto American Federation of Labor unionists today criticized the new Unemployment Insurance Act which went into effect this week.

They said it was detrimental to labor.

William Jenoves, president of the Toronto and District Labor Council and Labor Council said: "We are absolutely opposed to the changes; had as the old act was, we prefer it to this one."

The group's major objection was that unemployment benefits under the act are based on weekly rather than daily earnings. Leaders said this would work against persons employed only a few days a week.

The council asked for a return to the daily — instead of weekly —stamp system, for a maximum benefit of $3 a day instead of $15 a week and for a 51-week period of payment rather than 36.

Driver Panicked, Pays With Life

TORONTO (CP) — An inexperienced driver who police said panicked approaching a red light was killed instantly when he pressed the accelerator instead of the brake and crashed into a hydro pole in downtown Toronto. Two passengers were injured.

Nardi Bocco, 29, was dead on arrival at hospital. Officials said he suffered a crushed chest.

Giuseppi Giuliano, 30, the owner of the car, suffered arm, head, and possible internal injuries. Rosario Canzian, 27, suffered a cut ankle,

GIRL STRANGLED, BEATEN TO DEATH ON DARK STREET

Attacked by Man On Way to Movie

By GERARD RICHARD

QUEBEC (CP)—A young girl looked on in terror Thursday night as her 24-year-old sister was strangled and beaten to death on a darkened street in suburban Sillery.

Francoise Vachon, a pretty hotel kitchen employee, died in a pool of blood a few minutes after she was attacked by a man on her way to a movie.

Roland Roy, 29, described by police as a former boy friend of her's, is charged with the murder. The police said Roy smashed the car into a barrier at the top of a steep incline, then ran onto a roadway where he was struck glancing blows by two passing cars.

SCREAMED "KILL ME"

An ambulance called for Miss Vachon stopped and picked up the dying woman. She died in the hospital before proceeding to where the body lay.

Police quoted witnesses' as saying Roy ran onto the road after the collision screaming, "Kill me, kill me."

His injuries were described as not serious and he was taken to police headquarters for questioning after a hospital examination.

Police said Miss Vachon's 16-year-old sister, Lise, told how she and her sister were walking through a lonely area when a man approached them and began arguing with Francoise.

He grabbed her by the throat, then knocked her to the sidewalk and began beating her head on the pavement several times.

A brother-in-law of the girls, who lives nearby, heard screams but when he arrived the man had fled in a car.

Israel Charges Egypt Resumes Guerrilla War

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel charged today that Egypt has initiated a new round of guerrilla warfare, and declared that if she does not stop it she will take all necessary steps to protect herself.

A foreign ministry spokesman charged that "Egyptian forces" and in the course of the last few weeks expressed in the gravest way Egypt's hostile policy aimed at destroying Israel."

The spokesman said Israel has information in its possession that Egypt, since the Gaza cease-fire of Sept. 4, decided to continue guerrilla operations along the Gaza strip.

Plan Strike Vote

HAMILTON (CP) — About 4,000 workers at Canadian Westinghouse plants here will meet next Thursday to take a strike vote, union officials said today.

Stan Robertson, president of local 504, United Electrical workers (ind.), said the date was set at a recent meeting of the union's executive committee.

Employees approved the strike last week after conciliation board meetings with a conciliation board.

The union is seeking an eight-cent hourly wage increase and adjustments in time factors and piece work.

Eisenhower Near Two-Week Marker Crucial Milestone on Recovery Road

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH

DENVER (AP) — President Eisenhower was expected today to be looking forward to a hospital routine change which would give him a little more active role in the conduct of government business from his bedroom quarters.

Early Saturday morning the president will pass the critical two-week milestone from his Sept. 24 heart attack. The doctors at Fitzsimons Army hospital have said that any complications would be most likely to develop during the first 11 days—that at the end of that period the president probably would be "over the hump" out of danger.

They never have meant, of course, that the danger would evaporate right at the end of two weeks on the clock. That period always has been just their best estimate on the basis of experience.

If all continues to go well, the president will have a press session or an occasional conference with other government officials and a few let him study official papers from time to time.

He has put his signature to several documents during the last week, but his duties have been limited to nothing more than that. Preliminary study of the papers was left to others, he added.

The president's first visitor other than family members and a few White House staff members will be Vice-President Nixon, who is scheduled to arrive here late Saturday from Washington.

Nixon is coming at the president's request, but James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said "they will not take up any controversial subjects at all."

Worst Commercial Plane Crash In U.S. History Kills 66

Craft Runs Into Mountain Hour After Leaving Denver

By JAMES LAMB

LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP)—Skilled climbers today fought bitter cold and winds on a snow-covered mountain to retrieve the bodies of 66 persons killed Thursday in the worst commercial airline crash in American history.

Their goal is the near-perpendicular south face of 12,005-foot Medicine Bow peak, where a United Air Lines DC-4 crashed within an hour after leaving Denver for Salt Lake City and San Francisco. The flight originated Wednesday night in New York city.

Rescuers who struggled through deep snow and up the precipitous peak Thursday counted about 50 bodies before rising winds and darkness forced their retreat. They descended for the night to a base camp slightly more than a mile from the tragic scene.

TWO INFANTS ABOARD

The big four-engined plane carried a crew of three and 62 passengers, including two infants and two recruits and two infants.

Dead and injured were five women members of the Salt Lake City Tabernacle choir returning from a recently concluded a concert tour of Europe.

The toll exceeded the previous American commercial air disaster record of 53 killed in the crash of a Northwest Airlines DC-4 in Lake Michigan June 24, 1950.

The worst air crash of any type was that of a United States Air Force C-124 transport near Tokyo June 18, 1953, in which 129 perished.

TO LOWER BODIES

Sheriff John Terrill, in charge of rescue operations, ordered special gear to the scene 40 miles west of here. He said only trained mountaineers and government officials would be allowed at the site to start lowering the bodies by which apparatus. They will be taken to a University of Wyoming science laboratory at Laramie for distant for identification.

Lt. Gerald Sampson of the Wyoming Civil Air Patrol and state patrolman Richard were among the first at the scene. They said the craft struck only about 50 or 100 feet from the top of the peak.

Exploding oil and fuel left two fires on the granite wall, helping a swarm of military and civilian search planes to spot the wreckage.

Two bodies came to rest on a ledge, another a dozen others, burned and mutilated, were jammed in a section of the fuselage which the tail of two engine assets which slice down the mountain face. Others are in small piles. Twenty-three other bodies fell onto a small snow-covered shelf.

Injuries Fatal

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — One of three men injured in a county accident Thursday died of injuries today.

Albert Staranowicz, 32, of R. R. 1 Harrow, died of multiple head injuries in Hotel Dieu here. An inquest will be held in Essex county coroner Dr. Arner, is in serious condition with a broken neck and face lacerations.

Chrysanthemums Grow Tall—for Lemonade

HALTWHISTLE, Eng. (AP) — Some folks in England have been watering their plants with beer to make them grow faster.

This struck Joseph Henderson as a criminal waste of beer, so he experimented. He dosed his chrysanthemums with three cups of lemonade weekly and has one plant 10 feet tall.

Mrs. A. Fleming Fatally Injured In Auto Crash

Mrs. Arthur Fleming, 43, of R.R. 1, Marmora, was fatally injured, and her daughter, Mrs. Kenneth Hall of Marmora, suffered chest injuries Thursday afternoon, when the hardtop convertible in which they were riding went out of control on No. 7 highway, overturned and fell in a Stirling and overturned into the ditch.

Arthur Fleming, 44, driver of car and husband of the dead woman, escaped with little more than a shaking up. Mrs. Walker is in Belleville General Hospital in serious condition.

The accident occurred about two o'clock during a light rain, when the south-bound auto went out of control on the slippery pavement as it was about to go to start lowering the bodies by which apparatus. They will be taken to a University of Wyoming science laboratory at Laramie for distant for identification.

A passing trucker was first to come onto the overturned car. He pulled the car back onto the wheels and pulled the injured free. Mrs. Fleming was already dead.

Provincial Constable T. W. Lumsden of Madoc investigated the accident.

Eisenhower's Israel Policy Is Criticized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Senator Douglas (Ill.) has criticized President Eisenhower's policy toward Israel as "unfriendly."

Douglas said in a statement Thursday that the United States has been "unfriendly to Israel in the United Nations, in the Middle East and in the Near East."

He said the United States has been "unfriendly to Israel in the United Nations, in the Middle East and in the Near East."

High School Student Takes Issue With Ex-Reeve's Book-Banning Plea

FLESHERTON, Ont. (CP) — A high school student objected Thursday night exchanged words on the subject of literary criticism before most of the adult population of this village.

The 17-year-old youth accused the father of "taking the worst" from four books he was attempting to have the villagers remove from the public library.

Nearly all residents of Flesherton, and many outsiders, crowded the village council chamber in a controversial church to hear John Cook, former reeve, and Mrs. Cook condemn the books as vile, obscene and anti-Christian.

The books are "The Living Earth" and the "Lamp is Heavy" by Nan Shepherd, "Sunshine Sketches of a Little Town" by Stephen Leacock, "Catharine" by Anya Seton, "The Cruel Tempest" by Joseph Conrad and "Conflict" by William A. Pinderelph.

Mrs. Cook called out "The Living Earth." He found it "obscene, profane and Godless." The book was Mrs. Russell the Toronto Women's Canadian Club $200 prize earlier this year.

He criticized Rev. Arthur J. Fletcher, a Baptist minister and a member of the library board for giving his support to the books. He added that the minister had opposed him some time ago in his demand that the book "Under Cover" by John Roy Carlson, be removed.

After the audience had read excerpts from the book Cook's wife criticized speech. He asked: "How many more are supported the minister's stand that the book "Under Cover" be removed.

"How many believe these books are unfit to be in a public library?"

All but a few in the audience raised their hands.

One of the few was Harold Hamilton, son of Flesherton councillor Hugh Hamilton. Young Hamilton spoke on behalf of the teenagers in the village.

"We don't know the full story about this book," he said. "It could be worst out of it. Surely the library isn't expected to read all books before putting them on the shelves.

"I've read some bad books but there was some good in them. There is some good in every book. I can't say they're all bad.

"Parents," he concluded, "and not books are to blame for not influencing kids properly."

Announcement of the opening of the new subdivision, to be known as Bayview, was made today by William Latour, settlement officer.

The area, located 400 feet north of Highway No. 2 directly opposite Quinte nurseries, has 16 lots available. Veterans qualified under VLA establishment are eligible to purchase property in the subdivision.

Entrance to the area is via a new road from Highway No. 2. Bayview is close to Bayside area churches and school.

Interested veterans should contact William Latour at Carrying Place.

27 Cases Listed For Fall Assizes Starting Tuesday

Twenty-seven cases, including two criminal actions and two motions are listed for the opening of fall assizes of the Supreme Court to open next Tuesday afternoon in the county court house with the Honorable Mr. Justice Kelly.

The two criminal actions are on charge of criminal negligence against Leo D'Arcy arising out of a motor vehicle accident on No. 6 R.D., last spring, and a charge of bank robbery against James Orval Ross committed for trial last week on a charge of robbing the Toronto Dominion Bank at Marmora.

Thirteen civil jury cases, all of various kinds, promises action, one of motor accidents, appear on the docket as do 12 non-jury cases, including seven divorce actions.

Chamber Invites Contest Winner To Hunt Uranium

There is a television program in the United States that wants to give a contest winner a chance to find something radio-active.

"Name the Muzzy" is offering a two-week, all expense paid uranium prospecting trip anywhere in Canada to the winner of one of its regular contests.

Chamber of Commerce president P. C. McGuire has forwarded a letter to Bert Parks, program M.C., advising him of the excellent prospecting possibilities in Hastings County.

His letter states that "the area, 60 to 100 miles north of Belleville, has developed into one of the leading uranium areas of Canada. At the present time a company here has a government contract, another company has applied for one and eight other companies have carried development to a stage, where they expect to become producing mines."

The letter outlines "luxury" tourist resort accommodation in the north and assures NBC television, Mr. Parks and the contestant-prospector that "local mining men could arrange location in such a way that the prospector would be almost sure to find something."

"There is always the possibility that a major discovery could be made in this area," the letter adds.

Driver Suffers Severe Cuts In Accident

Lucas VanEgmond, 39, of John Street, Belleville, suffered severe facial lacerations early Thursday afternoon as he crashed into the windshield when the truck in which he was riding was in a head-on collision with another vehicle at Bayside.

VanEgmond was taken to Belleville General Hospital by a passing transport where his injuries were treated.

The injured men was riding in a truck driven by Alex Beaudrie, 41 Donald Street, when an approaching car driven by Theodore Kaplan, 213 Davenport Rd., Toronto, skidded out of control on a curve and crashed almost head-on into the truck. Damage to the car amounted to about $1,000 and to the truck about $700.

IN MEMORIAM

JONES. — In fond memory of our dad, Wilber M. Jones, who passed away October 7th, 1954.
One year today our father was called
To meet his reward above.
Gone where sorrow and pain are o'er
And taken when God knew best.
Dad, though you are very much,
His presence oft seems nigh,
But we will meet you in heaven to meet
Where no one says goodbye.
Sadly missed and lovingly by Ken, Carol Clarence, Dorothy and grandchildren.

JONES. — In loving memory of our dear husband, Wilber M. Jones, who passed away October 7th, 1954.
Since you've gone from us, dear husband,
I live in memory's garden, dear,
With happy days we've known,
Since you've gone first, and I remain
Alone with all the care.
Walk slowly down the path of death,
dear husband,
I want to know each step you take
For you will be there,
For some day, dear, that lonely road
You'll hear its call your name.
—Sadly missed by Mother.

CARDS OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy, floral tributes and spiritual bouquets received from friends and neighbors during our recent bereavement in the loss of our dear husband. Also to thank Rev. Hogerwaard, Drs. Empson and Martin, nurses of the hospital and also the staff of the Belleville Funeral Home. —Mrs. Mary Wallace and family, Jack, Jean and Beatrice McFarlane.

I wish to thank those who called on me in my illness, for fruit and cards during my stay in the Belleville General Hospital and since my return home. Thank you.
—Margaret Honeycutt.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Stock market prices eased narrowly for the second lay during late morning trading on the Toronto exchange today.

Most industrial categories moved down although papers notched several fractional advances after a dull opening. Steels and motors headed the decline. Scattered gains showed in utilities, financial institutions, manufactures and miscellaneous issues.

Equities headed lower issues, off 58 to 45. Ford A dipped 3 to 134. Cdn. Oil lost 1⅞ and Royal Bank 1⅛.

Better issues included Canada Permanent Mortgage, up $4 to 95. Other advances were almost entirely small fractions.

International Nickel, off 1⅞ led senior miner lower. Operations Sherritt and Normetal eased 25-35 cents. Gaspe Copper was down $2 to 31.

Cassiar, Grandue, Silver-Miller, Violamac and United Asbestos moved up a few cents. Guleh added 11 to $1.68 in a quiet uranium group.

Lightly easier golds included Beatlie - Duquesne, McIntyre and Thompson-Lundmark.

Calgary and Edmonton, Bailey-Selburn, Triad and Central Explor ations lost between 25 and 50 cents among western oils.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was unsettled with offerings light for a quiet demand.

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were steady to as much as $1.50 a hundredweight lower this week at the Toronto public stockyards. Calves and hogs were both $2 a hundredweight lower while lambs sold $1 a hundredweight lower.

Cattle receipts were some 700 head more than last week, and about the same number as the same week in 1954. Receipts from western Canada were sharply higher at 2,426 head of cattle and 1,165 calves. The westerns were mostly replacement cattle.

Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were light and there were no shipments to the United States. The dressed beef trade was reported as slow and an estimated 3,000 common killers and stockers were unsold at the close.

Prices: Choice steers $20-21 with sales to $21.75; good steers $19-20; mediums $15-19; commons $12-15; good heifers $17.50-18, with some sales to $18.50; mediums $15-17; commons $12-15; bonet steers and heifers $9-12; choice bulls, yearlings $21.50-22.50, with sales to $23; good fed yearlings $20.50-21.50; mediums $17-20; good cows $10-10.50; canner and cutter cows down to $5; good heavy bologna bulls $12-12.50; common and medium light bulls down to $7.

Replacement cattle: This class was active at firm prices. The few good steers reported sold at $18-18.50, with sales to $19. A few good stock calves sold as high as $20. Medium stockers were $15-17.50 with commons at $14-16.

Calves opened at firm prices but closed fully $2 a hundredweight lower. Good and choice vealers selling at $21-23, with an odd lot at $23.50. Mediums were $15-20 with commons at $8-15. Grass calves sold for slaughter were 39-12. Heavy fed veals were slow and hard to sell.

Hogs were $2 a hundredweight lower with grade A selling at $24 with several loads out at $24.50. Sows were $1.50 a hundredweight lower at $16 dressed while stags were $13 a hundredweight dressed.

Lambs were $1 a hundredweight lower with good handyweight ewes and wethers selling at $18 a hundredweight. Bucks were discounted $1. A hundredweight while heavy lambs were discounted $2. Common feeder lambs were $14-16.50 a hundredweight. Good light sheep were mostly $7-8, with common and heavy sheep selling down to $3.

DOLLAR RATE

MONTREAL (CP) — The U. S. dollar was at a discount of 13-16 per cent, the Bank of Canada reported at noon EST today. Thursday's noon rate was 99 1-32 cents. Pound sterling $2.76¼, against $2.76 3-16.

Resignation of Two City Members in Development Assoc. Accepted by Directors

The resignations of Alderman Jane Forrester and Chamber of Commerce president P. C. McGuire, as Belleville's representatives on the board of directors of Zone 3 of the Lake Ontario Region Development Association were accepted "with regret" by directors last night.

Both letters of resignation were accepted after an hour-long discussion in which directors sought to include representatives from Belleville on the board despite the fact that city council, by a 7-6 vote on September 26, voted not to join the association.

Mrs. Forrester and Mr. McGuire, while expressing their interest in the association's work, stated that with the city's withdrawal their position as representatives was untenable. They also stated that since Belleville had not seen fit to pay its assessment to the association, Belleville representation on the board of directors would not be fair to those communities which had paid their assessment.

EXPRESS DISAPPOINTMENT

Both retiring directors expressed their disappointment at having to resign, especially in view of the fact that Belleville's participation in the association was approved in principle at a council meeting in May of this year.

"It is unfortunate that Belleville is not in the association," said Alderman Forrester. "I hope that Belleville will participate in the future."

"I trust that Belleville will see the light next year, and will join the association," added Mr. McGuire.

Sam Gentile, of Picton, asked why Belleville did not support the association.

"Industrial jealousy in the province," was given as one reason by Alderman Forrester.

"I think too much emphasis has been placed on the industrial aspect of the zone. I think more emphasis should have been placed on the idea of co-operation to develop other interests such as tourism and publicity of the type that is common in Florida," she said.

O. W. Larry, town clerk of Trenton and chairman of Zone 3, said the creation of the area board "did not mean that industrial development of the area would be carried on by the manager."

"The manager would advise municipalities on ways to put its best foot forward," he said. "Competition for industry between municipalities would still be there."

Directors attending the meeting from Tweed, Trenton, Stirling, Napanee, Picton, Bloomfield and Wellington were unanimous in wanting Belleville to have representation on the board.

"If we are to win Belleville to the association they should be represented," said Mr. Larry, in suggesting that interested Belleville men might attend directors' meetings as observers.

19 MUNICIPALITIES IN

Directors decided that there should be representation on the board of directors from each paying municipality in Zone 3's three-county area. The area includes 19 municipalities.

Requests will be forwarded to municipalities for the names of their appointees.

It was decided that meetings of the board would be held on the first Thursday of each month at 8.00 p.m., with the November meeting slated for Napanee.

The question of Mr. McGuire's eligibility as an area director was postponed for one month.

It was announced that 72 applications have been received for the position of area manager. Screening of applicants is scheduled to begin before an executive committee meeting tonight in Port Hope.

Newspaper Boys Have Their 'Day' This Saturday

Saturday, October 8, is National Newspaper Boy Day throughout Canada and the United States.

Newspaper boys are far too busy and far too efficient to spend a week issuing up theories by accepting congratulations on their punctuality, honesty, integrity, thrift and business acumen.

Great gains of private could be raised to the newspaper boy who, like the postman, makes his rounds unscathed by sleet, or storm, or dark of night. But most newspaper boys are too modest to accept such just rewards without a blush.

The 600,000 carrier boys who are responsible for on-time delivery of most of the 60,000,000 copies of latest newspapers they printed daily in Canada and the United States are looked up to as models of the youthful junior citizen.

And why not?

Newspaper boys buy and sell a product; work as part of a team of reporters, editors, compositors, pressmen; learn about distribution problems in summer rain and winter snow; they learn daily finance too; the problems of making ends meet between the publisher and the subscriber. They have to finance their own transportation, usually a bicycle, and in dealing with all types of people learn public relations by serving the public.

"Yesterday's newspaper boy, today's 'leader,'" is the slogan which aptly describes newspaper boys.

The Ontario Intelligencer proudly salutes the 125 independent bustlesomen called newspaper boys, who distribute its editions in Belleville and district each day.

Police Blotter

Shooting the ducks in the first instance called for plenty of effort without having some sneak thief pilfer them from the car-tired while on the way home.

That's the complaint of Thomas Lucas, R.R. 8, Belleville, who last night had three ducks stolen from his car while it was parked in the Canadian National Railways station area.

A group of juveniles in search of pigeons had their fun cut short when a resident near the York Trading Company premises notified police that boys were on the roof. In the belief that a breakin might be imminent, police made a check and learning of the circumstances advised the boys to be on their way home.

A window peeper was reported in the Grier street area, while police were told also that the Tabernacle church had been entered Wednesday night. Cupboards and cabinets were found ripped open but nothing was reported missing.

PRIMARILY A POWER PROJECT

The growth of Ontario Hydro's massive works on the St. Lawrence, attended by an abundance of intelligent news releases, is proof that the real benefits of the seaway power project for the most part will be those bearing directly on the development and use of power.

Frustration of the project for more than 40 years, and continuous reference to it as a "seaway" project, tended to keep the power aspects in the background in the public mind. The glamor, romance and charm of the scheme seemed to be attached to the prospect of the world's ships sailing into the inland seas of North America. Like the tide, sentiment for the seaway ebbed and flowed since the turn of the century.

What clinched the seaway as a reality was not the necessity to provide access to the Great Lakes from the ocean. The seaway will be a reality because solution of Ontario's power shortage is a necessity. The seaway itself will be one of the first by-products of the development of power.

Damming of the river will produce artificial lakes which will eliminate the swirls and current which are the greatest obstacles to navigation. Locks built near the dam sites will overcome the drop in the river by raising and lowering ships up to 14,000 tons. Eighty per cent of the world's ocean-going merchantmen will be able to navigate the St. Lawrence when the 800 by 85 by 30-foot locks are opened.

Far more beneficial to both Canadians and Americans than the seaway will be the hydro electric power generated by the 32 turbines which eventually will supply more than 1,000,000 horsepower to each of the co-owners of the great $600,000,000 works.

The story of industry is one of usable power.

Coal and oil have spawned the great industrial communities of the world. More recently hydro power has been a basic fuel in the development of industrial might. Such outstanding examples of the development of industry near great hydro sites as Arvida and Kitimat clearly emphasize the importance of electricity as a primary source of power in any modern industrial complex.

Even before hydro electric generators start turning, electric power projects contribute to local prosperity. The size of generating projects and the duration of construction bring substantial benefits to adjacent areas. When lower lines start feeding power to neighboring communities, industry, expansion and prosperity follow. Power makes mass production possible and production means real, tangible wealth.

The cofferdams and tower lines appearing on the St. Lawrence are the real signposts to progress.

The St. Lawrence project is a power project, first and foremost, and a seaway only because things worked out that way.

INVESTMENT POSSIBILITY

If Canadian life insurance company executives are discovered, these days, poring over documents pertaining to the possibility of establishing branches in Sweden, the explanation is simple.

Goegran Hartzell, a 26-year-old truck driver, tried to commit suicide. He attempted to crash a stolen plane into his estranged wife's house, jumped out of a third-floor window, crashed his car over a cliff, jumped into a river and tried to jump out of a hospital window before police arrested him as a menace to public safety. How anybody, or anything, could menace the safety of a Swede if they are all as durable as Hartzell is a point which the prosecutor may have a little difficulty explaining to the court.

Meanwhile, though, a life insurance company in Sweden should be regarded with the same attractions of King Solomon's mines, Fort Knox and a mouse pasture which gives geiger counters delirium tremens.

BULLY FOR SCIENCE

Oh, fine!
Science is the thing.
From Chicago comes a report that able men have found a way to treat severe burns in children without bandages.
This, it is said, will "be potentially important in any atomic warfare."
That is the civilized man for you, always so kind and concerned about little children.
Soon as his scientific discover a way to burn them by the thousands, some other scientists find a way to cure these burns in a third or even a quarter of the normal long-range period.
"Suffer little children . . . ." Yes, suffer.

INHUMAN PUNISHMENT

Manhattan's hoodlums have been keeping out of mischief recently.
The Yankees and the Dodgers get the credit.
According to Assistant District Attorney John A. McAvinue, the reason why the number of public court cases dropped by two-thirds was that "the world series had the ne'er-do-wells nailed to radios and television sets."
There will be some who will consider this inhuman treatment, even if one does not take the word "nailed" literally.

Time was when I was small we played

We'd match the cards, and would be glad
To help the one without a mate
Who held it, was it he or she,
When, at the end the "Old Maid" was free.

But that a boy could be one, too, Seemed strange to all. And, I should say,
"Twould be considered so today.

That merry game was played for fun.
An hour of it, and it was done.
But time goes on with bounds and leaps
And life's long game is played for keeps.
Great is the loss of man when he
At last the "Old Maid" has to be.

Must Watch St. Lawrence

(Brockville Recorder and Times)

The London Free Press asserts that the Thames river is one of if not the most polluted rivers in the province of Ontario. We sincerely hope the authorities there are successful in cleaning up the Thames—its area is proud of the fact that it has one of the most polluted rivers in the province.

As yet, we in this part of Ontario are able to boast that the St. Lawrence is a relatively pure river, but increasing development along its shores dictates that extreme vigilance must be exercised to keep it so.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ETERNITY IS NOW

We talk of big things as though they were far and away—something Eternity that may have existed billions of years before any humans appeared on this Earth is Eternity, and so is each human being now upon it. Eternity is now—just as each day is a part of the all in existence.

We were not just tossed upon this Earth for no purpose whatsoever. Who is to be adequately measure the influence of a Socrates, a Rembrandt, a Lincoln, or an Edison? There is nothing new about thoughts. I have the thoughts of Confucius and Socrates, published in a book in my library, expressed over 5,000 years ago!

Eternity is here and now. Every breath of ours is a part of it, as is every movement in Nature, every phase call, and every expression, whether we use an instrument, or within the heart. Eternity is on the wing, even while you read these few words. Such a thought should inspire us to live our best, regardless of the part of it.

I used to hear a song sung in which the question was asked, "Where will you spend Eternity?" I did a great deal of thinking about this song and used to wonder where Eternity was going to be longer troubled. I am a part of Eternity right now, and always have been.

Eternity is God's endless highway, and we are on it, ever traveling. Our destiny, however, is in His hands. We have no need to be concerned about the final destination. Each of us is an errand runner. May all our messages be good ones.

Elephants Pull Plows

(Timmins Daily Press)

For untold ages, wild elephants roaming the jungles of the Himalayan foothills, left their annual migrations have terrorized the peasants as they did. Indeed these tragically devastated areas of trampled crops and uprooted fruit trees.

Even without this devastation, agriculture in India already has suffered from the handicaps of primitive methods and equipment including inadequate plowing facilities.

A new era has, however, dawned for India, with national and state governments, under the impulse of freedom and responsibility, seeking better methods.

So the devastating elephant herds are being rounded up, trained, and used as tractors.

A three-year preliminary operation in Uttar Pradesh consisted of experiments with different types of plows to devise a plow sufficiently large and powerful enough to need an elephant to pull.

Now the famed elephants are successfully pulling over-sized plows on government farms and agriculture in Uttar Pradesh is looking up.

According to government officials, plowing by elephant is cheaper than plowing by tractor for even with the latter's high fuel costs the elephants are cheaper to feed, in the tropical areas, from the various states of India passed under the British raj, the mighty elephant was used in the battle, serving the purposes of the modern tank, artillery piece and truck for defence and opening the way for the infantry's advance.

The change from living tanks to living tractors is, we suppose, generally typical of a reawakened India.

Crime Drops Due Religion

(Montreal Gazette)

Some people have been inclined to dismiss the recent wave of religious interest as something that does not touch everyday life.

An interesting answer to those views is to be seen in a survey of an unexpected source. It comes from the Federal Bureau of Investigation in the United States.

There has been a recent drop in crime in the United States, reversing a seven year rise. Interviewed by the magazine, "U.S. News & World Report," Mr. Hoover was asked: "Do you see in it any significant change in religious activity that interest all the more impressive.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BEST OF ALL CENSORS

The question is often discussed as to whether or not we should have legal censorship of plays and books.

Certainly almost every parent today agrees that the restraint put on the motion picture industry is wholesome because it does not cause quite young children and teen-agers to see certain types and forms of motion picture theatres. As regards censorship of books, the question and art, the difficulties which always surround any form of censorship, however, in this course there is a present censorship. Quite a few people are reading prison sentences today for having composed, printed, and furtively distributed obscene pamphlets. No one would say that such censorship is wrong, but where will be the line drawn between the obviously evil and the perhaps evil?

In reading some modern books and plays I am inclined to think some people are sent to jail for distributing what is considered obscene literature and other people are allowed to write $3.50 novels which are almost as bad as the stuff which sends Lee smut artists to prison. Also as one hears in the theatre lobbies some of the utterly incredible lines and observations of certain people enjoying these lines and calling the production artistic, one is definitely disillusioned.

Legal censorship is certainly not the whole answer to the problem. I had that there is no other way out. Literature and stage echo back the public viewpoint and when that is aroused public conscience is the best of all censors.

Elephants Eat Expenses Paid

(Kingston Whig-Standard)

Fishing in Ireland is a famous sport and the Irish are notable fishermen. Anglers who angle they want game fish and scorn coarse, sluggish and inanistic types. The result is that trout and salmon in the rivers and lakes of Counties Cavan, Leitrim, Longford and Roscommon are scarce, but pike, roach, perch and bream are plentiful.

This situation was a challenge to Eire's salesmen of tourism—or tourist — touters, whichever phrase you prefer. The Irish Tourist Board noted that in England there are "three million anglers who casual or occasional coarse fishing. There are simply not enough fish to go around." So that Board asked the English Federation of Anglers to send a sample Irish fishing (pike, not trout). In the last several weeks of summer selected groups of English anglers were sent to Eire to fish—all expenses paid.

Says an official of its Tourist Board: "Reports are said to be favorable, the English anglers particularly admiring the fighting qualities of Irish fish." It would be a sad kind of illness being treated in a hospital will hardly understand the observations of the physician who attended one of these home deliveries (most of his patients still have their babies in hospitals):

"The mother is in an atmosphere where she feels safe" (a hospital), "where, of course, she is safer than she would be in a home" (still), "She falls out of the troubles of the situation herself, not helpless in the strangeness of a hospital."

Mothers whose babies are born at home, quite clearly, have less anesthetic than those who have hospital deliveries. This is understandable — the poor creatures who regard childbirth as a dreadful ordeal clutch at any thing that will dull consciousness or (Call if area recently to make who regard childbirth as a "beautiful experience," "the greatest physical and emotional event of our lives" or "a religious experience" usually "tell no need for" anesthetics.

After all, I must confess I have never had a baby, so I can merely report what mothers say about it. But I feel sorry for the husband — I mean the male who hermits any so-and-so rules, regulations, taboos or make-believe decency or modesty to prevent or excuse him from sharing in the birth process of his wife in his wife in their home. Hearing the baby's first cry and seeing the baby cuddled in mother's arms is the greatest emotional experience a man can have, I can tell you. It strengthens the marital bond and fortifies the manly fancy. When he cows, is horribly frequent in Yankeeland.

Childbirth Is Not An Illness

In Natural Childbirth (Williams & Wilkins, $2) the author, Helen Heardman, mother of two children, the first when she was 37, says labor is physiological and unobstructed and the mother reaches climax of the actual birth fully conscious, confident and joyous. She also says that it is not often that anesthesia or analgesia will be required, but it must be available and offered, though never forced; that is, the mother herself decides whether she wants it.

The movie star Coleen Gray, who had her baby at home the natural way, said:

"The anesthetic . . . you can administer yourself if you wish. Knowing that you can have the anesthetic at any time you want it — you don't want it! At least I didn't. But the fact that it is available is assurance against being tense. You can relax."

In Childbirth Without Fear (Harper and Bros. $2.75) the author, Grantly Dick Read, M. D. said:

"Most doctors today would scorn the idea that labor can be a pleasurable experience."

Yet, at Dr. Read himself has demonstrated not only the mothers but also the babies are happier at home than they are in a hospital.

You poor creatures who regard childbirth as a kind of illness best treated in a hospital will hardly understand the observations of the physician who attended one of these home deliveries (most of his

Letter to the Editor

Food Prices

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

This reader is not a farmer, but I have a vital interest in the precious metals that my husband send in to the market-place. My concern is colored by the related facts that (1) according to the statistical experts (at Ottawa), the average industrially-employed Canadian expends 24 cents of his take-home-pay on food; and (2) that I spend 24 cents of my husband's money for food.

Thus I am directly involved, personally, in the primary producers.

Only a tiny percentage of Canadians in town and city seems to be aware of the fact that, in the general scene, it can be said that the price of the farmer's products has gone down, but the farm gate and the pavements. It costs real cash to farm in 1955; yes, real dollars and cents. The process agricultural products. It reremember a surgically, last year's gross income for Canada's farmers ranged around $2,400,000,000. This is the figure which runs away with most of the spot-light; the "food dollar" which ends up sending about 47 cents back to the farmer. It seems to me that the other 53 cents should be taken apart, by the people with the facts and figures, and literally plowed into the public mind. As we see the picture, it is decidedly unjust to beam all the blame for so-called "high food prices" at the farmer.

FAIR DEAL.

Fire Dance Did Trick

(San Francisco Chronicle)

Occasionally, modern science is chastened and humbled by the skills of people who have not had its heels by what it has regarded as the superstitions of more or less backward peoples.

It now appears that the time is ripe for science to do some investigating among the pink desert rats of Arizona and New Mexico might turn up something quite rewarding. That is the implication of the recent performance of some peaches and Yuma, members of tribes now held in high esteem for their zeal and skill in fighting forest fires in the mountains of their tribesmen, brought into the Yreka, California, area at the request of fire thereabouts, found some time and their hands while awaiting transportation.

So they danced. They danced all night. They danced in ancient and traditional rain dance.

And the rain fell.

The rain, weeks ahead of custom and expectation, vastly improved the chances for elimination that also raised a question. How did the Zuni and Yuma get it to work—without silver iodine or other cloud seeding devices?

If, as scoffers suggest, the wily Indians had foreknowledge of a weak storm blowing down from the Oregon coast, how did they get it, and whether offshore or airborne, weather balloons, aneriodographs and wet and dry bulb thermometers?

It could be, of course, that the "food dollar" is cheaper than the whole history scoffs at that possibility.

Definitions

(Fort William Times-Journal)

One's knowledge must be wide to make sense out of items found in the mail for dictionary of the annual meeting of the National Safety Council in Chicago next month. For instance, how many run-of-the-mill readers know what a dingleberry is? Or that peroxide bleaching can be dangerous?

In this part of the country several editors have the added to the second question. That is hazard in the paper industry, fewer need to know about dingleberries. They are the flying particles of hot ferrous metal that fall in welders' ears.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Hearty eaters, especially if they are lone wolves like bachelors, gipsters, have developed enchantrance and travelling salesmen farmers. I wonder whether why they are not invited back to some of the busiest tables of their experience. It is because one don't use their heads. They have no eye to the future. They see good food in front of them, or within reach; and gather ye rounders while ye have been.

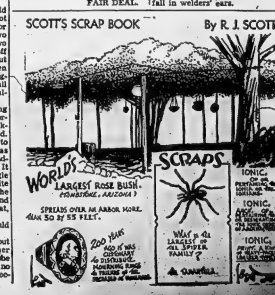
her potato, please, and a little on the meat. And would you mind just passing the piece of bread in the platter gravy?

They belong to! Three she could scoff of, reminding the carver not to forget the undercut. And as for walnut pickles, she would dish out the first time round, and two more if asked. Then, because off each walnut would she clip, but stuff a half into her mouth as often as she changed an eye for a end in the family that once we all saw her put a whole pickled walnut into her mouth, neat!



A great old gal she was, rolling her eyes, hitching about in her corsets as the meal progressed, making the room seem smaller as she filled it.

From roast beef, we retreated to roast chicken; but that was worse, because she always reminded the carver about the oyster. If he'd been a real gent, he'd have given them both. And she loved white meat, but not the skin, and not the dark. And plenty of dressing. And would you pass the gravy boat, please?

Three or four times it would go round.

When she had stuffed herself out of her league, she used to tell other members of the tribe that she couldn't understand why we no longer had a real servant for an occasional bite to eat.

Municipal Finance Problems Recognized by Conference

OTTAWA (CP)—Representatives of Canadian municipalities, happy at having had a say at the federal-provincial tax conference, believe the two senior levels of government have taken recognition of municipal financial problems.

They hope that provinces will benefit from the next federal-provincial tax arrangement so that more money can filter down to the municipalities.

About a score of municipal representatives were members of provincial delegations at the four-day tax conference which ended Thursday.

Mayor J. David Stewart of Charlottetown, a member of the Prince Edward Island group, said municipal representatives made a solid contribution to the conference.

"The fiscal problem of local governments in part and parcel of the fiscal problem common to all governments and cannot be resolved in a vacuum," he said in a statement.

Mayor Stewart, president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, said the discussions had resulted in no specific commitments to municipalities but the senior governments had been made aware of municipal problems.

A member of the Ontario delegation said the federal government is to submit new proposals "which undoubtedly will provide increased revenue for the provinces."

Mayor R. M. Simpson of Arnprior, president of the Ontario Association of Mayors and Reeves, said in a statement:

"It is realized that the federal government is to submit new proposals which undoubtedly will provide for the provinces and which in turn should show a benefit to the municipalities. . . ."

"A measure of financial relief to (Ontario) municipal governments is in sight if the federal adjustment to the tax structure is such that increased revenues are available to the provincial governments."

Ontario municipalities then could "reflect the benefits by avoiding increases in municipal taxes," Mayor Simpson said.

Troopers Stop Hitch-Hiking Trip to Florida

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Margaret Ruth Hobbs and Linda Elisabeth Huntington, both 15, and Karen Leona Hawkins, 14, of West Hill, Ont., had nearly reached the halfway mark on their hitch-hiking trip to Florida early Thursday when they were interrupted by state troopers at Bridgeville.

The girls admitted to the dubious honor of the destination was the sunny south and said they had run away from their homes. Police communicated by teletype with the Canadian police and in a short time an answer was received confirming that the three were runaways.

The girls' parents said they will come to Bridgeville immediately to take them home. The three were turned over to Sussex county juvenile authorities to await the arrival of the parents.

Police in West Hill said the girls had been missing since Oct. 1. Their parents reported they were last seen together about 10:30 a.m. that day.

Health Insurance Scheme Fails to Get Endorsement

OTTAWA (CP) — A national health insurance scheme has failed to get general endorsement at the federal-provincial conference but is to be discussed at a later conference of health ministers.

The conference of government heads shunted the tricky problem to a committee, and late Thursday the committee laid plans for the ministerial meeting that might be held before the end of the year.

When the four-day general conference wound up Thursday, it had reached no decision—even in principle—on this major point on its agenda. What the last conference of ministers might do was problematical.

BRIEF MENTION

Despite much behind-the-scenes work by federal and provincial officials on health insurance, the subject came up only briefly at the conference Thursday. The conference's special committee only had about 3½ hours to debate it Thursday before the main meeting ended and it did not bring in a report.

However, federal and provincial deputy health ministers were to meet again today to draft up an agenda for the proposed ministerial meeting.

All provinces were represented at the single committee meeting, and informants said governments favoring health insurance on a national basis got some encouragement from the attitude of Quebec, hitherto regarded as frigid towards participation in a federal-provincial scheme.

SOME WERE ANXIOUS

Provinces most anxious for a federal-provincial arrangement on insurance, these sources said, appeared to be Alberta, British Columbia, Saskatchewan and Ontario. However, none made any specific proposals.

All provinces favored the principle of insurance, it was stated, but some expressed doubts about how to pay for it, and there were differences as to the scope of various stages.

Meanwhile, federal sources made it clear the central government will not go for Ontario Premier Frost's suggestion—in his tentative health plan—that the federal treasury take up 50 per cent of the cost of the opening stages of a federal-provincial-patient plan.

There is no disposition here, these informants said, to pay more than 50 per cent.

Mr. Frost has suggested the 50-per-cent federal payments on a plan that would embrace initially diagnostic, hospital and home care services.

TWO YEARS FOR ATTACK

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Robert Hawkinson, 36-year-old transient formerly of Toronto, was sentenced Thursday to two years in Kingston penitentiary. He had been convicted last month of knocking down Robert Wallace, 72, of Brockville and stealing his gold watch.

Heavy, Medium or Light Which Razor Is Right?

The Brooklyn Dodgers won the world series. That question has been settled.

But spawning from the hectic series is another question, one that probably has millions of he-men in a tizzy.

Which kind of razor suits you best, light, medium or heavy?

It doesn't matter "how're you fixed for blades?", that's a mere trifle. It doesn't even matter if you "feel sharp, look sharp, AND be sharp."

The big question is, which is the best kind of razor, light, medium or heavy.

It is worrying men about town and country.

Imagine all these years the big boss tipping the scales around 200 pounds have been disappointing their five o'clock shadow by using a lightweight razor. The midget class, around 110, have been wearied morning and night bulldozing the heavy type through twenty - four hour growths. The devil-may-care executive and newspaper types have been whittling away with a medium weight when they should have studied their problem and decided which was the correct type.

It is a sad state of affairs!

Since he was born and since the first pinky fuzz showed on his face modern man has taken his shaving in his stride. He used an old-fashioned straight blade like grandpappy, a new fangled safety like dad or a powered contraption that functions without brush or soap. Never has he gone to the trouble of balancing the gadget on the bathroom scales.

There's another gadget in this new shaving idea, too. You must hold the razor at a certain angle or you get the tall timber and miss the undergrowth. This is very important. Who wants his face to look like a freshly-plucked asparagus bed?

To get the proper angle one must become a bathroom contortionist. You place one foot in the tub, the other in the wash-basin, cant the mirror at a 45-degree angle, then look straight ahead. This enables you to round the corners without sounding your horn.

Then there's the speed to consider. Is it a plane, is it a bird?" No! It's a superspeed! So far man has removed his facial splotch with the cutting contraption in ordinary gear. Now to get the utmost in comfort and to "look sharp" he must study which speed suits his face the best.

Old fashioned razors moved over the skin in methodical low gear. The later models stepped up the pace to Intermediate. But now, it's high or nothing. It's superspeed that maked a chin hair scream "timber" as the bull-dozing whisker-trimmer zooms over the surface.

It's quite a problem, this weighty-speed question.

Prior to the world series, half-ton halfbacks looked as slick as a hen's egg using whatever razor delighted fans presented him with. Now he realizes his mistake. Big Bull Wottanutsky, fullback for Split Lip High has the pain gags after using a light weight style. Pea Wee Pullemoffsky, tenor sax player of the Podunk Prep pierrots, throws a headlock on the heavy meat cleaver.

Avondale H-S Assoc. Holds 'Open House'

The first meeting of the season of the Avondale Home and School Association was held in the school Tuesday evening. This meeting was in the form of "Open House" to enable the residents of the community to view the addition of two new class rooms and to meet the teachers, neighbors, architect and contractor.

There was a large attendance present. All were welcomed cordially by president Mrs. Grace Knowlton. Mrs. K. Bird presided at the piano.

The treasurer reported a bank balance of $143.66. The president thanked all who had participated at the field day which was held in June. The national conference will take place at Peterborough on October 22nd, for which credentials will be mailed. Avondale has been chartered.

Mrs. Knowlton will attend as delegate, accompanied by another member as yet unnamed.

The monthly attendance banner was won by Mr. Bird's classroom.

The great value of immunization from disease was stressed by president as she clearly stated the decrease in the death rate since immunization was introduced.

Mrs. Doris Daniels, Membership convener for the ensuing year was busily engaged in accepting membership fees.

GUEST SPEAKERS

Mr. K. Bird, convener for the present month, introduced the speakers for the evening. Mr. Valcamp, chairman of the School Board, and his colleague, Mr. Jones; Mr. Paul Wiegand, assistant architect and Mr. A. Glagras, contractor.

Mr. Valcamp expressed the mutual feeling of the community in the proud display of the new rooms which have recently been added to the school.

The speaker thanked the architect and contractor for their capability in handling this project.

Mr. Wiegand sighted the advancements which have been made in the building of new schools in recent years and Mr. Glagras expressed his thanks for being given the opportunity of building the new addition to Avondale school.

The teachers were introduced at this time: Mrs. Chapman of teacher of Grades 1 and 2; Mrs. McCoy, of Grades 3 and 4; Mrs. Carswell, of Grades 5 and 6, and Mr. Bird, principal, and teacher of Grades 7 and 8.

In the absence of the reeve, deputy reeve Mr. Byron Harder, officiated by cutting the ribbon. Inspection of the class rooms then took place. All were tastefully decorated with bouquets of lovely autumn flowers of various hues, and the hall prettily bedecked with baskets of beautiful colored leaves while the wall told the tale of the approach of Thanksgiving with a fine display of turkeys in the arms of children. Pumpkins were attractively arranged which added color and served as a reminder of "Old Mother Witch".

Refreshments were served by the teachers.

PAT WAS POOR

VANCOUVER (CP) — Walter Bilton, 22-year-old mill worker sentenced to eight years for trafficking in narcotics, delivered $1,000,000 worth of narcotics up to Sept. 11, police said Thursday. When he was arrested, $250,000 worth of heroin was found in his home, sealed in glass jars "like preserves." For this, the man described as errand boy of the underworld, received $100 a week, police said.

Weddings

TOPPING—FRINGLE

A lovely wedding was solemnized in Calvary Temple, Belleville, at two o'clock on Saturday, Sept. 24, by the Rev. Hope Smith, when Miss Mildred Anne Pringle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Pringle, Consecon, was united in marriage to Glenn Edward Topping, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Topping of Desoronto.

The bride was attired in a pink satin gown with matching lace dress over satin, her veil was of nylon net studded with pearls. The bridesmaid, Miss Gerda Moon, sister of the bride, was attired in mauve chiffon with matching accessories.

George Knight, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man.

Following the marriage a reception was held at Lattimer's in Belleville.

Following the reception the couple left for a honeymoon, after which they will reside in Desoronto.

BOYCE—MAGUIRE

Baskets of gladioli, asters and ferns and sprays of pink and white gladioli on the altar, made a lovely setting in St. Luke's Anglican church, Camden East, for an early autumn wedding when Miss Helen Margaret Maguire and Mr. Ronald Dale Boyce exchanged marriage vows. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas Good, Camden East, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Boyce, Odessa.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Canon A. G. Wakelin with Mrs. Charles McCormick at the organ.

Mrs. Fred Bracken of Seeley's Bay, sister of the groom, was soloist. The full sculptured choir preceded the bridal party and sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her stepfather, Mr. Thomas Good, was lovely in a floor length gown of imported Chantilly lace and tulle over ivory satin. The strapless bodice was pleated and lace extended down over the slips into the skirt, where it was caught at a full pleat under a shirred ruffle. A long sleeved jacket of lace with a deep point at the bodice, and her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was caught to a halo of pearls and crystal pearls. Her bouquet was a semi-cascade of red roses and stephanotis with sprigs of heather.

The bride was attended by Miss Beverley Ann Maguire, her sister; Miss Shirley Amey of Kingston, her aunt; and Miss Elinor Boyce, of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom. Miss Maguire, as the maid of honor, wore a waist-length gown of pink brocaded taffeta with full skirt, and carried a semi-cascade of mauve asters to match her floral headdress. Miss Amey and Miss Boyce wore similar gowns of sea mist green, and carried semi-cascades of fuchsia asters to match their floral headdresses.

Little Miss Brenda Compton of Kingston, cousin of the bride, was flower girl wearing a dainty short frock of pink nylon net over taffeta with black velvet trimming. Her headdress and nosegay were of pink and blue asters. Master Tommy Good, brother of the bride, was ring bearer.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Glenn Bracken of Seeley's Bay, and the ushers were Mr. Glenn Amey, Napanee, and Mr. Garnet Compton, Kingston.

A reception was held at Shirley Memorial Hall, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a gown of Wedgwood blue crepe and lace with clover pink accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The groom's mother assisted wearing a gown of navy blue crepe with garnet accessories and a corsage of red roses.

The bride's grandmother and aunt, in Dungannon, Ireland, sent congratulations to the couple by cablegram.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyce travelled to Niagara, London and points in the United States for their wedding trip. The bride's going-away costume was a suit of blue grey wool gabardine with dusty rose accessories and a corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. They are residing in Kingston.

Guests from Whitby, Belleville, Napanee, Addolphustown, Seeley's Bay, Kingston, Odessa and Moscow, attended the wedding.

JACKSON—LLOYD

Kingston Road United church was the setting for a pretty early wedding on Saturday, September 24, at 3.30 p.m. when the Rev. W. R. Merrick, assisted by Mr. Bruce Besley united in marriage Jean Marjorie Lloyd, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Lloyd, to Garfield Clayton Jackson of Kingston, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jackson, of Desoronto. Assorted gladioli and chrysanthemums adorned the chancel.

Mrs. Miller was pianist, and Mrs. Lois Bradshaw, soloist, sang before the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer", and during the signing of the register "I'll Walk Beside You."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Asa Lloyd, the bride was charming in her waltz length bridal gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta, with fitted bodice and matching lace jacket trimmed with mother-of-pearl sequins. Her fingertip veil of scalloped-edged tulle illusion was held by a headdress studded with pearl beads, and she carried a shower bouquet of red Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Donna Jackson of Belleville, sister of the bride, as matron of honor, was attractively attired in rose colored Chantilly lace over Taffeta with matching mitts and headdress; and the bridesmaids, Mrs. Barbara Sweeting of Peterborough and Miss Shirley Parker, of Belleville, wore gowns of similar design to that of the matron of honor, the former in green, and the latter in blue. All carried crescent-shaped bouquets of white pons and trailing ivy, and wore matching headdresses.

Mr. Donald Jackson of Belleville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was groomsman and Mr. Francis Barton of Campbellford and Mr. George Sweeting of Peterborough, acted as ushers.

The wedding reception was held at the Front Road United church parlors, where the bride's mother received, gowned in a charcoal grey ensemble with pink accessories, and corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore mauve with navy accessories, and corsage of yellow roses.

Following the reception the young couple left for Algonquin Park, Sault Ste. Marie, North Bay and Peterborough, the bride travelling in a light grey ensemble with navy accessories, and corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson will reside in Kingston, at 7 Bartlett Street South, upon their return.

Guests present from Stratford, Campbellford, Peterborough, Toronto, Havelock, Desoronto, Warsaw, Bancroft and Napanee.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was the honored guest at miscellaneous showers given by Miss Ann Hughes and Miss Shirley Parker also by the girls of the Bell Telephone Company, held at the home of Miss Betty Fulton, of Belleville.

St. Margaret's Church Guild Forms Schedule

The members of St. Margaret's Church Guild met at the home of Mrs. A. Watson Monday evening.

Mrs. F. E. Moore opened the meeting with prayer. Secretary, Miss Lois Rollins, read the minutes and Mrs. R. Clarke gave the treasurer's report.

It was volunteered to look after the sale of Christmas cards Mrs. William Todd was appointed press reporter.

Further preparations were made for the Annual bazaar which is to be held the latter part of November.

An interesting program followed after which refreshments were served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. P. Wills.

Open House Held At Two Schools

Open house was held at both Queen Victoria and Sir Winston Churchill schools on Monday evening. All class rooms were open and exhibits of the children's work on display. Bouquets were displayed in various rooms and of particular interest was a display of 13 bouquets of brightly-hued flowers in Miss Tucker's class room. They immediately caught the eye as you walked in. The lavish coloring brought all the beauty and glory of the autumn season to the fore.

Mrs. A. A. Wilson and Mrs. J. Ross Bradshaw, Queen Victoria School, were in charge of the reception. Mrs. Wilson, president of the Association, extended a welcome and brought attention to the regional conference to be held in Peterborough on Saturday, October 22nd.

Mrs. W. F. Roblin introduced the grade mothers and Mr. E. Lafferty introduced the teaching staff.

Registration of the parents was taken by Mrs. Roblin and Miss O. Root.

At Sir Winston Churchill school Mrs. C. C. Powell, president of the local committee and Mrs. A. W. Rump welcomed the parents as they arrived. Mrs. Powell opened the meeting with a welcome to the parents. Mr. C. Frederick welcomed the parents and introduced the teaching staff.

Mrs. J. Brown, membership convener, introduced the grade mothers.

Mrs. D. E. Garlepy and Mrs. J. Brown were in charge of the registration of parents.

95 Young People Hold Fall Rally at Halloway Church

On Tuesday evening 95 young people met at Halloway United Church, Halloway, to share in the fun and fellowship of another fall rally.

At 7 p.m. the ladies of the local church served a delicious banquet which passed the approval of all present.

Rita Christie, president, extended greetings to all and introduced the members at the head table. Guests were: the Rev. C. E. Chapman, Moira-Thomasburg charge, and the Rev. R. F. Sherwin, Bay Valley charge.

Rita Christie expressed appreciation of the executive to the Rev. G. W. Minielly, who in the past several years has so capably and faithfully acted as the adviser to the executive. The Rev. H. M. Davis is replacing Mr. Minielly as adviser.

NOMINATING COMMITTEE REPORT

Report of the nominating committee was given by Ruth McMullen, and the Rev. G. J. Minielly presented the slate of nominees to the assembly. Voting was done by ballot.

The young people retired to the church auditorium for a sing-song which was lead by Monty Moorcroft.

A report on the year's activities was given by Jean Finkle, followed by a financial report, which was given by Ross Bradshaw.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Election results were read by Mr. Minielly revealing the following:

Past president, Rita Christie; president, Ralph Swan; vice-president, George Frost; corresponding secretary, Ruth McMullen; recording secretary and publication, Jean Finkle; treasurer, Glen Schermerhorn, the Rev. H. M. Davis.

CONVENERS

Social and evangelism commission, Marilyn Parks; missions and world outreach commission, Shirley Finkle; citizenship and community service commission, Don Gates; entertainment and training commission, Bryce Philp; culture and recreation commission, Evelyn Emerson and Gordon McInroy; members at large, Bruce McPherson, Mary Herron, Lorna Ray, Craig Watson and Marion Mullholland.

Beth Minielly led in the singing of a number of spiritual which created an atmosphere for the worship service which was conducted by Stirling Young People's Union.

Janet Anne Good read the call to worship, followed by the invocation which was given by Bryce Philp. The hymn "Break Thou the Bread of Life," was sung and the Scripture lesson taken from St. John 1: 1-18 was read by Marlene Moorcroft.

A story entitled "Two Thousand Miles for a Book," was read by Janet Anne Good and the meditations closed with a prayer lead by Bryce Philp.

The theme of this rally was "His Word for Our World," which is also to be the theme of Young Peoples' Week from November 13-20.

Mr. Chapman spoke on this theme and impressed upon the young people that if they are concerned about eternal life they must know and practise Christ's teachings in their personal lives.

Ralph Swan thanked Mr. Chapman for his inspiring address.

INSTALLATION SERVICE

During the singing of "Spirit of God, Descend Upon My Heart," the new executive approached the altar where the Rev. R. F. Sherwin conducted the installation service. At each officer accepted the responsibility of his office he did so by lighting a candle.

Mr. Sherwin offered a prayer for the new executive and the service closed with a hymn of dedication.

A book display in charge of Ruth McMullen provided valuable information for the various unions present.

At the close of the evening Rita Christie expressed her thanks to her executive of the past year and officially handed the presidency to Ralph Swan.

Queen Alexandra H-S Assoc. Holds Opening Meet

Queen Alexandra Home and School Association held its opening meeting on Tuesday with a fine attendance.

The new president, Mrs. Jones, was in the chair and the regular business meeting was held first.

The meeting was later turned over to the principal, Mr. M. M. Hackett, who in turn introduced and interviewed the staff. To the parents present it was an interesting evening as each teacher gave a brief discourse on his or her class activities, which was most enlightening and informative as it provided an opportunity to meet the new teachers and renew old teachers' acquaintances.

Coffee and refreshments were served by the social conveners and an informal period was enjoyed by all.

Thank Offering Meet Held By Jubilee E.A.

The autumn thankoffering meeting of Bridge Street Church Jubilee Evening Auxiliary was held in Bridge Street Sunday School on Tuesday six guests attended.

Mrs. Maybee and her group served supper, which was much enjoyed by all and which makes possible a feeling of fellowship among the members.

Miss Gertrude Laidler, president presided at the business meeting and opened with a reading "Be Yet Thankful," on the theme of the ten lepers who were healed and but one returned to give thanks.

Mrs. Colden agreed to do work of the corresponding secretary until Christmas. Plans were made to entertain the "Explorers" at the November meeting and also for the May Basket party the month.

Miss Daley Young was in charge of the program. The devotional theme was "A Deeper Meaning of Thanksgiving," based on events in the life of Jesus.

The hymn, solo, "Thanks Be to God," was rendered by Miss Loretta McDougall.

Mrs. Arthur Locke reviewed a chapter of the study book dealing with the Canadian Canadians and the part the church plays in the welcome. Experienced linguists meet the newcomers and give them help at the customs. They also extended an invitation to attend the church of their choice.

An adult immigrant has cost another country $10,000 to educate as a really valuable contributor even if it has cost something to bring him to this country.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

PREPARE NOW FOR WINTER SKIN TROUBLES

A little baby oil patted around the eyes and lids will prevent dryness and resultant squint lines during cold weather.

With cold weather practically around the corner it's time now to condition your skin against the ravages of icy winds and overheated apartments, both of which are intensely drying.

Dryness and wrinkles go hand in hand, so give your face plenty of lubrication, using your favorite cream and being faithful to every night—and b...lining Now. Don't wait until the dryness has already appeared. If your skin is inclined to be dry at all times, an extra dab of night cream around the eyes will take care of any squint lines which may be lurking there.

For elbows, knuckles, knees and heels which also tend to become rough and red under winter weather conditions, it's hand cream—and plenty of it. Or you may prefer to use one of the many fine lanolin preparations which are a fine antidote for skin dryness.

Don't think that if your skin is inclined toward oiliness that you needn't worry about the effects of weather. Icy weather and steam heat can dry out the oil in your skin, too. However, you may not need the heavy creams and oils which the dry-skinned girl requires. Baby oil might be just your dish.

After a warm bath, during which you scrub your face, neck, elbows, arms and hands with a soft complexion brush, massage all these parts with the baby oil. A few drops is enough, but smooth them well into the skin, with a rotary motion until there's no oil film left.

A few drops of the oil dabbed about the eyes and lids will do for the oily-skinned girl what the night cream does for the dry-skinned one.

At this time of the year it's also wise to give your lips some added attention. Chapped lips are certainly not a beauty asset, and don't think that you can conceal them with lipstick since lipstick will not blend smoothly over rough lips. At night, then, use one of the many fine pomades on the market as a preventive measure. These come in red, pink and...white. The white is preferable for night use since it will not stain sheets and pillow cases. But, if your lips are unusually dry, you might use one coat of the pink or red under your regular lipstick when going outdoors. In severe cases of chapping use a special lip emmolient, which you can procure at any drugstore, so that your lips will retain their youthful softness.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

THE FIRST STEP IS TO TELL YOUR FATHER

Dear Miss Fairfax:

When I was 18 years old, both my parents were killed in an automobile accident. I spent the next year with a great-aunt, but she died and I was sent to a state home, where I spent nearly two years.

Then I was adopted by a friend of my parents, a widower with a 25-year-old son, who had just recently heard of my parents' death. He took me to live with them in a small town in another state. I was 15 at the time.

These past two years have been the happiest of my life. I have grown to love this man as my own father, and my new brother and I became the best of friends. At least that's the way it was at first.

But soon Davey and I realized we were falling in love. We tried to tell each other that it was only because we were each other so much and got along so well together. We even tried not seeing each other for weeks at a time, but that wouldn't work.

Soon it all became too much for both of us, and we forgot that we were falling in love, and then became involved in an awful affair.

Now I guess we are going to pay for our sins, as I am pregnant. But the real problem is—can Davey and I marry when we are legally brother and sister? We are very much in love, and there is our coming child to think of. — D.M.

Dear D.M.:

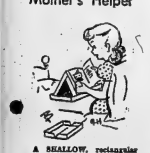
It would not be human t o condemn a girl of 17 years, held so much tragedy, for being carried away by her need for love and a longing to be wanted. What has happened is understandable, and I have only sympathy for you.

Yet, at the same time, I cannot help feeling very sorry indeed that the man who has so betriended you, and who has given you all he you call the happiest years of your life, should receive such a shabby reward for all his kindness.

I say this, not to add to the heavy burden of guilt and remorse you are already carrying, but because I am wondering if you have already done what first occurs to me. This is, for you and Davey to go together to his father and tell him the whole story. It would not only be the only square and decent thing to do, but it would also be the very first, and most important, step for you to take in attacking the problem.

If Davey and Davey have had any idea of keeping your situation from his father because you don't want to hurt him, and trying to work it out yourselves, then I urge you to discard the idea at once. The two of you are now involved in a situation which will require far more adult experience and mature judgment than you can possibly have, and you desperately need his father's help. If he were not an understanding and warm-hearted man, he would never have undertaken the responsibility of adopting you in the first place. Therefore, I feel no one who want to give you all the help he can, and it will take the three of you, working together, to find the best way to handle the problem.

You could not legally marry in your state without his consent, but if he feels marriage is the wisest solution, then he will probably give it. Or he may want to talk the matter over with your priest or minister, the family doctor, or perhaps a family advisory service which is used to dealing with all sorts of problems affecting young people.



So go to Father immediately and be completely straightforward and honest with him. I am sure he will want only what is right and best for both of you.

Tailored Matchmates

By TRACY ADRIAN

Here's an ensemble that will be a good traveller and also a grand choice for at home wear since it consists of a pair of very beautifully tailored pyjamas with a matching cover-up robe.

The robe is in nylon tricot with two-tone contrast color piping used to define the feminine lines. The collar, the stitched cuffs and three patch pockets. It is wrap-around with a tie belt.

Matching pyjamas are worn underneath and the top has short sleeves and a patch pocket. With it are full, well-cut sleeper pants.

QUESTION:

I have been going to write for quite some time to ask as I want to make these pickles for my husband. He likes sour pickles and I do mean sour. I have a recipe from my mother in P.E.I. but I don't think they are ripe enough to...seem to be able to dig up anything . . . and I'm hoping you can get this for me. . . another request is for plain ice cream. . . with crapped milk . . . and (variations) . . . I have five children. . . to supply proper nourishment for. . . they eat lots of raw carrots, beans, apples, onions and each day. . . are big milk drinkers. . . we have strict rules at the table . . . if they don't eat their potatoes . . . meat and vegetables . . . no dessert. It works . . . very fond of baked apples, milk pudding and now that fresh fruit is in season . . . peaches etc. I can vouch for the green tomato jam recipe in your column . . . my mother in P.E.I. and I have been making it for a long time . . . it is really delicious.

Mrs. Lorne F.

ANSWER:

Your long letter is charming—I assure you it is a pleasure to find what readers want.

SOUR PICKLES

Cucumbers must be freshly gathered, and to be at their best when finished, brined.

BRINING:

50 medium or 100 very small cucumbers (6 lbs.) 12 cups cold water, 3 1-4 cups salt, 6 bay leaves (optional). Wash cucumbers until thoroughly clean, drain and place in a 2-gallon crock. Mix together the water and 1-4 cups of the salt, and stir until dissolved. Pour over the cucumbers and add bay leaves (if used). Place a plate which fits inside rim over cucumbers, weight it down and clean stone. After 24 hours pour 1 cup salt on plate, but not directly on cucumbers. Keep in cool place. For five weeks at the end of each week pour 1-4 cup salt on plate, first removing any scum which has formed. (If brined pickles are to be kept without further processing a thick coating of hot paraffin should now be added.)

To make Sour Pickles from Brined Pickles, wash them 3 or 4 times in cold water. Cover with cold water and let stand 24 hours. Drain. Replace in stone crock, cover with about 12 cups cold vinegar and let stand 1 week. Remove pickles from vinegar and pack them into hot sterile jars. For each quart of pickles add 2 whole cloves, 2 whole allspice, 1 bay leaf, and 1 tablespoon sugar. Completely fill each jar with the cold vinegar. Seal.

Bill Drafter Leaving Job To Become Nun

LANSING, Mich. (CP) — The woman responsible for writing the laws of Michigan for almost a quarter of a century said Wednesday she is quitting to become a nun.

Mrs. Francis F. Royce, 55, chief bill drafter for the state legislature, says she will enter a Roman Catholic convent near Cincinnati, Ohio, early next year "to serve a higher law."

Mrs. Royce, a widow for the last nine years, who has drafted 25,000 state bills, hopes to take final vows in two years, then dedicate herself to the order's nursing and teaching work.

WONDERFUL WOOLLENS

By VERA WINSTON

The wool dress is getting better looking each season, graduating as it has from the utility class to the dressy side of things. For smart daytime wear, for a matinee or a tea, here is a delightful dress in dark brown or black menton, fine woollen. The neckline charts a nice course between high and low and has a pretty little pointed collar in front. There is a double row of self buttons below the waist line which the skirt is draped to fall in graceful side back-fullness.

think. Is mention only the time-of-arriving at an afternoon party; for example, "Tea at 4 o'clock"; also, for a cocktail party, "Cock-tails at 6 o'clock"; for a shower-tea, "Shower at 3 o'clock."

INVITATION-NOTE TO ANNIVERSARY DINNER

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are going to give a dinner for about forty guests, to celebrate our Twenty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary. Is it proper for me to have printed invitations, or may I get fancy notepaper and write personal notes of invitation? I would like the guests to reply as to whether or not they are coming so that I can make definite reservations. How may I word the invitations so that effect? — R.Y.

You may properly have engrav- (but not printed) invitations if you wish . . . but these would be rather expensive for that number of guests, and would definitely suggest that the dinner is to be a formal occasion. Or you may, if you wish, write the invitations on the large, semi-engraved cards you may buy by the box, filling in the lines with the party - information, and, if you wish, in the space above the name-line, write the occasion-revealing dates: 1930-1955. On these, in the lower left corner, write:

R.s.v.p. (or Please reply to) (your address)

More personal and intimate, of course, and entirely correct, would be notes of invitation:

Dear Linda:

Bob and I have a Twenty-fifth wedding Anniversary coming soon, and of course we can't celebrate it without having you and Bill with us. On Saturday, the 17th of December, we're giving a dinner in the Rose Room of the Park Hotel, at 7 o'clock and please make us happy at once by telling us you two dear friends will be with us on "our" occasion.

Dearest love to you both, from both of us, and high anticipations of greeting you on the 17th.

Affectionately,

Rosanne

(Don't use "fancy" note-paper undignified for such an important occasion. Use double-sheet note-paper, white, no decorations, and of very good quality.)

TODAY'S TREND FOR AFTER-NOON PARTY INVITATIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm newly-married, we've just moved into our new house, I have new 'informals' engraved with our new address, and and I'd like to use them first to invite (several at a time) my girl friends, some married and some not, to tea in my new home. I'm wondering—should I, for this very small tea-party, mention two hours, 4-to-6, say, or only one hour, the "tea-hour" of 4 o'clock? — Thes S.

I suggest that, for this kind of tea-party, you invite the guests to arrive at a definite hour, 4 o'clock, as you suggest. The shortest form, to be written on an inside page of your informals:

Thursday, November 10th

Tea at 4 o'clock

Or: "Dear Anne . . . Please do come in for a cup of tea, on Thursday, November 10th, at 4 o'clock. Small reunion of several of our mutual friends . . . catching up on the news!"

It's a matter of fact, there is a trend today . . . a wise trend, I

You Can WIN $2000 This Week

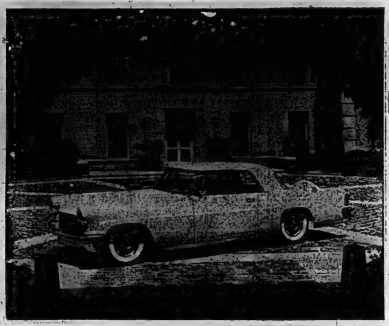
Here's How to Win!

Get Free Check List at any Dominion Store.

Find the "Phantom Famous Brand" listed on the check sheet but not illustrated in this advertisement. Next, if your telephone rings between 8 and 9 o'clock next Saturday evening, DO NOT ANSWER HELLO or you will be automatically disqualified from an opportunity to win $2,000.

Instead of answering HELLO, say "DOMINION STORES" and then state the name of this week's "Phantom Famous Brand". If you do, and it is the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT caller, you will win the Grand Prize of $1,000.

$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your home at the time a box top or label from this week's "Phantom Famous Brand" for a reasonable facsimile? PLUS a Dominion Store cash register slip dated this week and totalling $3.00 or more, you will qualify for a bonus prize of $1,000.



$100 CONSOLATION PRIZES! If the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT calls your telephone number and you make the mistake of answering HELLO, but can still name this week's "Phantom Famous Brand", you will qualify for a consolation prize of $100.

GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON! If this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize.

Employees and agents of Dominion Stores Limited and their families are not eligible for this contest.

Mrs. Robert Jones, 19 Johnston Street, Port Colborne, answered her phone Saturday night with the words, "Dominion Stores — Famous Brands" FORTUNE HUNT, and won $1,000 in the DOMINION FORTUNE HUNT. Unfortunately, Mrs. Jones had been here if she had been able to produce a can of the Phantom Brand or a label from a can, and a $3.00 sales slip from a Dominion store.

A modern version of one of North America's most admired cars comes to the Canadian automotive scene on Friday, October 21, when the new Continental Mark II will be introduced in Mercury-Lincoln-Meteor showrooms in Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg, Calgary, Edmonton and Vancouver. The new car will be shown in other Canadian cities later.

Styled with a functional and enduring design described as "modern formal," the Continental is built to the most rigid engineering and manufacturing standards in the automotive industry, according to Rhys M. Sale, president, Ford Motor Company of Canada, Limited.

Retained in modern form are several of the most distinguishing features of the earlier car, including a long hood, compact passenger department, a distinctive roof, short rear deck and unique tire tire mount. The tire rests inside the luggage compartment beneath a molding stamped into the rear deck lid.

Believed to be the lowest of American production cars with both a front and a rear seat, the Continental Mark II is only 4 feet 3 inches high. This height has been achieved, without sacrificing headroom, by means of a modified ladder-type frame developed by Continental Division engineers. Tests indicate that this design, characterized by tubular construction of crossmembers, affords exceptional torsional rigidity, which enhances the car's smooth ride.

The Continental Mark II is a two-door "hardtop," available in 14 subdued exterior colors and five two-tone combinations. The only optional feature is air conditioning. Among standard features are the automatic transmission, power brakes and power steering, and power-operated vent, side and rear-quarter windows. Controls for the front seat and all windows are set into the arm rest at the left of the driver, while individual window controls are convenient to each passenger.

The horsepower of the Continental Mark II engine ranks with the highest in the industry and is more than adequate for top performance. Such features as cast aluminum rocker arm covers and chrome fittings give the new overhead valve V-8 engine an appearance all its own. Each engine is tested as a unit on a dynamometer, then is tested a second time on the dynamometer with its torque converter transmission. All transmissions also are vehicle-tested. Following assembly, all components of the Continental Mark II are given a rigid check on a test track.

The Continental Mark II exclusively is built in a plant especially designed for low-volume, high quality production. Only a limited number of Continental Mark II cars will be available in Canada, where they will be sold through Mercury-Lincoln-Meteor dealers.

BANCROFT — Bancroft Lions 10th. annual charter night was celebrated on Monday evening at White Pine Lodge, on Paudash Lake, scene of the original founding of the club. More than 140 members, wives and guests were in attendance.

Guest speaker Ian McNab, of General Motors public relations department, was introduced by Reg Wiggins

Mr. McNab, speaking on "Automotive trends", explained to his listeners how the modern car was, more and more, the product of scientific and technological research. Higher compression ratios, lighter engines using aluminum construction, and high efficiency gasoline were among the trends mentioned by the speaker, in the automobile of the future.

He also told how other forms of power might eventually compete with the conventional car engine. The gas turbine, diesel power, and atomic power, and even solar power were being studied in relation to automobile needs.

Mr. McNab showed, by two experiments, how solar power could be transformed into electrical energy. Materials like plastics, magnesium, synthetic rubber, and fibreglass were being studied constantly and would be put to a variety of uses in the car of the future.

Secretary, Reg Wallis, thanked the speaker on behalf of the club.

The Rev. Owen E. Johnston officiated as M. C. during the dinner session, opened by introductory remarks by president Clarence Marston.

Guests from Peterborough, Lakefield, Whitney, Madawaska Valley, Maynooth, and Port Carling clubs, were welcomed by Art Hewitt.

TEN YEAR AWARDS

Twelve—Lions were presented with 10 year awards by District Governor Whitney, himself a charter member of the club. They were Jim Brown; Jack Brown; charter president, Jack Potts; R. Harvey; Cec McAlpine; R. C. Marston; Ellis Mather; W. A. Morrison; George Thomson; George Wiggins; Reg Wiggins, and Art Tompsett who was also presented the immediate past president's pin by Deputy Governor, Russ Van Meter.

Fun and songs, inspired by acting Lion tamers, Jack Hattin, and Jim Brown, kept the diners in genial mood, and a "millionaires night" whereas fabulous sums, in artifical money, could be lost and won, provided after dinner amusement.

Sunday School Lesson:

Lost Boy Found in Church

By ROY L. SMITH

It does not take much imagination to picture the headlines a modern newspaper would make out of the incident of this week's Sunday School lesson. For three days the parents of a young lad from Nazareth have been hunting for him frantically. They have searched through all the inns, they have appealed to the police, and the few Canadian friends they had in the city have been notified. A search plane have been turned up and then turned down. And at last the youngster is found — of all places — in a church, listening to a lot of learned professors discussing fine points in theology. What a story it would make! A really good reporter could have made the first page with it, and a three column cut would have sold an extra 50,000 copies of the paper that evening.

AS WAS THEIR CUSTOM

That Nazareth couple were no chance church goers who went when the fancy happened to move them, when there was no company to be entertained, when they liked the preacher, or when there was no trip to be made to the country. Instead, they were habitual attendants who were in their places rain or shine. They made a business of their religion, and it dominated their every interest and attitude. Perhaps that is one of the reasons so remarkable a son came out of that home.

TOO MUCH FOR GRANTED

In these days when the problem of juvenile delinquency looms up on the horizon as one of America's most serious dilemmas, it would be a wise plan if this Scripture could be made required reading in every home in which there is a growing boy or girl. That simple statement, "supposing him to be in the company," sounds so very modern. Almost every week we read in our morning paper the tragic cry of some father or mother, "I can't understand it. He has always been such a good boy. I didn't know he was running with any such crowd!"

The average American parent means well. Relatively few are callously careless. In fact, they are so rare that when one of them comes to light it makes the headlines. But in all too many homes the parents live in one world and the children live in another, and the two never touch except at meal time. We suppose too much and know too little!

The artists are responsible for much misunderstanding of this simple story out of the life of Jesus. Hoffman has given us a glorious bit of art, in his painting of "Christ Among the Doctors," and as a picture it is extremely interesting. But as fact, it is completely mistaken.

The 12-year-old in the Jerusalem Temple was listening and asking questions. He was not instructing them.

There is a lesson of profound significance in that single sentence, if our youth are wise enough to understand. One of the greatest - achievements any youngster can boast is that he has learned how to listen.

Listening is one of the finest of the fine arts. It begins with a fine choice of that one to whom we will listen. There was the father, for example, who said that at the age of six his boy knew all the questions, and at 16 he knew all the answers. Probably at 26 his education began as he unlearned some of the things of which he was so sure ten years earlier.

It was characteristic of Jesus that He listened to the teachers — to men who had earned the right to be heard. He enjoyed the companionship of other lads in Nazareth, but He listened to those who could speak with authority.

Here's a lesson that any earnest lad will seek to learn, unless he is a little too smart.

Ontario and Federal Govts. Reach Agreement in Principle On Pipeline, to Confer Again

OTTAWA (CP) — Further talks are expected shortly on the plan of the federal and Ontario governments to join forces in building the difficult northern Ontario link of the all-Canadian natural gas pipeline from Alberta.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and Premier Frost met privately Thursday and agreed on the principle of the plan, with a couple of reservations. Mr. Frost said there will be further discussions "almost immediately."

The proposal involves establishment of a $120,000,000 crown company to build 511 miles of the line through the rugged and sparsely populated area north of northern Ontario east of the Manitoba border. The rest of the $350,000,000 line is in the hands of the Canada Pipe Lines Ltd.

The two government leaders, speaking in separate interviews following the federal-provincial conference, spelled out the conditions which must be met before they go ahead.

NO SUBSIDY

Mr. St. Laurent said that if Trans-Canada can build the other parts of the 2,200-mile line, and the northern Ontario link is necessary for success of the project, the two governments will provide that section.

The government venture would be under conditions "designed to provide no subsidy."

Mr. Frost referred to the forthcoming application by Trans-Canada to the United States Federal Power Commission for approval of its plan to import part of the gas to the U.S. mid-west across the Manitoba border. The U.S. side, the Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., is essential to the economics of the line.

Mr. Frost said the project "is, to...our regret in the widest conditions" of the FPC in Washington.

He added that an all-Canadian line is "an absolute necessity."

Both Mr. St. Laurent and Mr. Frost said no firm agreement has been signed between them.

The tentative agreement on the northern Ontario section is expected to strengthen the Trans-Canada Company in lining up financial support for the project's difficulty in the past. Last month the board of transport commissioners gave it a time extension until next April 30 to show proof of financial ability to carry through the line.

Trade Minister Howe, who attended Tuesday's meeting, had indicated earlier he felt confident Trans-Canada could finance the rest of the line if the northern Ontario section were taken care of.

Attending Thursday's meeting, which preceded the morning session of the fiscal conference, were the two government leaders, Mr. Howe, Finance Minister Harris and Ontario Provincial Treasurer Porter.

Expectant Mother Given Six Months

TORONTO (CP)—An expectant mother, 22 - year - old Barbara Schultz of London, Ont., was sentenced Thursday to six months in reformatory on 30 charges of cashing stolen cheques and nine charges of having a stolen cheques in her possession. The terms will be concurrent.

Total value of the cheques was $1,814. Evidence was that they had been stolen from city mail boxes.

The girl told the court she had cashed the stolen cheques as she could have her baby in a hospital.

300 Production Workers Stage Wildcat Strike

WHITBY (CP)—Three hundred production workers staged a wildcat strike at the Dunlop Canada Ltd., plants here were told by the company Thursday not to report for work today.

Ralph Mould, works manager, in a letter to the workers said they will be suspended for one day as disciplinary measure for not reporting for work Thursday.

The strike began Wednesday afternoon after the company posted a letter enforcing a regulation that smoking would be permitted only during rest periods.

Officials of Local 494 of the United Rubber Workers Union (CIO-CCL) appealed Thursday to the workers to return to work George Brooks, president of Local 494, spoke to about 200 of them at an impromptu meeting near the plants. He said contract negotiations between the company and the union, started last July, will be continued.

But the workers refuse to go into the plants. The company advised them to report for work next Tuesday. Eastern Sunday is a holiday.

The company started operations at its new tire and pillowtoom plants last March. The union is certified as bargaining agent in these.

RAILWAY SHOWS PROFIT

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The London and Port Stanley Railway, Canada's only municipally owned line, lost $6,000 a month on its passenger service during the first eight months of this year, but headed into September with an operating profit of $14,511, Passenger business produced $66,000, a decrease of $11,221 over the same period last year. After deduction of operating costs, the business showed a $48,000 loss—$1,000 more than 1954. Freight revenue, however, brought in $242,251—$15,903 more than for the same period in 1954. Net profit on freight was $62,000. "

Premiers Agree On New Bridge Over Ottawa R.

OTTAWA (CP) — Premiers Duplessis of Quebec and Frost of Ontario have agreed to send their highways ministers here to discuss plans for a new bridge over the Ottawa river from the site of the capital and Hull, Que.

The agreement, it was reported Thursday, was reached at a meeting Wednesday of the premiers, federal Works Minister Winters and Mayors Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa and Thomas Monette of Hull. The neighboring cities now are served by three bridges, but during rush hours they are often congested.

Hog Producer Challenges Govt. On Legislation

WINGHAM (CP)—A Schringville hog-producer has challenged the Ontario government to test the legality of some of its new farm marketing legislation.

Theodore Parker marketed his hogs direct to a packing plant in Kitchener and received payment direct from the firm.

Parker, an opponent of the Ontario hog producers marketing board, announced his action at a meeting of more than 700 area hog producers here Wednesday night.

Under the new marketing board plan the producer gets payment for hogs to the board which deducts its commission and forwards the balance to the producer.

Parker said during the meeting: "Here is the chance, here is the statement—you have the law. Use it."

Charles McInnis of Iroquois, president of the Ontario Hog Producers Association, said it would be up to the courts to decide the legality of the marketing board legislation.

FINDS PROBLEM

All Back Free Enterprise But Differ on Its Meaning

By FORBES RHODE
Canadian Press Business Editor

WINNIPEG (CP) — The great strength of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce is that people are free to get up and say what they think, J. G. Crean of Toronto, the chamber's new president, said in summing up the organization's annual meeting which ended Friday.

Mr. Crean was talking to newspaper men about the four-day gathering which had had a fair measure of traditional quality as coast-to-coast points of view found expression.

He was backing up the chamber's view that it is a "grass-roots" organization by the nature of its makeup; namely, some 700 local chambers and boards of trade right across Canada, each of which, big or small, has one vote.

By word and action this week the chamber reiterated its creed of freedom of enterprise, but developed considerable argument about what was meant.

A new declaration on the subject said:

"Freedom of enterprise is not a negative concept available mainly for the defence of vested economic interests. It is a positive, dynamic faith which imposes on the individual the duty to be enterprising and, in so doing, to maintain a high standard of ethics in the community and to contribute to the common welfare."

The declaration also said:

"The chamber is opposed to all state interference and controls beyond those clearly necessary to protect some accurately defined public interest."

Virtually everyone seemed to agree on that, too, but differed somewhat on what it meant.

The majority mood of the meeting, however, seemed to be to avoid approval of anything which might be interpreted as government participation in fields of private business.

The chamber's licensed executive, in an annual interview with newspaper men, went almost all out in predicting a continuance of Canadian prosperity — with some adjustments here and there.

"Sales this Christmas will break all records."

For the most part, too, speakers at meeting discussions were optimistic.

Dr. J. R. Petrie, Montreal economist, described Canada as "engulfed in a solid outburst of new development that is breaking all previous records."

Canada's trade varied according to whether the subject was export or basic materials or manufactured products.

Some speakers inclined to the view that Canada is essentially an exporter of basic materials, that she should recognize this and be happy that she is doing so well.

R. M. Fowler of Montreal said, "The only wise and beneficial policy for Canada is to continue to follow, and press for, and fight for freer world trade on a multi-lateral basis. I think the trading policies we have tried to follow since the war are the right trading policies for Canada."

Justice Grants Injunction Against Station

TORONTO (CP)—A temporary injunction was granted Thursday restraining members of Ottawa radio station CKOY from picketing and "interfering with operations" at station CKEY here.

The injunction lasts until Oct. 12 when a motion to continue it will be heard. It was granted by Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven of the Ontario Supreme Court.

Twenty-five announcers, technicians and office employees of CKOY struck Aug. 26. They are members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians (CIO-CCL).

Union officials charged CKEY owner Jack Kent Cooke of Toronto sent some of his personnel to operate CKOY. The station went off the air for only 15 minutes on the day the walkout began.

The union picketed CKEY several days later.

An affidavit submitted by CKEY program director Donald Insley said the picketing was intended to induce CKEY advertising customers to withdraw their patronage.

A letter from Gerry Gray of Sullivan, international representative of NABET, sent to a Toronto television and appliance firm was also submitted as evidence.

It said the union would picket the firm's store unless it refrained from advertising on CKEY.

Radar Post Helps Save Sabre Jet From Crashing

ULM, Germany (AP)—A U.S. radar post helped save a Canadian Sabre jet pilot from a fatal, possible crash, the U.S. air force reported Thursday.

Flt. Lt. F. N. MacDonald of Fort William called the American radar post to guide him home to his base after a flight over Lechfeld. He made a successful emergency landing and have taken that condition into account in providing some sort of equalization payment to the poorer provinces.

The fact that a province has to earn not only its own needs, but provide surpluses pays nine-others—don't think that doesn't bring problems in its train."

Mr. Frost referred to the problems of "great expansion in Ontario itself had brought problems of pupils, classrooms, homes, roads, schools and hospitals—Mr. Frost said. Since the last conference in 1945 the province's population has grown by 700,000 people.

"There has been a very definite consideration of that point of view."

He suggested there is to be distribution of taxes from Ontario to other provinces, there must be a distribution of its problems.

Frost Believes Provincial, Federal Govts. Will Find Way

OTTAWA (CP) — Premier Frost of Ontario Thursday expressed confidence that the federal and provincial governments will reach a solution in their problem of finding a tax arrangement.

"In my estimation very substantial progress has been made in dealing with the principles of the federal tax plan put before us," Mr. Frost said in an interview.

"We'll find a solution to the problems of this conference."

Because the federal-provincial fiscal conference has met for four days and come to no decisions did not mean there had been no progress.

Mr. Frost referred to the new federal tax proposal, which involves the provinces levying a percentage of the federal personal and corporation income tax and succession duty. The federal government, continuing to act as the single collection agency, would refund the taxes accordingly. There also would be equalization payments to the less well-to-do provinces.

The federal plan proposed provincial levies of 10 per cent of personal income taxes, 5½ per cent of corporation income and half of the succession duty on estates.

30 Draftsmen Apply For U.S. Visas

TORONTO (CP)—Avro Aircraft Limited at suburban Malton said Thursday about 30 of its technicians and draftsmen have left United States visas during the last two weeks.

"They are being offered fantastic money by American aircraft companies who are desperate for people," an official said.

U.S. firms "talent scouts" offered free homes and transportation and guaranteed overtime to bring wages up to twice Avro rates, he added.

Will Open School For Violators Of Traffic Rules

HAMILTON (CP)—A school for traffic violators will be launched here Monday when the police department within a few months with lookey-playing strictly forbidden.

The "students"—chronic speeders, accident-prone motorists and the like—will be ordered by the justice of the peace to attend classes.

Sergeant Ralph Gulliver, head of the Hamilton police traffic safety division, said Thursday the driving classes, similar to the style in Kitchener, should start before Christmas.

Switch Emphasis to Trade As Pearson Jokes With Reds In Atmosphere of Goodwill

MOSCOW (CP) — The emphasis switched to trade today in the visit of Canada's External Affairs Minister Pearson with Soviet leaders, with the atmosphere of goodwill continuing to prevail.

The Canadian minister arrived in Moscow Wednesday, and since then has had talks with Foreign Minister Molotov and other officials and has been involved in a the second round of social activities with the Russians.

One of the members of the Canadian party expected to take part in today's discussions was Michael Sharpe of the trade and commerce department.

Russia's first deputy premier brought up the trade question at a reception Thursday night, where the second-ranking soviet officials laughed and joked with the Canadian guests.

ALUMINUM CURTAIN

Lazar Kaganovich asked Pearson if he had seen the Iron Curtain on his flight to Moscow, and Pearson replied, "We flew over it at 18,000 feet."

"We are replacing it with an aluminum curtain that can be raised easily," the Russian commented.

"Then buy the aluminum from Canada," Pearson suggested.

"We would like to buy aluminum, copper, nickel and many things from Canada," Kaganovich replied.

Pearson remarked to guests at the reception that at a luncheon with Molotov he had had the "coexistence cocktail"—50 per cent vodka and 50 per cent ice water.

"And a very strong, and there was little evidence of peaceful coexistence."

To that Georgi Malenkov, the former premier who still appears to be in favour in Moscow — commented: "Coexistence is permanent, so it must be taken in large doses."

Pearson's program for today also included a luncheon at the agriculture exhibition here, where he was to present a bale of Canadian wheat. A farm visit was laid on for the afternoon and a football game for the evening.

He leaves at midnight for Leningrad returns to Moscow by air Sunday afternoon. After a Tuesday evening reception he will fly to other cities on his way to the Colombo plan conference in Singapore.

NAMED CHAIRMAN

HAMILTON (CP) — Charles P. Pell of Toronto, president of Dominion Life Insurance Co., has been appointed chairman of the board of governors of McMaster university. He succeeds Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, formerly chairman, who stepped down after a decade of the university.

Ont. Polio Cases Much Lower Than Last Year

TORONTO (CP)—The number of cases of poliomyelitis in Ontario this year was lower than last, health department officials say, but the decrease is not necessarily due to the Salk polio vaccine program.

The officials said the number of cases may be high one year and low the next.

There were 2,109 cases in Ontario in 1953 and only 250 in 1954. So far this year, 132 cases have been reported.

Dr. D. S. Puffer, the province's assistant chief medical health officer, says it is too early to evaluate the effectiveness of polio vaccines given about 210,000 children in the first two elementary school grades last spring.

The department is studying the question but it will be months before the study is completed.

At present, the department reports that the vaccination program for about 15,000 children in the elementary school grades in unorganized areas of northern Ontario. An official said the department hopes to give the children the first two doses of vaccine before the winter.

ARRANGE FINAL DOSE

As early as it can be arranged and a month or more after the last vaccine, children who have received the first two doses will receive their third dose and the remaining 500,000 elementary pupils in the province will receive the first two.

An official said it is not known how much vaccine will be available this year. It is not imported and the only Canadian source now is the Connaught Laboratories here.

Department figures show that there were four polio deaths in the province up to the end of September this year. In 1954 there were five deaths during the corresponding period and a total of 27 deaths during the year.

In 1953, there were 67 deaths up to the end of September and the year's total was 108.

In the last 25 years, 1952 was the worst year for polio deaths in 2,544 cases and 109 deaths were reported.

GODFREY INVITED

TORONTO (CP) — The Royal Agricultural Winter Fair has invited Arthur Godfrey, radio and television celebrity, to take part in this year's royal horse show which opens Nov. 11. Mr. Godfrey breeds Arabian horses.

China Not Keeping Promise To Set 19 Americans Free

By WARREN ROGERS
WASHINGTON (AP) — Diplomatic sources say Red China has shown no sign so far of keeping its promise of four weeks ago to tell 19 imprisoned Americans that they are free to leave China.

Not only have the prisoners not been served the informants say, but the Red Chinese have denied them contact with the British official designated to look after them.

This, it is learned, is the chief snag in the highly secret negotiations at Geneva between United States Ambassador U. Alexis Johnson and Red China's ambassador Wang Ping-nan toward easing far tension.

Wang agreed Sept. 10 after six weeks of negotiations talks that Americans in China had a right to leave "expeditiously." He promised that Red China would "give wide publicity" to this agreement and would permit Con O'Neill, the British charge d'affaires at Peiping, to do likewise.

But the Americans who had been jailed have since left Red China. So, too, have four of the dozen Americans who had been refused exit permits. The other eight of these presumably know they are free to leave.

To date, however, O'Neill is reported to have been frustrated by Peiping each time he has tried to get in touch with the other Americans. He is jail one virtually a prisoner.

Red China's press and radio have published the Sept. 10 agreement but no evidence has been forthcoming that the news has trickled into the jails where it counts, or that it has brought the desired result of freedom.

Washington has been at pains to carry out the American side of the publicity bargain. Johnson agreed Sept. 10 that any Chinese in the U.S. who wanted to return home were free to go. The Indian embassy was named as publicity overseer — the same task assigned O'Neill at Peiping.

Indian officials say they are satisfied that U.S. has lived up to its promise.

Parks Worker Shot Day After Breaking Up Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — A high school student was charged with homicide Thursday in the playground slaying of a park department employee. Three other youths have been arrested in the case.

Frank Gargiulo, 30, was shot down Wednesday in full view of hundreds of mothers and children in a playground section reserved for small youngsters.

Police arrested Hiram Rose, 17, as the alleged trigger man in the slaying. Also seized were David Vargas and John Barnett, both 17-year-old high school students, and a 16-year-old youth whose name was not disclosed.

Police said Gargiulo, a part-time worker for the parks department, broke up a fight Wednesday afternoon between Barnett and 16-year-old Michael Flynn. Afterwards, Barnett went to Varga's home and told him of the fight. Vargas, pocketing a 38-calibre revolver, rounded up Rose and the 15-year-old, and the youngsters went to the playground, where Gargiulo was shot.

Royal Winter Fair Veterinarian Is Dismissed

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) —Dr. George Cairns, official veterinarian at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair for the last 27 years, said Wednesday night he has been dismissed from the post.

Dr. Cairns said he received a letter from general manager C.S. McKee of the fair, "who is also a member of the Ontario racing commission, notifying me the Royal felt it would have to make a change."

Dr. Cairns said he had been told by a high-ranking fair official that it was "felt my presence might jeopardize" a $3,000,000 grant from the Ontario government for improvement to the coliseum at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds (where the fair is held).

Dr. Cairns added that the official said the move came because "of my criticism of Premier Frost for his failure to order an investigation into well-founded charges of cruelty to race horses on Ontario tracks."

Mr. McKee had no comment on Dr. Cairns' charges.

"The executive committee decided about a week ago to change veterinarians," Mr. McKee said.

Swing Reactor To be Designed By Canadair

MONTREAL (CP)—The awarding of a contract to Canadair, Ltd., for designing a swing reactor for Atomic Energy of Canada, Ltd., marks the big Montreal concern's entry into the field of nuclear industry.

Since its organization 13 years ago Canadair has concentrated on production of aircraft and development of guided missiles.

With the announcement from Chalk River Canadair president J. Geoffrey Notman confirmed that the company intends to widen its scope through entering the atomic energy field.

Americans Believe Russians Woo Pearson by Trade Talk To Split Canada from U.S.

Editor's Note: The following column represents an American view of Canadian-Russian relations in connection with External Affairs Minister Pearson's current visit to Moscow.

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN

Associated Press News Analyst

A torrent of Soviet advice greeted Canada's external affairs minister, L. B. Pearson, on his arrival Wednesday in Moscow. The solicitous words of Pravda and Izvestia brought into bold relief the aims of the many-pronged Soviet diplomatic offensive.

Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, advised Pearson that Canada should break out of her "deficit trade" with the United States and start taking advantage of the markets offered by the U.S.S.R., Red China and the rest of the Communist bloc.

Pravda told the visitor Canada is really a neighbor of the Soviet Union and should start thinking about cutting down arms expenses and ending the Cold War against Moscow.

The Moscow press casually admitted that the Kremlin regards the arrival of Pearson at this moment as most fortunate in view of the "new marked improvement" in East-West relations. It then told Canada that she could sell surplus wheat to Communist countries and reminded her that she has an unfavorable trade balance with the United States.

"SMILE OFFENSIVE"

The Canadian visitor is not the first to undergo this sort of treatment in Moscow since the smile offensive began. The Communists have decided it is high time for them to take advantage of the basic weaknesses of capitalism on the economic front to win more victories on the political front.

Canadians have been treated to a taste of what the New Look might amount to. The Canadian government this summer executed a couple of deals with European Communist countries to take shipments of Canada's surplus butter and wheat. Canadian business has been given to understand that this was only the beginning—that an almost limitless market awaits them.

But now, with the visit of the external affairs minister, the implication is that it is all up to the Canadian government and the course of its future policy. Trade requires restoration of normal relations with the Communist bloc—including Red China—and normal relations require an end to the Cold War. In order to end the Cold War, Canada is given to understand, she must break away from the lead of the United States.

"DRIVE A WEDGE"

The Russians apparently are thinking it would not take too much of a push to drive a wedge between Ottawa and Washington. Prime Minister St. Laurent and his Liberal party indicate an open mind, for example, on the matter of diplomatic recognition for Red China. The leaders of the Canadian government have hinted at criticism of Washington's China policy and have indicated they would like to see the matter of Formosa settled by peaceful diplomacy.

If the Soviet Union sees signs of irritation between the United States and its closest ally, it obviously is going to strike while the iron is hot.

Deficit May Be Much Lower Than Expected

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has become doubtful of whether it will have a deficit of $160,000,000 this year.

"Predictions on the deficit are like those on the world series," Prime Minister St. Laurent said Wednesday. "You can't tell the score until the last inning."

The forecast of $160,000,000 was made by Finance Minister Harris in his April 5 budget. There are some indications now that with federal revenues rising under the impetus of an expanding economy, the deficit may turn out to be much lower than the forecast.

L. Ontario Water Level Above Average

OTTAWA (CP) — Water levels of the Great Lakes in September as reported today by the Canadian hydrographic service:

Lake Superior at Port Arthur—602.33 feet above mean sea level —3½ inches lower than average.

Melrose

MELROSE — Mr. and Mrs. L. Weese and family, also Mr. and Mrs. Clare Weese and girls, paid a surprise visit to the home of Mrs. John Weese, Foxboro, on the evening of the 24th September, the occasion being the birthday of Mrs. J. Weese.

Sisters of the Weese boys, with their husbands and families, joined the party and all enjoyed a pleasant time together.

Messrs. Jer. Embury and Carl McMechan, lately returned from a trip to the prairies. Alec has since gone to Toronto to work.

Sincere sympathy is extended to the bereaved family and relatives of the late George Macfarline, whose death occurred on Thursday morning. Funeral services were held in Melrose United Church and Melrose Cemetery on Saturday afternoon, October 1st.

Friends from a distance in attendance at the obsequies were:—Mr. and Mrs. Newton, Peterborough, William Milligan, of Toronto and Mr. and Mrs. Sam McMechan, Oshawa.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kimmett, Roblin, were recent guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken McMechan.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Badgley had as Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McLaren.

Ideal weather prevailed for the auction sale held on Mr. Harry Davis' on Thursday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. David Mack are leaving soon to reside in Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Jack McLaren and boys will occupy the Davis farm.

Mrs. George Badgley spent Sunday with Misses Agnes and Mary McLaren.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blatherwick were guests at the golden anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. George, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth McMechan and children spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Murray, Merrritton.

The community was shocked by the serious accidents that took the lives of Mr. Joe Haight and Mr. John Fitzgerald Jr., grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Fitzgerald. Sincere sympathy is extended to the relatives in their sudden bereavement.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Farrell, who were married in St. Michael's Church, Belleville, on Saturday morning. Friends were present from Rochester for the wedding. Mrs. John Farrell, who had spent the past ten days visiting her sons there, returned home with them for the event.

ASTONISHING PERFORMANCE!

Yes . . . but that's only half the story

Great Features back up Chevrolet Performance: Anti-Dive Braking • Ball-Race Steering • Outrigger Rear Springs • Body by Fisher • 12-Volt Electrical System • Nine Engine-Drive Choices in all models • and, finally, the great scientific, technical and engineering resources of General Motors.

A lightning-quick power punch that makes your driving safer! That's one of the reasons for Chevrolet's winning stock car record—but it's not the only one. Not by a long shot!

Stock car racing has a new winner this year. It's the 1955 motoramic Chevrolet, which, in race after race, ran off with all the honors. Chevrolet not only beat all the cars in its own price class, but won out over the high-priced cars as well, time after time.

And the main reason for Chevrolet's success is the tremendous new Turbo-Fire V8, the most modern V8 on the road today.

But prize-winning performance takes more than just speed and acceleration. It takes safety and dependability, road-hugging stability and handling ease. Chevrolet's got them all—and results on the stock car tracks prove it!

What does all this mean to you, as an average motorist? It means that you can enjoy the same race-proved performance in your Chevrolet. Except in your case, it's a performance that's designed for safety—for safer passing, quicker stopping, greater stability, surer control and more of everything that makes a car truly safe. Try them all today—take a demonstration drive in a Chevrolet.

Dodgers Get $9,768.21 Melon Cut/ Yankees Draw Slender $5,598.58

NEW YORK (AP)—Each of the 20 world champion Brooklyn Dodgers voted a full share of the world series money receives $9,768.21 and each of the 34 of the losing New York Yankees gets $5,598.58, figures released Thursday by commissioner Ford C. Frick's office revealed.

The 1955 series brought a record total income of $3,237,139.59, a drop from the record players' shares of last year being due to the difference in capacity of Ebbets Field and the Polo Grounds. Last year a full share for a winning player was $11,147.90.

In addition to the full shares, the Dodgers voted three half shares, and cash awards to seven individuals totalling $2,200. The Yankees voted partial shares to four, and cash awards to eight others totalling $5,050.

TV SHOW PAYMENT

The total players' share of the receipts of the first four games—the only ones in which they participate financially, was $654,853.59—with $83,000 from the pre-game television show bringing the total to $737,853.59. This was split 60-40 between the winning and losing teams.

The commissioner's office, which gets 13 per cent of the net from each game, received $350,677.30, and the clubs and league offices were enriched by $1,323,034.45, representing 25 per cent of the receipts of the first four games and 50 per cent of the take for the remaining three.

The players' pool was distributed as follows:

Participating clubs (79 per cent): Brooklyn, $309,898.31; New York, $206,599.00.

Second-place clubs (15 per cent): Milwaukee and Cleveland, $55,320.62 each.

Third place clubs (10 per cent): New York Giants and Chicago White Sox, $36,892.68 each.

Fourth-place clubs (5 per cent): Philadelphia and Boston, $18,446.34 each.

Other clubs, aside from the Dodgers and Yankees, sharing in the pool split their money thus: Milwaukee, 22 2-3 shares of $24.65 each; Cleveland 34⅓ shares of $1,586.73 each; New York Giants 33 shares of $1,081.60 each; Chicago and White Sox, 37 shares of $982.23 each; Philadelphia Phillies, 33 shares of $258.99 each; Boston Red Sox, 39 shares of $472.86 each; Cleveland, the Giants and the White Sox also voted cash awards of varying amounts.

Johnny Podres Has New Car No Girl Friend

WITHERBEE, N. Y. (AP)—Johnny Podres came home Thursday night to this little Adirondack mountain community where he learned to play baseball.

The 23-year-old pitcher who shut out the Yankees last Tuesday and won Brooklyn Dodgers their first world championship drove a new automobile up from New York city. His father, Joseph, followed in the old car.

Mrs. Podres hugged her son and cried a little while his three brothers and his sister crowded around. Then neighbors began arriving to congratulate Johnny.

Just one thing seemed to bother Johnny—a published report that he was "engaged" to pretty Naomi Baker of nearby Port Henry.

"I know her and I've taken her out a few times," Johnny said, "but I have no girl friend."

Royals Swamp Lumber Kings

PEMBROKE (CP) — Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League humbled Pembroke Lumber Kings of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association loop 9-2 in an exhibition game Thursday night.

Phil Goyette, Lulu Dennis and Kelly Burnette each scored twice for Royals with Cecil Hoekstra, Leo Gravelle and Skippy Burchell each scoring once.

Ross Hudson and Charlie Marshall, both newcomers, scored for the Kings, Elmer Lach handled the Royal coaching chores.

'Bobo' to Fight Ray Robinson

CHICAGO (AP)—Champion Carl (Bobo) Olson will defend his middleweight title against former champion Sugar Ray Robinson at the Chicago Stadium Friday, Nov. 4.

Official confirmation of the long-rumored bout was made Thursday by the International Boxing Club.

The 15-round bout will be televised with an area of 150 miles around Chicago blacked out. It also will be broadcast.

Olson, since his knockout by champion Archie Moore in a try for the 175-pound crown last June 22, has had two bouts. He defeated Jimmy Martinez Aug. 13 and Joey Giambra Aug. 26.

Robinson has had seven starts, losing one, since he abdicated the middleweight title Dec. 16, 1952. In his third comeback start, Robinson was soundly whipped in 10 rounds by Tiger Jones at Chicago last Jan. 19.

Knox Signs With Dutchies

KITCHENER (CP)—Paul Knox Thursday ended rumors that he might sign a professional contract with Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

The right winger signed with Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen of the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league.

A native of Toronto and graduate of St. Michael's College, Knox played with University of Toronto Senior Blues last season. He showed up at the Leaf training camp last month and was offered a contract.

The 21-year-old, 165-pounder has transferred from Toronto Varsity to Waterloo College where he is studying law. He will accompany Dutchmen on their Northern Ontario Hockey Association tour this weekend.

Canadian Horse In International

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Canada has obtained representation in the Laurel International horse race Nov. 11 through the roundabout entry of Prefect by Alberta Ranches of Calgary.

The Canadian outfit of Max Bell, Frank McMahon and Wilder Nipley bought Prefect in England for the express purpose of having an entry in the fourth running of the International. He joins Traffic Judge of the U.S., Panasilipper of Ireland, and Darius of England as entries to date.

Prefect will be flown to the U.S. shortly before the race.

Prefect is five years old and won the Churchill Stakes at Ascot and the Sandown Park anniversary handicap this year. He was second three times and third twice in his only other races.

Alberta Ranches has been looking for a Canadian candidate for the International since it brought Indian Hemp over for the 1952 inaugural and he finished last.

"OLD MAN" CHALLENGES

ROTTERDAM (AP) — Holland's "grand old man of the ring," Bep Van Klaveren, will attempt to win the European welterweight title at the age of 48.

His manager, Theo Huizenaa, announced Wednesday night that European welterweight champion Idrissa Dione of France has accepted a $3,360 purse offer for a title bout at Rotterdam Nov. 28.

The bout is subject to approval by the European Boxing Federation.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

A GOOD SEASON

The Belleville and District Softball League, both major and minor divisions, can look backwards with pride on a highly successful season which reaches its climax over the Thanksgiving week-end.

While no championships have come to the city and district teams comprising the loop as yet, the majority of the clubs that advanced in the playdowns were eliminated after reaching the finals.

However they all may not be bridesmaids. Bob Temple's Bobcats have a splendid chance to bring the OASA intermediate "AAA" title home here on Saturday when they play the Toronto Packers at the CNRAA Park starting two o'clock. The Cats have a game to the good and a win will bring Marse Robert his first titular honors since he sponsored the Cats.

And in the event of a second-game setback the Cats have the advantage of home grounds since the third and deciding tilt will be played following the second affair.

Point Anne has a stanch on the intermediate industrial title, the first of its kind in OASA history when they battle the Waterloo Seagrams in Toronto Saturday in the third game of the championship series. The Ox Pointers dropped the first game 6-3 in a close game, but reared back to take the second 13-1 right in Waterloo's back yard.

Down in the moppet division Les Culhane's Booth's TV's meet the Toronto Willowdales in a North York park Saturday, with two games if necessary played here on Thanksgiving Day. The Willowdales are reported to be a strong club but Culhane's youngsters are no slouches either, so a good series should come out of it. First game 10.30 a.m. Monday.

The rest of the softball archives is a record of notable achievement throughout the seasonal pattern. The Orlons, rated the cream of the early season crop, turned up with the city championship and the Bill Ott trophy. They went down fighting in the OASA senior "B" playdowns bowing to the powerful Kingston Wearers and the Orlons came back to the city series and defeated Point Anne in three straight games to annex the title and trophy.

The gallant "Pointers" offimes injury-riddled and now with a championship glowing over the horizon, represented the hopes and wishes in the OASA intermediate "AAA" series down. They brushed Trenton aside in the first round but met their Nemesis after a dramatic series with the powerful Peterborough Seabees.

The bantam warriors, Elliott Regenis, also gave a splendid account of themselves before bowing to softball fate. The kids met and defeated strong Oshawa and Peterborough teams but met their ousting at the hands of a strong Toronto bevy of ballchasers. They, too, deserve all kinds of credit along with their sponsor and coach.

And lest we forget, Temple's Bobcats defeated Madoc for the league "AA" title and the Labatt trophy before bowing to the Orlons in the city league semi-finals.

Meantime the Cats are clawin' and ready to go in Saturday's till. Marse Bob Temple, still in the mumbling stage following the serious facial injuries received in last Saturday's game, has given the Vic Allen to the mound in an effort to cop the glory and title in one game. Vic came up with a three-hitter, a homer and two singles against Packers in their first till—and he is ready to repeat.

Doug Bone will likely get the catching stint with sponsor Temple on the sidelines in a rooting, praying role. Then there's the rest of the gang, with Ken Dunbury, Harry Wardhaugh, Dave Lockyer, Gord Donovan, Stan Tresgrave, Rose Dempsey on the first string line and Carl Wood, Jack Holmes, Junior Day, Skid Dracup, Ted Hurst, Al (Johnny Podres) Adams, and Jack Hunter ready to step into the fray if needed.

Best of luck, Bob, and may you bring home the bacon.

Spoil 16-Year Detroit Record With Surprising 3-2 Victory; Plante Registers 1st Shutout

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Leave it to Dick Irvin to spoil a good thing.

He walks into Chicago, takes hold of the dying Black Hawks and fires them up to such a point that they wreck in 60 minutes a record Detroit Red Wings held for 16 years.

Hawks opened their National Hockey League season Thursday night with a surprising 3-2 victory over the new-look Red Wings. It was the first time since 1938 the Wings were beaten in a home opener.

In the only other engagement Montreal Canadiens shut out Toronto Maple Leafs 2-0 before 13,540 Hab fans.

It was a nice takeoff for the Hawks and their new coach in the 1955-56 campaign. But they probably didn't go delirious over it.

GOOD START, POOR FINISH

After all, there are 69 games to go before the Stanley Cup playoffs. The Hawks downed Detroit in their first game at Olympia last season but ended the 70-game grind with only 13 wins. They didn't beat the Wings again that season.

Left winger Gus Mitchell broke up the game at 5:31 of the third period when he took a pass from defenceman Frank Martin and fired the puck past goaltender Glenn Hall for Detroit's only.

Left winger Harry Watson and centre Metro Prystai scored the other Hawk goals. Team captain Ted Lindsay and Alex Delvecchio scored for Wings. Jim Bartlett replied Clip Champions.

Veteran goaltender Al Rollins was great in the Chicago nets. He turned away 46 shots as Hawks rolled into a first-place tie with Canadiens in the team standings. The two mark that beat Rollins came while Hawks were shorthanded. Hall handled 22 drives.

Lindsay gave Wings a 1-0 lead at 2:16 of the opening period. Before the session ended Prystai and Watson had sent Hawks ahead 2-1. Delvecchio scored things up at 7:17 of the second.

At Montreal, the goals and glamour of Jacques Plante got off to a good start in the race for the Vezina Trophy, top goaltending award. He stopped 22 Leaf shots. Lumsly kicked out 18 Montreal drives.

It may have been an expensive win for the Montreal crew. Right winger Bernie Geoffrion, NHL scoring champion last season, was hurt in the first period when he collided with Leafs' Dick Duff and Larry Cahan. He suffered back and chest injuries.

Geoffrion was replaced by another Richard Thursday night. He was Henri Richard, Rocket's Richard, Maurice's 19 - year - old brother. Henri didn't score but he didn't look out of place in the 1st time.

Only one game is scheduled tonight. New York Rangers, who finished in fifth spot last season, take on the Hawks at Chicago.

Fights Last Night

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

'Hurricane' Meets Pudgy Rex Lane In Elimination

By JOE FALLS

DETROIT (AP)—Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, who is being eyed as a possible candidate to meet Rocky Marciano, meets Utah's pudgy Rex Layne tonight in a 10-rounder at Olympia Stadium.

The fight is being billed as an elimination, of sorts, to decide a contender for Archie Moore's heavyweight title defence, although Layne has been all but eliminated already by virtue of three loses to Bob Baker.

The National Boxing Association lists no logical contenders for Marciano's crown but names Baker, the big Pittsburgh Negro, as the outstanding boxer. Nino Valdez of Cuba is classed but not Jackson No. 3.

Layne is way down in sixth place in what the NBA terms its "honorable mention" list.

Layne has had 65 professional fights, compiling a 49-13-3 record.

Jackson, a 25-year - old New Yorker, has surprised many of his critics by staging a fine comeback which includes eight straight victories, including two solid decisions over former champ Ezzard Charles.

On his current streak, Jackson has knocked out Keene Simmons, Leo Johnson, Roy Thomas and Kid Gavilan. He has also outpointed Archie McBride and Jimmy Slade as well as Charles.

Football Prexy Will Miss Epic

OTTAWA (CP)—J. P. (Jim) McCaffrey, president of the Canadian Rugby Union, will miss his first and probably only chance to boss football's greatest spectacle—the Grey Cup final, at Vancouver Nov. 26.

It will also be the first time he has missed a Grey Cup game in 32 years, that is, ever since he took over as manager of Ottawa Rough Riders in 1923.

McCaffrey, 60-year-old registrar of trade marks, will be in Australia representing Canada at a Commonwealth patents and trade marks conference the day the eastern and western champions meet for the Canadian championship.

He was so dismayed at the prospect of having to pass up the Grey Cup final that he tried to have the agenda of the conference altered to give him time to fly back to Vancouver Nov. 26.

But Australian officials organizing the conference told him the program could not be moved up. Mc-Caffrey leaves Oct. 31 and the conference is to end Nov. 26.

McCaffrey said that his term as CRU president is for one year only and that this is his only chance to preside at the game. He is scheduled to be replaced by Ken Montgomery of Edmonton Eskimos first vice-president of the CRU.

Johnny Bower Joins Providence

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—John Bower, a top American Hockey League goalie for Cleveland for many years, Thursday joined Providence Reds on loan.

Bower, property of New York Rangers, lost the starting berth in close competition with Lorne Worsley at the Rangers camp in Saskatoon.

Bower, 29-year-old native of Prince Albert, Sask., was the AHL's outstanding goalie in the 1951-52 campaign.

Ring Magazine Rates Moore Top Contender

NEW YORK (AP)—Despite his knockout loss to champion Rocky Marciano, Archie Moore still is ranked as the leading heavyweight contender today in Ring magazine's monthly boxing ratings.

The 38-year-old light-heavyweight king was rated ahead of Bob Baker of Pittsburgh, Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, New York, and Cuba's Nino Valdes. Earl Walls of Toronto is No. 5.

Baker and Jackson retained their places while Valdes, who had slumped to seventh following successive defeats to Moore and Bob Satterfield, moved up again on the strength of his knockout of England's Don Cockell. The pudgy Briton dropped from fourth to eighth.

NEW TOP CONTENDERS

New No. 1 contenders were listed however, for the three lightest divisions, the featherweight, bantamweight and featherweight.

Leo Espinosa was named flyweight champion Pascual Perez' top contender in place of Britain's Dai Dower. Dower was knocked out by Spain's Ruong Martin.

Willie Toweel of South Africa became the leading bantamweight contender instead of Italy's Mario d'Agata on the strength of his draw with champion Robert Cohen of France.

In the lightweight class Italy's Duilo Loi regained his No. 2 berth from Ralph (Tiger) Dupas of New Orleans who is ranked third.

Nashua Scratched 'Cap' Wins

NEW YORK (AP)—With Nashua scratched because of the heavy rains and muddy track, Christiana Stable's Thinking Cap rolled to a four-length victory over Westward Ho in the Jockey Club mile and five furlongs Lawrence Realization at Belmont Park Thursday.

Mrs. Gerard Smith's Sweet Chariot, the only other starter in the grueling run, was another seven lengths astern.

The race lost its lustre when Nashua, Belair Stud's great three - year - old, was withdrawn. Nashua did not show to advantage in similar conditions in the Sysonby a week ago Saturday.

'Heart of the Leafs'

Maple Leafs Fans Will Pay Tribute To Former Captain 'Teeder' Kennedy

TORONTO (CP)—The "heart of the Leafs" comes back to Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday to receive the plaudits of his followers.

It will be "Ted Kennedy Night." Thousands of fans will pay tribute to the 28-year-old former captain and centre who led Toronto Maple Leafs to two Stanley Cups. He also was on another three championship teams as a Leaf and retired after last season.

Kennedy is the man Gardens' president Conn Smythe regarded so highly that he once offered him a blank cheque with a contract. Smythe told Kennedy to fill in the figure. He called Teeder the "heart of the Leafs" and one of the greatest centres in the history of the club.

In a pre-game ceremony before the Leafs take on Detroit Red Wings in the NHL opener here, Kennedy will be showered with a variety of gifts. Many of the fans expected to pack the gardens will be from Port Colborne, where he got started in the game.

A protege of Nels Stewart, the scoring great of another era, Kennedy combined bruising play with dogged, driving qualities.

Never a graceful skater, Kennedy's speed didn't appear to diminish during his last years but he had to put in a great deal more energy into his legs to get the mileage. He would return to the players' bench almost exhausted, his head bent low.

Often in the dressing room after a rugged game he would slump on a bench, too tired to remove his skates and uniform. He usually was the last one into street clothes.

Kennedy broke into the NHL in 1942 as a 17-year-old rookie. He only played in two games that year but in the next 11 seasons he played in 721 games, including playoffs.

He scored 225 goals and 313 assists for 538 scoring points in regular play plus 29 goals and 31 assists in playoffs.

A native of Humberstone, Ont., Kennedy took over as Leaf captain from Syl Apps in 1948.

He was captain for six seasons. Last season Kennedy won the Hart Trophy as the player judged most valuable to his team.

Tip Logan Breaks Ankle

Injury-Riddled Grid Squads Ready for Holiday Weekend

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The lineament - bandage men worked overtime patching up football players today as Canada's professional teams geared for a busy Thanksgiving weekend.

There wasn't a club in either the Big Four or Western Interprovincial Football Union that didn't have a list of aches and pains, and at least four teams report serious injuries.

One of the hardest hit is Hamilton Tiger-Cats of the Big Four. They lost placement-kicker Tip Logan for the season when he broke his right ankle during practice Thursday night.

Logan, one of Canada's outstanding convert and field goal men, will be a big loss. He kicked three field goals and 21 converts in six games this season for a total of 30 points and fourth place in the league point race.

Hamilton will use halfback Steve Oneschuk, formerly of the University of Toronto, in the placement-kicking spot in its home game with Toronto Argonauts during the weekend. They play in Hamilton Saturday and in Toronto Monday.

Ottawa Rough Riders meet Montreal Alouettes in the other Big Four weekend contests. They are scheduled for Ottawa Saturday and Montreal.

There is only one game in the Ontario Rugby Football Union. Toronto Beaches and the Imperials meet Monday at Barrie.

In the Senior Intercollegiate circuit, Western Mustangs meet McGill Redmen at Montreal and Queen's Golden Gaels of Kingston take on Varsity Blues at Toronto.

Ottawa Rough Riders may have quarterback woes. Jack Scarbath suffered a shoulder injury last Saturday, and may have to sit out the weekend engagements. Quarterback Don Bailey, who started in Riders' first four games, and Geoff Craig are available as fillins.

In the WIFU, Edmonton Eskimos also play British Columbia Lions at home Saturday, likely will be without halfback Rollie Miles on offence. Miles, suffering from a groin injury, may see some defensive work but his offensive duties will be taken by Oscar Kruger.

Import tackle Art Walker is expected to play also but he's suffering from a bad leg.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers, who meet Calgary Stampeders at Calgary Saturday and Lions Monday at Vancouver, have two men on the injured list. They are defensive tackle Roger Savage and fullback Lorne Benson.

Calgary Stampeders report everyone is in reasonable shape. The Stamps have been taking it easy for the last few days, giving their "walking wounded" a chance to recuperate.

Stampe meet the Saskatchewan Roughriders at Regina Monday.

Roughriders will be trying to strengthen their hold on second place in the WIFU during the weekend. Edmonton has won top spot already but the battle for second and third playoff spots will be hot and heavy.

Saskatchewan is holding down second place with 12 points and Lions and Bombers are tied for third with eight. Calgary is fifth with six points. Each has five games left to play.

If Argos and Ottawa win both their games this weekend they'll go into a first-place tie with Hamilton and Montreal. Tiger-Cats and Als have eight points each and Rough Riders and Argos have four each. They're half way through their schedule.

Fred Hutchinson Certain Choice Cards' Manager

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The naming of a new field general will be the first act for Frank Lane, new St. Louis Cardinal general manager, and he reportedly has Fred Hutchinson all but signed up.

Lane, former Chicago White Sox general manager, told newsmen Thursday he had three men under consideration for the job—Hutchinson, pilot of the 1955 pennant winning Seattle club in the Pacific Coast League, Harry (the Hat) Walker, the present Redbird field director, and a third prospect Lane didn't name.

But despite Lane's refusal to put the finger on his field pilot choice it was learned Hutchinson will be the man to succeed Walker within a week or 10 days.

Lane said he hoped to have the manager problem out of the way by the 15—date for a Cardinal organizational meeting.

MEYER PROMOTED

August A. Busch, wealthy brewery owner and president of the Cardinals, announced the selection of the 50-year-old Lane as general manager at a press conference Thursday afternoon. Lane's selection had been considered certain following his talks with his predecessor, Dick Meyer, during the world series in New York. Meyer, who also is a top executive at Anheuser-Busch Inc., was named executive vice-president of the ball club.

Bill Walsingham, Jr., a Cardinal vice-president for nine years, resigned Wednesday saying, "I believe a ball club cannot be successfully run by two people, both of whom are confident they are qualified to do the job."

There was no announcement on the salary Lane will receive but it was reported at more than the $40,000 base pay and $10,000 attendance bonus arrangement he had with the White Sox. His contract with the Cardinals also includes an attendance bonus.

'Scott Frost' Driven by Canadian Wins 1st Harness Race Triple Crown

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Wide-eyed Scott Frost, driven by veteran trainer-driver Joe O'Brien of Canada, won the $67,702 Kentucky Futurity Thursday to capture the first triple crown of the harness racing.

The three-year-old bay son of Hoot Mon, who failed to finish his first heat after a collision with Galophone at the three-quarter pole had no trouble taking the second heat by 1¼ lengths and the clincher by a length from Home Free.

The classy colt, representing the striding Scott Frost, driven by vet- Shaffer, Calif., stable of S. A. Aliberton, P.E.I., won the $67,702 in Hambletonian and Yonkers Futurity victories and put $24,578 on quarter pole as apparent case of his already season-record winnings of $121,673. Home Free won $18,434.

Galophone, second favorite, suffered cuts in the first-heat accident and did not enter the third heat.

Home Free took the first heat in 2:01 3-5, followed by Wayabead. Black Bino and Doyle Hanover, wheel of the leader, overtaked Childs Hanover warmed up lame bike. Scott Frost was unmarked.

Basilio Meets Tony DeMarco In Title Bout

BOSTON (AP) — Welterweight boxing champion Carmen Basilio and challenger Tony DeMarco Thursday signed contracts for a Nov. 30 rematch of their roaring summer slugfest at Syracuse where the title changed hands.

The nationally - televised (New England blacked out) 15-round championship bout will be fought at Boston Garden.

The signing was witnessed by former champion Johnny Saxton of Philadelphia, who provides an unusual feature to the contract.

For the second straight time, Saxton relinquished his priority to meet the champion in exchange for a contract clause which provides for an undisclosed lump sum payment plus a match with the Basilio-DeMarco winner within 60 days.

Joins Cougars

VICTORIA (CP)—Nelson Bulloch 20-year-old defenceman with St. Catharines Juniors last season, is en route to join Victoria Cougars of the Western Hockey League, managing-director Fred Hutchinson announced Thursday.

Bulloch is the property of the NHL Boston Bruins. He is scheduled to check in Sunday.

Scott Frost, backed up to 3 to 5 in the opening heat of the best-of-three one-mile heats, stepped out front at the finish. Galophone, from the stable of William T. Maybury of Dexter, Me., was trailing and Home Free, the third-stringer in the camp stable until Butch Hanover broke a foot recently, was third. But at the three-quarter pole as apparent case of O'Brien said Galophone's pilot, Bill Haughton, apparently misjudged the distance while trying to pull out and jammed a foot in the left spoke of the leader's overalled

Galt Won't Have Senior B Club

GALT (CP)—Hockey fans here may have to be content to watch an inter-city league this season. There were no financial backers for T. J. Duvall's plan to enter a team in the Ontario Hockey Association senior B League. Duvall said Thursday he will notify Lloyd Pollock, convenor of the senior B league to withdraw Galt's tentative entry.

Galt Black Hawks withdrew from the OHA junior A league following last season and a plan to enter a junior B team in the OHA also fell through.

Duvall, a former Galt player who has sponsored softball and hockey in the district for several years, thought a senior B entry might work. He called a meeting of interested sportsmen and only a few showed up.

The inter-city league may consist of two teams from Galt and Preston and single entries from Kitchener, Stratford and possibly Guelph. The league is not affiliated with the OHA.

CONNIE RESTING WELL

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Connie Mack, 92-year-old former owner and manager of Philadelphia Athletics baseball team, took a couple of catnaps Thursday and rested comfortably after an operation on his fractured right hip in Presbyterian Hospital.

His condition was "very satisfactory," the hospital said. Mack fractured his hip in a fall frosted at his home last Saturday.

Riders Pay Off Coach Idzik

OTTAWA (CP)—Backfield coach John Idzik of Ottawa Rough Riders was paid off Thursday following his release from the Big Four team in a move club officials said was to remedy "an impossible situation existing in the coaching staff."

Idzik, following a talk with lawyer Sam Berger of the Riders' executive, accepted one year's salary under his two-year contract calling for $7,000 a season.

The "impossible situation" arose between Idzik and coach Chan Caldwell over policy.

A CONACHER SIGNED

VANCOUVER (CP)—The name of Conacher will enter the professional Western Hockey League this season.

The Vancouver Canucks closed a deal Wednesday with the New York Rangers for Charles William Conacher, Jr., a 23-year-old left winger.

He is the son of Charlie Conacher and a nephew of the late Lionel Conacher, two of Canada's former athletic greats.

The winger may be here in time for the opening game between Canucks and the Seattle Americans.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Saturday, Oct. 8, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Mars, Saturn and Mercury are among the planets in highly auspicious positions today. In work, recreation, study, research, whatever your planned schedule, you can have grand results if you try.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — This day's planetary set-up should incite you to real accomplishment. Difficult tasks as well as the lighter, more artistic matters highly favored.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Mercury well aspected. A promising period for business, occupational duties, writings, study, research, intricate and delicate matters. Keep home, family atmosphere pleasant.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Be as cheerful and optimistic as the planetary outlook is and you will have no time or desire for moods or self-pity. This can be a peak day.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Take an optimistic view, get an early start on necessary tasks and give them your best. You can insure future security by heeding good advice and handling responsibilities conscientiously.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Heed Gemini and Taurus. Whether your day is devoted to leisure or work, you can enjoy it and also turn out some excellent results.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Keep pace with current events and new inventions. Seek new ways to improve the quality of your work. Take an interest in community and government matters.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Strong, helpful aspects. This day should be propitious for laborious work, industry, building, road-making, the scientific and artistic professions. Don't be unreasonable.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Personal and business interests enjoy beneficial influences. Financial and occupational gain indicated.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Mechanical trades, plumbing, dealing in leather, masonry, tools and machinery share excellent vibrations along with artistry, research in medicine, chemistry, etc. A good day.

January 23 to February 20 — (Aquarius) — Drastic changes are not advised but it is a day for progressiveness, trying new methods and devices.

February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces) — Some restrictive influences govern matters confidential and those pertaining to the sea and travel, but the day on the whole is exceptionally fine.

You born today: Keen intuition, imagination, a likeable personality, fondness for truth and fair play highlight the character of you Librans. You have unusual talent for acting, managing groups of people; could do very well as lawyer, judge, teacher, farmer, or as a first-class carpenter or other type of mechanic. It is important that you do not permit a desire for pleasure or extravagant living divert you from the truly good and productive life you can have. Keep developing, and using more fine talents and capabilities. Birthdate: John Hay, Amer. author, statesman.

Name Ontario Men As C. of C. Directors

Mayor Puzzled By Evidence At Inquest

TORONTO (CP) — A verdict of death by accidental means was returned Thursday night by a coroner's jury investigating the death of a woman and three children in a house fire in suburban Mimico in August.

Mimico Mayor Arthur Edwards said after attending the inquest that he will recommend to council that Ontario Provincial Police be called in to investigate the fire.

He said he was puzzled by the evidence.

Mrs. Margaret Osmond, 33, Jeanette MacDougall, 3, and her two sisters, Ivy-Jean, 18 months, and Bonnie Heather, eight months, died when flames swept the frame dwelling.

Gordon MacDougall, father of the children, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McGuigan, owners of the house, escaped.

SAT IN HEDGE

MacDougall testified that the first indication he had of the fire was at 3:40 a.m. when he was awakened by the shouts of Mrs. Osmond, his housekeeper.

He said an explosion defeated attempts to rescue the children after he and Mrs. Osmond had managed to get them out of a bedroom.

MacDougall said he had noticed a chesterfield smouldering on a front veranda about 3 a.m. He said he threw a pail of water on it and it burst into flames.

He said he then called the New Toronto telephone operator and asked her to turn in the alarm. He said he shouted upstairs to awaken MacDougall and then he and his wife fled the house.

Telephone operator Miss J. I. Lee said she had no record of the call.

Little Benny's Notebook

Today in school Miss Kitty told us that every year I have to live in a free democrissy instead of a dictatorship. I don't know why she told me the difference between the 2 forms of government? Well, Charles' Law, I guess.

Meening Puds Simkins waving. Puds said, in a confidential way it somebody hits you on the back, you know it's a friend, but in a dictatorship it's probably a secret policeman take you away to slave labor without even telling your folks to tell your family not to expect you any more.

That's right, in this country we trust policemen because we know they are our friends, Miss Kitty said. Now how many of you trust policemen? she asked us.

Which everybody raised their hands, proving we all trust policemen, except me. I have some special gilty reason why not, and I was on my way to explain it to Puds and Glasses Magee, and we saw a policeman talking to a man with a baby in a baby carriage, and Glasses said, Let's stop and listen and see if he tries to kill her, to prove we trust him. . .

Which we stopped to do, and the policeman was saying, Come on now, you know I wouldn't be saying a thing if I didn't mean it. And just then he noticed us right in back of him and he said, Do you kids want something?

No sir, we said, and he said, Then what's all the excitement there gawking?

We just wanted to prove we trust you, I said, and Puds and Glasses said, Sure, we trust you.
